Archie Menzies Resigns; Takes New Job

Acting Detective Archie Menzies, after nearly ten years' service with the Peterborough police department has tendered his resignation to Chief Constable Newhall to take effect in seven days.

The former detective has accepted a position as commercial traveller with a well known firm. He has been connected with the Peterborough police force for almost a decade, first as a constable, then as traffic officer and for the past three or four years as acting detective, during which time he has been prominent in a number of cases, particularly in the arrest of the men who broke into Silverwood's Dairy.

"I am sorry to sever my connection with the Peterborough department," Menzies said this morning. "I have enjoyed police work and would have like to have remained in it but recent events, especially in regard to salary prospects, made it necessary in the interests of one's family to look for something better."

"I am very sorry to lose Acting Detective Menzies," said Chief Constable Newhall in commenting on the officer's resignation. "He has had the training to make him valuable as a police office. Thanks to the Toronto police department he was helped to know a lot about the technique of detective work as carried out there and now that training is being lost. It is too bad."

Davis Charged On Wood Prices

When a charge against Hugh J. Davis of having sold body hardwood in Peterborough during the month of December last at a price higher than the ceiling price, was called in police court this morning T. J. Carley, K.C., who appeared for Davis asked that the defence should be supplied with a statement of particulars.

"We want to know what we are requried to meet," said defence counsel. "We want to know to whom we were supposed to have sold the wood and on what dates."

W. F. Huycke, K.C., who was present at prosecutor, said that he was ready to supply the information and accordingly the two counsel went over a book that had been seized in Davis' office and afterwards Mr. Huycke announced that he would press only one transaction.

"We think there were others but we will stand or fall on that one," he declared.

Then Mr. Carley asked for an adjournment in order to prepare a defence and the case was enlarged until next Tuesday.

A similar charge against Davis of having violated the ceiling price for body hardwood in the township of Smith was also adjourned until the same day.

Mud In Italy Bogs Action

NAPLES, March 14 — (AP). — Allied patrols have been active on all fronts in Italy, it was announced today in a communique which also reported an improvement in the weather.

The bulletin said Indian troops had repulsed a series of attacks launched against forward positions. The area of this action was not disclosed.

Deep mud caused by weeks of snow and rain still marks the terrain, the communique said.

In the air, medium bombers struck at rail bridges at Sarzana and Viareggio and attacked rail yards at Spoleto, Perugia and Nabriano.

Fighter-bombers blasted road and rail traffic in the Rome area, gun positions and supply dumps and shipping off the Dalmatian coast.

Allied planes flew 1,000 sorties, destroying three enemy planes for a loss of six, the communique said.

Coastal aircraft pounded the docks at Santo Stefano and rail targets at Marina di Pisa and Montalto di Castro.

Forty-five enemy planes were active in the battle area, the bulletin said.

died together on the kitchen floor as though they had collapsed there. The condition of the apartment led to the belief the three youngsters had run frantically about trying to escape before they were overcome by smoke.

The youngest child, Michael, a baby of nine months, was still alive when found huddled on his cot. He was taken to hospital but died about midnight Friday.

Police said they learned the plumbing in the house had been frozen for two weeks before the fire. Two pails of water obtained from a neighbor for household use were found in the kitchen, frozen solid.

There was no food in the house, police said, and three bottles of milk which had been placed on the doorstep Friday morning and had stayed there throughout the day were frozen. All the dishes in the house were dirty and had been piled in the kitchen sink. Water had been poured over them and this also was frozen.

The fire itself was confined largely to the mattress on the children's bed and was easily extinguished. However the smoke was intense.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, March 15

A PARTICULARLY exciting, interesting and eventful day is read from astral influences, with the promise of a sudden and quite unforeseen opening for an important advancement, favor or other cherished objective, probably calling for travel, change, new contracts or interests under highly pleasant and profitable circumstances. Unusual talents or ingenuity may be the mainspring of this show of interest from those in influential places. But it might be that an over zealous or extravagant forcing of issues might hinder, or unguarded emotional behavior have similar results. Be restrained and also safeguard funds.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for an unforeseen and dramatic opportunity to achieve their noble aims or ambitions, probably due to some exceptional creative talent or skill coming to the attention of those in influential positions who may be disposed to promote or finance such effort. Honors, favors or preferment may be sought with confidence, but with modesty and finesse rather than force or aggressiveness. The social or sentimental factors are considerable, but should be under due restraints, lest there be danger to desired hopes or fair reputation. Shun all extravagances and dubious alliances.

A child born on this day may have much talent and opportunities for promoting them, but its inclination to pursue pleasure or other extravagances may prove detrimental.

Many Canadians In Le Mans Raid

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON March 14 (CP Cable)— The R.C.A.F. bomber group contributed approximately half the R.A.F bomber command force which attacked Le Mans, railway centre in western France, last night, it was disclosed today.

It was the second time in six days that the group's heavy bombers attacked this target and for the Canadians it was the fifth consecutive operation carried out without losses.

All of the group's squadrons of Halifax bombers took part. One of them, the Lion squadron, marked up its 1,000th sortie and its commanding officer, Wing Cmdr. R. C. (Bob) Turnbull, D.F.C., D.F.M., of Govan, Sask., personally led the unit. Other squadrons included the Iroquois, Bluenose, Porcupine, Ghost, Bison, Tiger, Leaside, Snowy Owl and Alouette.

Absence of fighters gave Sgt. Bill Keeler, a gunner of Eastview, Ont., an opportunity for "a good look down below" and he saw what he said must have been an ammunition train blow up "like a huge firecracker."

PO. A. L. Nelson of Lafleche, Sask., and PO. Don Brown of Copper Cliff, Ont., a Bison wireless operator, saw bombs dropping and PO. Len Greenhalgh of Saskatoon, a Snowy Owl bombaimer, called it "the best effort I have been on yet."

Other Canadians on the raid included Flt. Sgt. Frank Wilson of Smiths Falls, Ont.

Liquor Permits Cover Beer And Wine

TORONTO, March 14.—(CP). — Victor Goggin, chief liquor commissioner of the Ontario Liquor Control Board, said to-day no decision has yet been made by the Board as to the date new beer, wine and liquor permits will go on sale to replace those expiring March 31.

The liquor commissioner indicated however, that consideration was being given to the fact that line-ups for permits may develop if new permits were not put on sale before the old ones expire.

In the speech from the Throne, read at the opening of the Legislature outlining government plans, it was proposed to put beer, wine and liquor permits into one book, instead of three separate books as at present.

The Daily Star said to-day it was stated at Queen's Park that the government has decided upon a three-man board to control granting of liquor licenses in Ontario.

This provision will highlight the new bill on liquor licensing to be introduced by the Government early next week, the newspaper said, adding it was stated the government had relinquished the idea of using county judges to hear applications.

The new board, the Daily Star said, would have judicial powers, would move from place to place and would have authority to make renewals or cancellations.

All Sold

The statement added:

"All the beer available for sale in Ontario under the restrictions imposed by the Dominion Government has been sold. The notice simply conveyed the information that the alcoholic beverages available at the sales outlets were restricted by the Dominion Order. That statement was correct."

(Prime Minister King's announcement said the beverage rooms of Ontario where the notices were posted were not being allocated 80 per cent of the beer available in the basic period as set out in the Dominion Order, but only 75 per cent by the Ontario Liquor Control Board.)

Premier Drew's statement said: "Mr. King has not furthered the cause of Dominion-Provincial co-operation by misrepresenting the facts to the whole of Canada regarding the action of the Ontario government."

The announcement came as a surprise to Victor Goggin, Chief Commissioner of the Ontario Liquor Control Board.

"That's the first word I've heard of it," Mr. Goggin told The Canadian Press when informed of Prime Minister King's announcement. "I don't know yet what it will mean to us."

Individual beer ration in Ontario now is 26 pints per person a month.

J. W. Connell, managing director of the Ontario Hotel Association said:

"My honest opinion is that it will mean less drinking."

John Pritchard, director of the Moderation League of Ontario described the Dominion Government move as "a belated but final recognition of the distribution between beer and spirits, which everybody else could see."

Bombers Smash French Target

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 14 (AP)—Halifaxes of the bomber command, of which the Canadian bomber group provided a "substantial part," droning out under a waning "bomber's moon" staged a heavy attack last night on the strategic railway centre of Le Mans in Western France, while Mosquitoes struck at Frankfurt and other places in Western Germany.

All Canadian planes returned safely.

It was the second bombardment of Le Mans—118 miles southwest of Paris and on the shortest rail route between the north and west coasts—in six nights. Two bombers were lost during the night.

The blow by moonlight was another explosive punch in the Allied day-and-night campaign against Nazi transportation facilities all over France, hitting at the vital arteries for quick movement of troops and supplies to the Germans' invasion wall."

The Germans, their "blitz" revival at least temporarily subsiding to sneak raids, for the second successive night sent a small force over the South Coast of England, dropping a few bombs harmlessly and setting off sirens in one London area.

The Air Ministry said Le Mans was hit in a "heavy attack," indicating the increasing weight of these specialized night blows during a period when the moonlight has prevented major saturation attacks deep into Germany.

Irish Dictionary Required 5 Years' Work

Canadian Press Correspondent

DUBLIN, March 14 (CP)—Sean Kavanagh, author of the 3,000,000-word Irish phrase dictionary, now with the printers, is not through with this work. He is preparing for a tour of the Irish coastal areas to gather more information about the Irish language and the people who speak it.

He will make his journey on foot in no other way, he says, can he hope to get in touch with the people he wants to meet. He plans to carry his luggage on a donkey.

His big dictionary took five years to compile and he talked with thousands of Irish speakers, from 16 to 85, gathering old sayings and expressions which have been spoken for the last 300 years.

Island Storm Bound

Following the relief of the inhabitants of Tory Island, off the Donegal coast, the question is being mooted as to whether the Eire government should consider evacuating the island and getting the islanders grants of land in County Leith as they did a few years ago with other island inhabitants.

At least once a year Tory is storm-bound and considerable trouble and expense is caused outhorities by shipments for relief. This year was no exception.

A transfer would not find favor in Tory Island where the people pay neither rates nor taxes and elect their own ruler. There has, however, been no elected ruler of the island for the last four years, but this is due to the absence of many of the islanders on war work in the United Kingdom.

Eire considers it will have an important position in post-war air communication, pointing to the importance already attained by the seaplane base at Foynes on the River Shannon. Now the government is going ahead with a large-scale plan for Rineanna, 8½ miles up the river, which will become one of the finest seaplane bases in Europe with a four-way landing field and mooring facilities for a large number of flying boats.

Rev. Edgar Burritt Speaker On Sunday

The Evangelistic service in the Regent Theatre Sunday evening in spite of weather conditions brought out a large attendance of those who find in these weekly services a real hour of Blessing.

Rev Edgar Burritt of Brampton was both speaker and soloist and after the Song Service lead by Aylmer Moore, gave a ministry in Song. To these meetings have come many gifted singers but it is doubtful if any have contributed more to the Service than this soloist.

The Gospel Message brought by Mr. Burritt was based on The Texts found at the close of the First Chapter of St. Mark's Gospel "The Healing of the Leper". This Miracle and the casting out of the unclean spirit from the man possessed seems to be the climax of his wonderful power of Healing he said. To touch a Leper was almost an unknown thing, but Jesus not only touched him but also healed him.

The speaker pointed out three conditions that had to exist before the man could be healed. First, he had to realize his need; Second, he had to find the right person, and Third, he had to have the right attitude of mind. All these conditions were met by this man. His suffering proved his need. His method of approach, "If Thou wilt Thou canst make me clean" proved he had the right attitude of mind and the Result immediately the Leprosy departed from him and he was cleansed, proved that he had met the right person.

The speaker then drew the Parallel between the man stricken with Leprosy and the sinner. He must first realize his sinful condition and he must come by Faith to the only one who can cleanse away with God, he declared. Mr. Burritt urged any present who had not surrendered their Lives to Christ to do so and thereby receive the Joy that only He can give.

The speaker next Sunday will be Percy May, Toronto Evangelist, who will also give several solos on one of the many musical instruments of which he is a master.

Budget May Come Down During Week

Discrimination Bill Advances To Third Reading

TORONTO, March 14— (CP).— Debate on the Throne speech outlining the program of Premier Drew's Progressive Conservative government, winds up in the Ontario Legislature to-day with prospects that Provincial Treasurer L. M. Frost will present his budget before the end of the week.

Dana H. Porter (P.C.-Toronto-St. George) will end the debate which has occupied the House since it assembled Feb. 22. Speculation is rife whether E. B. Jolliffe's C.C.F. Opposition will offer an amendment and bring the House's first test between the closely-aligned parties

With the debate almost at an end new speculation arose as to when the Provincial budget would be brought down. A government spokesman predicted that it would be presented before the House takes its next week-end adjournment.

No debate speakers were heard in the Legislature yesterday, but Premier Drew replied to criticisms of his government for allowing suspension of the Active Service Election Act, 1942, for the Haldimand-Norfolk by-election March 20.

In committee the Legislature advanced to third reading, with an amendment, the government's bill to prevent publication of discriminatory matter relating to race or creed. It also gave first reading to a bill to continue cheese and hog subsidies at their present levels.

T. H. Murphy (P.C.-Toronto Beaches), who opposed the Discrimination Bill on second reading last week, again spoke against it. He called for elimination of a section dealing with broadcasting over which he believed the Provincial Government had no control.

The Government added an amending section to the Bill, providing that the measure would not interfere with free expression of opinion on any subject, by speech or writing, and would not confer protection or benefit on enemy aliens. With Mr. Murphy dissenting on a voice vote, the committee of the whole reported the Bill as amended for third reading.

Rising before orders of the day, Premier Drew called attention to a story in a Toronto newspaper (Star) quoting Liberal Leader Harry C. Nixon as saying the Drew Government had shown "inconsistency" in sanctioning suspension of SIMCOE, March 14—(CP)—Agnes Macphail, C.C.F. member of the Ontario Legislature for York East, in an address at nearby Vittoria last night said "we have had in Canada a national policy directed toward building up big industry by supplying cheap food to keep industrial wages low." Speaking in support of James G. Gibson, C.C.F. candidate in the March 20 Haldiman-Norfolk by-election, Miss Macphail said "There was no thought of how this (policy) would affect the farmer, in fact the whole national policy was directed away from agriculture and the welfare of the country people entirely forgotten with the result that the rural people have taken an awful beating."

Ice Dealer Gets Light Fine On WPTB Charge

COBOURG, March 14—(ENS).—Adjourned from three weeks ago at the request of defence counsel, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board charge against W. S. Cann, Cobourg ice dealer, was dealt with Monday. Magistrate R. B. Baxter found him guilty of the charge and imposed a fine of $10 and costs, pointing out that price ceilings must be maintained but that in this case there were circumstances which merited a light fine.

Cann was charged with selling ice for 20 cents a block in October of last year, whereas the price for the basic period was 15 cents a block. At the time the case was heard, Cann testified that he ran out of ice after a very hot summer, the scarcity of ice being aggravated by the fact that he was the only ice dealer left in town. To accommodate his customers he bought some ice from the Haas estate, only to find later that it had melted down from four tiers to two tiers. The ice had to be

Orange Leader J. H. Paul Dies

MOUNT PLEASANT, March 14—(ENS). — The death of James H. Paul, which occurred on Saturday in Peterborough, removes a prominent and lifelong resident of the community in his 82nd year.

Deceased was born in Cartwright Township, near Cesarea, on January 26, 1863, son of the late George Paul and Mary Ranton, just two years after their arrival in Canada from County Armagh, Ireland, Six children were born in this family, three boys and three girls, three now deceased, Joseph, Annie and William, two of whom survive, Mrs. C. Ghent of Beamsville and Miss Margaret Paul of Ida.

On March 10, 1886, he was united in marriage to Mary McIvor of Millbrook, and to his sorrowing wife and two sisters the sympathy of the community is extended.

The late Mr. Paul was an active member of Grace Presbyterian Church in Millbrook, having served on the Board of Managers for a number of years and rarely missed divine forship. He was an old servant of Cavan Council, with the record of assessor for 31 years, and a member of the Board of Health. In politics he has always been a staunch Conservative. A Past Master of the A.F. and A.M. in Millbrook Lodge, also a Past Preceptor in the Royal Black Knights, a member of the Loyal Orange Lodge for 64 years, he has held all the offices in the Orange Order, and Past County Master also County Director of Ceremonies.

At the age of 14 he joined a lodge of Juvenile Orange Young Britons held at L.O.L. No. 406, near Burketon, three years later he joined the L.O.L. No. 406, Cartwright, and has been in connection with this lodge ever since, and in 1893 became a member of Fraserville L.O.L. No. 46.

Of the late Mr. Paul it has oft been repeated that he has passed on without having one enemy in this life, and he will never be forgotten by the older residents for his loyalty to the British Empire and the Orange Association, under whose auspices his funeral was held from Grace Presbyterian Church in Millbrook, with service conducted by his pastor, Rev. W. Patterson, and interment in Millbrook Presbyterian Cemetery.

28 Air Schools To Close During Year

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, March 14—(CP).—Almost every member who speaks in the Commons on the Industrial Development Bank finds something new for the bank to do in helping make Canada prosperous in the post-war period.

Last night as the bill neared second reading a few new ideas for its services were thrown into the suggestion box.

John R. MacNichol (PC—Toronto Davenport) said he wanted it to finance power developments in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Gordon Isnor (L—Halifax) said he thought it could assist fishing fleets on both coasts, and John Turner (L—Springfield) said he hoped it could bring about the re-opening of the famous Tyndall quarries in Manitoba from which came the decorative limestone for the Parliament Buildings.

This discussion of the financing of industry through a Government-sponsored bank was just part of a varied bill-of-fare for the day which included announcements on beer, wage control, medical services, Axis legations in Eire and the closing of air training schools, with a slight digression on the desirability of increasing old age pensions.

Eire Loses Request.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said that the Eire Government had informally approached him with a view to his asking the United States to withdraw its note asking for the closing of the German and Japanese Legations.

He said he declined to intervene on the ground that the Canadian Government sympathized with the object of the United States approach. But he expressed the belief the discussions which took place between Prime Minister Eamon de Valera and the Canadian High Commissioner in Ireland, J. K. Kearney, and between himself and the Eire High Commissioner here, J. J. Hearne, aided in "steadying" what was at the time a difficult situation.

Tabling a voluminous report on a survey of the supply of medical personnel for the forces and civilians, Defence Minister Ralston said it was the most complete study made in any country and would be of importance both during the war and in the future.

Air Minister Power tabled a schedule for the closing of 28 air training schools during the present year, following arrangements made at his conference in Ottawa with Rt. Hon. Harold Balfour, British undersecretary for Air.

He assured the House the disbandment of schools would not reduce the flow of trained Aircrew for replacement in front line squadrons and for expansion of operational formations. R.A.F. schools established here are the first to be closed and their staff personnel will return to Britain.

The Old Age penion discussion was launched by Stanley Knowles (C.C.F.—Winnipeg north centre) who advocated a more generous scale of pensions and reducing the minimum age limit to 60 on a motion to go into Committee of Supply, but before other speakers could take part speaker James Glen ruled the discussion out of order. Mr. Knowles advocated a more generous scale of pensions and reduction of the age limit to 60.

On the industrial development bank bill most speakers said they hoped small industry and industry in the non-industrial provinces of the east and west could be fostered.

Establishment of a co-operative bank to provide credit for co-operative enterprises was urged by Clarence Gillis (C.C.F. — Cape Breton south).

The house learned that the Guild of All Arts, a resort property at Scarborough, Ont., near Toronto, has been leased by the Pensions Department for treatment of members of the forces suffering from Neuro-psychic disorders. This was disclosed by an order-in-council by Pensions Minister Mackenzie.

Plastic Eyes

LONDON, March 14 (CP). —Newly-developed artificial eyes of plastic were exhibited on an inspection of the American Army dental dispensary in London by Allied medical officers. Dentists who invented the eyes call them "bouncing eyes" because they won't break when dropped. They say they are more lifelike than glass eyes and are not affected by eye secretions or temperature changes.

Campbellford Rotary Names Election Slate

CAMPBELLFORD, March 14—(ENS).—As a preliminary to their annual election of officers to be held this year on April 10, Rotarians held their nominations as a part of the meeting Monday. The slate from which officers for the year will be elected was named as follows: H. J. Taylor, W. A. Hogle, W. H. Brady, R. J. Roche, H. Fowlds, Rev. G. N. Maxwell, Ron Hazell, Dr. O. C. Watson, A. J. Meyers, M. B. Sayers

A motion was passed authorizing the annual contribution of $10.00 to the Crippled Children's Society. With the hockey season completed Rotarians Watson and Carr moved a vote of appreciation to W. A. Hogle for his work in successfully sponsoring this sport among school children during the past winter. The suggestion was made that a committee be named to foster some type of organized recreational activity among children during the summer and it was recommended that as a tribute to his success with the hockey Rotarian Hogle be named chairman of such a committee.

1st Canadian Corps Serves In Italy

OTTAWA, March 14 (CP)—Disclosure that it is the 1st Canadian Corps which is fighting with the 8th Army in Italy was made here today in a letter from Lt.-Gen. Sir Oliver Leese, officer commanding the Army, thanking an Ottawa Jewish Women's group for cigarets for his troops.

Sir Oliver wrote: "As you know by now I am fortunate in having under my command the Canadian 1st Corps . . . ."

Previously, security regulations would not permit identification of the Corps, under command of Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar and which includes the 1st Division under Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes.

From today's disclosure it was possible to conclude that it is the 2nd Corps which is still in Britain under Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds.

238,277 Of 418,532 Called Up Have Been Granted Deferments

OTTAWA, March 14 (CP)—A total of 418,532 men were ordered to report for compulsory military training from the time compulsory training was introduced in 1940 to the end of 1943, it was revealed Monday in a return tabled in the Commons for T. C. Douglas (C.C.F., Weyburn).

The return said that as at Dec. 31, 1943, 238,277 men, who had been called for compulsory training or who had been ordered to report for medical examination prior to being called up, were on postponements.

During the period reviewed, 438,924 applications for postponements were received but this figure was for number of applications received and not for the number of men who applied. Many applied more than once for postponements and others applied for postponement extensions, the return said.

The return said that call-up statistics were not kept by military districts but by National Selective Service administration divisions.

The following table was included in the return to show the number of men in each division to whom military training orders were sent, the number of applications for postponements in each division and the number of men in each division on postponement at Dec. 31, 1943:

Confidence In The Law

Our attention has been drawn to the excellent address which Mr. Justice Roach of the Supreme Court of Ontario delivered before the Bar Association of Oshawa on Friday last. The theme of the address was confidence in the law.

In his childhood, said Mr. Justice Roach, very few people in his native village knew anything whatever about the law, but they had an unshakeable confidence in its integrity because, in their lifetime, it had never been questioned. They had inherited a democratic attitude toward life from their fathers and it never occurred to them to doubt that that way of life was the best that they could hope for. Nowadays the case is altered: the democratic attitude toward life has been violently questioned, and much of the stability of that earlier day has gone; people know as little about the law as ever; but have they the same confidence in it? Mr. Justice Roach thinks that they have not, and he sought to explain to the Oshawa Bar Association how he thought that confidence and respect for the law could be restored.

The essence of the law, said Mr. Justice Roach, is Reason. Now this may be obvious to lawyers, but it is not always clear to simple folk who become entangled in legal proceedings; to them the law often seems capricious, complex and more dependent on the shrewdness of lawyers than on impartial justice; true, this impression is most likely to be gained through acquaintance with a comparatively trifling case, but the majority of the cases which come into the courts are trifling. Justice Roach is indisputably right when he says that people who go to law in serious matters will get the nearest thing to even-handed justice which lies in the power of fallible mortals; but we doubt if the simple man with a small grievance or dispute who goes to law will ever be free of the sensation that he has gone to sea in a sieve.

"Respect for the obedience to law in a democratic country is the measure of its progress and marks the degree of its civilization", quoted Justice Roach from the words of the late Chief Justice Rowell; and from an essay of Sir Frederick Pollock he quoted, "It is not something mechanical, but it is the sense of justice taking form in peoples and races". Will the sense of justice in our race, as the result of two violent wars, decline in strength, or be warped from a straight course?

To avoid any such thing Justice Roach suggests that the people for whom the law is made take the trouble to acquaint themselves with its workings. Obviously it is not possible for them to study law and, as a little learning may prove dangerous and deceptive, it is not desirable that they should do so. But they could visit the courts occasionally, and they should certainly make a point of doing so if they feel that there is anything wrong with our legal system; a visit to a court is frequently an eye-opener to those who hold the law in light esteem.

In this admirable address Mr. Justice Roach dealt clearly and frankly with a tendency in our national life which, although slight, should be checked before it goes any further. Respect for the law and confidence in the courts are essential to any sort of national solidarity.

Not So Subtle

The Deputy Minister of Finance, Dr. Clifford Clark, told a Parliamentary committee last week that it was mere day-dreaming to expect a return to the gold standard after the war. Whether Dr. Clark meant that the gold standard had gone for good, or only for an extended period of economic readjustment, we do not know.

But there is nothing sacred about the gold standard. Nor is it so great an economic subtlety as many people seem to think. When a country is on the gold standard all its money, whether in paper notes or in coins, may be redeemed for a fixed weight of gold for each monetary unit. Thus, the value of a note or a coin alters only as the purchasing power of its equivalent in gold alters; the purpose of the gold standard is to provide a reasonably stable medium of exchange.

In a country which is on the gold standard, gold is the one commodity which never alters in price; the government undertakes to purchase all gold which it needs at a fixed price and to coin the gold free, when it wants gold coinage; it also undertakes to sell all gold demanded of it at the same price. Buying gold at a fixed price is not difficult, for it is done with paper money; the catch comes when the banks, acting for the government, are called upon to redeem large quantities of notes or coins in gold. Governments usually keep far less gold in reserve than the face-value of their paper and silver money, and when there is a run on gold the government has to drop the gold standard.

Abandonment of the gold standard does not imply that a nation is financially weak, or that faith has been broken; nor does it mean that paper and silver money will fluctuate wildly in value. Britain has only recognized the gold standard officially since 1816, and the United States did not adopt it until 1873.

Dr. Clark's statement must not be taken to mean that gold and gold-mining are dead in Canada. Gold is still the foundation upon which the monetary system is built, and the U.S. and Britain have given indications that they will continue to recognize gold as a measuring-stick after the war. As long as gold represents wealth we shall mine it in Canada, and sell it where we can; South Africa is increasing her mining activities at present, and she would not be doing so if gold were in any danger.

Have You a Black Book?

We were much interested by a note which Elmer Wheeler inserted in the magazine Future, in which he referred to his "little black book"; this is what he does with it:

> "In this book I am carefully listing all discourtesies, insults, impoliteness, and bad service rendered me by business today under the excuse of 'There's a war on'.
> "When the war is over I plan to take out my little black note book to see whom to do business with—what tailor, laundry, hotel, grocery store, restaurant and so forth. Where I was high-hatted, I plan to transfer my business elsewhere.
> "There must be thousands of people such as myself keeping little black note books which, when 'judgement day' comes after the war, might spell ruin for many people doing flourishing business with war workers".

We think that a great many people feel as Mr. Wheeler does, though we doubt if they carry vindictiveness to the point of keeping a list of offenders. Undoubtedly there is a tendency for retailers, and particularly for their clerks, to be needlessly rude and offhand in dealing with the public. Being temporarily in a preferred position, they show the stuff that they are made of.

Without the least desire to pander to local patriotism we must say that we think that rudeness of this kind is unusual in Peterborough. In recent months we have had to do shopping in two other Ontario cities, one much larger and the other somewhat larger, than this. In both of them we met with many instances of rudeness and discourtesy. Quite unnecessarily, we were told that there was a war on; we know that already, and were not grateful for the information. We have seen very little rudeness of this kind here (though there is some) and we have seen instances of exceptional courtesy.

A person who is kept in a courteous and obliging frame of mind by the expectation of favours and gain, and who becomes gruff and offhand when no more favours can be expected, is a contemptible and underbred wretch, unfit to prosper or to be treated by his fellow-citizens as anything better than a time-server. We do not think that many people keep little black books, but they will remember when the war is over which shops behaved decently during the days of shortage.

NOTE AND COMMENT

In Boston Col. Ralston was mistaken for Frank Sinatra. But Mr. Ilsley is the man who really makes us swoon.

A radio survey reports a decline in the popularity of mystery programs. Probably because of the advent of Form T-1 in the home.

A cynical contemporary says that people who rave over their income tax may be divided into two classes — men and women.

A woman in Montana, whose husband gave her ten cents a day to spend as she liked, saved her money until she was able to buy a divorce. The poor fellow probably regrets his mistaken kindness.

The Brantford Expositor, which chided us because we headed an editorial "The Prospect Before Us", refers to a Hollywood production "of Jane Austin's Wuthering Heights"; roll over, Homer, you're on your back.

"Lord, I Thank Thee—"

By DOROTHY L. SAYERS
(In London Calling)

If it were not for the war,
This war
Would suit me down to the ground.
There are things about it which pander to my instincts,
Flatter my weak points,
And make me a prig and a Pharisee.
I have always detested travelling,
And now there is no travelling to do.
I need not feel that I ought to be improving my mind
By a visit to Rome, the Pyramids, the Pyrenees,
New York or New Guinea,
Or even Moscow;
I have never really panted to contemplate Fuji-Yama,
And now I need not bother about it;
I need not feel abashed by people who take their holidays on the Matterhorn
Or navigating the Fiords;
I can sit quietly in Essex and feel superior
When my friends complain
That they cannot get on without a sea-voyage, or sea-bathing,
(I abominate cold water),
That they feel stifled
Without a breath of mountain air.

I WAS born in a hollow
At a confluence of rivers,
I was brought up in a swamp
Carved, caged, counter-checked like a chess-board
By dyke and drain,
Running from the Great Ouse to the Wash,
Where the wind never stops blowing;
I know all about the smell that comes off the drowned land
When the waters turn home in the spring
(A peculiar smell—and I have encountered something like it
In Venice,
In the piccoli canali in the moonlight,
Where it is considered highly romantic);
I can say to the gadabouts:
"If you must have dank smells, you can get them in the Fens of East Anglia;
If you must break your necks on a precipice
You can do it with perfect discomfort
In Cumberland;
And there are apple-blossoms in Kent,
Blue seas on the Cornish coast,
Conifers in Scotland;
But I shall stay at home,
Indulging my natural laziness,
And save petrol and coal for my country;
And if anybody requests me
To deliver unnecessary speeches in remote parts of the country,
I can plead the difficulties of war-time travel,
And suffer no pangs of conscience.

I detest bananas,
A smug fruit, designed to be eaten in railway carriages
On Bank Holidays,
With a complexion like yellow wax
And a texture like new putty
Flavoured with nail-polish.
Yes, we have no bananas,
Glory be!
And the hygienic people
Who eat prunes and grape-fruit for breakfast
Are cast into outer darkness
Gnashing their dentures.
Why should anybody eat breakfast
For its edifying qualities,
Or its slimming properties,
Or its improving influence
Upon the skin and bowels?
Behold, the moral has put on immorality,
And the last shall be first
In the economy of managed consumption.
I do not take sugar
In tea or coffee (even black coffee);
I can give it away to my neighbours,
Purchasing their grateful affection
At no cost to myself—
If everybody was made like me
The Ministry of Food would rejoice.

I NEED not buy new clothes,
Or change for dinner,
Or bother to make up my face—
It is virtuous to refrain from these things.
I need not shiver in silk stockings;—
I had a hunch about wool before it was rationed;
Now I have knitted myself woollen stockings
That come a long way up.
They are warm and admirable,
They do not ladder or go into holes suddenly.
I can boast quietly about them
And smirk while others admire my industry;
As it happens, I like knitting
And nothing gratifies one more
Than to be admired for doing what one likes.
In London there are still shops
With silk stockings in the windows
("Positively the last release");
I see the women and the girls
Check in their stride, stop, gaze in hungrily,
Fumbling with handbags, calculating coupons,
Yielding to temptation.
Poor souls!
They will never be able to walk through the rose-garden
Or play with the kitten
But anxiety will gnaw at their hearts like a demon rat;
The crack of a snapping stitch
Will sound in their ears like the crack of doom.
But I shall walk cheerfully in woollen
This winter, and the next, and the next,
Hand-knitted without coupons;
And the old lisle stockings will do for the summer—
If there is any summer.

And the God-wottery Corner for Garden-lovers.
The blare of the advertisements,
Imploring, cajoling, stimulating, menacing, terrifying
An apathetic public
Into buying what it neither needs nor desires,
Has dwindled into an apologetic murmur,
Regretting the shortage of supplies,
Whispering pathetically, "Forget-me-not,
Forget me not when good times come again!"
We are not electrified every other day
By the bursting into the world,
With accompaniments suitable to the advent of a long-promised Messiah,
Of a new soap.
Soap is rationed.
(I always thought we washed far too much anyhow—
Animals do not wear out their skins
And destroy their natural oils
With perpetual washing;
Even the cat despises soap,
And who ever heard of a cow washing behind the ears?)
There is very little room these days
For the misreporting of my public utterances;
Soon they will not be reported at all,
Thank goodness!
And, curiously enough, books and plays seem to do better
When nobody reviews them.
Also, owing to the lack of paper
The demand for books exceeds the supply—
A thing that has not been known
Since they started all this popular education and cheap printing.
Nobody ever wants a thing
Until it is taken away—
We used to have far too much of everything.

I CAN now enjoy a more glorious victory,
More exaltation of spirit,
By capturing a twopenny tin of mustard
Or a packet of hairpins
And bearing it home in triumph
Than I could have achieved before the war
By securing a First Folio of Shakespeare
At vast trouble and expense
In the sale-room.
The local chimney-sweep
Keeps hens.
He takes the scraps from my table, the kitchen scraps,
And the hens return them to me,
By a beautiful economy of nature,
In the likeness of eggs.
A new-laid egg
Will bind a friendship
Faster than it binds a cake;
A string of onions
Is a gift more gracious
Than a necklace of pearls;
I am better off with vegetables
At the bottom of my garden
Than with all the fairies of the Midsummer Night's Dream.

If it were not for the war,
This war
Would suit me down to the ground.

DON'T BE A SAP, SENOR! —By Thomas

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE PROPOSED PARK

Apsley, March 10, 1944.

Sir,—I have been following with interest all the various letters concerning a National Park in Peterborough county. The latest letter I saw was advocating a Provincial Park.

I have lived all my life in the townships of Burleigh and Anstruther. I have hunted and trapped in this district for some twenty-five years. My old home property extends almost a mile west of Highway No. 28. Why should I along with hundreds of others be denied the right to use our own property and adjoining owners' property for this purpose to satisfy the ambitions of Mr. Fred C. Marshall and some of his friends.

We have a game preserve east of Eels Creek which is an ideal location for deer and fur-bearing animals. It has increased the number of deer in this locality about seventy-five per cent. The residents have willingly co-operated in observing the park regulations. We also have the big Algonquin Provincial Park only a distance of about fifty miles north of here. Anyone wishing to see wild life in its natural home could visit that district much more easily since the completion of Highway 28 to Bancroft. Some one mentioned work and tourists.

I happen to be a member of the township council of Burleigh and Anstruther. On at least three occasions in the last year we have had delegations call on us at our regular meetings to request the opening up of some new piece of road. One case was an outlet to a permanent home, one to a wood lot and one to a number of summer cottages which have been built for years.

I would like to point out that on the north-west side of Stoney Lake there are long stretches where cottagers have to depend on the waterways only to get to their summer homes. In these days when the automobile carries a very large majority of the tourists it is only reasonable for them to expect the municipality to which they pay their taxes to do something about a road.

There is another little lake I would like to mention about a mile from Haultain Post Office, With some fourteen established summer homes.

Now if our government is planning to spend money in post-war work I feel sure that I am right in suggesting that many of such places as I have mentioned are entitled to first consideration. The opening up of such numerous roads is beyond the means of a municipality such as this.

We need roads to places where summer cottages have already been built first. I think you will agree that some such plan as I have suggested would provide work, encourage tourists build up our municipality, and be a benefit rather than a detriment to all the ratepayers and citizens concerned.

In closing I want to say that I am definitely opposed to the setting up of a park—National or Provincial—in Peterborough county on the grounds which I have stated.

Thanking you for your time and space, I am,

NORMAN H. WILSON.

WHAT SERVICEMEN WANT

Sir,—Your article entitled "Political Liberty First," in your issue of March 7th caused me to lose a good deal of the faith I have had in your judgement.

You enlarge on a book written by Professor McDougall of Queen's University and state that the controls and restrictions applied to the nation's business in war if kept on in peace-time would be totalitarian. I grant that there are numerous restrictions applied to business owing to shortage of materials which are very aggravating and not at all necessary. An example of one of these regulations is that placed on the cut of men's suits in the retail clothing trade. However, I would like you to tell me why high taxes, excess profits tax, controls on wages and controls on prices are totalitarian.

I should like to have you read an article which was printed in Britain last year. It was written by the man who was responsible for restrictions on food etc. in the last war. In this article, he urged the people to be far-sighted and remember what happened then. Over there, the papers began raising a hue and cry to have these restrictions removed immediately following the war. There was much talk of human liberties, the right of people to buy as much as they pleased if they had the money and so on. The result was that the restrictions were removed, inflation followed and there were thousands of unemployed veterans. May I point out that we in the services don't want that to happen here.

If I may, I should like to give my opinion of a totalitarian government. Should the government try to force my son into a Youth Movement, prevent me from teaching him anything but what they order or formulate doctrines for him to learn about the superiority of his race; should the government suppress race, colour or creed; force teachers to disobey the dictates of their conscience and adhere to a rigid state controlled curricula; finally, should the government force individuals to work at certain jobs without thought for the capacities or abilities of the people concerned; all of these would be totalitarian. But if a government ensures that a business man makes no more than a fair profit that he does not under-pay his help or under-cut his competitors, that is hardly totalitarian.

The term "Rugged Individualist" has been bandied about a great deal by newspapers of late. To them it seems to mean that a man goes into business and pursuing his own course makes a success (i.e. makes money). May I point out that all successful business men, moreover some of the world's greatest individualists have opposed the doctrine of Rugged Individualism. Liberty of the individual does not mean license for the individual. A man can be free without being permitted to make a success of life at the expense of others. Likewise one can hardly say that a man is free if he has all the political liberty in the world and yet lacks the material goods to support his family. I do not think that any of the men in the service want favours when they return but they do want opportunity. It will certainly take adequate governmental legislation to provide such opportunity. Striking examples of failure to provide such legislation and their results are given in Sir Wm. Beveridge's book "Pillars of Security." The failure to provide legislation guaranteeing security and to continue the controls now in force after the war, can only result in the chaos which followed the last war according to Sir Wm.

In conclusion, I would like to say that after some time spent in the services both in England and Canada I have found that servicemen desire two things: one is a fair opportunity for themselves and insurance that their children will not pass through a depression such as we went through from 1930-39; the second thing is that their children will not be marching to war in another twenty years. There is no guarantee for either of these but thoughtful planning and careful legislation will go a long way towards ensuring them. The old policies of rugged individualism and hands off where business is concerned have been tried and ended in depression. Certainly as you have stated, the other methods have worked in war time. They might also work in peace and there can be no harm in trying them. No one wants state-ownership but state-control might not be such a bad thing.

Thanking you for your time, I remain

SGT. G. W. B. WHEELER,
R.C.A.F.

Note: The Examiner agrees with much that is said in this letter. But what is a "fair profit?" Is it enough to permit future expansion of business? In a country like Canada business must expand or the country will regress rapidly.

A Bible Message

In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.... All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made. (John 1: 1, 3.)

Thus saith the Lord the King of Israel, and his redeemer the Lord of hosts: I am the first, and I am the last; and beside me there is no God....

They that make a graven image are all of them vanity; and their delectable things shall not profit; and they are their own witnesses; they see not, nor know; that they may be ashamed. Who hath formed a god, or molten a graven image that is profitable for nothing? (Isa. 44: 6, 8-10.)

Why Not Basic Scots?

Prime Minister Churchill announced in the House of Commons on Thursday that the British Government would use its efforts to promote Basic English as an auxiliary language throughout the world. Then William Gallagher, Scots Communist member from the Clyde, rose to suggest that the Scottish dialect be used instead so as to avoid the various pronunciation of words of the English language.

Scots in general disagree with the political opinions of Mr. Gallagher, but Scots in general might well agree with him in this suggestion. "Basic Scots" is really the simplest language in the world. Supposing a Scots housewife went into a dry goods store to buy a blanket and picked one up, the following dialogue might pass between them:

"Oo?"
"Aye, oo."
"A' oo?"
"Aye, a' oo."
"A' ae oo?"
"Aye, a' ae oo."

Sounds like Burmese or Chinese, but it is the language of Robbie Burns, and is perfectly comprehensible to any Scot. In English is means:

"Wool?"
"Yes, wool."
"All wool?"
"Yes, all wool."
"All one piece of wool?"
"Yes, all one piece of wool."

To a man like Mr. Churchill who uses short words effectively "Basic Scots" ought to make a strong appeal.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Today I am going to give you a little talk on food values and what we should include in our menus each day, to get the most health out of our food.

After it is taken into the body, all foods must undergo certain chemical changes before it can be used by the body and this is the work of the digestive system.

Foods are classified as:

1. Protein— This is the great building material. Other foods give heat and energy but protein is the only one which builds up and repairs the body and is therefore essential. Foods which are high in protein are milk, meat, fish, eggs, peas, beans and lentils. The cereals and vegetables contain a considerable amount.

2. Carbohydrate—this is divided into two groups: sugars and starches. These supply heat and energy and may be converted into fatty tissue. The source of the starches is mainly cereals and vegetables. Cellulose is a form of carbohydrate, but is not digested in the body. It is necessary in the diet because it gives bulk to the food passing through the intestines and so prevents constipation. Most vegetables are a prolific source of cellulose.

3. Fats—These supply heat in a concentrated form, giving 2¼ times as much as carbohydrate. They are from animal or vegetable sources.

4. Mineral Matter—These supply building materials and help to regulate body processes. The principal sources are milk, butter, eggs, greens, fruits, vegetables and whole grain products.

5. Vitamins— These are found in very minute quantities in certain foods and are absolutely necessary for the prevention of disease and for growth promotion. They are a comparatively recent discovery and four have been studied and are called Vitamins A, B, C and D. They are found mainly in milk and milk products, fresh fruits and leafy vegetables, so these are known as "protective foods" and should be included in each day's meals.

6. Water— This is more necessary than food. A person can exist several weeks without food but only a few days without water. From four to six glasses daily should be taken. The body, or human machine, is often likened to an automobile. The carbohydrates and fats are the fuels which give the human machine heat and energy to make it go. The proteins repair the body and build up new parts just as a car has to be repaired and new parts bought. The mineral matter and water lubricate the machinery, as oil lubricates the car. Vitamins are needed for growth and normal development. The fuel which we consume is also measured as is the gallon of gasoline. Our fuels or foods give us heat, as does the coal burned in the furnace, or the gasoline in the car. The heat derived from food is measured by calories and counting one's calories is growing in popularity each day. Remember these hints when preparing meals.

Spr. L. E. Ford Weds Overseas

All Saints' Parish Church, Whitstable, England, was the setting for the recent wedding of Miss Parie Playle, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Playle, of "Journey's End," Court Lees Whitsable and Spr. Leonard E. Ford, R.C.E., son of Mrs. Ford and the late Mr. Wesley Ford, of Peterborough. The choral service was performed by the vicar, Rev. G. Hillyard, assisted by the groom's Canadian padre, Capt. Young, of Toronto.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a blue suit, navy accessories and a corsage of pink and red carnations. Mr. Jack Illesley was groomsman. On leaving the church, the bride was presented with a horseshoe by her little nephew, as a sign of good luck.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Congratulatory messages were received from the bride's two brothers, both of whom were unable to be present, and cables were received from the groom's mother and the bride's brother-in-law.

Gift From Peterboro Woman Aids Stricken English Baby

"Yes she has some bananas," reads a clipping from the London "Daily Mail," and some of those bananas, which are helping to save a little girl's life, were sent to England from Peterborough. Little Jean Walmesley, a 17-months-old sufferer from coeliac, now has her bananas, and a woman in Leeds and a woman in Peterborough are happy to have been able to help.

Mrs. A. Mason, Bolivar street, is the Peterborough connection in this story. For quite some time, she has been sending dehydrated bananas to her sister, Mrs. G. M. Appleyard, of Leeds, who is very fond of them, and cannot obtain them in England. However, when an SOS for bananas for a little girl suffering from coeliac was printed in English papers, Mrs. Appleyard, realizing the urgent need, offered to donate the bananas she had received from her sister, and the offer was gratefully accepted.

Coeliac sufferers cannot digest ordinary foods, especially if they contain fat, and a banana diet has been found most suitable. However, bananas in England are very rare, and it was necessary to print an appeal for donations when it was discovered that little Jean Walmesley had developed the rare coeliac condition.

Several other offers from people lucky enough to have received gifts of bananas from friends were received, and a grateful mother learned that her small daughter would receive bananas in sufficient quantity to fill out her diet. Jean's father, Pte. W. Walmesley, serving in India, has never seen his little daughter.

"I felt that I must personally thank you for your great kindness in responding to the need for bananas for Jean Wamesley," reads a letter to Mrs. Appleyard from R. Lancaster, secretary superintendent of the Doncaster Royal Infirmary, where Jean is a patient. "Jean is a very delightful little girl of 17 months, and is taking to her diet, including four ounces of bananas daily, with great relish. We do hope that your gift, along with all the others so generously sent, will enable us to get the better of her very rare condition, and put her on the road to a normal and healthy life. Mrs. Walmesley would also like to join in expressing appreciation."

In writing to her sister in Peterborough, Mrs. Appleyard said that she knew Mrs. Mason would prefer that the gift went to help a little girl recover her health, rather than as a luxury to her. Mrs. Mason says she knows how great a luxury the fruit was to her sister, but, "it is that spirit of helpfulness and kindness which will help us overcome all obstacles. Such little sacrifices mean a great deal to the receiver. and also to the giver, since he feels that he is really making a contribution toward the welfare of the world."

Western Brides Look To Future In New Zealand

By ENID NEMY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG, March 14 — (CP). — Four years ago New Zealand was a virtually unknown country to hundreds of Canadian girls. Today, although still unknown, it is their future home.

Winnipeg, thus far, boasts the largest crop of New Zealand-Canadian marriages with Calgary a close second. There is scarcely a city throughout the Dominion that won't lose some of its daughters to New Zealand after the war.

Winnipeg's N.Z. Club, the only one of its kind in Canada, was suggested by Hon. F. Jones, Minister of National Defence for New Zealand, while on a tour of Canada last year. It was organized in June, 1943, and now includes both New Zealand and Australian wives. SO. Jean Christie, of Winnipeg, personnel officer of the R.C.A.F. (W.D.), got the girls together and now acts as general advisor.

President of the N.Z. Club is Mrs. Dorothy Vincent, whose husband, a wireless air gunner, is now overseas. "I went roller skating one night, met a New Zealander named Reg, and now I'm wondering what New Plymouth is like," she says.

Mrs. Beth McDonald, who was born in Edmonton, lived in Saskatoon, and went to school in Victoria, met her husband at church. "Wellington used to be a name in a geography book," she says. "Now it's mighty important."

"Sounds Like Paradise."

"It must be fate," said Mrs. Carol Mayes, of Winnipeg, who spends a good deal of her time poring over pictures and articles on Hamilton, New Zealand. "I never dreamt I'd live anywhere but Canada but from what my husband has told me, New Zealand sounds like paradise."

The girls, whose husbands are now in England, Italy, the Middle East, back home in New Zealand or still here in Canada, are average Canadians. Some went back to their jobs when their husbands departed, others who have children, are typical wartime housewives.

Mrs. Germaine Hodge, whose husband is from Wellington, enlisted in the C.W.A.C. after her husband was reported a prisoner of war, and Mrs. Dorothy Dempsey, whose husband returned to New Zealand, is in the R.C.A.F. (W.D.)

They all have one predominant thought—getting over to New Zealand. "It just can't be soon enough," said Mrs. Irene Glover, who will make her home in Auckland. "Judging by their letters, the people sound marvellous—I'm certainly looking forward to living there."

BEAUTY NOT GIRLS MAIN ASSET

Boys Want Clever, Witty Companions, Good Dancers; Similar Conditions in Home

In spite of the fact that most of the women we know who have made what we call "good marriages" and whose husbands still call them "little girls" after they are gray-headed and have quit weighing themselves, women are still sold on the theory that youth and beauty are the only two qualities in the whole repertoire of feminine charms that appeal to men.

Men are to blame for women putting this overvaluation on looks, for to hear them talk you would think that they were such beauty worshippers that no girl who hadn't won a prize in a beauty contest would ever get a look at a wedding ring. But this is mere masculine propaganda. Plain Janes marry all around Miss Americas, and at practically every wedding the whispered comment that runs around the church is: "What did he ever see in her?"

In reality, if the girls whose faces aren't their fortunes, would give up the struggle of trying to be beautiful though ugly and devote themselves to pepping up other attractions, they would get far better results. For while men may admire living pictures, they are content to let other men hang them on their walls. The girls they like to step out with are gay and amusing companions, have a witty tongue and a nimble pair of heels. Those assets will carry a girl farther along the road to the altar than a classical profile. If girls would spend more time in acquiring skill in smoothing boys' fur the right way and less in putting intricate kinks in their own hair, there would be fewer old maids.

And so with wives. When a wife discovers her first gray hair, her play is not to rush off to the beauty shop in the fond belief that it has some magic that can keep her a perpetual glamor girl. If she is wise, she concentrates on making her home more delightful, more a place of peace and rest than it has ever been before.

WISE WOMAN PLAYS UP HUSBAND'S WISHES

She improves the technique of her cooking. She jollies her husband and makes herself more of a pal to him. She studies the things that he is interested in until she can hand out a more entertaining line of conversation, and thus distracts his mind from her physical appearance so that he never observes that she is acquiring crow's feet and putting on weight.

Wives are always complaining that their husbands never notice how they look. This is God's mercy to them, because as long as a man loves his wife he never sees her as anything but a bride. Probably not one man in ten thousand ever falls out of love with his wife because she has lost her beauty.

In fact he would never have discovered it if he hadn't seen her with her face distorted with temper, or drawn with peevish, fretful whines and complaints, or beheld her in a slovenly wrapper across a dirty tablecloth on which was food that would have killed an ostrich. No man ever thought his wife so homely he couldn't stand to look at her any longer if she turned adoring eyes on him, and if her mouth wore the smile that never comes off.

Beauty is in the eye of the holdholder, and those look good to us who love us and admire us and are pleasant to live with. A wife can do a lot more about retaining her husband's affections by being sweet and amiable than she can by keeping her girlish figure.

Former Stars Of The "Imperials" Meet Prince Of Wales Sergeants

SOMEWHERE IN CANADA, March 14.—On parade the Prince of Wales sergeants are just as tough as custom pictures them. But off parade they really let their hair down and become regular fellows. The main interest these days is their touch rugby league which is keeping the boys in trim during their off hours. When C.S.M. Johnny Mergin's team clashes with R.Q.M.S. Hal Webb's team, the fur really flies. Even after the game is over on the field, it carries on during the night because Johnnie and Hal share the same dugouts.

Strange as it may seem, there are two former Sarnia "Imperials" football stars stationed in the vicinity in the persons of Joe Woodcock and Dick Morris. And when their team does battle with the Peterborough boys, it brings back memories of that fall afternoon in 1938 when an underdog Peterborough team created the greatest upset in Canadian football by downing the mighty Imperials by the score of 3-2. Even the kicking of "Bummer" Stirling, the plunging of Orm Beach and Rocky Parsaca and the running of Mike Hedgewick couldn't overcome the one point lead garnered by the Orphans from the toe of Ford "Mike" Loucks.

Perhaps you noticed we said C.S.M. Mervin and you can believe what you read. The popular Johnny has lately been appointed to that rank after proving his work as a sergeant. He will be remembered by Peterborough people as a former employee of Canada Packers Ltd.

Coming to the fore these days is the Prince of Wales Rangers bugle band. They have been practising very hard for the last few months and the results are very gratifying

Here and There in Sport

Denton (Cy) Young, now 76, and the first pitcher to be honored in baseball's hall of fame, made the startling announcement at his farm home near Peoli, O., yesterday, a mistake had been made in the inscrption on the scroll at the Coopers' Town, N.Y., shrne. Young, who gained fame with the Cleveland Indians, explained he was listed in baseball's sanctuary as Denton Tecumseh Young, adding "that's not my name but I think I'm the guy they mean." His second name is "True," he said, in memory of a captain under whom his father served in the civil war.

Young broke into baseball in 1890 with the Canton, O., club of the old Tri-State League and was purchased the same year by Cleveland when the Indians gave the Canton manager a suit of clothes for his contract. Fifteen years later he was with the Boston Americans and retired in 1912. During his 22 year career Young pitched 874 games, winning 511 and losing 315. He stayed above the .500 mark in games won and lost for 15 straight years.

By uncorking a six-point scoring spurt which brought him into a tie for second place in the American Hockey League's individual scoring honors race, Red Hunt of the Buffalo Bisons has smashed the Cleveland monopoly of the three top brackets in the points column.

Hunt's two goals and four assists last week enabled him to climb over Lou Trudel of Cleveland, and to draw up neck and neck with Les Cunningham of Barons. Tom Burlington of Cleveland with two goals and two assists, gained a couple of points and now leads the pack by a margin of eght. Trudel's only goal and three assists dropped him into fourth place, only a point behind Cunningham and Hunt.

Ice Dealer Fined

transported to his own warehouse, and this added more cost. Cann said that he made no money on the ice but was trying to accommodate his customers. He had sought permission in March of 1943 from the W.P. and T.B. to raise the price of his own ice to 25 cents a cake and was refused. After he bought the Haas ice he went around to his customers and told them that he would have to charge them 20 cents a cake. All agreed, Cann stated.

Addressing the court yesterday, T. F. Hall, K.C., counsel for Cann, pointed out that the hot summer last year had made the ice scarce. It was to accommodate his customers that he bought the extra ice and he raised the price only five cents to take care of the extra cost in the matter. Mrs. Waller had not objected when informed of the price increase but later reported him to the board, Mr. Hall said.

"The Act says that in a breach of the regulations the price must be such as shall be conclusively deemed to be higher than reasonable and just. I would ask that a little common sense be applied to this case as the circumstances are such as to render the price Mr. Cann charged to fall into the classification of being reasonable and just," Mr. Hall said.

Found Guilty.

Finding him guilty the magistrate commented as follows:

"Unfortunately this is one of these things that in peace time are not an offence but in times of war may be a burden on some to help the government maintain the price level. That is the price which we have to pay because we have a war on. In March of last year Mr. Cann was told by the board that he could not increase his price when he sought to raise it to 25 cents. In October he bought this ice from Haas and finds out that he hasn't as much as he thought—only about half as much. In spite of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board's refusal to permit him to raise his price, he goes ahead and does it. He blames it on the extra cost of this ice to him. As I have said before in other cases of this kind, I feel that the accused is not entirely to blame as he is encouraged by the fact that people are willing to pay more for goods and services. However, in view of the small amount of ice sold and the fact that he was trying to serve the public, I feel that the penalty should be low and am accordingly fining him $10 and $2.50 costs," stated the magistrate.

SPORTS—Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

While the main bout battle between Velocity Vic Holbrook the people's choice from the California rain belt and Strangler Bob Wagner of the Public Enemy group at Brock Street Rink tonight should be more packed with thrills than one of the current candid story magazines this column has a shrewd suspicion that a lot of action throughout tonight's card is going to centre around Tom Zaharias. The Pueblo grappler who not without adequate reason is known as the Garrulous Greek is going to double in brass and in neither role will he have a friend closer than the far south-west. In the first place he is slated to battle the popular Frank Sexton in the semi-final clash and that is a good night's work for any mat artist for Sexton is big, fast, clever and courageous. Zaharias will probably dig out all the skulduggery of the whole Zaharias family against the Pacific Coast champ and he will probably need it, too, for if he finishes upon the wrong end of one of those Sexton giant swings the chances are that he will not be in any too good shape to take over his second job of the evening and that is to act as ring-side coach for his buddy Bob Wagner in the final against Holbrook.

* * * * * *

Zaharias wished himself upon Wagner in a similar role last week and as a result of his attempted master minding the Portland battler found himself disqualified. As a matter of fact the sudden windup of the bout was hardly fair to Wagner even if Referee Maxwell was technically right. There is no rule against seconds and Zaharias had done nothing against the code when the fans closed in on him and he had to take refuge in the ring to get away from his attackers. The Greek declares that he will be in Wagner's corner again tonight, in fact one of the conditions insisted on by Biffing Bob was that he should have the benefit of the Zaharias coaching. What that will lead to nobody knows but at all events the developments should be plenty interesting. It all looms up into a more than usually exciting card for the program will get away on a discordant note with the unpopular Jan Gotch belting away at the smooth-working Tom Collins who will be on the receiving end of all the cheers and also of all the rabbit punches. With three such bouts on the bill Referee Bert Maxwell will be an even worse insurance risk than usual and he must pay a high premium at any time.

As Good As The Team

Bill Westwick, Ottawa Journal sports writer has been interviewing the veteran goalie Bill Beveridge and from that capable guardian of the twine has dug up a lot of ideas that fans should enjoy. Here is part of the article: "After stopping pucks around amateur, minor professional and the N.H.L. for around 20 years Billy Beveridge refuses to go along with those who figure goalies are as much as 75 per cent of any hockey team. Some of the boys got to talking of goalies on the train the other day and rating them by percentages. Some of them figured in the 70's and others ran the percentage up to as high as 80 per cent, particularly in a playoff. Someone looked inquiringly at Beveridge, who has been with more clubs than he can count right off. "I hear a lot of that," he said. "I don't go for it the way some people do. I figure a goalie is just about as good as his team is in front of him. I'd never say his work in the nets is a direct reflection of how the rest of the club is going in any game. The way the rest of the team performs means a lot to the guy in the nets. If they are moping around, not doing their job, its bound to have a reaction on the goalie. If they're not checking up, if their movements are lethargic, you're apt to find yourself gripped by the same feeling in the nets. You move slower yourself. Either that or you find yourself trying to overdo your assignment or to make up for the faults out in front of you. Either way you can get into a lot of trouble."

* * * * * *

Like a lot of of goalies Beveridge wonders after years of play why forwards never shoot more from farther out, continues the Westwick interview. "It isn't because coaches don't tell them to. You hear coaches year after year nagging at their players to keep potting at the target, to get thir shots on the net and not go in too close. But players don't do it. Any goalie who tells you a puck-carrier has a better chance to score in close is kidding you, or protecting a trade secret. Lots of players are poison in close. But in the main the team that keeps driving them from 20 or 25 feet out stands the best chance of collecting a winning total. You keep shooting at the goalie and he's going to miss on some of them. But you find players passing up the chance time after time to go right into the goal-mouth. Most goalies like it better that way, and you'll find a lot of puck-carriers willing to oblige. They can't get as much of the net when they get in close and they have to depend on feinting the goalie out of position. Good goalies don't move first until they have no alternative. When they start making the first moves they're beaten."

They're Not Satisfied

Although Kingston has the Jock Harty Arena with an artificial ice plant and a large ice surface, the hockey interests in the Limestone City are far from satisfied with the accommodation available. Thus we find Bill Walshe, in telling of the burning of the original Arena 20 years ago, writing as follows: "Since the old rink was burned down hockey has existed on a hand-to-mouth basis and, although three Ontario championship teams followed in two decades, there was never enough financial reward to put the sport on a firm foundation. Due to clever business management and financial aid from outside sources Kingston returned to senior play in the last three years but until a new arena is built to accommodate from five to six thousand people, hockey will always have to depend on charity here to survive. The original Jock Harty Arena cost about $90,000, according to a report of the fire, and there was $75,000 insurance, which was used to build the present concrete barn. The old rink had a convenient canteen, good dressing rooms and easy access to seats. The new one was built in a year and there must have been only casual consideration of the plans, considering the seating accommodation, rest rooms and other expected conveniences of a modern arena."

With no prospects of baseball in Peterborough this season the following paragraph from Chick Appel's column in the Stratford Beacon-Herald will have a nostalgic effect upon Peterborough fans. Says the Classic City writer: "Like last spring, about all that can be said about the baseball situation here is that there is the nucleus of a senior team, with some of the old standbys still available, such as "Irish" Miskimmons, Hughie McGillivray, "Joe Joe" Kalmusky, Al Hannigan and perhaps "Schoolmaster" Craig. Add to these two rookies, Ken Rohfritsch and Billy Flick, who showed considerable promise last summer, and you can readily perceive that the Nationals would start off the season not much worse than a year ago." All the players mentioned by Appel with the exception of the two rookies were members of the Stratford Nationals who beat the Petes in a three-game series in the Ontario senior finals a few seasons ago. The Petes won the game here but were nosed out in the second game at Stratford and beaten in the rubber fixture at Hamilton.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: It may not be St. Mike's against Oshawa in the junior finals after all....Hamilton Whizzers handed the Toronto Irish an 8 to 2 trimming last night and the series is all tied up....It was a good break for St. Mike's that games instead of goals counted....Kingston junior B team eliminated Markham last night winning 6 to 4 in Markham to take the round 17 to 10....The junior B final could be a K-K affair, Kingston vs. Kitchener....The latter have only lost one game in 17 starts this season which is not exactly bad for a team without a home rink....Lorne Carr's hope of capturing the scoring championship would seem to be gone. He is three points behind Herbie Cain and has only one more game to play....Jim Hopper, last season's Toronto pitching star has landed in Uncle Sam's army instead of with the Pittsburg Pirates where he was slated to perform this season.

Cricket Club Meeting Reviews Year

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Whitaker Cricket Club was held at the Whitaker Company's office, Hunter street, on Monday night.

The president, Gordon Monkman, was in the chair, and those present included F. Dyer, J. Wild, A. H. Radford, F. C. Roberts, F. Smith, G. Colbran and C. H. Ireson.

The president, in his address, said that in spite of very many difficulties as to transportation, man-power and lack of opponents, a short schedule had been carried out last last season and he heartily thanked those who had helped. He said difficulties would not be less this year, and appealed for the same co-operation.

The secretary-treasurer, A. Radford, said the season's expenditure had been $119.12, and there was a small balance in hand, and he was now endeavoring to arrange a schedule for the coming season.

The following officials were elected: Hon. President, Dr. Hammond; Hon. vice-presidents, G. K. Fraser, M.P., G. A. Macdonald, R. A. Morrow, Col. C. H. Ackerman, E. A. Peck, G. Whitaker, A. P. Whitaker and R. R. Whitaker, the last three all of Bradford, England; president, Gordon Monkman; captain, F. Dyer; vice-captain, J. Wild; secretary-treasurer, A. H. Radford; entertainment, F. C. Roberts; transportation and equipment, J. Hawthorne, F. Smith, G. Colbran.

Much regret was expressed at the absence through illness of the Peterborough club's veteran treasurer, R. N. Stuart, and a full and frank discussion took place as to finance. Thanks were expressed to the president for excellent publicity and to the city council for the use of Nicholls Oval.

It is hoped that players who have been working Saturday afternoons will be free to take their place on the team, which will also be strengthened by the return of the Rev. G. F. Kelly to the fold.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 14—(AP)—Now that spring training is under way, major league managers are predicting this will be a "pitchers' year."...What pitchers?...A very rough survey of the red and green books show that the reasonably good elbowers still are outnumbered by the fair-to-middling hitters...We don't look for much change in the normal balance except in the cases of such clubs as the Yankees and Senators, who still have enough good pitchers to put one on the hill every day... After watching Gil Dodds bust the indoor mile record Saturday, this department is convinced the fabulous four-minute mile will be attained only when someone turns up who can run four 60-second quarters ...Gil's limit is three and he was able to make record time only when he slowed down a bit in the third.

Holdout Ranks Gain Three Recruits

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP) — Star Catcher Walker Cooper of the St. Louis Cardinals; Vince DiMaggio, slugging outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Gee Walker, outfielder of the Cincinnati Reds, are the latest additions to the 1944 ranks of baseball holdouts.

Cooper, in company with first sacker Johnny Hopp, discussed terms with President Sam Breadon of the Cards yesterday, but the two did not sign contracts. Breadon said afterwards "I don't expect any trouble . . . We didn't discuss terms seriously."

No comment was forthcomin, from the Pirates on DiMaggio except that the hard-hitting outfielder is unsigned. Walker, however, announced in Orlando, Fla., he wants more money from the Reds.

That puts Walker in the company of such other stars as shortstop Billy Jurges of the New York Giants; Ron Northey, outfielder of the Philadelphia Phillies; Outfielder Luis Olmo of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Pitcher Luke Hamlin of the Philadelphia Athletics, all of whom have declared they want salary hikes.

Other diamond developments yesterday included:

Atlantic City — Yanks bought Catcher Joe Glenn from Kansas City.

Bloomington, Ind.—Eleven players missing as Reds worked out.

Muncie, Ind.—Pittsburgh Pirates informed Pitcher Jim Hopper was inducted into army at Charlotte, N.C.

Evansville, Ind.—Detroit Tigers announced Elon (Chief) Hogsett, who pitched for them a decade ago, will try out for a pitching berth. The chief, a southpaw, was with Minneapolis recently.

Lafayette, Ind. — Outfielder Roy Cullenbine signed Cleveland contract, the 21st Indian to sign.

Herb Cain Ties Record For Points

MONTREAL, March 14 (CP) — The National Hockey League made it official today that Boston's Herbie Cain has tied the league's point record with 73 so far this season, but whether the feat is going to be enough to give the Boston forward the league title this season remains to be seen.

Cain has 36 goals and 36 assists in the weekly official figures released today, but he's still hard-pressed by Lorne Carr of Toronto and Chicago's Doug Bentley, with 70 each. The way Bentley, particularly, has been going of late, it looks as though Cain will have to set a new record to be sure of staving off the threat from second place.

The record of 73 was established by Ralph "Cooney" Weiland of Boston when he ran up 43 goals and 30 assists in the 1929-30 season.

Bentley seems to have the best chance of overhauling Cain, if any overhauling is to be done. Carr has only one more game to play while Cain has three and Bentley four. Right behind the second-placers, and far from out of the race yet, are Elmer Lach of Canadiens, with 68, and Carl Liscombe of Detroit and Bill Mosienko and Clint Smith of Chicago, all with 67 points.

The goal scoring column is snarled worse than that. Cain, Carr and Bentley are tied for top spot with 35 each, and Mud Bruneteau of Detroit is right behind with 34, three up on teammate Carl Liscombe.

The assist race is almost as close. Lach is out front with 46, a new league record, but Smith is right behind with 45, tied with the old mark set by Bill Cowley of Boston in 1940-41.

Harold Jackson of Detroit leads the penalty parade with 76 minutes in majors and minors, two more than Mike McMahon of Canadiens.

Whizzers Upset Junior Finals

By The Canadian Press.

Hamilton Whizzers last night upset calculations in the Junior "A" playoffs of the Ontario Hockey Association by turning back Toronto St. Michael's College in the return game of the semi-finals at Hamilton by sweeping through the Collegians 8-2.

The series thus became deadlocked 1-1. The students took the first encounter 5-2 at Toronto. The necessary third match is scheduled for Wednesday night at Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens.

Previous conquerors of Brantford and Toronto Navy, Whizzers whizzed to a 4-0 lead in the first period, added another in the second and made it 6-0 early in the third stanza before St. Mike's found the target for the first.

Scorers for Hamilton were Jackson, Sclisizzi and Tomiuk, with two apiece, and Dewsbury and Tindal, one each. The two marksmen for Toronto were Angus Mortson and Jim Thomson.

Frood Miners Ready To Clip Hamilton

SUDBURY, March 14.— (CP).— Confidence reigned supreme in the Frood Open Pit hockey team camp to-day as arrangements were completed to leave to-night for Hamilton where they clash with Hamilton Majors Wednesday night in the first game of the best-of-five all-Ontario senior final.

Coach Frank Graham said the first game with Hamilton "will give us a good insight into what we are up against in the whole series, and if we win the first we will know that we are in for the Allan Cup."

The Pitmen won the Northern Ontario Hockey Association championship by eliminating Porcupine All-Stars four games to one. Hamilton entered the final by ousting St. Catharines Saints 4-1 in the other best-of-seven series.

Fourteen players, including two former National Hockey League players—Reg. (Pep) Kelly, one-time Toronto Maple Leaf star and Alex Singbush, defenceman from Montreal Canadiens — will make the southern trip. They will be accompanied by Graham and trainer Al Keller.

More than three-quarters of the team played here last year under the name of Frood Tigers, the team that went down to defeat at the hands of Toronto R.C.A.F.

Among outstanding members is goalie Morris Gorth, netminder last year with Frood Tigers, who started his hockey in Stratford.

OTTAWA, March 14 — (CP). — Cornwall Chemicals bowed out of the Ottawa and District Hockey Association intermediate playoffs last night when they dropped a 10-5 decision to Hull Volants in the second game of a two-game, total-goals semi-final series. Hull won the opener 5-3, thus taking the round 15-8.

Volants now meet the Westport Greenshirts for the O.D.H.A. title, and the first game of a best-of-three series will be played in Smiths Falls, Ont., on Wednesday.

Volants last night showed too much strength in all departments for the Cornwall team. For two periods Chemicals kept pace with them, were down only one goal at the end of the second session. But in the third frame Volants ran away scoring six goals to the two notched by Cornwall.

Hull scorers were Jack Moussette (three), Oscar Carriere (two), Larry Larocque, Gene Sauvageau, Gaston Leger, and Edgar Laframboinse, each of whom scored one goal-apiece.

Doug Webster, with two goals, led the Cornwall attack and Woody Degray, Edgar Wiron, and Ray Miron counted singles.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, March 14 — (CP).— Importance of Canada's new National Physical Fitness Act has been obscured by the war, but its effects are likely to touch all the Dominion's citizens if it is developed as planned.

Main objects of the National Council on Physical Fitness organized under Maj. Ian Eisenhardt as national director, are to develop all activities relating to physical development of the people through sports and athletics, to organize and provide facilities for such activities and to train instructors in the principles of physical education.

Maj. Eisenhardt makes this revealing statement: "The physical fitness of the North American people is away below that of the people of Europe. This is due to the fact that the sports and program of our continent is designed to create champions and not to improve the general standard of health of the average citizen."

Truth of this statement was demonstrated partly by the Canadian armed forces sports policy until the past few months. For a couple of years the services had followed the common Canadian practice, concentrating their sports talents in a few outstanding hockey, football, and basketball teams with the idea of providing entertainment. Now this policy has been changed to develop sports for all with the idea participation provides more entertainment than a spectator's role.

The National Fitness plan is for sports suitable for young and old. Maj. Eisenhardt is a trifle lyrical but sound in his ideas: "We shall have music and song, hikes and games. Our national parks shall be turned into peoples' playgrounds, our mountains shall be scaled by our youth. Our rivers shall carry thousands of canoes, our forests shall echo from the hundreds of thousands of wanderers touring Canada spreading goodwill and building unit...."

Incidentally:

Not to be outdone by the raves from Montreal, Jack Adams of Detroit says Bill Durnan of Canadiens compares favorably with the most famous of all goalkeepers, Georges Vezina....Tommy Fry, Winnipeg curler now with the Canadian Army overseas, skipped a rink through the Ayr, Scotland, bonspiel without defeat this winter.....The Red Cross will receive proceeds from a March 16-17 series in Vancouver for the Pacific Coast service hockey title. All-star Pacific Command Army and R.C.A.F. teams will meet.

Kingston Juniors Defeat Markham

MARKHAM, March 14.—(CP). — Goals by Moore and Fowler late in the third period gave Kingston Vics a 6-4 victory over Markham here last night and advanced them into an O.H.A. Junior "B" semi-final series by a round score of 17-10. Kingston now meets Barrie Colts, dates to be decided.

Markham gave the packed rink a fighting display before bowing. They led into the first half of the second period and when Kingston forged ahead had enough fight to come back and tie the score at 4-4 at 11.06 of the final frame.

Fowler got three goals for Kingston, while Gibson accounted for two for Markham.

Yankee Doodle Dandy Is Chosen As Best Box Office Picture

TORONTO, March 14—"Yankee Doodle Dandy," Warner Brothers musical version of the life of the late George M. Cohan, was the choice of Canadian motion picture theatre operators as the film which attracted the most patrons to their theatres during 1943, according to the annual poll of the Canadian Film Weekly.

The theatre men were asked to name the 10 best boxoffice attractions shown during the year, as well as the stars most popular.

Critics, asked to name the ten best pictures and stars in their opinion, picked Noel Coward's great great story of the British Navy, "In which We Serve," which was released by United Artists.

The difference of opinion between theatre men and radio and newspaper critics reflects the old quarrel between artistry and public appeal.

The choices in both polls reveals that films of an escapist nature, whether musical or dramatic, are more popular than war subjects. A number of ties in every department of selection increased the number of films to be rated.

Following are the complete selections in each case:

Theatre Poll of 10 Best Boxoffice Pictures

(1) Yankee Doodle Dandy, (2) Random Harvest, (3) My Friend Flicka, (4) Casablanca, (5) Coney Island, (6) Hello, Frisco, Hello, (7—Tie) Stage Door Canteen and This is The Army, (9—Tie) In Which We Serve and Hitler's Children.

Theatre Poll of 10 Best Film Stars

(1) Greer Garson (2) Betty Grable, (3—Tie) Bob Hope, Humphrey Bogart, (4) James Cagney, (5—Tie) Bette Davis, Walter Pidgeon, Mickey Rooney, (6—Tie) Bing Crosby, Abbot & Costello.

Critics Poll of 10 Best Motion Pictures

(1) In Which We Serve, (2) Random Harvest, (3) The More the Merrier, (4) This is the Army, (5) Yankee Doodle Dandy, (6—Tie) Stage Door Canteen, Shadow of a Doubt, Human Comedy, Heaven Can Wait, (7—Tie) Claudia, Holy Matrimony, Mission to Moscow, Ox-Bow Incident.

Critics' Poll of 10 Best Film Stars

(1) Greer Garson, (2—Tie) James Cagney, Jean Arthur, Ingrid Bergman, Charles Coburn, Humphrey Bogart, (3—Tie) Cary Grant, Teresa Wright, Margaret O'Brien, Roddy McDowell, Ronald Colman.

It is interesting to note that the theatre choice of the best film, "Yankee Doodle Dandy," was fifth choice of the critics. The critics' choice, "In Which We Serve," was almost last, according to theatre men, as an attraction. Greer Garson, however, was the mutual choice as the best star.

Game Tuesday Vital To Bruins

By the Canadian Press

Any last lingering hopes that Boston might have about squeezing into the National Hockey League play-offs may be squelched tonight, but there is still some consolation left for the Bruins.

Even if they don't make the play-offs—and their chances are so slim as to be almost non-existent right now — they have accounted for three-fifths of the losses suffered by Montreal Canadiens to date, and that is something no other team can equal before the schedule ends next Sunday night.

The Bruins hung up their third win of the season over the Canucks Sunday night, and it was more than just a win that kept their play-off hopes alive that much longer. In addition, it snapped a 10-game winning streak of the Montrealers, and so ruined Canadiens' chances of beating Bruins own record of 14 straight wins.

All of which might be some consolation to the Boston boys when they tangle with Chicago Black Hawks at Boston tonight, in the only game of the night. A loss or a draw will wipe out their last chance of gaining the play-offs. Only a win can keep that flickering hope alive.

For the Hawks, a win would not only make a play-off berth positive but would lift them a point ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs into third spot.

Defaulting Debt Decreases Over Ontario

TORONTO, March 14—(CP)—A report issued by Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar at Queen's Park to-day showed that the total debt of $109,984,029 for 31 defaulting Ontario municipalities when they were placed under supervision in 1935 had been cut to $2,389,998 as at December, 1943. A total of $96,521,054 was refunded on a permanent basis and $10,772977 on a temporary basis during that time.

The annual report of municipal statistics for the year of 1942, showed the assessed population of all municipalities in Ontario reached 3,544,851 in 1942, an increase of 35,510 or slightly in excess of one per cent over 1941.

During 1942 assessed valuation increased .92 per cent to $3,013,660,000. Tax levies for the year decreased by $1,979,000 to $110,227,000 or 1.76 per cent. below the 1941 figure. Included in these levies, however, were levies for education which exceeded those for 1941 by $568,000 so that levies other than for education were reduced by $1,411,000.

Tax collections totalled $115,284,000, representing 104.6 per cent. of the current levy of which 90.0 per cent was of current taxes and 13.6 per cent arrears. This compared with $119,016,000 in 1941 or 88.9 per cent current and 17.3 per cent arrears collections.

At the end of 1942 gross debenture debt was $305,420,000 or $86.16 per capita, a reducton of $29,980,000 and $9.41 respectively from 1941.

Beer Change

John Labatt Ltd. Brewery at London, Ont., said the lifting of restrictions on sales would have "very little" effect, if any, on production at his brewery.

D. C. Betts, president of Canadian Breweries Limited, said the government's action will not make an unlimited supply of beer available to the public immediately. A great deal of organization would be needed to provide larger quantities.

National Selective Service officials said they felt that if the breweries wished to increase their production now "it will be a mechanical rather than a physical question." If the breweries have the equipment they can increase their production without any great increase in manpower.

Puts Onus On Province

Mr. King said the restrictions were lifted to remove a possible source of friction between the provinces and the Federal Government.

He said the Ontario Liquor Control Board had posted notices in beverage rooms which attempted to have the Federal Government held responsible for a 25 per cent decrease in the amount of beer allotted them.

In the Alberta legislature Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, Mr. King said, was reported to have stated that some of the eastern provinces were warned that the liquor restrictions were to be imposed and that the Dominion Government had "fixed the base year to give the greatest advantage to Quebec."

Mr. King said such statements were "without foundation."

However, with the removal of Federal restrictions on the amount of beer available to the provinces for sale within their boundaries, the following Federal wartime restrictions still remain in force:—

1. Sales of wine are restricted to 80 per cent of sales during the year ended Oct. 31, 1942, and sales of spirits to 70 per cent of those during the same period.
2. Alcoholic content of all distilled spirits remains reduced to not greater than 30 per cent underproof.
3. Fortification of wine with distilled spirits is prohibited.
4. Provincial governments are asked to restrict hours of sale to at most eight hours per day.
5. All liquor advertising is prohibited for the duration of the war.

the Active Service Election Act for the Haldimand-Norfolk by-election occasioned by the death of Government member-elect W. W. Walsh.

The Premier said he was surprised Mr. Nixon had brought the matter up, although he himself condemned the act as much as ever.

Taking the overseas vote in a by-election had never been considered feasible because of the cost and other factors. He did not see what more right soldiers in Canada—but outside of the riding concerned—had as compared with those overseas.

He added he had taken the matter up with the Minister of National Defence and the Dominion had under consideration a plan to cover the service vote. However, until this plan was known, little could be done because any such measure would have to have the approval of the Federal Government which had control of the services.

Mr. Nixon, premier during the provincial election last August said he appreciated the difficulties of the Proxy system but did not appreciate "the Prime Minister's personel reference as it was my duty to carry out the act as it existed." He had merely been referring he said, to servicemen at camps within the riding.

Opposition leader Jolliffe said he knew it was desirable to establish machinery suitable to the Dominion. However, he feared there would be too little time to set up a new act now to be effective in the Haldimand-Norfolk by-election.

J. B. Salzberg (LP-Toronto St. Andrew) gave notice of action yesterday of a resolution he will put before the Legislature asking that the standing committee on labour be authorized to conduct a public enquiry into the minimum wage rates now being paid to workers in Ontario.

Farmers Told To Plan Bacon Future

Denmark will no doubt come back into the British bacon trade, after the war, said D. M. Johnson of the Canadian National Railway's department of colonization and agriculture, in a talk to a group of Peterborough farmers in the Co-Op Hall Monday afternoon.

Mr. Johnson estimated that perhaps fifty per cent of the sows still remained in Denmark, but Sweden produced the same type of pig, and some of the Danish restocking might be drawn from that country.

"I cannot tel you what is going to happen to the bacon business after the war. Prices are now high in this country, and I think it is up to our farmers to give thought now to lower costs to land our product over there at a price at which the people over there can buy our bacon."

Canadian Product Unknown

Although Canada is supplying 80 per cent of Britain's bacon during these war years, and the people are exceedingly grateful for all the help they receive. Mr. Johnson told the farmers that Canadian bacon is not known to the British housewife. She is permitted to buy at a designated shop, she goes there only, and simply knows that she is getting bacon.

"Our bacon was not known over there before the war. One fault lies with ourselves. We have been in-and-outers in that market. We have got to be there every day until the people get used to our product. Of course we are quite a long distance from the British market, as compared with the Danes. They can load at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and reaches England by 4.30 p.m. the following day. From the time of unloading, the Danish goods reach London in about three hours. Their bacon is shipped as green sides and is smoked in London.

Mr. Johnson complimented the farmers of this district on the fine quality of their hogs, and in meeting size requirements. For the future he advised that something be done to advertise Canadian bacon and its farm products generally. The Cheddar cheese shipped from Canada had an established place in the British market. but New Zealand's butter and the beef from the Argentine also held strong positions.

Plan for Future

Special attention, he suggested, should be given to the future of the bacon trade with Britain, and the time to begin thinking about it and preparing to do something about it was in the present. He remarked as in parenthesis that since his return to Canada he had heard much talk about selling to the people of Britain, "but I don't hear much about what we are going to buy from the other fellow."

"Personally, I don't think there will be much sympathy or sentiment in world trade," Mr. Johnson said, although he expected that there would be some effort for the nations to draw more closely together than in the past.

W.A. Davidson was chairman of the meeting, which closed with a series of questions from the audience. Milton Clark moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Thompson.

Closing of the border as a security measure was regarded as almost certain in Britain and Northern Ireland and it was said repeatedly in Belfast that only in this way could the suspension be made really effective against German agents in Eire. The Eire Government has refused a United States request that the Japanese and German Legations in Eire be closed.

Suspension of cross-border communications would affect about 1,250,000 yearly trips, the Dublin dispatch estimated, while the British-Irish travel ban involves about 300,000 trips.

The dispatch said that although there was no likelihood of a stoppage of supplies to Eire, the Allies' needs for their invasion army might result in a sharp curtailment of gasoline, coal, wheat, sugar, newsprint, and other shipments.

Finland Waits Reply From Russians

By EDWIN SHANKE
Associated Press Staff Writer.

HELSINKI, Finland, March 14—(AP). — Finland waited patiently yesterday for Russia's answer to what was described here as a Finnish request for an opportunity to negotiate armistice terms.

This was the fourth anniversary of peace in the 1939-1940 winter war.

Almost a week has passed since the Finnish note was sent to Russia. A reply is expected "almost momentarily," a Foreign Office spokesman said. The longer Russia delays its response, the calmer the Finns appear to grow because they feel it is a "good sign," this spokesman said.

Externally, however, Helsinki looks warlike and depressing. The casual observer could hardly realize that Finland is passing through a peace crisis.

The people are grim and determined. There is no gaiety. Restaurant life, which is one of the few ways the Finns have to find relaxation and enjoyment, has been dampened further by a law forbidding the serving of spirits after 8:30 p.m.

One sees few happy smiles as one passes down the bomb-battered streets.

It is estimated that a third of the city's 300,000 population—mainly women, children and the aged have evacuated to the countryside. There was no sterner warning that this war is costing Finland heavily than a wagon load of new, wooden caskets moving slowly down Mannerheim Avenue.

You see a sprinkling of German soldiers on the downtown streets.

Except for the street activity, one could almost term Helsinki a ghost city.

A high percentage of windows in street after street have been boarded shut. Many of the boards hide ruined, burned-out interiors. Behind others, business goes on as usual, but the shelves are even emptier than they were when I was here a year ago.

Civil War Veteran Dies At Age 99

SARNIA, March 14—(CP)—Funeral services will be held here Wednesday for James Rooney, 99-year-old U.S. Civil War Veteran, who died in General Hospital Sunday.

Born in Toronto Rooney came to this district in 1854 and at 17 he enlisted as a private in a New York cavalry unit and took part in some historic battles, including Gettysburg.

After the war he returned to this district and farmed until 1911, when he retired and came to Sarnia.

Official notification of his wounding, which was slight and entailed only a short stay in hospital, was delayed until Monday, although his mother received word on February 18. A letter from her son later informed the family that he was out and well again, though Pte. Summers made no reference to the nature of his injury.

Joining up in October, 1942, after reaching his 18th birthday, Ronald Summers trained for three months at the local military training centre before going on to Halifax. There, attached to the Royal Canadian Artillery, he stayed for eight months until a call was issued for volunteers for the special paratroop unit then being formed. Crossing into the States for a brief period of training, he sailed for overseas in October last year with the special force.

Pte. Summers' father, a member of the Veterans' Guard of Canada now stationed at Quebec, has been in service in Canada almost since the beginning of the war, having enlisted four years ago. The boy is an only son.

Report Urges City To Have Second Fire Hall

Comments in what appears to be a notably thorough and exhaustive report on Peterborough's fire protection, as prepared for the Canadian Underwriters' Association and signed by C. W. Graham, C.U.A., are quqoted from the copy shown to the Examiner by Alderman Sullivan, chairman of the fire and light committee.

The inspection was made last October, and on one alarm test Chief Gimblett's men could hardly have arrived more rapidly unless they were swept along one some magic carpet.

"Gave alarm from box No. 112 on Hunter street, near the bridge about 2,500 feet from the fire hall, at 11:56. An automobile fire engine arrived at 11:57½, followed immediately by a motor hose and chemical truck. The ladder truck arrived at 11:57¾, and water thrown through one line of 250 feet at 11:58¼, at which time the Chief arrived in his automobile. Normal pressure was 70 pounds; nine of the brigade responded to the box and nine reported at the fire hall."

"Pressures generally fair. Hydrant spacing in the business section good, but more hydrants are required in some residential and outlying sections."

Need Another Hall

"Brigade of 25 men, fully paid, 2-platoon system. The department is considerably under strength. An additional ladder company required. The city is protected from one fire hall; another hall is required in the southern or factory section, and one is also advisable in Ashburnham.

The business section is fairly free from frame structures both on street fronts and in block interiors. Undivided areas are in general not unusually large; streets are of good width, and access to block interiors is good. Residential sections present no unusual features. The hazard in the city is modified by a reliable waterworks system and by a fire department which, though decidedly under strength, is well trained.

In a city of this size two ladder companies are advisable. The erection of auxiliary fire halls has been recommended in former reports. The city is too large to be protected adequately from one hall.

To man the appliances now in commission requires not less than 27 men on duty. The strength of the department would have to be further increased if the additional ladder company were formed."

Alderman Sullivan said the report seemed to him to be commendatory, the only criticism was directed at the need of increased facilities such as an additional fire hall and additional men. The reference to the chief and his staff showed that in their test they demonstrated alertness and speed in getting to the place to which they were called.

Last Of Stewarts Dies In New York

Last surviving member of the family of the late Richard Stewart of the Stewart's Hall neighborhood in Otonabee, Mrs. Charles Parker died two weeks ago at Macedon, N.Y., where she was buried.

The old homestead of the Stewart family is now occupied by Gordon Savigny.

Before her marriage some fifty years ago, Mrs. Parker was Cassie Stewart, and is remembered by some of the elders of the community. The family of Mr. and Mrs. Ricahrd Stewart is continuing in nephews and nieces of Mrs. Parker in the Stewart Moncrieff, Savigny, Tate and Deyell families of Otonabee.

Stewart's Hall has long been one of the local centres in the western section of Otonabee township. It has been a place of community gathering and the centralizing of neighborhood interests and effort, and the name has been familiar throughout Peterborough county.

Man Is Fined $15 For Starving Horse

George Kelly, operator of a wood camp at Haultain in Burleigh township, was convicted by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court Monday on a charge of having failed to provide adequate shelter and food for a horse.

Magistrate Langley fined the accused $15 and $10.45 costs, with the alternative of fifteen days' imprisonment in the county jail.

Kelly was defended by W. C. Grant. Hearing of the Crown's evidence took most of the morning and the defence then called a couple of witnesses.

Mr. Grant argued that the Crown's case had not been proven beyond a reasonable doubt but Magistrate Langley said that on all the evidence he was satisfied that a conviction should be registered against the accused.

Furriers Not Able To Guess At Prices

Future policy in the United States regarding the establishment of maximum price limits will have a definite bearing on what Canadian retail furriers will obtain for their various skins in coming months. With regulations unsettled at present and prices getting too high and almost out of control, since the ceiling once imposed didn't "take effect," Canadian dealers are faced with a wait-and-see proposition whose end cannot clearly be foretold.

"Raw skin dealers, manufacturers and the Federal Government are passing the buck back and forth and what will come of it we don't know," Keith Lech, secretary-treasurer of Wm. Lech & Sons said today. "The eventual decision is of real importance to the Canadian branch of the trade, because it will have a strong bearing on our own price structure, the United States now being the biggest fur-trading country in the world and New York City headquarters for Hudson's Bay Company sales."

Prices, meanwhile, are holding very firm on all types of skins and in some instances advances of from 50 to 200 per cent have been recorded since last fall. Prospects for prices on muskrat skins, Mr. Lech said, are "pretty good, certainly as high as last year and possibly higher." But until the streams and marshes are open and trappers can get to work definite prices to be paid this year will not be known.

Fortnight Club Helps Fund By 4th Donation

The word "Fortnight" is not one of the most frequent terms used in the vocabulary of the average Canadian, and could more nearly be termed as genuinely British, for it has a very wide use in the British Isles when one wishes to refer to the period of two weeks or the fourteen nights covered in that duration of time.

Going back for a long period of time, a group of men have been meeting every second week during the autumn and winter months for the giving of papers by their members, each in turn taking in general a timely topic of the day, which could perhaps be likened to a course of educational lectures of benefit to all.

From out of this grew the name of "Fortnightly Club" by which they are identified, and being a group that is very much minded as to the course of events in their day, they have, towards the close of their regular schedule of meetings, for the past four seasons, remembered the need that air raids over Britain has precipitated among many of the sufferers from this type of warfare, by uniting as a group to take their part in the local and district fund.

Today a further gift of $10 appears in their name to mark the fourth successive year that a contribution has been received from them to assist the objects the fund seeks to serve.

Keene School Helps

The neighboring township of Otonabee, and particularly its school children have appeared quite often in this column with help for the fund. Another of these good assists comes in today's list from School Section No. 4, located at Keene, where the junior class have contributed a further $2 on behalf of the war effort.

A nice personal gift of $6 is also recorded as coming from Miss Helen Parkinson who has helped on former occasions, and since it all consisted of dimes, there was evident careful preparation to make the gift possible.

St. Patrick's Dance Friday

One of the big events of this current week will be a St. Patrick's Day dance to be held in the Legion Hall, Murray street, Friday, March 17, which will be sponsored by the management and staff of the C.D.S. Stores to once again help the fund along. Dress is informal.

Special Irish and novelty features under the direction of Marion Perry Laird are to be included in the progam, while the music will be supplied by Jack Marshall's orchestra. There will be a half hour radio broadcast from 11 to 11.30 p.m.

His Worship Mayor Hamilton will also be in attendance to make the draw for the cedar chest and contents for which tickets have been on sale for some time, the proceeds of which are also for the fund. Tickets for the dance itself at $1.50 per couple may be secured from any member of the staff or at the store itself.

Choral Program Presented By City Choirs

By Jean Stanton

One hundred and twenty - five voices gave all they had Monday night in one of the best choir performances to be presented in Peterborough. Members of three city choirs sang an intricate sacred program in which diction and dramatic interpretation played leading parts. The concert was given in aid of the British War Victims and the Milk for Britain Funds clearing $166.

The three choirs were from Mark Street and Murray Street Churches and the Salvation Army Temple, and were directed by leaders of all three

The most colorful mass effort was "By Babylon's Wave," by Gounod. The story, based on Psalm 137, depicted the Jewish people enslaved in Babylon, reliving the memories of peaceful days before their country was pillaged and their capital city, Jerusalem, burned.

Under the direction of Stanley Northrop, whose definite conducting brought the number to its peak, the choirs began softly with the homestricken cry of captives far from their own land. Under the surface of their captivity, the flame of faith in Zion still burns, and suddenly flares forth in triumphant praise of days gone by. A softened appeal for comfort follows, then a wild agonized cry, torn from their throats as they realize what they have lost. The climax of the number is reached when the captives hurl a warning of the vengeance which will befall the proud city of Babylon. Their remorselessly growing cry of "Woe Unto Thee," opens a vision into the future.

It was evident each member of the choir had been imbued with the message which the song was meant to convey and skilful leadership developed it in its full scope. The soft passage of appeal and memory were done smoothly and effortlessly and the sudden passionate denunciation rose in intensity, with a steady reserve of power being let out gradually.

Messiah Number

Under the directon of Bandmaster R. G. Routly, the choirs showed a different technique in the handling of the famous "Worthy Is The Lamb," from Handel's Messiah. This hymn of exaltation which depicted in a triumphant rejoicing strain, in which the tenors, badly outnumbered, came in to their own. Although the constant repitition robs it of the same dramatic quality of "By Babylon's Wave," it is a difficult number and depends on the smooth coordination of all sections under a conductor who knows how to develop his theme.

The third number which showed the large group off to advantage, was the closing, "God Save The King," directed by Harry Northrop. The three verses each were sung with a different thought. The first, sung by the sopranos, was a soft prayer for the land. Mr. Northrop, led them smoothly into a cry to God, calling down upon His wrath upon our enemies and sweeping on with ever growing power to a majestic conclusion, with the joyful prayer that the King may always be led on the right path. The exact diction, which the director demanded made the number more effective as the choir cut off their endings sharply.

Songster Leader A. B. Smith conducted for the two opening numbers, "Creation's Hymn," by Beethoven and "God Is A Spirit," by Bennett. These two songs, were simpler and lacked the complicated touches of some of the others. Mr. Smith did a fine job of directing, and got them off to a good start. In "Creations Hymn," part of the diction was not too clear.

Solos and group selections, added variety to the program. The Temple Band under the direction of Mr. Routley, played "Invocation," from "Pilgrim Way" suite by Ball. It was a prayer, and after a quiet opening, supplicating pleas were played with intensity, drawing out power gradually and toning it down gently. Their expression was good, with no lumpy spots.

Mrs. Dorothy Goldie, turned in one of the best performances of her career when she sang "I Will Extol Thee O Lord," from the Oratorio "Eli." Her breath control was particularly noticeable and the smooth way she handled the long, sustained running passages was excellent. She sang easily and

Durham's Seed Team Wins For 14th Year

The Quinte District Seed Growers' Association held a special seed meeting in the Municipal Buildings, Belleville on Saturday, with more than one hundred farmers present. This meeting was substituted for the regular seed fair which was cancelled owing to the grain crop failure in this district during 1943. The speakers were R. E. Goodin, Crops, Seeds, and Weeds Branch, Toronto, who spoke on Potato Production; Robert Keegan, O.A.C., Guelph, dealt with seed grain production and varieties; while Dr. O. Ripley, Experimental Farms, Ottawa, used slides to give a very timely talk on pastures mixtures.

One of the most pleasing features was the Junior Farmers' Seed Judging Competition with 35 boys from Hastings, Prince Edward, Northumberland, Lennox and Addington, and Durham Counties. Each county was entitled to enter 10 boys with the three high scoring boys from each to be the County team.

The Durham County boys won the Wardens' Trophy for the fourteenth consecutive year with Hastings second, and Prince Edward County, third. The Durham boys were from Cartwright, Darlington, and Clarke townships and were coached on two or three occasions by the Agricultural Representative, E. A. Summers. The team members were Ralph Larmer, Nestleton; John Green, Nestleton; and Francis Jose, Newcastle.

The first 20 boys received cash prizes and the high boy in each class and the team winners each were eligible for a suitable cash prize. The winning team members were not eligible for the cash prizes in the classes as an equal amount had already been awarded. The total score was 625 points.

Standing of the first 20 and all Durham boys:

1. Ralph Larmer, Durham, 587; 2. John Green, Durham, 565; 3. Francis Jose, Durham, 550; 4. Bruce Taylor, Durham, 545; 5. Geo. Reid, Hastings, 535; 6. Dalton Dorrell, Durham, 532; 7. Arnold Foster, Hastings, 526; 8. Ernest Swain, Durham, 523; 9. Geo. McAlpine, Hastings, 520; 10, Ted Standish, Durham, 518; Bert Hidgins, Lennox and Addington, 518; Ed. Hinze, Hastings, 518; 13. HEATHER. — In loving memory of our dear daughter, Eva Jane Nesbitt Heather, who passed away March 14, 1936.

Time speeds on, eight years have passed,
Since death its gloom, its shadows cast;
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light, and ever will,
Her vacant place there is none can fill;
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in heaven we will meet again.

—Ever remembered by Mother, Father, and daughter Myrtle.

Choral Program

her higher notes, with small exception, were taken effortlessly. As always, her clear cut diction, was a feature of her technique. Her second number "Sheep and Lambs," by Homer, a quiet spring song, provided a pleasant contrast.

The Salvation Army Xylophone party made up of Mrs. Ken Bolam, Mrs. Ron Routly, Mrs. Ben Smith and Miss Ruth Smith, turned in a good performance. Their numbers were secular, "Happy, Glad and Free" and "Excerpts from Cavalleria Rusticana." The latter was the best of the two, showing smoother coordination between the players and increased tonal beauty. They also played Gounod's "Flower Song."

Other artists were Stanley and Harry Northrop who pjlayed two duets, "March of the Toys," by V. Herbert, and the Spanish favorite, 'Malaguena" by Lecuona. The duo rippled through their numbers with good fingering, light touch, and interesting interpretations.

Bandsman Alf Mills played a euphonium solo, "A Happy Pilgrim," accompanied by the Band in a soft background. He handled the swift, tricky passages with ease, and a deft sureness.

Other numbers presented by the choirs were "Lift Up Your Heads O Ye Gates" from the Messiah, where the tenor section proved weak; and "Onward and Upward" showing excellent shading; The Band at all times remained toned down to the needs of the singers. Some numbers were accompanied by the piano and organ, played by Mrs. Ben Smith, Harry Northrop and Mrs. R. G. Routly, respectively.

The program was opened by Major John Wood, who introduced the chairman, D. G. H. Melton. Mr. Melton stressed the importance of the two funds for which the concert was held, and also touched on the rehabilitation work which is being planned.

Volleyball Loop Has Close Finish

The final games in the Lillico Trophy Volleyball League at the Y.M.C.A. left the top four teams bunched together in a most unusual fashion. George Scott's team in a grim effort to keep in fourth position and therefore in the playoffs surprised themselves and the spectators by winning all three games from Eric Vincent's team which had been in front nearly all the way. This left these teams tied with 17 wins and 13 losses each. In the Hardill-Dryland tussle, Dryland's team took two out of three and finished the league in first position by half a game in front of Hardill. Dryland's team having played one game less than the other leaders as a result of a sensationally long battle with El. Jones' team recently in which time was called before the end of the second game. Stanbury won three from Jones to complete the schedule.

Playoffs will take place on Saturday afternoons, March 25 and April 1. The four top teams have qualified. The final standing:

	Won	Lost	Pts.
Dryland	18	11	36
Hardill	18	12	36
Vincent	17	13	34
Scott	17	13	34
Stanbury	14	16	28
Jones	5	24	10

By JEAN STENTON

The famed cruiser Penelope, known as H.M.S. Pepperpot after she was scarred by 2,000 shell fragment holes at the Battle of Malta, was sunk off the Anzio beachhead recently. This naval ship was well equipped to operate as a veteran Mediterranean boat, because from the time of her commissioning in 1936 until 1939, she ran what amounted to a jitney service between Malta and the Spanish coast, becoming well acquainted with weather vagaries and coastlines.

The "Pepperpot" had several predecessors which sailed under the name of Penelope. The first was built in 1591 and it was one of the first ships to undertake the trip from England to India. After passing the Cape of Good Hope, it was never seen again. A second one appeared in 1667, operating as a privateer against the Dutch.

It was a Penelope which took part in the original Battle of Malta in 1800. It helped defeat two of Napoleon's great battleships, and in 1809 was present at the capture of Martinique. While serving in the St. Lawrence as a troopship in April, 1815, the Penelope was wrecked. Another became flagship of Rear-Admiral A. P. Ryder in the Channel Squadron in 1868, and later helped bombard Alexandria. The last one before the modern Penelope, was built in 1912 and completed in 1914. It supported a raid on the Zeppelin sheds at Hoyer, was torpedoed, but made port. She was broken up in 1924.

Built in Ireland.

The ship of recent Malta fame was built in Belfast and the keel was laid down by H.R.H. the Duke of Gloucester in February, 1934. It was launched in October, 1935. The main armament had six 6-inch guns in turret mountings, A.A. armament consisted of eight 4-inch guns in twin A.A. mountings, and two multiple machine-gun mountings, and torpedo armament, six 2-inch torpedo tubes in triple mountings. When it was commissioned Penelope had a complement of 28 officers and 468 men.

One of the biggest aids in furthering team spirit aboard ship were the athletic contests sponsored between the personnel of naval ships. In a try for the billiards Hunt Cup trophy, Penelope defeated Sussex and Repulse, but was beaten by Warspite. In addition they had boxing, cricket, fencing, football, hockey, regattas, rifle and pistol shooting, and rugby. Sailing whiled away many hours of boredom off the Spanish coast, when the crew held their own races. It is reported that the crew had only one opportunity to show the Fleet how to sail, and that was at Alexandria, after the crisis of September, 1938. It became a wonder how some of the regular helmsmen had the nerve to go on collecting money, according to their mates. They weren't certain whether the gunnery officer and the captain of the quarter deck had invested in a castle at home, or were laying the keel of a new challenger. They got the winning gun almost daily and often second place, too.

Helped Refugees.

In the three years Penelope operated off Spanish coastal waters, they picked up many refugees and transported them to Marseille. They had children, babies, hysterical women and invalids. On another occasion they picked up survivors after a big Spanish naval engagement.

The ship was ordered to Haifa in September, 1938, to relieve the Malaya. The object was to land platoons to keep the town in order so more soldiers would be released for up country fighting. This was at the height of the Arab-Jewish disorders. One of the Penelope men made himself a reputation while on lonely sentry duty. He spotted a desperate Arab marauder, called out the guard, and a fierce struggle ensued. The next morning they found the cactus still there.

During her commissioning from 1936-1939, H.M.S. Penelope used 119,500 pounds of sugar, 10,567 dozen eggs, 2,200 tins of pineapple, 10,000 pounds of jam, 1,400 pounds of fruit salad, 40,000 pounds of butter, 15,000 pounds of tea, 15,000 pounds of preserved meat, 146,500 pounds of meat, and 108,000 tins of milk, to name a few.

PTE. JACK BENNETT who was formerly at Belleghem's, has been serving with the Irish Regiment of Canada in Italy for two months, as a reinforcement. He enlisted with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps and then transferred to the 48th Highlanders. After he got overseas, he was attached to the Irish Regiment.

It takes courage to go into battle, leading men into what may well be doom for all of them. CHUCK MERNEY, who is with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, has been overseas almost four years. His wife, who lives at 338 Stewart street, received a poem from him recently, written by MAJOR A. R. CAMPBELL of the H. and P.E. Regiment, shortly before he was killed in action December 26, 1943. Her husband wrote:

"They say he never knew what hit him. I was away on leave at the time. There were about 20 of the lads killed that day and I knew most of them. A lot of them were married and had children."

PRAYER BEFORE BATTLE

"When near the rumble of the guns,
I lead my men against the Huns,
It's then I feel alone and weak and scared;
And oft I wonder how I dared
Accept the task of leading men.

"I wonder, worry, fret and then—I pray
Oh God who promised oft
To humble men to lend an ear—
Now in my troubled state of mind
Draw near, O God, draw near, draw near.

"Make me more willing to obey
Help me to merit my commands,
And if this be my fatal day
Reach out, O God, Thy helping hand
And lead me down that deep, dark vale.

"These men of mine must never know
How much afraid I really am;
Help me to lead them in the fight,
So they will say—HE WAS A MAN."

Another Peterborough soldier had the honor of serving in the guard for King George and General Montgomery recently. He is PTE. W. E. Bartlett, son of E. Bartlett, Monaghan road, who is at present attached to the Cameron Highlanders.

"General Montgomery is just like his pictures and very good natured," he wrote. "The King looked older and worn, but he has the same ruddy complexion. It was a thrilling experience. There was no formality and I was one of the guards closest to the group. They were just like two other officers at home for a serious study of war."

Pte. Bartlett has been overseas since the S.D. and G. Highlanders went across in 1941.

Engineroom Artificer 5/c Edward Joseph Crowe, R.C.N.V.R., of Peterborough, has been promoted from stoker first class following graduation from the Royal Canadian Navy's Mechanical Training Establishment on the West coast. Crowe will continue his training at H.M.C. Dockyard, Esquimalt. He was employed as a grocer and soft drink salesman prior to his enlistment in the Navy in 1942. He received his education at St. Peter's High School and Peterborough Business College. ERA. Crowe is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Crowe, 550 Armour road, Peterborough.

RUTH GARDNER, Wireless Operator Ground, in the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F. was visiting in Peterborough last week, with Mrs. A. Nelson, 735 Water street. WOG. Gardner, had been doing volunteer nursing at a London Hospital and was also driver of an ambulance part time before she enlisted. She is now on shift at No. 4 A.O.S. London. The airwoman works in the control tower, sending out messages. She is much interested in hospital work and so in her spare time she is studying physio-therapy. She hopes eventually to take up that work.

The following letter has been received from 18 Platoon, No. 3 Company, 32 C.A.M.C. (B) T.C., expressing their gratitude to the people here for their kindness to them during their training.

To the People of Peterborough:

"We wish to take this opportunity to thank all of you, who in any way, have helped to make our short stay in your city more pleasant than it would ordinarily have been. We particularly wish to thank the members of the Salvation Army who serve so unstintingly at the Uptown Recreation Centre and the girls who act as hostesses there, also the girls' clubs of the Y.W.C.A. who have given us such excellent dances.

"Our homes are scattered all over the Dominion from coast to coast, and all of us heartily agree that the hospitality we have enjoyed here far excels anything we have known heretofore."

There is a good deal of time and thought put into entertainment for the men stationed at the Camp, and it is pleasant to know that the soldiers were grateful enough to take the trouble to acknowledge the kindness which has been shown them.

Penicillin Producers To Discuss Methods

WASHINGTON, March 14—(AP)—The War Production Board announced to-day it has asked major producers of penicillin in the United States and in Canada to meet here to-morrow to discuss possible agreements to exchange information about fermentation methods of producing penicillin.

Data from present producers indicates that supplies of penicillin would be adequate to meet all war needs, W. P. B. said, if all manufacturing could be brought up to the rate of the most efficient.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

GET A GRADUAL COUNT

ONE OF THE prettiest things in the game to watch is the precise work of an expert declarer who plays the cards gingerly to get an accurate count on a dangerous defender. As trick after trick goes by, his problem becomes clearer and clearer and so does its solution, until finally he has built the situation which enables him to make his questionable contract.

North: ♠ 6 2 ♥ K 10 8 7 ♦ 10 8 3 ♣ A K 10 5
West: ♠ J 9 8 4 3 ♥ 9 5 3 2 ♦ K 4 2 ♣ Q
East: ♠ 7 ♥ A J 6 ♦ Q 9 5 ♣ J 7 6 4 3 2
South: ♠ A K Q 10 5 ♥ Q 4 ♦ A J 7 6 ♣ 9 8

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♦	Pass	2 NT	Pass

"That bidding is not to be recommended," said J. Harlin O'Connell in a whisper to a kibitzer. But the star of New York's Union club was playing with a relatively inexperienced partner in the rubber game where he got this hand, and he was straining to become the declarer.

He read the heart 2 lead as a fourth-best, played low from dummy and his Q took East's J. Two high spades brought a club discard from East, making a gloomy situation look still worse. But he found his way out of the woods. He finessed the heart 8, which forced the A, played low when the diamond 5 was returned, West taking the K, then captured the diamond Q with his A when West returned the 2.

To get a count on West, he now led the club 9. When West played the Q, he read it as a singleton, giving him a count of five spades, four hearts, one club and therefore three diamonds. He took the club Q with dummy's A, cashed dummy's heart K and 10, discarding a club and a diamond, then led to the diamond J. With West and himself now holding only three trumps each, he led the spade 5 to the 8, and West had to come back to him from his J-9 into the Q-10 to give him the last two tricks and make the contract. It was a neat end-play based on accurate counting.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ 8 ♥ Q 10 5 ♦ A Q 10 9 7 6 ♣ 9 7 4
West: ♠ A J 7 6 5 2 ♥ J 6 ♦ K 5 3 2 ♣ 5
East: ♠ Q 10 9 4 3 ♥ 9 ♦ J 8 4 ♣ Q J 6 2
South: ♠ K ♥ A K 7 5 4 3 2 ♦ None ♣ A K 10 8 3

What is the soundest way to try for 6-Hearts on this deal after West takes the spade A and switches to the heart 6?

New Method Used To Curb Silicosis

LONDON, March 14 (CP)—Hundreds of miles of steel piping to carry water to the coal-face will be used in a new method of preventing silicosis and other lung diseases among the miners of South Wales.

The plan, result of extensive research, consists of the boring of holes into the coal-face in which water will be inserted by pneumatic pressure, so that the formation of dust, which causes the disease, is prevented at its source.

Officials of the Ministry of Fuel and Power expressed belief that if all in the industry gave their fullest co-operation it would be possible to rid the mines of the dust menace to health.

Steel for the pipes is to be arranged on equal priority with the most important war material. The government is watching developments in the experiments with a view to their extension to all coalfields.

The soldier was Spr. M.G. Thompson No. 1 C. I. R. U. Scout Thompson is now attached to the Canadian Army overseas Rover Crew and recently had the pleasure of visiting Lady Baden-Powell at Hampden Court. We would like to contact Scout Thompson's parents and would ask them to please phone 3067.

Reporters Staff

Another name has been added to the reporting staff of the Cubs and Scouts. We would ask every Pack and Troop to appoint some boy for this work. Byron Young is reporting for all Saints Pack. Bobby LeBar has been reporting for the Troop for some time and the absence of reports from the Troop is not any fault of his but due to a misunderstanding. Allan Payne is reporting for St. Luke's Troop.

St. John's

St. Luke's

The Cubs held only a short meeting last week, long enough to mark attendance, they then attended the lantern lecture of the Sunday School by post conducted by Miss Iris Sayles. The Slides shown depicted work carried out in the Western provinces and northern Ontario. It was an inspiring message to the Cubs of how the Gospel reaches children who live where no Church or Sunday School is available. Refreshments was served at the close of the lecture. Next Tuesday every Cub is requested to be present to learn about work for the Scout Craft Week.

The Scouts-Instruction in the Patrol corners was the main item of the evening followed by Morse Signalling. The game of "Hunt the Beaver" was played.

Two new members were welcomed in Gerald Ellis and Eldon Wildman and wish them Good Scouting.

Scout Craft Show

The date of the Craft Show has been settled. Permission has been given to hold in the Market Hall during the week of April 10 to 14. The first night will be tenderpad work, second night second class work and the final night first class work. No word has been received as to which Troops are putting over the various works but they have no doubt been officially notified.

Barrage Affects People In Various Ways

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 14—(CP)—The Jerries are back here again, just as the authorities have been saying they would be.

So far they haven't come back in numbers (or bomb tonnage) even approximating the blits of 1940-41 but they are numerous enough to make it uncomfortable for everybody, fatal for some and noisy for all.

But the civil defence authorities are organized as they have never been before and those emergency water tanks, built mostly after the big blitzes were through, are handy now.

It doesn't take much of a raid to make people safety conscious. In the second attempt by the Nazis to fire London in three days (the raid was Sunday, Feb. 20) subway stations were crowded as they haven't been since those 1940-41 days.

Still, on buses taking the folks to work next day there were a lot of people who said: "G'wan, I didn't even hear it. I slept through it all." Which means they are quite some sleepers because London's barrage, from the noise point of view, is something even war correspondents back from the Italian front talk about.

No two people react to the barrage in quite the same manner.

When the sirens went recently a little old wrinkled woman bustled into the Olive Branch, bought herself a beer and retired to a corner muttering to herself. Finally she burst into full voice: " 'ave the guns started, dearie? 'ave the guns started?"

They hadn't. Over and over she repeated her question. Then there was no mistaking the thunder of the barrage as it rolled across the sky.

"The guns," she screamed, clutchin gher beer, "the guns. Now we'll all be killed."

Nobody was. Not near her anyway. But that's how a lot of people feel about this tremendous ack-ack barrage that London throws up and sometimes you can hear shrapnel dropping in the streets like hailstones.

Lots of Action.

The other view comes from two charwomen treading home from their pub through Sunday night's blackout after the warning siren had gone and with the sound of aircraft overhead. Came the sharp bark of nearby guns and the flash of tracer in the sky. And in the darkness you could hear one of the women shouting:

"Therego the guns. Now we're safe. I don't like them aircraft. But the guns is (sic) going now. Give 'em hell dearies, shoot them bleeding Huns."

Two incendiaries hit one public house (a pub somewhere or other always gets hit in a raid) and the licensee, describing it, said: "The saloon bar was full when an incendiary came through the skylight and missed the barmaid, Madge Jeffries, by about six inches. I've never seen anything to beat the way Madge hurled over the bar."

Canadian soldiers stationed in an outer London district helped rescue occupants of a number of cottages demolished by high explosives.

Euchre Raises $20 For War Charities

FRASERVILLE, March 14 (ENS) —The Fraserville Community Service Club, held another successful euchre and dance Friday night with receipts at $20.60.

There was a good crowd and eleven tables were played, with prizes going to Mrs. L. Hewitt, and Mr. James Gaynor for high score. Consolation prizes to Miss Myrtle Davis and Edward Ballantyne.

The Club gave $25. to the local Red Cross in the recent Red Cross drive. Supper was served and dancing was enjoyed with music by the Bailieboro Sod Busters.

PREHISTORIC IMPLEMENTS

JOHANNESBURG — (CP) — More than 600 fine specimens of ancient implements — quartzite assegai heads and stone tools—have been discovered near here. Archaelogists believe they are of the Middle Stone Age 60,000 to 10,000 B.C.

NATIVE GREETING — A Portugese woman greets AB. Victor Ferguson of Vancouver as the rating from H.M.C.S. Prince Robert visits the historical spots in Horta, in the Azores. Meanwhile a little native girl proudly poses with her doll. The robe in which the woman is garbed is the Capote, national dress of the Azores.

Douro Friends Honor Sgt. James Healey

DOURO, March 14— (ENS) — To honor Sgt. James Healey, R.C.A.F., a crowd of some fifty people gathered at the home of his parents. Progressive euchre was played, prize winners being: Ladies' high score, Mrs. Dan Dwyer, Ladies' consolation , Mrs. Charles Towns; Men's high score, Hubert Allen; Men's consolation, James Coughlin.

An address was read by Kevin Leahy and the presentation of a purse of money was made by John Sheehan. Sgt. Italians Want King Dismissed

NAPLES, March 14 (AP)—Leaders of three Leftist Italian political parties today began circuating petitions demanding that King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Badoglio be ousted to permit formation of a "true democratic government" to further Italy's war effort.

The action followed a mass meeting Sunday at which several thousand members of the Communist, Socialist and Action parties shouted their approval of a declaration calling for a purge of the present Italian government, "beginning with exponents of the monarchy, their collaborators and those responsible for Fascism."

The meeting was started as a protest against Prime Minister Churchill's recent endorsement of the King and the Badoglio government and took the place of a 10-minute general strike which had been called for March 4 but was cancelled at the insistance of the Allied authorities.

Red flags were displayed prominently at the meeting, as were placards reading "Down with the Fascist King," "Down with Badoglio," "Down with the King and up with the republic" and "We want work and bread." Other placards read "We ask to contribute to the victory of the Allied army" and "Viva' U.K. (United Kingdom), U.S.S.R., U.S.A., Italy."

NEURITIS Relieved with First Bottle

If you want relief from neuritis quickly, follow Mrs. Crook's example. This is what she says:—

"Last May I had a very severe attack of neuritis in the leg, which made it impossible for me to rest during the day, or to sleep at nights—to say nothing of the intense pain. Various medicines gave me very little relief, and a friend advised me to give Kruschen a trial, as she had derived benefit from it whilst suffering similarly. I am so thankful that I took her advice. From the very first bottle I felt relieved, and now I am quite free from pain, and get a good night's sleep. I feel so grateful for the benefit I have derived."—(Mrs.) H. Crook.

Neuritis, like rheumatic pains, lumbago and sciatica, is usually caused by deposits of needle-pointed, flint-hard, uric acid crystals, which pierce the nerves and cause those stabbing pains. Kruschen helps to break up these deposits and to convert them into a harmless solution, which is promptly removed through the natural channel—the kidneys.

And because Kruschen assists in keeping the inside so regular—so free from fermenting waste matter—body poisons such as uric acid don't get a chance to accumulate again.

Your nearest drug store has Kruschen Salts. 25c and 75c.

SCOTTISH NURSE helps relieve MANY AILMENTS with Mustard

MRS. M. MILLER came from Aberdeen, Scotland. She has a nursing home in Swift Current, Sask.

"I learned many of the uses of mustard and its value in home nursing while I was in training in Scotland," explained Mrs. Miller. "One in particular was the method of causing a patient to perspire freely, thus helping to break the fever and eliminate poisons from the body." She described how a flannel blanket is dipped in boiling water containing a half a cup of mustard and then wrung out and wrapped around the patient to induce perspiration.

Bronchial Trouble in Babies

"I never hesitate to use a mustard poultice on small babies in case of bronchial trouble," states Mrs. Miller. "It helps to give quicker, safer relief than any other remedy. I saturate the chest or back with olive oil and apply mild poultices mixed one part mustard to five parts of flour on the affected areas." Just by knowing this simple fact, thousands of babies may be relieved from bronchial suffering. Never leave a poultice on longer than twenty minutes.

Pure Mustard is Safe Mustard

The best proof of the value of mustard in treating so many common ailments is the fact that thousands of people like Mrs. Miller depend on it year after year. Keep mustard always handy in your home to help relieve Chills or Colds, or when you feel depressed by Grippe or other Winter infections. Use it to help relieve pains of Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Arthritis, Neuritis, over-tired muscles, etc. Call your doctor if symptoms are serious. Be sure that you use famous Keen's D.S.F. BOMBERS PULVERIZE CASSINO TOWN

Hun Divisions Trapped; 10,000 Killed

Port Of Nikolaev Encircled In Latest Push

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, March 15—(AP).—Red Army troops are liquidating several trapped Nazi divisions in the southern Ukraine, the Russians said today, and in a smash along the Black Sea coast have closed the harbor of Nikolaev, leaving Odessa as the only large port in southern Russia still available to the Germans.

Ten thousand Germans have been killed and 4,000 captured already, a Soviet communique said, while trying to break out of the trap sprung by Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 3rd Ukrainian Army about 46 miles northeast of Nikolaev in the Bereznegovati-Snigerevka area. Columns driving in from the north and south forged a ring of steel around the Nazis.

Other Red Army troops pushed 18 miles beyond captured Kherson to cut the German line of escape through Nikolaev harbor into the Black Sea. They captured Shirokaya Balka, 28 miles southeast of Nikolaev and less than 10 miles from the mouth of the Southern Bug River. and Soviet guns now control the exit from Nikolaev.

To the north, Soviet units were said to have forced a crossing of the Bug River near Gaisin, a town about 50 miles southeast of Vinnitsa, putting them within 60 miles of the Rumanian frontier. The Soviet communique said Gaisin was captured and the river crossed to the north and south of it.

The Russians also announced the capture of Mikhailovka on the banks of the Bug, 14 miles south of Vinnitsa. They declared the Red Army had swept up more than 230 localities in its advances on three Ukrainian fronts, 70 of them after heavy fighting west of Kirovograd, and including Novo Archangelsk, 28 miles southeast of Uman.

The announcement of the entrapment of the German divisions near Snigerevka followed within three weeks of the Russian announcement that 10 Nazi divisions were wiped out in the Korsun ring, about 130 miles north of this area.

City Of London Raided By 100 Planes

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 15.—(CP).—U. S. heavy bombers in "medium-sized forces" smashed at military targets in Central Germany to-day, under strong fighter escort, Strategic Air Force Headquarters announced. The blow followed a night raid on the industrial centre of Dusseldorf by R.A.F. Mosquitoes, which returned without loss.

Targets and other details of the daylight attack were not disclosed, but the German radio said air fleets swept into Northwest Germany this morning, touching off "major scale air battles" centring over Hanover, 150 miles west of Berlin.

German radio transmitters went off the air as the bombers approached—during the middle of broadcasts boasting of heavy damage to London in a fire raid last night.

Later the Berlin radio said German anti-aircraft defences to-day were "considerably hampered by weather conditions."

It was the 11th operation this month for the American four-engined bombers, and the 13th in 17 days.

Rescue workers toiled through smoking ruins in search of dead and injured as London dug itself out after a fierce pre-midnight fire raid that rivaled in intensity the big German attacks of the 1940-41 blitz.

Thousands of incendiaries and high explosive bombs were showered down upon the capital in a short but concentrated attack which touched off fires in many sections and did extensive damage in two of the best known business and residential districts.

Bombs were also dropped at scattered points in East Anglia and South and Southeast England, causing casualties and damage at several places.

Stumbling Block To Allies Levelled In Record Swoop

By EDWARD KENNEDY—Associated Press War Correspondent

NAPLES, March 15—(AP)—Allied air power devastated Cassino today with history's greatest concentrated bombing attack, and Allied ground forces immediately charged in to drive the Germans from the rubble of the fortress town. More than 1,400 tons of bombs were hurled on a target area of less than a square mile by every type of Allied plane in an armada of 3,000 sorties.

Its goal was destruction of this stronghold where the Germans have been blocking the main 5th Army advance since early January.

British and American artillery smashed out in a heavy barrage after the morning-long bombing stopped.

Cassino, on a main highway to Rome, is 75 miles southeast of that capital, and some 60 miles east of the Anzio invasion beachhead.

The Allies threw every plane of the Mediterranean Allied Air Forces into a gigantic blow to smash the German grip on this town once and for all. They started in shortly after daylight and continued pounding the town until noon.

Then the artillery opened its fearful barrage and the waiting infantry was flung into battle.

Town Levelled

Allied troops who had been holding about one-third of the city were withdrawn quietly during the night to give the bombers a free hand.

First reconnaissance developed after the attack showed that Cassino was levelled.

The tremendous attack had one objective—to destroy every building in Cassino and pulverize the ancient stone houses concealing countless guns blocking the 5th Army advance—and to kill every German in the place.

The rumble of the bombing shook windows and houses in Naples, 50 airline miles away.

Never before has such a weight of high explosive bombs been poured on so small an area in so short a time.

Started At Dawn

The first waves started at dawn, then returned and reloaded to smash the same target a short time later.

A communique termed it a "bombing operation unsurpassed."

Timed to split-second perfection, the relays of bombers went over at intervals of every 10 or 15 minutes throughout the morning.

Every unit of the Mediterranean Allied airforces was in action. Planes ranged from single-seater fighters

WHERE RED GAP PERILS 500,000—The huge gap torn in Nazi lines south of the Dnieper Bend is being increased hourly as the Reds peril a half million of Von Mannstein's men as the map shows. From the north, where one Red drive heads for the Rumanian border, via Tarnopol, and another via Luck, the top prong moves southward. The Nazis apparently are trying an Odessa 'Dunkirk' with every available ship in Rumania's Black sea ports being rushed northward.

Quints' Birth Kept Secret; All Survive

Argentine Family Feared Mob Of Curious

BUENOS AIRES, March 15 (AP) — Quintuplets were born eight months ago in a Buenos Aires suburb to a well-to-do rancher and his 42-year-old Italian wife, who kept event secret to avoid public excitement such as attended the birth of Canada's famous Dionne children, Buenos Aires papers said today.

Franco Diligenti, their father, declined to permit reporters to see his offspring—three girls and two boys — but exhibited photographs of them, remarking: "Look, gentlemen, a full house." Their names, he said, are Maria Fernanda, Maria Esther, Maria Cristina, Carlos Alberto and Franco.

Diligenti said the children were born at home last July 11, with only a midwife in attendance on his wife, Vallotta, who is the mother of three other children. He declared the quints are in excellent health, each weighing between 20 and 25 pounds.

The story of the multiple birth was told first by Miss Leila Shaw, society editor of the Buenos Aires Herald, an English language newspaper. She said she had seen the quints and interviewed the mother. "We have had such a difficult time keeping the quints' secret," she quoted the mother as saying.

General skepticism followed first publication of the report. "Is it possible to admit the birth of quintuplets in our capital has been kept undercover eight months?" the evening newspaper Critica said. At the office of birth registry, where newsmen sought records of the births, clerks professed to know nothing except what was in the newspapers.

A neighbor of the Diligentis said that "everybody in the neighborhood will tell you that the quintuplets are genuine," and a gateman who stopped reporters attempting

Finns Reject Russ Armistice

STOCKHOLM, March 15 — (AP) — The Finnish parliament decided today to continue at war with Soviet Russia, rejecting Russia's final terms of armistice, according to reliable information available here tonight.

The vote is understood to have been 160 to 40, only two score members of the Finn parliament being willing to accept Moscow's peace conditions.

Thus parliament supported the government position outlined by Premier Edwin Linkomies when, in a secret session yesterday, he described the armistice terms as unacceptable.

It was understood no reply will be sent to Moscow before Saturday or Sunday, but the Finnish government was expected to issue a statement later tonight.

A Gas Stampede

BERRIEN SPRINGS, Mich., March 15—(AP).—When a tank truck loaded with 4,000 gallons of gasoline overturned two miles north of here, springing a leak, a near-riot ensued. Hundreds of persons rushed to the scene, carrying cans, pails and jars to salvage the precious fuel.

Old Soldiers Ask Civilians Quit Building Air Castles

By JACK BRAYLEY—Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 15—(CP).—General apprehension is being voiced in service circles over what they say is a growing trend to paint for servicemen a "castle in the sky" picture of post-war Canada.

A hard-bitten colonel, working in shirtsleeves over demobilization plans, told The Canadian Press:

"For God's sake, don't let us delude this generation of fighters, as we did my generation, into thinking they are coming back to beer and skittles.

"Naturally, efforts will be made to provide every opportunity. But this should not be taken to mean there will be a job and security or even hopeful prospects for all our returning men."

The Colonel—he would not permit his name to be used—said that any attempt to kill individual initiative and resourcefulness in seeking jobs should be discouraged "right now" and, in his opinion, if the men were not disturbed by this propaganda they would have little difficulty in finding their own solution to rehabilitation problems when the time came.

Most recent member of the fighting men to speak about rehabilitation, was Wing Cmdr. Lloyd Chadburn, much-decorated air ace from Aurora, Ont. At a press conference here Sunday reporters asked him about post-war prospects.

"Don't worry about us for we aren't worrying about being paupers or anything like it," he replied. He added he was confident he and his mates could find jobs and security if given a chance.

All the defence minsters have touched on the post-war subject. A veteran of the First Great War, Air Minister Power, speaking in the Commons, recalled political promises of "a land fit for heroes to live in" that had been offered his comrades. He said: "I fear that we paid too much attention to those material things that were being promised to us and did not pay enough attention to the spiritual side of trying to become a good citizen and I say that without casting any reflection at all upon those who returned from the first war.

Jap Casualties Mount In Burma

NEW DELHI, March 15.—(CP).—British troops have fought fierce hand-to-hand battles, some in underground positions, to clear the Japanese from the area north of captured Buthedaung, a Southwest Asia communique announced today, and 120 enemy dead were found in one position.

Other Japanese pockets are being mopped up elsewhere around Buthedaung, and enemy counter-attacks farther south have been driven off, the bulletin from Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's Headquarters said.

Farther north, Japanese attacks were repulsed in the Tiddim area and Kabaw Valley, while in Northern Burma, Chinese troops are advancing steadily south from Walawbum in the Hukawng Valley with artillery and mortars on both sides active.

In the air, Spitfires intercepted a Japanese fighter sweep, downing three and damaging several. American medium and fighter-bombers and fighters hit heavily at enemy installations in Northern and Central Burma, knocking out a bridge at Shaduzup and exploding an ammunition dump.

EXTRA!

LONDON—Sittings of a commission to investigate the affairs of the Quebec provincial police and the Quebec liquor police begin March 27, it was learned today.

WASHINGTON — Early and complete agreement among British, American, Russian and Canadian treasury experts on a multi-billion dollar, gold-based fund to stabilize post-war foreign exchange was believed imminent today.

NEW YORK—The New York Times in a Moscow dispatch today quoted the newspaper Moscow News as paying high tribute to the work of British, Canadian and American navies in safeguarding shipments to Russia over the Northern Sea routes.

Obliteration Of Wewak Underway

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, March 15 — (AP) — Japan's north New Guinea Coastal stronghold of Wewak is beginning to get the same treatment from the Allied Air Force that has reduced Rabaul, New Britain, to helplessness.

Almost 500 tons of bombs fell on Wewak and its four supporting airfields in the last three days, Allied Headquarters reported today. Between 52 and 65 Japanese planes that tried to intercept the attacks were shot out of the air.

The new successes by Allied planes climaxed many weeks of blasting at the big air and supply base 200 miles westward of Madang. Australian and American forces have been slowly but certainly approaching Madang for the last month driving up from Saidor.

The southwest Pacific communique said also that 121 tons of bombs were dropped on Rabaul by American bombers Sunday. Five Japanese planes were shot down.

A report on casualties in the fighting around the American beachhead on Bougainville Island in the Solomons disclosed that the Japanese lost more than 10-to-1 during five days of battling.

Associated Press War Correspondent Vern Haugland reported from Gaudalcanal that the Americans lost 96 dead in the Bougainville fighting, while more than 1,000 Japanese died.

Federal Aid Is Recommended In Educational Grants

By JAMES McCOOK—Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 15—(CP).—Dominion Government education grants should be made to the provinces on the basis of need so that all children will have equal educational opportunities, said a brief submitted today to the Commons Reconstruction Committee of the Canadian Teachers' Federation.

The grants should be earmarked for education purposes and should be made without interference with provincial autonomy on educational matters, the Federation said.

The status of the teaching profession should be raised, with improved salaries payable, so it will 'attract into the profession young men and women of the very best character and ability in such numbers as to allow for a careful selection of those to be trained as teachers, on the basis of health, leadership, character and other outstanding qualities of mind and heart, as well as one the basis of academic standing of at least one year of post-secondary study."

Request Not Sufficient

The Federation said it did not think an increase of $146,832,000 in annual expenditures for education—as suggested by the survey committee of the Canada and Newfoundland Education system.

Freedom from want and fear were not guaranteed within the framework of the present Canadian constitution, and the Federation said the Dominion government should take steps necessary to permit the British North American Act being amended "with the least possible delay, in accordance with the sovereign will of the people."

There also was need of an agreement among the nations for an International agreement to secure

Asked specifically whether Britain would discontinue supplying coal, Gasoline, tea and other commodities to Eire, the Prime Minister said in Commons today: "I do not want to add to the statement which I made in the House yesterday."

Late Editor Warned Of CCF

Western Minister Launches Attack

REGINA, March 15 — (CP) — Hon. W. F. Kerr, Saskatchewan Natural Resources Minister, yesterday told the Legislature that "If the C.C.F. was in power in Canada all opposition parties would be outlawed and parliament would be rendered powerless."

He said: "I indict the C.C.F. as an enemy of Canada and the Canadian people." Speaking of the C.C.F. program, he said "the suppression of parliamentary freedom is implicit in the Socialist program—let Saskatchewan and all Canada heed the warning."

The C.C.F. would not hesitate in going to any lengths to retain power if it once obtained control of the government.

The Minister said M. J. Coldwell, National C.C.F. leader had stated Socialists would need a generation to put their planning into effect.

"The last letter I received from J. W. Dafoe, editor of the Winnipeg Free Press, a few months before his death, he referred to this dangerous feature of Socialist policy. He told of a friend who faced a C.C.F.'er with this argument and who had received the reply: "We can afford to forego freedom for a while'."

Disaster Stalks Nazis In The Ukraine

Horde Of Russians Sweeping Nearer Border Of Rumania

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Hitler's great army of the Ukraine, estimated at between 400,000 and 500,000 men, is in the clutches of far-reaching disaster.

Even though he salvages something from the wreckage, he will have suffered a terrific blow. The battle now raging in the liquid mud of Russia's early Spring is bringing the end of the European war appreciably nearer.

The whole vast right wing of the German line has been swung round so it faces the bleak north. In this position it is being hammered back towards Rumania with bloody losses.

The Russians indicate they've killed or captured close to 100,000 Nazis in the last 10 days in this region, and have taken vast booty. In some places the usually solid and stolid German troops are in panic.

If there's any silver lining to the Fuehrer's cloud, it's badly tarnished. He has been banking on the fact that his water-boy, Marshal Von Mannstein, had created strong defences along the Bug River which is the next natural defence in the German line of retreat. This empties into the Black Sea at Nikolaev, near the strategic port of Kherson which Red forces captured Monday.

Van Mannstein had intended to make a stand on the Bug in case of emergency. That's the meaning of the fierce battle now in progress at Tarnopol in pre-war Poland, at the end of what is now the marshall's left flank. The Germans are hanging to Tarnopol for dear life to prevent that flank from being completely turned.

Things Look Bad

The Muscovites already have cut the Nazi line of escape through the port of Nikolaev, and are said to have forced a crossing of the river 50 miles southeast of Vinnitsa. That looks bad for the Germans.

Von Mannstein clearly recognizes the threat, if the report is true that the Hitlerites are rushing all available ships from Rumanian ports to Odessa. That presumably would mean preparations for possible evacuation of troops by sea, either from the Dnieper Bend or from the Crimea, or both. This would presage a further German withdrawal to the Dniester River—barrier to Rumania.

Hitler's Rumanian satellite, trembling in the path of the avalanche, reportedly has sent Prince Barbu Stirbey, former premier and one-time power behind the throne, to Cairo to sue for peace with the Allies. Britain is said to have granted him passes to expedite his trip. Confirmation of Stirbey's mission is symptomatic of the feverish condition of the Balkans, which have had their fill of Hitler.

Work For Nothing

STOUFFVILLE, March 15—(CP).—Robbers who picked Stouffville for Monday night operations learned that sometimes, at least, crime does not pay. They first ransacked a planing mill office, but found nothing worth taking; then, removing a safe from a vacant office, they transported it four miles outside town and smashed it open to find that it contained dusty papers, but no cash.

Liquor Permits Separate

Abandon Plan To Issue Single Ration Book

TORONTO, March 15 (CP) — Attorney-General Blackwell in a written statement handed yesterday to press gallery members at the Ontario Legislature said that effects of the restrictions on beer supplies which have just been lifted by the Dominion Government "cannot be removed by the stroke of a pen" and added they would continue to be felt in Ontario for some time.

The Attorney-General's statement said that because Dominion restrictions will remain on supplies of liquor and wine and notwithstanding that beer restrictions will continue to be felt for some time, the Provincial government "feels that it can now safely abandon the intention to issue a single ration book" for all three beverages.

For the present it is intended to proceed "with the usual permit permitting the purchase of spirits and imported wine at the usual permit fee of $1 and the separate coupon books for beer and native wines without charge."

The statement added: "The ability of the government of the province of Ontario to continue the present system of permitting and rationing will depend entirely on the possibility of the Ontario government obtaining some co-operation from the Dominion government.

Bank Measure Would Aid Small Business

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, March 15 — (CP). — Credit facilities for small business enterprises which can not normally raise money by public issues of securities is one of the prime objectives of the proposed industrial development bank, Douglas Abbott, Parliamentary Assistant to the Minister of Finance said last night in the Commons as the Bill to create the bank received second reading.

It is the first measure to be approved in principle by the House this session and now goes to the Banking and Commerce Committee for study. It is also the first of several post-war economic and social measures forecast in the Speech from the Throne to advance to such a stage.

"The purpose of this bank is not to make obviously bad loans, but to supplement the activities of existing lending institutions," said Mr. Abbott. It was not designed to compete with existing agencies and hence its capital, criticized by some members as too small, should be sufficient. If not it could be increased later by Parliament.

Passage of the bank measure and a resumption of talk about the Navy on Navy Minister Macdonalds war appropriation estimates with a side excursion on beer occupied the House throughout the Tuesday sitting.

German Shell Kills R. Wright

MARMORA, March 15 (ENS) — One of the shells flung at the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment by the Germans during a battle on the night of February 8 killed Cpl. Robert Wright son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Wright Marmora.

Letters have been received from Lieut. B. Scott, a Marmora man in the same unit, and from the chaplain, Capt. J. F. Goforth, telling how he died and paying tribute to a member of the Regiment.

Cpl. Wright was in charge of a standing patrol that evening, of which Sgt. Fitzpatrick of Cordova, was a member. He and two of his section had taken up their position in an old shell hole, during some activity. The enemy laid down a barrage and a shell landed right in the midst of the three boys killing the Corporal and one other man instantly, and mortally wounding the third.

LUMBAGO

Or chronic, weak back can make you feel years older and definitely limit the pleasures of every day life. Very frequently this condition is due to a strain or an injury, leaving the back muscles in a weakened condition.

As a result the slight over-exertion, or colds immediately renew the irritation and because of the burden of supporting the body each day, the back muscles have no opportunity to be relieved from strain. The common sense method of treating this condition is to own a support, and wear it during periods when your back gives you trouble.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

This is the spring of diversity in color, not of concentration on any one. The designers want it this way for a run on any one shade might cause a shortage.

Dyes have been distributed, spread out as it were, with the colorful results you will see this spring.

Color can be an outside story, such as a red suit or a bright yellow coat; a brilliant green box-jacket suit, or a soda-pink shantung dinner dress.

Color can be an upper story. Have a light blue jacket topping a black skirt, an absinthe-green jacket above a purple skirt, any bright colored tunic above a grey skirt.

Color can be an inside story; such, for instance, as a Roman stripe lining in a beige box-suit, or a green lining in a grey jacket.

Color can be a lower story. Have a pink-and-black checked skirt, below a black jersey tunic, a reddish-brown skirt beneath a grey jacket, a white skirt under a navy blue tunic.

Color can be in expected places. In bright shantung blouses with men's wear suits, in bright red binding on a grey blazer, in a pink-dotted shirt-waist under a sleeveless black jumper, or color can be in unexpected places, such as a fuchsia satin shawl wrapping a long blue dinner dress, bright tabs, like bookmarks, flipping out over jacket revers; a jewelled belt on a grey skirt, a pink bow fastening on a navy blue jacket, a striped satin sash on a dark dinner dress. Color can be neutral; grey, beige and camel color look better than ever before.

Pale beige and dark beige are teamed in one suit; a beige box-jacket is lined with black jersey and worn with a black jersey tunic. Grey suits are touched up with red, green and pink. Color can be black and white, made in black and white checked cutaway. Another smart cutaway suit made in brown and white check; with it is worn a gingham blouse.

Prints also show up the many colors. A short evening dress made in print, pastels on a white background.

Hats will be large and small, felt and straw, also flowers. Select your coat and dress or your suit, then have a hat made to blend perfectly with either your coat or suit, and the style that is most becoming to you. The hats this spring are worn very much on a slant and look very smart with the new sleek hair do.

As has been said, it may be a matter of geography, the way a woman wears her hat. The North American way is to wear a hat back on the head, baring the brow, accenting an easy, effortless sort of chic.

The South American way is to tilt a hat with a high back trimming down dizzily over the brow. However, all ways are correct for this spring so wear your hat the most becoming way.

Minister De Valera's refusal to place Irish ports at the disposal of the United Nations.

Asked whether the British note handed to De Valera was supported by specific evidence of Axis diplomats exploiting their positions in Dublin, Mr. Churchill said: "It would not be in the public interest to discuss what information the British government have regarding activities of Axis agents in southern Ireland."

Mr. Churchill told Commons yesterday that travel restrictions to Eire were but the first step in a policy designed "to isolate southern Ireland from the outer World during the critical period which is approaching."

The government of Eire which has refused a United States request—made with full British support—to close the German and Japanese Legations, was officially silent, but few Irish doubted that Mr. Churchill's remarks could mean anything but blockade.

The Dublin Dispatch said stoppage of coal alone would almost paralyze Eire's industry. An acute coal shortage already has forced a 50 per cent cut in the use of electricity for water heating compared to 1941, Irish newspapers said.

"We know what we can do, namely to bring those who can be brought home as soon as possible after the hostilities are over. Then give them all the pre-demobilization training we can in the most useful way so as to do the individual the greatest amount in his future career.

"We have plans and blueprints to accomplish this, but as I said, I will not guarantee that they will all be successful. We must be prepared—and I think this is something to which we should give the utmost consideration—for the immediate let-down, moral and mental, which will attack these boys.

"I do not want to be alarmist, but with the history of developments after the last war imprinted in my mind I fear that we might have mutinies such as we had then. I fear the development of a state of mind which might color and distort their whoe future outook for them."

Supreme Court Begins Next Monday

COBOURG, March 15 (ENS) — Three jury and five non-jury cases are listed for trial at the sittings of Supreme Court which open on Monday next before Mr. Justice McFarland. There are two divorce cases on the non-jury docket.

Frederick and Frances Vansickle of Haldimand township are plaintiffs in a jury action against William Burchall of Ottawa, each claiming $5,000 and costs in connection with an accident which occurred near Grafton last September. A car driven by the plaintiff met in collision with one driven by the defendant. Burchall is also suing the Vansickles for $5,000 and costs. Hughes, Agar, Thompson and Amys appear for the Vansickles and Haines and Haines for Burchall.

The third jury case is the action brought by the George Ellis Cartage Co. of Hamilton against Alton Hadley and John Orser of Stirling. Plaintiff claims $915 and costs as the result of a highway accident occurring in Brighton in March of 1943, when, it is alleged by plaintiff, a tractor and trailer was struck from the rear by a truck owned by Hadley and driven by Orser.

On the non-jury docket, Alfred James Cook of Darlington is suing Nina Needs of Bowmanville, executrix of the estate of Margaret Jane McLaughlin of Bowmanville, who died in August of 1943. Cook claims the sum of $3,300 from the estate for his services over a period of 18 years on her farm. Plaintiff affirms he was promised 100 acres on the "front" in return for his services on the farm and that besides his keep he never received more than $45 in any year. L. C. Mason of Bowmanville appears for plaintiff and Manning Swartz of Oshawa for the defendant.

Thelma Williams of Manvers township is suing for a divorce from her husband, Lloyd Thomas Williams of Oshawa. Conant and Annis appear for plaintiff. It is uncontested. Edna Cain of Bowmanville is plaintiff in a divorce action against her husband, Lawrence Leslie Cain of St. Catharines. The action is not contested and W. Ross Strike of Bowmanville appears for the plaintiff.

The last case on the docket is an action for $1,607.16 damages brought by Claude R. Burnside of Bowmanville on behalf of John R. Burnside, an infant, against D. Gestetner (Canada Limited) and Albert Lark, employee. On April 6, 1939, it is alleged that a car owned by Gestetner and driven by Lark, injured John R. Burnside while the latter was crossing the street in Bowmanville.

In Canada, there should be assurance of employment and fair wages, with establishment and maintenance of a national minimum of individual income, the right of collective bargaining, encouragement of co-operatives, decentralization of industry, reasonable standards of working conditions establishment of the shortest possible working day and abolition of child labor.

A housing scheme, plan of public works, a social security program along the lines of the Marsh plan presented to the government last year, and continued research to solve problems of peace time economy also were recommended.

The federation said that teacher-training institutions in every province should be of such high calibre that they would draw to their staffs the best educational experts. Facilities and equipment for their work should be the best available, and the institutions should provide a two-year course and a basic course in the foundation of methods.

In a post-war public works program, the Dominion Government should give high priority to educational needs and "all obsolete, unsanitary schools (should) be torn down or remodelled and replaced with modern up-to-date buildings built on the best sites available and equipped with the best modern heating, ventilating and sanitary facilities.

The federation recommended that each department of education set up a special committee on which representatives of the larger national groups within the province should sit along with departmental officials to study educational programs to encourage national unity.

A commission should be appointed by the Federal Government to study national unity from a national viewpoint and recommend means by which Canada could be welded into a national unit.

The rural educational program would be simplified if post-war reconstruction resulted in rising the economic status of those living in rural areas.

Scholarships should be provided by universities to provide all students financially unable to continue their education in such institutions with an opportunity to complete their studies. Living expenses as well as the cost of tuition should be covered.

Suggesting upward adjustment of teachers' salaries, the brief said that as late as 1941 the median salary for teachers in different provinces, omitting Quebec, varied from a low of $422 a year to a high of $1,321.

"Mark carefully that these are the figures below which the salaries of 49.9 per cent of the teachers in these provinces fall," said the brief.

"What prospects are revealed here for adequate education for democracy?"

MATTERS OF scope and importance are to the fore, with many opportunities to advance such interests in either public, community or other group affiliation. It might be in connection with large corporations, diplomatic or political circles where tact and strategy would be helpful qualities. Offsetting these advantages may be a sudden estrangement or a disintegrating visitation, begotten of erratic, impulsive or unconventional behavior. In all contacts be discerning, orthodox and guard the health as well as reputation. There may be changes and journeys but in all this be discreet.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of major importance, with far reaching results, and involving sudden rearrangements of the affairs, with new opportunities, and fresh contacts with persons on high diplomatic, political, fraternal or corporation influence. Be discriminating and prudent in such contacts, with conventional and conservative approach and not erratic or emotional impulsiveness. Exceptional talents may be exploited, but be wise with physical well being.

Bad Ice Storm Hits Province

By The Canadian Press

Rain which froze as it fell today sheathed highways and streets in Western and Central Ontario with ice, making travelling difficult and in some sections bus trips were cancelled because of road conditions.

In London, where the ice storm was described as the worst of the winter bus service was almost at a standstill in some sections of the city and hundreds of residents were hours late for work. Stratford reported that bus service from London was cancelled and it was doubtful whether buses could get through from Kitchener because of the road conditions.

In most centres the rain began to fall during the night, freezing as it came. It was accompanied by sleet which helped make footing still more slippery.

By 11 a.m. there were no reports of serious accidents due to road conditions although in London two persons suffered possible fractures from falls on icy sidewalks.

However the eastern and northern sections of the province were free of the ice storm. Sudbury reported clear weather with bright sunshine and a temperature of 12 degrees above zero while in North Bay it was cloudy and comparatively mild. In Cornwall it was bright with the temperature at 20 while at Brockville the temperature was 22. The St. Lawrence River is rapidly opening up, Brockville reported.

But throughout western Ontario ice-coated roads and streets were the general rule. At Galt the ice began turning to slush during the morning. In the Hamilton area highways were treacherous.

At Brantford hundreds were late for work when buses were delayed. Sanding equipment was out on provincial highways. Driving was dangerous in the Niagara Falls area Similar conditions were reported from Kitchener, Woodstock, Sarnia and Guelph.

It was raining at Windsor but there were no reports of ice. Early today the temperature in Chatham dropped to freezing some ice formed on the streets but was cleared away later in the morning by a drizzling rain and rising temperature.

This operation against Cassino was but one phase of an all-out offensive that continued into the afternoon with increasing fury.

Approximately the same weight of bombs was rained on towns, bridges, and communications centres to the north and northwest—places where the Germans might attempt another delaying stand as at Cassino.

German troops in the Anzio beachhead also were hard hit at the same time.

The Allied fliers hitting Cassino turned against the Germans one of the Luftwaffe's own most frightening psychological weapons—whistling devices attached to as many bombs as possible—to see how the enemy stood up under his own type of "screamers."

Ontario Labor Worst Treated

FORT ERIE, March 15—(CP)—Resolutions pledging delegates to fight all forms of racial discrimination and urging formation of a world labor organization were adopted Monday at the closing session of a convention of the Canadian Aircraft Workers' Association.

A. McCauslane, vice-president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said he believes approximately 2,000,000 persons may be seeking work in Canada when war industry "unwinds" at the end of the year.

Pressure on Ottawa had produced a "fairly decent" Federal labor code, he said, but "Ontario still has the worst labor legislation in the country."

D. R. Rawlins of Fort Erie was elected president and D. McPhee, London, Ont., was chosen as vice-president.

WMS Told Need For Bible Study

HAVELOCK, March 15 (ENS)—A theme of worship, "The Bible, a guide for daily living", was carefully outlined at the Women's Missionary Meeting at the home of Miss Annie Young.

This daily devotional period has taught many how to gain a clearer understanding of God's will for their lives and to learn for what they should pray. The missionaries, by their quiet confidence in face of danger, present many instances of the invincibility of lives, devoted to fulfilling God's will.

One young missionary woman, recently returned home from an enemy country, had endured imprisonment for three months, in solitary confinement. Friends who knew of her ordeal feared what it might do to her. Instead of coming out crushed and shaken, she met them with poise and sanity. They were amazed at the great developement which had taken place during her days of complete isolation—alone except for her Bible which she had read through four times. She had learned to read her Bible in a new way, not for the sake of reading it, but for what it did to her.

The President, Mrs. George Chiles, presided. An interesting Temperance message, "Co-operation with missionaries" was given by Miss A. Young. The Easter Thankoffering service will be held in April, if a special speaker can be procured. The April meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. S. J. W. Clarke and an Easter program will be arranged. The fifth chapter of the study book "The Inspiration of Worship" was reviewed by Mrs. C. Price.

Literary Society Presents Pantomine

CAMPBELLFORD, March 16, (ENS) — A pantomine and play were two features of the program presented by Fourth Form pupils at the regular meeting of the High School Literary Society Tuesday afternoon.

The pantomine, entitled "Mulodramar" was narrated by Francis DeCarrol with a cast comprising Ruth McEachern, Evelyn Stephens Gerald Taylor and J. P. Wood, who were assisted in the production by Lily Clark, George Black and Marie Meiklejohn. A cast of six boys presented the play which purported to be a behind the scenes version of a typical women's club, and they made the most of their opportunity to rib the opposite sex. The play was entitled "The Merry Maiden's Club" with a cast that included Joe Clark, Francis DeCarrol, Jimmy Forestell Johnny O'Rourke, Gerald Taylor and J. P. Wood. Musical interludes were given by Evelyn Stephens.

The program opened with a chorus "What Do You Do In the Infantry;" followed by Joe Clark with a trumpet solo, "My Heart Tells Me". As an encore he played "Marzy Doats". A classical touch was added by Diana Ironside and Coletta O'Keefe who collaborated on a piano arrangements of the Russian folk song "Two Guitars." Francis DeCarrol who the critic described as giving fair competition to Frank Sinatra, sang "Close to You" and "I Wish I Could Hide Inside This Letter." A number by the chorus concluded the program.

Rehabilitation Studied Further

CAMPBELLFORD, March 15—(ENS).—Canada's plans for the rehabilitation of soldiers both now and after the war were outlined before a joint meeting of the Legion and Campbellford's Post-War Planning Association here Tuesday night. Capt. J. A. Catto, District Veterans' Welfare officer, Toronto, was the speaker, and he told the gathering that now was the time to forestall any such troubles as arose after the last war by having a comprehensive rehabilitation program.

He reviewed a nineteen-point program that was no mere dream but an accomplished fact by legislation already passed that will assure a square deal for the men and women discharged from either the navy, army or air force. Captain Catto gave a careful explanation of the various rehabilitation benefits which included many features familiar to veterans of World War I as well as a number of entirely new ones.

He told of the clothing allowance; rehabilitation grant; transportation from point of discharge to place of domicile of next-of-kin; medical treatment, free, for conditions related to the services, and for conditions not related to the service for a maximum period of one year; compulsory reemployment; unemployment insurance, if in insurable employment, to be credited with the time they spent in the forces since July 1, 1941; out-of-work benefits, similar to unemployment insurance benefits, payable for a maximum of 12 months; for those temporarily incapacitated a similar benefit; maintenance benefits to be paid during vocational training; benefits to farmers and others awaiting returns from their business enterprise; educational benefits; post-graduate courses with maintenance; pensions; employment service; preference in employment in all war contracts and in the Civil Service.

Buys Land.

Captain Catto said the Government had already spent about 7 million in purchasing properties that would be disposed of under the Veterans' Land Act which provides for loans up to $6,000, of which a maximum of $4,800 is for land and buildings and $1,200 for chattels. A ten per cent. deposit is all that is required plus interest payment of 3½ per cent.

With regard to the Citizens' Committee, the speaker declared it should comprise a complete cross section of the area and act as advisers to the Department on matters of rehabilitation concerning their particular district. "There is a big job to be done in bringing soldiers back to Canada as it exists today." He recommended that the committee study various aspects of rehabilitation, and appoint subcommittees to deal with them. One might deal with employment, and if necessary, make a survey of the community to learn its post-war needs and how industry will absorb discharged men. He felt the Legion itself was best adapted to deal with pensions since they were more familiar with the question. Vocational and educational training was something that might be left to High School teachers to give advice and guidance in this respect. Present indications were that this phase of rehabilitation would be more widely used than it was after the last war when only 8 of every 1,000 discharged took advantage of it as compared to approximately 3,000 of the 15,000 men already discharged seeking either vocational or educational training.

Crew Huddles Safe In Bomber Fuselage As Plane Disintegrates In Airport Crash

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A CANADIAN BOMBER BASE, England, March 15—(CP)—Flying Officer Al Schnobb, a wireless operator-air gunners from Ottawa, has found that you can run into plenty of trouble right in your own back yard.

One night he and his companions went to Berlin in their Halifax. Other Canadians in the crew were the navigator, Flying Officer William Norris of Calgary, and the bomb-aimer, Sergt. Glen Boissevan of Edmonton. On their way home they had what Schnobb called a "bit of bad luck."

About 33 miles from the coast the Halifax began to run short of gasoline. The crew managed to reach an airfield after crossing the coast at 800 feet.

The pilot flew the length of the runway and started another circuit, but the engines died. The crew took up crash positions. The Halifax whizzed by a four-storey building and missed by inches a half-dozen trees with two-foot trunks.

"We left the under-carriage on the sixth tree," Schnobb said.

The Halifax was spread literally all over a field, in seven big pieces. Three engines were yards away and the fourth was still on what was left of the starboard wing. The only part of the Halifax left intact was the mid-section of the fuselage, in which most of the crew had huddled.

"We rolled over twice and ended upside down," Schnobb related. "The pilot was killed but the rest escaped serious injury, except one who suffered a broken leg."

Will Show Film

Relief Costs Drop To $845

February relief cost the city $845.33 as compared with $1,151.72 in the second month of last year. The statement at the meeting of the welfare committee this week classified eighty recipients of relief as 12 heads of families, 39 dependents of those persons, also 5 single men and 24 single women. The total number a year ago was 121.

Per capita cost was up for the month from $9.52 to $10.57.

Welfare costs for the first two months amounted to $2,339.06, less pneumonthorax rebate from the government of $126, leaving $2,273. Of that sum the Government assumes $825 and the Ontario Medical Association $36.96, leaving the city with the balance of $1,411.12.

A glimpse of the present extent of assistance being rendered by the community is afforded by the following quotation from the February report: "38 cheques were issued for provisions and clothing, 7 provisions vouchers; 19 fuel; 18 rent; 39 doctors' vouchers; 1 ambulance; 5 hospital admissions were issued. Two indigent patients were refused; 15 inspections and home visits were made; 8 old age pensions and one mothers' allowance were taken. There were two new relief registrations."

A. G. Metheral also made 31 inspections of wood and 239 cords were sold.

According to the wood report the total of deliveries to the city up to the end of February were 2,377 cords; wood sold during the same time 856 cords; wood on hand at the end of the month 1,521.

Alderman Glover presided as chairman of this committee.

A Seat For Mr. Bracken

During the past fortnight there has been a good deal of public discussion about the advisability of Mr. John Bracken seeking a seat in Parliament. Manitoba is Mr. Bracken's native heath, and it was in Manitoba that the discussion began, when the Winnipeg Tribune, a prominent Conservative paper, urged Mr. Bracken to lose no more time in finding a seat for himself; it was the opinion of this paper, which is decidedly friendly toward Mr. Bracken, that the people of Canada wanted to see what he could do in Parliament.

Last week Senator J. W. de B. Farris raised the question of Mr. Bracken's anomalous position in the Upper House. He has been set upon for this by great numbers of those people who complain when the Senate does nothing, but complain even more pitifully when, as in this instance, the Senate does something. The Montreal Gazette, in particular, worked itself into a frenzy about Senator Farris, and expressed itself thus, in part:

"The Liberal contentions, based chiefly on flimsy quibbling over the supposed constitutional necessity of a party leader having a seat, must be heavily discounted because of their obvious political motive. Only the most slavish Liberal partisan could be deluded into thinking that the critical cajolery aimed at drawing Mr. Bracken into the House is designed for the elevation of political life or the good of Canada. Much less is it designed for the good of Mr. Bracken or his party".

This probably means that, in the Gazette's opinion, the Liberals want to get Mr. Bracken into Parliament so that they can have some fun with him; "slavish Liberal partisans", on the contrary, protest that Mr. Bracken stays outside Parliament so that he may abuse the Government in terms which the Speaker would not let him use in the House.

Another point of view which Tory organs would certainly brand as "slavish" is expressed by the Kingston Whig-Standard, and as we agree with it substantially, we quote it, as follows:

"So far as this newspaper is concerned, we believe that if the Liberals are trying to get Mr. Bracken into the House of Commons as leader of his party, for purely political advantage, they are making a big mistake. The minute Mr. Bracken gets into the House of Commons his position will be immensely strengthened in the eyes of the people of Canada. He is losing ground every day he refuses to seek a seat in Parliament.

"But there is a much more serious side to this question. Whoever is Prime Minister of this country after the next Federal election—and who can foretell elections—will have to represent this country at the Peace Conference, and will have to match wits with the ablest European, United States and Empire statesmen. If the people of Canada were sure that it would be either Mr. Mackenzie King or Mr. Arthur Meighen, they would have no fear, for they know the measure of both men. But Mr. Bracken is an unknown quantity in that respect. He has been Premier of a small western province with a population of 740,000. He has never had to show his stature in dealing with the complex problems which afflict this country because of its vast size and because of its differences of race and creed. The needs and demands of the Maritimes differ from the needs and demands of the Prairies; the views of industrial and English-speaking Ontario differ on many questions from those of French-speaking Quebec and the agricultural west. The anti-Oriental feelings of British Columbia are another problem. Speech-making to sympathetic and applauding audiences is not enough; mending the fences of a political party is not enough. Service in Parliament is the test of leadership."

It was shrewd of Mr. Bracken to take time to look about him after he was chosen as leader of the reconstructed Conservative party. But the shrewdness of the move wore off some time ago, and it now looks as though Mr. Bracken were letting 'I dare not' wait upon 'I would', like the poor cat in the adage. The public has had its fill of pictures of Mr. Bracken leaning on fences, curling, staring hypnotically at microphones, and disguised in fancy dress as Abraham Lincoln. It now wants to see Mr. Bracken show his paces in Parliament; he has long since ceased to be a man of mystery, and he draws nearer and nearer to becoming a figure of fun. If Mr. Bracken wants to be a sort of minor Wendell Willkie, that is his business, and he may succeed at it. But in the meantime he is becoming less interesting to the Canadian people, and shortly they may forget or discount him altogether, so far as any real political support is concerned.

An Inexplicable Delay

A point arises in connection with the death on active service of Pte. Stanley James which we think needs explanation. Pte. James was with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in Italy, and he was seriously wounded on the 30th of January; his parents were notified of that fact. Pte. James died on the 31st of January; his parents learned of their loss on Monday. What was the reason for the delay?

Officials are human beings and are presumably as humane as any other class of people when they are considered as individuals. But officialdom—that great monster made up of large numbers of officials all working according to complex regulations—is not humane. Six full weeks was allowed to pass before the parents of Pte. Stanley James were informed of his death, although they had known for some time that he was seriously wounded. This is not the only instance of this delay in sending news of wounded men which has been observed in this district; and if we may judge by what we see in the newspapers it is general all over Canada. The distress of parents who know that a son is seriously wounded, but who know nothing more of his fate, is horribly keen and insistent; what excuse is there for prolonging it for weeks at a time?

We think that the public would be interested, also, to know the principle upon which casualty lists are compiled. Why is it that a man's name is likely to appear in a list three or four weeks after his relatives have been notified of his death? For what obscure reason is this information held up?

To lose a son in war is a bitter blow. To be kept in suspense for weeks before receiving news of his death merely sharpens the pain when it comes. Is there any satisfactory explanation of the delay, or is it merely the inhumanity of officialdom?

Death Of Van Loon

Hendrick Willem Van Loon was once described as "a walking Chatauqua"; certainly his pretensions to omniscience were bland and unashamed. He wrote histories, although his grasp on historical facts was anything but firm; he wrote books about the arts, in which he ranged from the making of stained-glass windows to the art of the goldsmith with striking facility and occasional startling inaccuracy; he edited books of folk-songs, in which he conclusively proved that he did not know what a folk-song was; not content to write, he also illustrated his books with drawings of great charm and individuality; Van Loon was a remarkable man—indeed, he was almost a great man. If he had been content to concentrate his faculties on a single task and do it thoroughly, he might have left a reputation as a notable historian. As it is, he will be remembered as a great popularizer.

Now popularizers are very necessary people and all of us have need of them. We cannot know all about everything, but many of us try to know a little about a great many things, and for this purpose we must have popular books of condensed and simplified information. The great danger of the popularizer is that he will vulgarize his subject; in reducing it to the level of the layman's understanding he may remove from it all that makes it great. Van Loon rarely fell into this trap. Even when he was most wildly inaccurate he retained a sense of the greatness of his theme.

It is unlikely that Van Loon's books will long survive him. But they have given pleasure and a certain amount of information to millions of readers and they have one superlative quality—they are always interesting. His Geography, to name but one, is a book which really interests the reader in geography and gives him a sense of the wonder and greatness of the world. Many a more scholarly book fails in this primary duty. That was Van Loon's special talent—he could be interesting about things which are too often reduced to a dead level of dullness.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Workers in Italy have organized an "anti-Churchill" strike. They get the democratic idea very quickly, don't they?

We read that the life span of a crab is 20 years, but surely this must be a mistake; we have known many crabs to live almost four times as long as that.

Mickey Rooney cannot get into the army because he has a heart flutter and high blood pressure. For years he has infected those who see him on the screen with these troubles, though never simultaneously.

In Selkirk, Manitoba, there is a bear that drinks beer, or so the story goes. We strongly suspect that the bear did drink beer, back in the days when there was enough of it to gratify the whims of those who like treating bears.

Why Not A Canadian Drama?

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

IT IS now more than ten years since there was any living theatre in the smaller cities of Canada, and although the Little Theatre tried to make up the loss the war brought its activities to an end. Doubtless the Little Theatre will be revived when peace comes once again, but it can never be a satisfactory substitute for the genuine article—what, for purposes of contrast, we may call the Big Theatre. For the present we are without theatrical entertainment except in Toronto, Montreal and occasionally Vancouver; yet the success of the Army Show and the Navy Show is clear proof that the people of Canada like the theatre and will support it handsomely when they have a chance to do so. Can nothing be done to foster and develop this strong natural taste? In the opinion of the present writer something could be done which might eventually give us a Canadian theatre and which would soon give us a body of Canadian drama.

IT could be done through the CBC, by developing and encouraging good radio plays. A radio play is gelded drama, true enough. It is impossible to see the actors, and thus two-thirds of the pleasure of the play is gone, but we are assured that television is on its way, and when it comes we may expect new developments in drama which will take advantage of its special capabilities. But in spite of its handicaps radio drama can be first-rate in its way, and an author who realizes its limitations can write very interesting plays for broadcasting. "The Fall of The City," by Archibald Macleish is an example of what we may call Greek drama for the microphone; "The Dark Valley" by W. H. Auden is a brilliant example of drama for radio on a theme which could not be used either for the stage or the screen; in Tyrone Guthrie's three plays for radio, "Squirrel's Cage," "Matrimonial News" and "The Flowers Are Not For You To Pick" the author shows how successfully radio can take us into the mind of a dramatic character; almost any radio play by Norman Corwin shows us what can happen when imagination is brought to broadcasting; and in Great Britain the BBC has been successful in presenting dramatizations of great novels—"War And Peace" was one of the best—in several episodes. We have had nothing comparable in Canada, although we have a national broadcasting corporation possessing great powers. Why not?

THE CBC may reply that the talent for such work does not exist in Canada. Possibly that is so, but we are convinced that there is more talent in Canada than the CBC knows about; indeed, many people are not convinced that the CBC knows original talent when it sees it. It certainly knows an imitation of American talent, and it has given us many such imitations, but it steers clear of originality. There are writers for the radio in Canada, some of whom are good and some of whom are bad. There are also people who can act—that is to say, speak—acceptably over the air. But the best is not being made of this talent. I hear all the Canadian radio drama that I can coax into my home through my receiving set, and most of it is dull and wretched stuff. But some of it is so good that it is a very great pity that it is not encouraged and stimulated to be better. There have been broadcasts of Russian drama and of Eric Linklater's war dialogues from Montreal which showed promise, but they were under-rehearsed, under-directed and under-studied; on Christmas Day in 1941 there was a broadcast of a Nativity Play from Vancouver which was, without reservation, as good as anything which has ever been heard here from the U.S., and certainly as good as anything I have ever heard done by the BBC; and why—because it was thoroughly rehearsed, sensitively directed, and adequately studied.

ALREADY I can hear the mutters of "too highbrow," from those who are convinced that Canada is inhabited exclusively by lowbrows and uncritical folk who are content with radio rubbish which would not be good enough for the States or for England. These mutterers we have always with us; they are the curse of the country. And they are quite wrong. The Canadian people are not stupid, and they do not prefer vulgar, shoddy and second-rate work to distinguished, meaty and first-rate work in the field of entertainment. If you doubt that, recall that Toronto a fortnight ago gave enthusiastic support to ten days of ballet; is the rest of Canada more stupid than Toronto?

I AM going to give the new General Manager of the CBC—whoever he may be—some good advice which he probably will not take. Let him establish in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver four companies of radio actors, each with a good director and a good technician; let each of these companies broadcast a play over a network every fortnight; in that way listeners would be given two plays a week. Make the companies work hard on their productions—ten rehearsals of two hours each is not too much to prepare a good radio drama—and urge them to use their imaginations to the full. Let them give us classical plays, dramatizations of novels, and new radio plays by Canadian authors whenever they can get good scripts. And let these companies be as little as possible infected with the superciliousness, over-caution and intellectual aridity which seems to afflict professional radio people. Such a policy, continued for three years, would surely lay the foundation for a truly Canadian drama.

Reaping Where We Sowed

The sack of Rome in 1527 by the Germans of Charles V. recalls closely the events of 1943 and 1944. There was the same Teutonic fury and the same contempt for the Roman civilization which we venerate. Why do not the Germans of today proclaim Rome an open city? Theoretically this city has for them the same cultural and spiritual significance it has for us. Why do they use it as a shield to prevent our striking at them? The whole of Western civilization would be grateful today to the Spanish bishops, for example, if they would undertake, with the aid of Franco, to ask Berlin to proclaim Rome an open city? Could Hitler refuse Franco that? In truth it must be confessed: if Rome is today in peril, the whole world is to blame. The criminally senseless policy of Mussolini for the twenty years of his reign has ended in delivering Rome to the Germans. But which one of us moved to stop Mussolini in the warlike steps of Corfu? of Ethiopia? of Spain? of Albania? Which one of us protested when fascism destroyed the holy city of the Basques, Guernica? We are reaping today what our apathy or our ignorance of our calculations or our weakness have sowed.—Montreal Le Canada.

UNITY AMONG THE LIONS

—By Thomas

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

MR. HAROLD SCOTT'S OPINION

March 13, 1944.

Sir,—Referring to Senator Duffus' proposal for the creation of a Federal Park in the northern area of Peterborough county, I have looked into this matter and find that the Dominion Government will not take over a property as a National Park until, first of all, the Provincial Government approaches them and offers to the Dominion Government property within that province free of all encumbrances whatsoever. In other words, there must be no land owner or property owner within the park. If there are homes or property within the area, the Provincial Government would have to expropriate them; then the former owners could in some cases have the privilege of leasing the property from the Dominion Government.

While I am anxious to do anything I can to benefit our county, I cannot see that this would be a wise move. In whatever section was decided upon there would be residents whose forefathers had cleared the land and would not want to give up title to property so dearly bought. It would mean that no lumbering operations could be carried on, depriving the district of making a living during the winter months. Not speaking for the Provincial Government, but as a private citizen, I cannot picture the Province being willing to make a very considerable outlay to buy in this property, then hand it over to the Federal Government to be locked up in perpetuity.

However, should the residents of Peterborough county and city feel that they would like a park, I would suggest that it be a Provincial Park, the regulations of which are summed up briefly in the attached letter which I received from the Department.

I am not in a position to promise that a Provincial Park could be obtained for Peterborough county, but if it is desired, upon receiving a recommendation from the County Council designating the area that they would recommend for this purpose, I would be very pleased to do my utmost to further the plan. I specify County Council, in that their body is composed of the representatives of the township councils who would come to County Council meetings understanding the desire of the residents of their township.—Yours sincerely,

H. R. SCOTT, M.P.P.,
Peterborough.

Ontario Department of Lands and Forests,
Toronto, March 1, 1944.

Dear Sir,—In confirmation of information extended during your interview today may I submit for your information the following relative to park areas in the Province of Ontario.

There are three Provincial Parks in the Province of Ontario covering which specific regulations made under the Provincial Parks Act R.S.O. 1937, Chapter 94, are in effect. These Parks are Algonquin, Quetico and Rondeau. I am enclosing the regulations covering each of these.

There are two other Provincial Parks which were created as such by Order-in-Council on February 13th last and these are Lake Superior Provincial Park and the Sibley Provincial Park. No regulations have to date been passed in connection with these however. Any regulations passed covering Lake Superior or Sibley or any other Provincial Parks which might be created would of course be made under the Provincial Parks Act and would be similar to those affecting the first three parks referred to herein.

With regard to the rights of persons who have outright title to land within the boundaries of Provincial Parks, I would say that the regulations do not affect them so long as they remain on their own land. They would, however, be subject to the Game and Fisheries Act and any regulations made thereunder. If such lands being privately owned are so situated that it is necessary for the owners thereof to traverse Provincial Park lands to get to and from their own land, then they would be subject to the park regulations with regard to securing travel permits. The same requirements would of course apply if they fished within the boundaries of and on Provincial Park property.

I trust the foregoing answers the questions you raised to your satisfaction; if not, I shall be pleased to look up any further information desired upon request.—Yours very truly,

(Signed) H. W. CROSBIE,
Chief, Division of Land and Recreational Areas.
Mr. Harold R. Scott, M.P.P.
Legislative Assembly Buildings.

FOR THE SETTLERS

Sir,—I am further writing you to say that where would be a good place to start a National Park would be between the Scott Settlement and the east end of the Edward Newbatt farm on Crown land, a piece of wild country that is not likely be made use of by settlers. A block of land 6 miles square would be all the National Park required and not interfere with private owned land. It would be the best way to get around it or to the north of Eagle Lake, away far from cottages and summer resorts leave them alone. No matter what lake it is around, either Jack's Lake or any other big body of water as people have no right to be deprived of their rights they are paying taxes on it they fell heir through the older settlers and I think if this letter has a very deep affect that there should be tips given for the way I have taken it up for the settlers and cottage owners in Peterborough County and now I don't know as can say any more in regard to the matter. Yours sincerely,

PAYSON H. COONES.

THE TAXES ON BEER

Sir,—In your issue of February 25, there was a report of a meeting held in your city, under the auspices of the W.C.T.U.

According to your account, the guest speaker, Mrs. E. Beavis, stated that Canada's annual expenditure for alcoholic beverages was $200,000,000, which would, if devoted to the war effort, be sufficient to purchase 2,000 bombers, and 3,000 fighting planes.

According to the literature issued by the Dominion War Finance Committee for the use of Victory Loan speakers, the cost of a bombing plane is $450,000, and that of a fighter aircraft is $50,000. On the basis of these figures which are official and therefore are likely to be accurate, the cost of the number of aircraft quoted by the speaker, would be $1,050,000,000 which is 5 times the amount quoted as having been spent on alcoholic beverages.

Perhaps more important however, is the fact that if this money were not spent for beverages, there is no guarantee that any part of it would be devoted to the war effort. As it is, approximately 70c out of every $1 spent on beer and liquor goes to governments in the form of taxation of various kinds. This means that approximately $140,000,000 out of $200,000,000, goes to the government treasury and is never returned to the citizens. If it were put into Victory Bonds, or War Savings, there would be a long term interest charge against the country and of course, the principal would be refundable at some later date, a date which is likely to occur at a time when our country is passing through a difficult process of post-war re-establishment.

These facts are presented to you in the belief that you will wish to enlighten your readers in regard to this side of the picture.

G. WATSON.

OPPOSES NEW PARK

Sir,—There has been statement made about changing the Game Reserve.

The Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association goes on record as being against any such move.

Mr. Percy Lancaster of Havelock went to a great deal of work to have its established borders surveyed. Permits from settlers and the large amount of detail to get it established. It is a district very sparsely settled, a good quantity of green woods for shelter, plenty of water. Just the ideal place for a park.

The Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association goes on record that it should be named Lancaster Park in memory to the man who worked to have it established.

The game have come to know it and any changes would be a great destruction of game. To extend the Park to the Havelock-Lasswade Road would cause endless detail as there is quite a number of farmers on that road and the reason it was not extended to that road was to give the farmer who hunts and traps four or five miles, so that he could earn a living without going into the Park.

We know that in the not distant future we will have its boundaries more clearly defined, a permanent Game Warden and reforested. The Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association has through the assistance of Mr. Ralph Kilbon of Lakefield, planted many thousands of trees and a large quantity of seed has been sown to make better feed for birds and game. We have stocked it with Elk, Chukar Partridges, Mountain Goats and Raccoons.

It is hoped that the roads can be improved so that it can be a second Algonquin Park. This park contains 86 square miles and Peterborough is very fortunate to have such a place. Many deer hunters attribute the large quantity of deer to the park. Why establish other parks when this one is not even known to many Peterborough people? What we want is more roads and better accommodation for the summer visitors.

And in the second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar Nebuchadnezzar dreamed dreams, wherewith his spirit was troubled, and his sleep brake from him. Then the king commanded to call the magicians, and the astrologers, and the sorcerers, and the Chaldeans, for to shew the king his dreams. So they came and stood before the king.... The Chaldeans answered before the king, and said, There is not a man upon the earth that can shew the king's matter....

Then Arioch brought in Danial before the king in haste, and said thus unto him, I have found a man of the captives of Judah, that will make known unto the king the interpretation. The king answered and said to Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, Art thou able to make known unto me the dream which I have seen, and the interpretation thereof?

Daniel answered in the presence of the king, and said, The secret which the king hath demanded cannot the wise men, the astrologers, the magicians, the soothsayers, shew unto the king; but there is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets, and maketh known to the king Nebuchadnezzar what shall be in the latter days. Thy dream, and the visions of thy head upon thy bed, are these....

Thou, O king, sawest, and behold a great image. This great image whose brightness was excellent, stood before thee; and the form thereof was terrible. This image's head was of fine gold, his breast and his arms of silver, his belly and his thighs of brass, his legs of iron, his feet part of iron and part of clay. Thou sawest till that a stone was cut out without hands, which smote the image upon his feet that were of iron and clay, and brake them to pieces.

Then was the iron, the clay, the brass, the silver, and the gold broken to pieces together and became like the chaff of the summer threshing-floors; and the wind carried them away that no place was found for them: and the stone that smote the image became a great mountain, and filled the whole earth. (Dan. 2: 1, 2, 10, 26-28, 31-35.)

Australia's Record

Some complaint is coming from Australia regarding the kind and amount of world publicity given to the military exploits of Australians. The protest is not registered against any outside press, but against the Australian military and information authorities.

From this distance, it appears that Australians have justification for their annoyance and regret. No troops in this war have fought better or with greater distinction than the men from the Island Continent. Particularly is this true of some vital phases of the assaults on the Japanese in New Guinea.

Yet, due to a combination of unfortunate circumstances, involving, among other things, military red tape (Australian brand), the deeds of others have been trumpeted at full blast, while those of the warriors from "Down Under" have been rendered "pianissimo," so to speak. This is not the fault of the others—specifically the Americans—who have enjoyed excellent reporting facilities.

But there is no merit in distorting the perspective of history at this stage. Such a practice can become dangerous, particularly if it gives rise to ignorance and misconception, for of these parents is often bred misunderstanding.—Brantford Expositor.

Far Behind

Only 5,500 of Alberta's 100,000 farm homes have electricity and of these 5,000 have to manufacture their own current in small plants. Only 500 have connections with power transmission lines carrying heavy enough load to make it possible to use the larger labour-saving devices about the farm and in the farm home.

The average worker in town or city would not think for a minute of getting along without electric service. Yet farmers do so as a matter of course. Alberta cannot be very well satisfied with its advancement so long as these figures tell the story of farmstead development.—Lethbridge Herald.

What would the county lose in the next fifty years in summer cottage taxes were they to have a National Park? We had better improve the park we have where we can buy land, build cottages, and enjoy it generally without so many restrictions.

St. James' Auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society held their March meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Mary Deyell, Crescent street, with an attendance of nineteen.

Arrangements were made for the annual W.M.S. Sunday which will be held April 23 at the morning service at St. James' United Church. Mrs. Davis, Mrs. E. L. Woodley and Mrs. E. J. Wagar were appointed a committee to arrange the program and engage a speaker for the occasion.

The temperance department was presented by Mrs. W. K. Sloane, who stressed social service and racial brotherhood as well as temperance in her talk.

Miss Deyell and her group members took charge of the program, taking for their theme, "The Bible." A brief passage of scripture was read by Mrs. T. Meredith and prayer was offered by Mrs. Aitchison. The story of the Bible was told in an address by Miss M. Hanbidge, who is an earnest Bible student. She referred to the early manuscripts which composed the Book, and how the King James' version was compiled.

The study for the month was taken from the book "For All Of Life" and dealt with the third chapter, "The joy of work skilfully done." Mrs. Ernest Johnston gave a resume of conditions among the poor farmers of India. These people owe to the missionaries a better knowledge of agricultural methods which have resulted in improved modes of living. This makes them more receptive to the gospel. The 119 Psalm was read by Miss Bowers.

The April meeting will be in charge of Mrs. H. F. Doig and her group.

Ten Missions Serve Central India

"Central India" was the subject for discussion at the regular meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of George Street United Church, held Tuesday afternoon. The information was taken from the "Blue Book," telling of missionary work done in 1942, and the history of the work.

The Canadian Presbyterian first began the work in India in 1872, and the first Women's Missionary Society missionaries were Miss Rogers and Miss Fairweather, who reached India in 1873. The staff now stands at 31 missionaries in the 10 stations set up. A Christian community of 40,000, mostly made up of Bhil people, in the district where the churches are working.

In Neemuch, the mission operates a school of homemaking, where girls are given training to fit them to be better homemakers, and to take their places in the village as Christian women. There are three women's and four general hospitals. The staff of these hospitals is made up of five Canadian women. and six Indian women doctors, in addition to two men physicians. There are six Canadian and 23 Indian nurses, and 71 nurses in training.

Mrs. W. H. Morton gave a review of the evangelistic work in India, Mrs. C. H. Boulter reviewed the educational work, and Mrs. James Fanning reviewed the medical work. Mrs. A. H. Radford sang "The Lord is My Shepherd," playing her own accompaniment. Mrs. James Spencer read the 27th Psalm and Mrs. A. F. Lane led in prayer. Group F was in charge of the meeting.

The corresponding secretary reported one letter of sympathy sent out, and that others would be written. Mrs. F. Latimer, supply secretary, reported that the bale would be sent this year to Mrs. W. A. Dark, at Oxford House, an Indian reserve in Manitoba. The community friendship committee, with Mrs. R. Parnall as convener, made 16 visits to homes, and five in the hospital. Mrs. James Spencer, Christian Stewardship secretary, read a paper, and Mrs. B. Manning read a short paper on Temperance.

"QUISLINGS" WRECK OWN HOMES

Unprincipled Men, Women Pulling Down The Structure Boys Dying For in Battle

Dear Dorothy Dix:— We are a group of young married women, most of us with small children. Some of our husbands are overseas Some are working in defense plants. Heretofore they have been good family men, devoted to their homes and wives and children, but they have begun stepping out of late. And mainly this is the fault of women who pursue them night and day.

Of course, we realize that the man shortage hits the girls pretty hard. Their boy friends are in the Army or Navy and they are lonesome. But this is no excuse for them trying to break up our homes by taking our husbands away from us.

What do you think of a man who has a good wife and little children who forsakes them for a flapper? What is going to become of the young girls who go out with married men, knowing they are married and who let them spend the money on them that they know is needed at home?

D. G.

Humanity Seen at its Worst

Answer:— The tragedies of war do not all take place on the battlefield. The home front has its casualities, too, and thousands of wives are being widowed, thousands of children are being made fatherless, thousands of homes are being wrecked, not by the shot and shell of the enemy, but by the treachery of both male and female Quislings who are betraying their own country for the sake of having a good time.

Nothing could be more ironic than that this whole bitter war is being fought for the preservation of the home and a decent manner of life, and that while our soldiers and sailors are risking their lives for this, unprincipled men and women at home are stabbing them in the back and pulling down the structure that they are trying to cement with their hearts' blood.

Everywhere we see plenty of unfaithful wives who are running around having good times and flirting with other men, while their husbands are sweating in the fox holes in the jungles of the tropics or freezing in the ice of Alaska. They could not deny themselves the pleasure of a few parties for the sake of the men who are facing death for them. And everywhere we see men, who are sitting safe and pretty here at home, who are carrying on affairs with these weak and treacherous females.

And we see girls, who are lonesome and bored because their boy friends are in the Army or Navy and they lack the masculine attention to which they are accustomed, deliberately setting out to break up another woman's home and take her husband from her and half-orphan her little children, just because they want the excitement of petting parties and to step out with men who will buy them drinks and give them presents.

In these traitorous wives, these men who take advantage of the fighting man's absence to despoil his home, these husband-stealing girls, humanity shows itself at its lowest. They have no drop of patriotism in them and they are a shame to the country that has forgotten them.

Villains Triumph At Brock In Mat Program

It was a bad night for the cause of virtue in the Tunney weekly wrestling card at the Brock Street Arena Tuesday night for not a hero came home in front.

Bob Wagner beat the popular favorite, Vic Holbrook, in the main bout by taking the only fall scored in an hour's spirited wrestling. Jan Gotch slapped Tom Collins into submission in ten minutes in the opener, and while Frank Sexton, favorite Coast champion did not lose he did not win either. The best he could come up with was a draw with the garrulous Greek, Tom Zaharias, when the two were counted out by Referee Bert Maxwell as they battled outside the ring.

Speaking of heroes and bad men Peterborough fans have a good chance of seeing wrestling's No. 1 man next week when it is highly probable that Wild Bill Longson, the world champion will be featured in the main bout here. Longson will wrestle Vic Holbrook in Toronto tomorrow night and he will be available for a few engagements in Canada on his trip north. Just whom he will be matched with here has not yet been announced. The champ appeared here once before when he badly hurt Toar Morgan with his famous pile-driver hold and the marine is only just now getting back into the game again after that crash.

The people's choice, Vic Holbrook, didn't have much fun in the main bout last night. He not only had to battle the hard-hitting Bob Wagner but he had a series of verbal encounters with Referee Maxwell and also had to carry on against the masterminding of Tom Zaharias, with Jan Gotch at the Greek's shoulder and evidently lending moral support to his fellow bad men. Zaharias, however, was only out there part of the time, but long enough to stir up so much ill-feeling among the fans that he was ordered to stay away from the ring after Wagner had taken the first fall. It was probably a wise precaution because there probably would have been a riot if the Greek wrestler had remained around in his coaching role.

Wagner Rugged

At that Wagner, who gave his most rugged exhibition of the season, didn't look as if he needed any help from Zaharias. The Portland bad man had evidently decided that the best defence was a good offense an he carried the battle to Holbrook from the first bell. He tore in with everything he had and that included hair-pulling, gouging, hay-makers brought up from the floor and the odd kick. Holbrook rode out the storm for a while but after Zaharias had arrived on the scene and whispered a few instructions to the Strangler, Wagner renewed the offensive with more vigor than ever and a complete disregard for the rules. He swung a few punches to the classic jaw of the tall Californian and then started to rub his eyes with something that Holbrook charged was a piece of soap. Whatever it was it was effective for the attack left Velocity Vic groggy and Wagner threw him with a head-lock to take the only fall of the bout.

The crowd was in an uproar when the second round started and Holbrook sailed in to give Wagner a taste of his own medicine. However the Californian had little luck with his attacks on Wagner's eyes for Referee Maxwell stopped him every time he started to give the Portland battler a going over. Tempers were frayed dangerously thin at this stage of the battle and Maxwell was a victim for he got mixed up in one jam and had his shirt torn off. Holbrook, usually a clean performer, met Wagner on his own ground and there were some lively exchanges before the pair settled down to a dogged display of wrestling in which neither had much advantage. Just before the bell Holbrook went on the attack, tossed Wagner around with a series of body slams and seemed well on the way to victory when the final bell robbed him.

Both Were Out

Frank Sexton and the unpopular Tom Zaharias staged a rousing brawl in the semi-final. Zaharias who got about the loudest round of booing of the season when he appeared in the ring, didn't seem to be worrying much about that or the prowess of the Columbus powerhouse either. He did a lot of the attacking and there were few dull moments for Sexton showed that he could take care of himself in the rough going and hand out a few receipts. He got one of the biggest cheers of the night when he cut loose on Zaharias with a rabbit punch that shook up the whole Zaharias family. The Greek had trussed Sexton up in the ropes in the best Cantonwine style and then dashed across the ring to jump on the ropes on the other side to tighten the pressure. However Sexton got loose in a split second, followed the Pueblo grappler across the mat and nearly knocked his head off with a punch that landed on the back of his neck.

The Californian had the bout in the bag a little later when he bowled Zaharias over with a series of flying tackles. The third one knocked the Greek right out of the ring and Sexton made the mistake of following him out. The two exchanged swings among the spectators and were still swinging when Referee Maxwell coupnted ten and that made the bout an automatic draw. The two battlers mixed it up again when they got back into the ring, but were finally yanked apart.

A Win For Gotch

Jan Gotch carried a bit too much power for the flashy Tom Collins in the opening bout. Collins is fast and clever but he was outweighed by the battering Pole who fought his usual ask-and-give-no-quarter battle and eventually overpowered the Hamilton boy. Gotch's most effective strategy was to clamp a headlock on Collins and while holding him in chancery with his left arm to play a tattoo on his head with the right. Collins got out of trouble several times by adroit moves but Gotch kept on punching and finally after 10 minutes lively action took all the steam out of the Hamiltonian with a series of headlocks and punches and then picked him up, flattened him with a backbreaker and dropped on him for a fall. The only person who liked that ending was Mr. Gotch himself.

Referee Maxwell contributed a shirt and a large amount of perspiration toward the success of the evening and Fred Scates introduced and clocked the gladiators.

By FRED D. CRAIG

There doesn't seem to be any stopping this Westclox team in the Ladies' City Five Pin League. The Big Bens haven't lost a game for so long that most of the fans don't remember just when it happened and their margin is steadily growing wider as the league rapidly eats up the third section of the schedule. For a long time the Westclox and Outboard Marines galloped along like a team at the head of the league table but in recent weeks the Clockmakers have been rapidly opening out a lead and right now are eight points in front of the second placers. In Monday's bowling the Big Bens came through as usual with three straight wins with Generals as their opponents and picked up two more points over the Outboards who could only salvage one game out of three from the Lucky Strikes. The Westclockers five hit the 3,000 mark again this week and Aggie Anderson with a high three of 730 and Marg Hawthorne with a 710 string to take second place grabbed off the individual honors for the week. The Big Bens rolled 1,146 in their third game to make a fitting finish to a good performance. The bowling generally this week was noteworthy with six players hitting the 600 class in addition to the two Westclockers who climbed over the 700 mark.

* * * * * *

While we are on the subject of bowling there should be plenty of high-class trundling in the City League Thursday night when the leading teams clash in what should prove to be two thrilling matches. The two leading teams Jay's and Cleanrites battle in one of these contests and the third place Knights of Columbus collide with the Empress team, who are also well-up in the running in the second of the feature fixtures this week. With these outstanding battles on the card and with the ace rollers Bud Weese, Doug Abraham and company battling tooth and tail to cop the scoring average leadership the weekly bill in the Men's Five Pin loop should prove about the most interesting of the season. The campaign is drawing to a climax, the teams have been performing in spectacular fashion and the Thursday night doings should provide plenty of excitement. Interest in the two feature games is high the trundlers will probably have quite an audience when they start mowing down the pins.

Bad, But They Flock In

Strangest thing about this strangest of all N.H.L. seasons is that while the hockey as a whole is about the poorest the loop has ever witnessed Lester Patrick of the Rangers says he has never had so few complaints from customers and attendance records will be broken. And yet the stuff they dish up is so bad that we find Doug Vaughan of the Windsor Star saying thusly after watching the game in Detroit Sunday night: "There has been more than one stinkaroo offered at Olympia this winter under the guise of National League hockey but it is doubtful if any of them ever topped the exhibition of last night put on by the Red Wings and Toronto Leafs. About the only thing good that could be said about the display is that in excess of 12,000 sport-hungry fans paid to see the display and the tax from the tickets they purchased will at least be a needed contribution to the coffers of the U.S. Government. Personaly, if we'd been one of those who paid to see whatever it was supposed to be, we'd been gypped. Of course, there were extenuating circumstances for the poor show. Both teams had played the night before and were far from in top shape. And, again, it could have been that both teams were just having one of those nights. In fact we sincerely hope so. Otherwise it will be mighty hard to drum up any enthusiasm for the first round Stanley Cup series that is in the offing between the same two clubs."

"A name not yet suggested for the Hart Trophy is Paul Bibeault, yet we wonder if his fine work since joining Maple Leafs, has been surpassed by any other National Hockey League player," says Bill Gaynon in the Niagara Falls Review. "The Toronto team was a pitiful sight when the ex-Canadien arrived and netminding was just about the one spot where a hurried replacement was essential. In all succeeding games, the youthful Habitant has been outstanding and his five shutouts are three in excess of the brilliant Bill Durnan of Canadiens. It's probably an idle thought as goalies rarely gain any consideration when Hart awards are made, but there is nothing in the rules which make the custodian ineligible and Roy Worters was so honored when he guarded the twine for Americans. The league has quite a list of candidates for the group's most coveted honors, and Paul is certain to be sidetracked in favor of such teammates as Babe Pratt and Lorne Carr, but without detracting a thing from either of these two, one has to declare that the Quebec kid is all player in this race."

They're Scattered Now

Bill Walshe has the following interesting comment in the Whig-Standard on the Kingston junior B team of a few years back: "Kingston Vics have an added objective in their search for the Ontario junior B crown as the token of the title is the Capt. James T. Sutherland Trophy, which was presented by the Ontario Hockey Association, in honor of Kingston's dean of hockey. A Kingston team, directed by Wally Elmer, won the trophy when it was first put into competition in 1938 and Max Jackson, manager coach of the Vics, was learning the tricks of the trade as Wally Elmer's assistant. The map of the world has changed since Kingston's last little junior club completed a successful challenge for the Ontario junior B honors. Most of the championship team of six years ago are now in the services. Ken Partis, tricky forward, is piloting big bombers over Europe and his assistant pivot-man, Gerry Younger-Lewis, holds an important position in the army. Goaler Carl Hewitt is overseas in the army and his understudy, Jimmy Simpson, has been in the navy since the start of the war. Len Crawford, husky defenceman, is in the RCAF overseas and Winger Nick Knott is an army officer. Bob Nesbitt is on the Kingston police force and Johnny Carr-Harris is in war work at the Aluminum Co. Bud Goodfellow and Doug Jesse are in the army and Aymer Burtch is in the air force."

Boston Bruins refuse to lie down and play dead. The Rossmen retained their slender mathematical chance of grabbing off the fourth N.H.L. playoff berth last night when they bumped off the Chicago Black Hawks 6 to 4. That leaves the situation thusly. The Bruins with two games to play, against Toronto and Detroit must win them both and Chicago Black Hawks must drop all their three remaining games to put the Boston club in there. The Bruins' sudden revival is adding interest to the last week of the campaign but it comes too late, in spite of their unexpected victory over Canadiens and last night's success over the Black Hawks. The Ross gang were never worse than tied last night. They ran in three goals before the rather startled Chicago machine could get an effective attack organized and although the Hawks did succeed in sewing up the game at 4-4 by the end of the second period the Bruins came on in the final 20 minutes to drive home two goals and take the decision.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Herb Cain has set a new National League scoring record....He had assists on two goals against the Black Hawks last night and his mark is now 75 points....Doug Bentley of the Hawks also registered two points to make his total 72 and he should beat the old record before the end of the schedule....Bill Calladine scored one of the Boston goals and Bill Cowley had one marker and two assists to fatten his record. The Boston ace would probably have been far out in front if injuries had not caused him to miss three games....The much-fancied Kitchener Greenshirts were beaten 9 to 4 by De La Salle in Toronto last night in the junior B semi-final series....Toronto softballers are holding their annual meeting this Saturday....The season is just around the corner....Peterborough volleyballers are expected to participate in the Ontario Volleyball championship in Toronto on Saturday....Galt banquetted its junior A squad and made presentations to them despite the fact that the team failed to weather the playoffs. The affair had to be organized in a hurry because the "Galt" boys probably wanted to leave for home....Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yanks says he is prepared for anything and he's undoubtedly wise for it looks like one of those seasons when anything is likely to happen.

Oritz Retains Title Beats Aguilar

The El Centro, Calif., Mexican last night repulsed the vigorous challenge of Mexico City's Ernesto Aguilar, a clever and resourceful southpaw who made things violently interesting for the titleholder in the 15-round contest.

Twice Aguilar pinned Maulin' Manuel in a corner of the ring and kept him there. He was pinned in for most of the seventh round and about half of the 14th. A crowd of 10,500, sensing that perhaps a new champion was to be crowned, was cheering wildly in these two violent sessions, and the two-to-one verdict in favor of Ortiz was not popular with the spectators.

In close quarters Ortiz got in the harder punches and at long range he tagged Aguilar several times with rapier rights to the head. Once, in the seventh, Aguilar went to the canvas from a stinging right, but he bounced right back.

The action was slow in several rounds and in others, aside from an occasion exchange, it was feint and clinch, with no damaging punching evident. At the finish Ortiz's nose was bleeding slightly and Aguilar had a minor eye cut.

Y-sponsored Hockey Brings 121,730 Fans

TORONTO, March 14—(CP)—Ed Otter, senior war services supervisor overseas for the Young Men's Christian Association, in his annual report to headquarters here reported that ice hockey arranged by the Canadian Y.M.C.A. war services for Canadian troops in Britain drew 121,730 spectators last year.

The "Y" war services operated eight rinks, used by 239 different teams, he reported. More than 1,000 games were played with 26,974 Canadian servicemen taking part.

Today we hold our annual Red Cross bonspiel. We have twenty-four mixed rinks entered. Twelve playing this afternoon and twelve this evening. All the receipts go for this worthy cause. Tonight's games are scheduled to start at 7 p.m.

Sport Shorts From Britain

LONDON, March 15—(CP).—The King has made Sidney happy again for the third time in two years.

Sid (his last name is Outen and he is an apprentice jockey) sparkled with joy when he achieved his ambition of riding for His Majesty at Newmarket in 1942. Proudly he donned the Royal silks and mounted Channel Swell.

But there was an accident in that very race and Sid went to hospital with fractured legs and a fractured skull. His recovery was aided by word that the King had inquiries made each day at the hospital concerning his condition.

It took a long time, but Sid finally threw away his crutches and joined the Army. But he was unhappy. He was allotted to the Royal Artillery. He didn't like working with machinery. He wanted to be with horses.

The King heard of his unhappiness. Sid's parents received a letter from Buckingham Palace saying that papers concerning their son had been sent to the War Office for consideration.

Now Sid has been drafted to a cavalry unit.

"I'm happy among the horses," said he.

Not since King Edward VII. won with Minoru in 1909 has a reigning monarch been successful in the Derby. Britons, some of whom feel peace may come to Europe this year, believe that in such an event there could be no more appropriate contribution from racing than a Royal success in the Derby this summer.

Possibility of success for His Majesty is not remote. The Royal Stable has three entries, Fair Glint, Putting Green, and Alencon and two of them have a good sporting chance. All are colts.

Fair Glint is well up in the official estimates of the three-year-olds. Last season he was unplaced only once in five starts. Putting Green's few races included the defeat of 29 rivals in a Newmarket race last summer. Alencon, though he has not yet appeared on a track, is acclaimed by competent judges as a promising youngster.

The three were bred for the King by Capt. Charles Moore and are trained by Capt. Cecil Boyd-Rochfort, trainer to the King, at Newmarket.

A jockey who twice fractured his back in race accidents, Leslie Greatorex returns to the turf this season after a five-year enforced absence. He has been engaged as a jockey for a Lancashire stable and will ride on Northern England tracks.

Leslie broke his back in two places when he fell during a steeplechase in Belgium nine years ago. He spent 11 months strapped to a bed in a Brussels hospital. On recovery he returned to England, and again broke his back in two places when he fell during a race in 1939.

Now, he figures he is ready to try again. Last autumn he spent several weeks riding horses in training at Pontefract.

By The Canadian Press

Philadelphia Bob Montgomery yesterday was ordered to take a rest of eight weeks by physicians of the New York Boxing Commission of which he is the recognized lightweight champion. The Quaker City negro had said he was too tired to fight Sammy Angott on March 31 at New York after the latter had lost his N.B.A. lightweight crown to Mexico's Juan Zurita last week in Hollywood. His own physician found Montgomery was too tired to meet Angott in the bout that was to bring about undisputed possession of title. Then, three doctors of the New York Commission agreed that Bob was too tired, making it unanimous.

The developments left Promoter Mike Jacobs smiling because he has lined up another fight at Madison Square Garden for the same night between Zurita and Beau Jack of Atlanta, Ga., who was the one who lost the N.B.A. title to Montgomery. The order of the New York Board washed out the Montgomery-Angott go and, in eight weeks, either Zurita or Beau Jack will probably be ready to exchange blows with Bob—if he isn't still too tired.

According to published reports at St. Louis, Mo., members of the U.S. armed services, both overseas and at home, want the Major Baseball Leagues to continue but are critical of players who are holding out for more money in 1944 contracts because of a man-power shortage. One comment was: "keep baseball alive but don't put up with any fancy holdouts. A lot of guys in other uniforms won't like it."

Henry Armstrong of Los Angeles, one-time holder of three world championships, made still another ring appearance at Miami last night when he knocked out Johnny Jones of New York in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-rounder. Hank weighed 145 while Jones was 143¾ pounds.

President J. Elliott Hudson of the Maritime Amateur Hockey Association last night ordered Truro Bearcats and H.M.C.S. Cornwallis to meet Frday night at Truro, N.B., in the first of their best-in-seven for the Maritime senior honors, the second game to be played Saturday night.

The New York State Assembly at Albany yesterday passed a bill which will permit the participation of 17-year-old contestants in boxing bouts and wrestling exhibitions. The present minimum age limit in the State is 18 years. The bill now goes to the Senate for approval.

Flin Flon Bombers, only civilian team surviving in the Saskatchewan Hockey League playoffs, have been lost to Allan Cup competition through the decision of the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company, Limited, that the manpower situation will not permit the players to be absent from work for long trips.

Quebec Aces Win

QUEBEC, March 15 (CP)—Quebec Aces defeated Montreal Royals 5-2 last night in the first game of a best-of-five Quebec Senior Hockey League final playoff. Aces moved to the fore on two goals by Gina Rozzini and Doug Baldwin, Dertwell and Armand Guadreault added singles. Jack Carthy and Marcel Despelteau netted for Montreal.

Have a "Coke"=Thumbs up

Among the British you hear a friendly greeting when the going is rough. It's Thumbs up. The Canadians have introduced another just as cordial: Have a "Coke". It means Let's be friends to both CWAC and WREN. From Ottawa to the Seven Seas, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—is the gracious introduction between kindly-minded folks.

Bruins Defeat Chicago; Retain Hopes

By The Canadian Press

Boston Bruins' 6-4 victory over Chicago Black Hawks last night at the Boston Gardens left the dispute between the two clubs for the fourth-place Stanley Cup play-off berth still unsettled. The Bruins advanced their point total to 43 and with two games left to play can still catch the Hawks before the National Hockey League season closes next Sunday.

In the individual scoring race, Herb Cain collected two assists to boost his total points to 75, a new league record, and Doug Bentley of Chicago scored one goal and one assist to move to 72 points.

Cully Dahlstrom scored two of the Chicago goals and Bill Mosienko added the fourth. Al Rittinger, Norm Calladine, Pat Egan, Bill Cowley, Bep Guidolin and Buzz Boll were the Bruins' marksmen.

The Black Hawks' need only one point to clinch the playoff spot and for the greater part of the third period it seemed as though he game would end in a deadlock, but Guidolin settled the issue when he scored after 14 minutes in the final frame.

TORONTO, March 15—(CP). — Red Dutton's advice to Lorne Carr to relieve the tension of a tough hockey race with a few beers would be good news to most hockey players except for one thing: Dutton doesn't pay their salaries; it's the club manager who slaps on the fines for breaking training.

The idea has possibilities, however, Alan (Brantford Expositor) Rose has this vision: "Maybe we'll see the day when instead of a water boy we'll have a beverage room waiter at the bench handing out foaming glasses to the thirsty players." Alan's vision includes this possible newspaper headline: "In his cups he wins the cup."

Dutton's suggestion that Carr hoist a few was made with the idea Lorne's scoring slump was due to over-training. Maybe the Dominion Government is pulling for Carr in the scoring race. Anyway, they removed the beer restrictions right after Dutton's advice was disclosed publicly.

Another Beveridge;

Bill Beveridge looked back over 20 years of professional hockey goaling and told Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick he doesn't agree with those who figure a goalkeeper is 75 per cent of any hockey team. "I figure a goalie is just about as good as his team is in front of him," said Bill. "If they're not checking, if their movements are lethargic (that's a $2 word for a goalie) you're apt to find yourself gripped by the same feeling in the nets. Either you move slower yourself or you try to overdo your assignment to make up for the faults up front. Either way you get into trouble."

Army Call-up Reaches Poile

TORONTO, March 15—Mel Hill and Bud Poile represent two important reasons why Hap Day isn't bubbling over with Stanley Cup playoff enthusiasm this morning.

Young Poile, operating with the Leafs on borrowed Government time for a couple of weeks, while waiting transfer from the R.C.A.F. back to the army, where he started his military service last April, has been ordered to report Friday to army authorities here. That bugle call eased Bud out of any Stanley Cup playoff plans just at a time when he was rounding into shape for the postseason derby.

Not Counting on Hill

The case of Mel Hill has furrowed the brow of the Toronto coach, without any sign of relief. Back on skates for two weeks now, following removal of a cast that guarded a broken ankle, Hill hasn't offered any indication of being ready for the playoffs.

"I remember," said Day yesterday, "when Nick Metz suffered the same kind of an injury as Hill. Nick was back playing hockey again 10 days after the cast was removed. Hill, I'm afraid, isn't any Nick Metz, and I don't count on him for any play-off help."

Leafs, swinging to a late afternoon practice shift to accommodate Collegians Tommy O'Neill and Jack McLean, finish out the regular schedule Saturday night against Boston Bruins.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 15 — (AP) — Leo (Dutch) Meyer, Texas Christian Grid coach who just acquired 10 civilian players to go with four holdovers, says he'll use only a dozen or so Navy trainees in spring practice — "We do not plan to use Navy men who will complete their work at T.C.U. Nov. 1," Meyer says. "Last season's experience of having our team wrecked in midseason cured us of that".

Toronto's Guest Star

Eddie T. Jones Champion-Urbana (Ill.) Courier: "For obvious reasons, Illinois' Buddy Young has been tagged 'Mr. Five by Five,' but since his record-tying performance at the Illinois-Purdue-Notre Dame meet, we suggest that the new spring sensation be known as 'Mr. Five by :06.1.' "

Sports and Shells

George Kobb, who announces fights at Madison Square Garden, also does some promoting in New Jersey and hires and announcer for his shows. — Reports reaching local soccer circles say an all-star English eleven will fly to Moscow soon for a series of games. — Coach Curley Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers has received 26 applications for the line coaching job left vacant when Red Smith resigned. It likely will take all 26 to fill the space usually filled by Red.

Twelve Strikes is Out

Bowler Marge Worth of Irvington, N.J., recently rolled a dozen strikes in one game but failed to get a perfect score—on her ninth perfect hit, Marge fouled and when she knocked 'em down again it was scored as a spare—after two more strikes she had and eight with her last ball and finished with a 268.

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, March 15 — (CP). — Khaki closeups: The strangest type of newspaper in the Canadian Corps in Italy is "The Decorated Scalpel," a weekly mimeographed sheet published by soldiers of a casualty clearing station.

Typical of most unit papers—and there are many in the Corps—the Decorated Scalpel features breezy items about personnel around the clearing station. The editor-in-chief is Pte Nick Cotey of Winnipeg.

Pte. J. J. Gorman of Toronto provides cartoons for each edition, while other members of the staff include Ptes. Len New, Edmonton, and Bert Silvesten, Ottawa, who writes "The Human Side of the News," and C. W. Clark of New Sarepta, Alberta, who does the mimeographing "and the other dirty work."

A new service club catering to troops of this division was named "The Maple Leaf and Spur" and the signboard at the entrance bears both these emblems. The Knights of Columbus, supervised by Ray Mulvihill, Arnprior, Ont., and Mike Quinn, Perth, Ont., run the club.

It is located in a town near the front in a big, shell-damaged building which serves the Italians as a cafe. Tea and pastry, prepared at the Divisional Catering School, are free for all 8th Army soldiers and as many as 3,500 men have been served in a day.

An Italian orchestra plays two hours a day, and features a girl whose singing of "Ave Maria" keeps the boys hushed until she is finished when their applause brings the plaster down from the airy ceiling.

Obituary

MRS. WILLIAM D. CAVANAGH

Mrs. William D. Cavanagh of R.R. No. 1, Ennismore, Lot 3, Concession 9, died in hospital Tuesday afternoon after a lengthy illness. She was 71.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, William D. Cavanagh; two daughters, Mrs. James (Agnes) Clifford of Ennismore and Rita at home; and three sons, Lt. Michael J. Cavanagh, stationed at Chatham, and William and Joseph of Ennismore. A brother, Frank Scollard of Douro, survives, and the following sisters, Mrs. William Houlihan and Mrs. Matthew Spang of Grand Rapids, Minn.; Mrs. Charles Connelly, Calgary; Mrs. Patrick O'Connor, Toronto; Mrs. J. It was almost ten years ago that Yvonne, Cecile Emilie, Annette and Marie Dionne were born to Mrs. Oliva Dionne, the wife of a French-Canadian farmers at Callander, Ont. Within a few days guards had to be posted at their modest home to control the curio Thousands of tourists flocked to see them.

On May 28 the Dionne quints will celebrate their 10th birthday. By Act of the Ontario government, they are Wards of the government until they become 18.

replying to Premier George Drew's comments on his beer announcement on Monday, said he had not received the Ontario Premier's letter suggesting a conference until after he made his announcement.

Not Competitive

In his speech on the bank bill Mr. Abbott answered points raised by various members. He said the bank would be in a position to lend to co-operative organizations, operating the type of business it was designed to assist.

It could finance developments at established, producing mines, such as installation of smelters or other equipment, but not prospecting.

To members who feared the bank would compete with private enterprise, he said that was not the intention. It was an example of the kind of partnership of government and private enterprise which held promise for the future.

Harry Jackman (PC-Toronto Rosedale), said he saw no necessity for it if the condition on which it was based, a high level of employment and national income, prevailed. Then there would be ample private funds for all industrial development. He said he fearde it would be "a sink hole for the taxpayers' money."

Mr. Macdonald said it was hoped Canada might eventually acquire the two British aircraft carriers being manned by Canadian seamen. The pilots and planes are to be provided by the British.

The situation is complicated by the fact that the carriers were provided by the United States under lease-lend, he said.

In 1941, he continued, a tentative figure of 8,000 to 9,000 men had been discussed for the post-war strength of the Canadian navy. Since then there had been further discussions, but no figure was settled.

He said he hoped Canada would retain a fairly large navy suited to the country's importance in the world. If so he believed the ships for the navy of the future should, to a considerable extent, be built in Canada. He anticipated that destroyers would continue to be built in Canada and at Halifax as required after the war.

Mr. Macdonald said there was no means of saying at present how many men would remain in the Royal Canadian Navy after the war. A post-war complement of between 8,000 and 9,000 had been authorized in 1941 and since that time various plans had been suggested for a possible maximum, but nothing had been decided.

Pass 24 Bills A Record In Legislature

TORONTO, March 15.—(CP). — With the Throne speech debate ended and the address in reply adopted 49 to 31 in the first division of the session, the Ontario Legislature to-day gives attention to various bills while awaiting the budget Provincial Treasurer Leslie M. Frost is expected to bring down Friday.

New bills will be introduced and others advanced toward passage, adding to the 24 measures which received royal assent from Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews yesterday—described as a record number of bills to be passed in three weeks by any Provincal House. Royal assent leaves the way clear to the govenment of Premier Drew to establish its proposed new departmen of planning and development.

In yesterday's division the Liberals, two Labor-Progressives and Mitchell Hepburn, former Liberal premier and now Independent Liberal member for Elgin, supported the government. C.C.F. members voted in opposition.

Dana H. Porter (P.C.-Toronto-St. George) was the last speaker in the Throne speech debate. He said the new planning and development department would be valuable called fo rgovernment consultation with abor in post-war planning, and said sessional legislation might well be considered not that of one party but of the whole House.

Dionne Queston.

The House heard criticism from Premier Drew, Mr. Hepburn and A. St. Clair Gordon, former liquor commissioner, on the beer policy of the Dominion and saw introduction of a bill to make Oliva Dionne the sole physical guardian of his quintuplet daughters in place of the three-man board which has been guardian since a year after their birth, May 28, 1934, at Callander, Ont.

Attorney-General Blackwell said the step was taken after a conference with the Quints' father, who wanted to bring his family up as a unit. He read to the House a letter from Mr. Dionne thanking the people and Government of Ontario for their efforts on behalf of the Quints and saying the family's desire was to bring up their children as "a credit to their country both from the English and French point of view."

Financial affairs of the Quints will still be handled through the Ontario courts under the bill, which was given first reading.

Premier Drew, dealing with Prime Minister Mackenzie King's statement of Monday lifting restrictions on supply of beer to the provinces, said Mr. King had implied lack of patriotism on the part of Ontario and that this province had failed to co-operate with the Dominion.

King's Argument.

Premier Drew said Prime Minister King's main argument had been "devoted to the alleged failure of the Government of Ontario to co-operate with the Dominion Government in this matter. That is an imputation too often and too readily made by the Prime Minister of Canada."

He said, however, the most "offensive feature of Mr. King's statement is the imputation that this Government is not actuated by the same patriotic motives which inspire the Dominion Government in questions of this kind."

No one knew better than Mr. King, he said, that the people of Ontario had fully demonstrated their patriotism in this war. Mr. King's statement about non-co-operation was "contradicted by the fact," which spoke for themselves.

Mr. Drew then reviewed his efforts to arrange a Dominion-Provincial conference on matters relating to the provinces and the Dominion and charged the Dominion with failure to co-operate "in the preparation of the labor code."

He mentioned other steps taken by the Dominion without consultation with the province and said "in a Federal system such as ours, conduct of this kind make effective joint action utterly impossible, to say nothing of the decent amenities which should be exepected in public life."

He said Mr. King had taken exception to the placing in Ontario liquor, beer and wine outlets saying that sales restrictions had been caused by Dominion order. These signs, he said, represented the fact and "I may tell the Prime Minister of Canada that they will remain in every sales outlet affected by the Dominion restrictions."

"The province of Ontario has accepted its full share in the prosecution of this war and as leader of the government of Ontario I must express my most vigorous condemnation of the shameful imputation by the Prime Minister of Canada that either the government of Ontario or the people of Ontario are not fully conscious of the patriotic duty at this grave hour in the life of Canada."

Mr. Hepburn, speaking for the first time this session, reviewed correspondence he had with Dominion authorities regarding liquor and beer restrictions when he was premier. He said the Dominion had broken a promise not to enter into the sale or restriction of alcoholic beverages and declared: "You can't co-operate with a bureaucracy such as we have at Ottawa.

"They are the most incompetent, vacillating, hypocritical government we've ever had."

More Tourists

TORONTO, March 15 — (CP).— Entry of United States cars into Ontario during January was 57 per cent higher than in January of 1943, Douglas R. Oliver, director of the Ontario Travel and Publicity Bureal, said yesterday in forecasting a "great boom" in post-war tourist trade. He was addressing the convention here of the Northern Ontario Outfitters Association.

IN NEW HANDS

Canadian Ventilating Shades, Limited, has passed into new hands, but the acquiring interests wished to remain for the present in the background of publicity. The company has been busy in their factory, part of the old Wm. Hamilton plant on Reid street, with a payroll of more than fifty, and according to information reaching The Examiner, the industry should be substantially stimulated by its change in management.

REGISTRATION SLOW.

Despite repeated appeals to the public, the Chamber of Commerce has had little success in impressing people with the importance of coming in and getting their car registrations, drivers' licenses and new gasoline ration books early. With only two weeks left, J. J. Dorris, secretary, said this morning that registration of 4,000 cars, 500 trucks and all the ration books pertaining to these vehicles yet remain to be attended to by their owners. The Chamber does not intend to increase its office staff to take care of the flood of late comers, Mr. Dorris declared, because people have had plenty of time and plenty of warning too.

Dixon, at 1.35 p.m.; the other at 485 Sherbrooke Street, T. Kennedy, at 7.35 p.m.

Business Girls Are Warned To Forget Race Prejudice

The problem of overcoming the racial discrimination which is growing in Canada, and of making Canada a true "land of the free" was discussed by Miss Aileen Ross, addressing the National Business Girls' observance banquet, held Tuesday evening in the Y.W.C.A. Miss Ross, a member of the committee on education and program of the National Council of Y.W.C.A., and also of the department of sociology of the University of Toronto, spoke on "Canada—a Land of Opportunity."

The speaker deplored the growing racial discrimination among the peoples of Canada, and said that since Canada was a land of many races, Canadians had to learn to work together in peace, if their country was to remain strong. She cited a great many instances of discrimination against Asiatics and Negroes, and said that white people should not consider themselves superior to colored races, since it had been proven that there was no difference in biological structure or mentality between the races.

"An idea of just what Canada represented was given to me some years ago when I attended an international conference of Girl Guides held in England," Miss Ross went on. "There were about 250 delegates from 30 countries, and we were divided into camps with 50 in each camp. One day we learned that the Princess Royal was coming to visit us, and we began to make arrangements for entertaining her. Some of the delegates were going to sing their national songs; others were dressing up in their national costumes; others were preparing to put on national dances, and still others were planning to cook national dishes. We Canadian delegates did not know just what to do, since we represented so many races, and could not think of any typically Canadian dish or dance or costume. We finally compromised and each represented a group.

"Another thing I learned at that conference," continued Miss Ross, "was the fierce nationalism of the peoples of European countries. Purity of race seemed to be all-important to them, and when I thought of the mixture of strains in Canada I began to realize why so many Europeans had come to Canada, to find peace and to have a chance to live as they pleased.

Stress Racial Purity

"In Europe," said the speaker, "racial purity is everything—each nationality is a thing apart. In Canada, however, we have, by binding nations in thought and idea, the beginning of a world colony. However, with the growing feeling of racial hatred, we have a problem to face We are in the midst of a challenging experiment—trying to work out co-operation and peace among racial groups. All peoples within our borders must have economic and social democracy, as well as political democracy, and there is no use of giving people economic security if they are not given social rights."

Miss Ross spoke highly of the findings of the recent conference of the Youth Commission, held in Toronto, and said that they deserved the support of everyone. In conclusion, she said, "the racial groups in Canada, if set one against the other, can make Canada a weak country, but, combined, they can build up a strong nation, colored richly by many cultures. Our job is to make Canada the 'land of opportunity' as it was envisioned by our cancestors, when they first set sail for a new continent, to begin a new life."

The theme of Miss Ross' talk was begun in a motion picture, entitled, "Peoples of Canada," shown by Mr. V. Fiske. The picture showed all the different races of Canada, and the contribution each had made to the betterment of the country.

Military Motif

The long tables in the recreation room, where the banquet was held, were decorated with red, white and blue streamers, set with red tapers and small flags. To each serviette was clipped a small sheet of paper, showing the approximate percentages of races in Canada. The banquet, sponsored by the Girls' Council of the Y.W.C.A., was the first celebration in Peterborough of the National Business Girls' Observance, being held in Y.W.C.A.'s throughout the world.

Miss Betty Detcher was chairman and was in charge of the program, assisted by Misses Ada Smith and Flora Metcalfe. Miss Detcher and Miss Roberta Kiefer received the guests. Special guests were the speaker, Miss Aileen Ross, Mrs. H. C. Sootheran, Miss L. Brownscombe, Mrs. E. Morrison, Miss C. Littlefield and Miss Roberta Kiefer.

Miss Doris Royea was in charge of tickets, and Misses Jean Carew, Jean Elcombe and Dorothy Hepburn were in charge of publicity and promotion. Misses Ina Robinson, Jean Carew and Dorothy Robinson supervised the supper and decorations. Miss Smith led in an after supper sing-sing, with Marion Downer at the piano.

Miss Detcher proposed the toast to the King. Miss Metcalfe gave the toast to the "Y" and Miss Brownscombe responded. Miss Carew, secretary, read greetings from other Y.W.C.A.'s in Canada.

Children Kept Home Because Of Infection

"If some other women would keep their children away from school and get them cleaned up I would not have this trouble" said Mrs. Charles Young in police court this morning when she appeared before Magistrate Gee to answer a charge against her husband of having failed to send two children to school.

Mrs. Young said that the children had been kept home because they had vermin in their hair. "They never had them before they went to school" she told the court, adding that the children had also been ill with influenza at one stage.

Crown Attorney McElderry remarked that the school records showed that the boy and girl had attended school only about half the time since the opening of school last September. At his suggestion the case was adjourned for a month to see if there was any improvement in the situation.

The charge had been laid by School Attendance Officer Fred Revoy.

BACK HOME—Wing-Com. Lloyd Chadburn, 24, youngest wing commander in the R.C.A.F., is back home in Aurora, Ont. He wears three awards, D.S.O. and bar and D.F.C. and is rated as one of the top-scoring R.C.A.F. fighter pilots. He is one of the men responsible for arranging fighter protection for bombers crossing the Channel.

Oldest Industry Gives $75 For War Victims

Going back well over a hundred years, there is so much romance intermingled with the story of the first pioneers who settled in this country, that it is a very wholesome thing to recall some of the facts that really are the foundation of the history as concerning the early days of this city and district, which naturally have a bearing on present day events.

To these sturdy folk who came from beyond the seas to carve out a new home for themselves, one of the first needs would be to build houses in which to live, and hereabouts there was an abundance of material in its virgin form, which of necessity brought about the establishment of what might now be termed the city's oldest industry in every point of fact.

In 1834 Samuel Dickson arrived in these parts, and six years later founded the Dickson Co. in this city, although their logging activities were at Minden. In those days it took two years to get the lumber down, and it has been stated that they would not look at a tree that would not square two and a half feet, proof of which may be verified in the pine stumps of five feet in diameter which still may be seen today.

This was the foundation of what today is known as the Peterborough Lumber Co. Ltd., which has come down from that beginning in unbroken sequence as its progenitor, and has at some time or other operated in Minden, Haliburton, Anstruther, Cavendish, and part of Harvey townships, their products finding a wide market, for it is told how this finest quality of pine went into the building of some of the ships that were built for the British Navy.

Not a great many people can lay claim to direct family connection with those who established themselves here in those early days, and those who are so fortunate must feel something that is kin to pride in the foundation that their forebears then laid, and would naturally be interested in anything that particularly was a part of the city's and district's operations, which in the case of this particular business has been demonstrated through the substantial support given to the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund on a number of occasions.

This Company, which still has some direct descendants of the original founder on its directorate, has given another $75.00 to the fund, which is credited in their name today, reverberating the loyalty and patriotism of those early pioneers to the motherland, so particularly desirable now in the time of her need.

And to their credit it should be said that they particularly desired that the name of their employees should be included and appended in the acknowledgement of the gift, signifying just how much they also consider them to be a part of themselves. It might also seem a very appropriate thing that this old established company should give an amount of $75.00 to help the local and district fund, when it is on the final lap towards the $75,000 mark in money raised to help the people of the British Isles.

Previously acknowledged	$74,087.66

Announcement of distribution centres, and the days and times these will be open, will be made locally.

Seven Counties Undertaking Public Health

Seven counties in Ontario are undertaking public health service, some of them actually engaged with operating staff, and others in several stages of preliminary work. This information was reported to the Board of Health Tuesday by Miss Edna Moore, chief of the public health nursing division of the Ontario Department of Health.

Miss Moore was not merely reflecting the increasing interest in rural Ontario in public health enterprise, but incidentally was indicating a contributing cause of the scarcity of trained nurses in spite of the graduates at the close of the present terms in Toronto and elsewhere.

Two of the counties alone require ten nurses. In Kingston, Miss Moore stated, the City Council and the Board of Education are combining their health services under the direction of Miss Geraldine Conley, formerly of Peterborough. This conjoining of community health forces has been advocated in Peterborough by members of the Council and Board of Education, with some progress in sentiment, but not beyond that.

As D. V. Canning, representative of the Board of Education on the Board of Health, said yesterday afternoon, the school trustees might be prepared to become more actively interested in the project if the local health department were stabilized in its staff.

The public perhaps understands that the Board of Health has had to carry on under the handicap of the absence of its medical officer of health, Dr. G. Murray Fraser, who resigned at the outset of the war to go overseas. Three medical officers of health have been engaged since then, and the board has simply had to do the best it could in circumstances which it cheerfully accepted.

Interest Drags In War Films

Attendance at the war pictures at the Collegiate Institute last night was only fair. They are continued tonight at 7.30 and 8.45 o'clock, again Saturday night and afternoon.

One film is an official "Report To the Nation" by the United States Department of War, and it attempts to convey to the people an idea of the strength of the enemy both in Asia and Europe.

When you see these pictures, you may be inclined to wonder, in spite of the progress since then, about the source of all that optimism last fall after Africa was cleared of Huns, and the Sicilian campaign rolled along on schedule, and some bemused people actually were talking about the war being over by Christmas. The pictures at the Collegiate this week, productions of the United States Government and the Department of the Royal Canadian Air Force, respectively, are not projected in pessimism, but they convey a message that does not underrate the enemy, nor overrate them, and at the same time jars any feeling of complacency here at home about the early end of hostilities.

"Report to the Nation" is an acidulous antidote of the home-town sense of satisfaction distilled of headline effects reporting the progress of the Russian armies and the extensive bombing of Hun cities.

FIFTH BROTHER IN ARMY—Leonard Nelson, son of Mrs. A. E. Nelson, 735 Water Street, is stationed with the R.C.A.S.C. at Kingston. He is the fifth brother to have enlisted. Two, Keith and Dalton, are serving in Italy; two others, Leslie and Milton, are still stationed in England. Before joining up, he was employed at the radium plant in Port Hope.

Rev. J. D. Smart Presbytery Head

The Peterborough Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church met in St. Paul's church on Tuesday with Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart acting moderator presiding.

Dr. Smart was elected moderator for the ensuing year and presbytery approved of a unanimous call received from the charge of Hastings, Havelock and Norwood to Rev. John Davey, D.D. of Toronto. Plans were made for the induction in the Norwood Church on March 31.

Rev. R. J. Stewart, D. D. of St. John's Presbyterian Church Toronto was nominated as Moderator of the General Assembly and Rev. J. F. Wedderburn of St. Andrew's Church, Kingston moderator of Synod of Toronto and Kingston.

Rev. J. L. Ralson of Campbellford and Dr. Smart were named as commissioners to the General Assembly along with a representative elder from Lakefield and the charge of Hastings, Havelock and Norwood.

Pay More For Dinner But Farmers Help War

The women of Stewart's Hall who are catering for the Threshermen's dinner at the Legion Hall Thursday night jacked their price up to a new peak, and decided that the work was not worth undertaking at anything else.

"So," said Art McIntyre this morning, "this was what we did. Usually we have enough funds left over to give the Red Cross $25 or $30, and I suppose we get the credit, and we're not looking for any. We only wish the amount was five times as large. We thought we might as well give the Stewart's Hall ladies the extra money for putting on the dinner, and it all goes into the Red Cross in the end, except that they will handle it and we won't. But as they do all the work we certainly don't begrudge them a penny. That's an explanation to people of the district who are coming in to this dinner and dance at the Legion Thursday night."

Nicholls Hospital Board May Ask For Part Of Isolation Hospital

The Board of Health expressed Tuesday afternoon willingness to consider a proposal from the management of Nicholls Hospital for their use of part of Queen Mary isolation hospital.

"If they make a study of it," said Mayor Hamilton, "I think we will be sympathetic to whatever proposition they may make, and give it our consideration."

The Board's receptive attitude was informally stated as an inclination which it was said Alderman Dutton might convey to the Nicholls Hospital Board at their meeting this afternoon. It followed a remark by Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H., to the effect that John Hornal, superintendent of the hospital, that their situation in the demand on their accommodation was "desperate" with an extensive list of prospective patients.

"It was only a suggestion to me that possibly some arrangement might be made for the use of part of the Isolation Hospital," Dr. Kelly said. "I think that in the emergency of need they might think of taking over Queen Mary Hospital and its management, and we would pay for the care of communicable diseases."

Dr. Kelly also said that about ten or twelve rooms might be considered for the reason that the need of rooms at the isolation usually declined during the summer period.

Mayor Hamilton told the Board that there was a growing feeling in the city that if persons residing outside its borders "want to come in to Nicholls Hospital for treatment, they must pay more money."

"I think that is true," Alderman Dutton, chairman of the Board of Health, agreed.

Mayor Hamilton said that the citizens were becoming more aware of the fact that a considerable number of persons from the county and from the district generally were Nicholls Hospital patients, and at the same time the city taxpayers were being called upon to assume the hospitals increased deficit.

As to the part of Queen Mary Hospital being made available for the requirements of Nicholls Hospital, Mayor Hamilton said "I think it will cost them more money," because the revenue from patients has not been sufficient to meet expenditure.

"The hospital is not like a manufacturing company that may increase its earnings with corresponding increase in business," Alderman Sullivan assented.

Alderman Dutton informed the Board that the Nicholls Hospital trustees were holding a meeting this afternoon, and that if the Board of Health wished him to convey to them any expression of opinion as to the use of Queen Mary Hospital he would be glad to do so.

Incidentally, Dr. Kelly's February report to the Board included this reference to Queen Mary Hospital: "Only ten patients were cared for during the month. Two were remaining from the previous month and eight were admitted. These ten patients remained a total of 123 hospital days. Only half these patients were city residents, and they were hospitalized for 56 days, or 44.7% of the total. There was one death."

The fact from that information relating to the Board's passing discussion of Mayor Hamilton's knowledge of a sharpening feeling within the city that the county and district were not contributing a commensurate share of the cost of the services they were receiving, indicated that even at Queen Mary Hospital its non-resident patients during February registered 55.3 per cent of the hospital-days.

Sgt. C. E. Sproat Returns From Overseas

Sgt. Cresswell E. Sproat, R.C.A.F., who returned to Canada recently on the same ship that brought Wing Com. Lloyd Chadburn home, says that he found the climate of the British Isles too damp for his health and that as a result, high-altitude flying affected his eardrums.

Attached to R.A.F. units in England and Scotland for a little under a year, he came back to Canada last week and after a two weeks' furlough in Peterborough will report to Ottawa for a medical checkup to determine what kind of Air Force job he will be able to do.

Sgt. Sproat, 32, enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in May, 1942, trained at Manning Depot, Quebec City, Toronto I.T.S. and graduated about a year ago from the Bombing and Gunnery School, Fingal. The son of Thomas Sproat, 752 Armour road, he worked at the T. Eaton Co. for seven months prior to joining up, and before that was employed at Selkirk's Men's Wear Shop for nearly 10 years.

In the British Isles all the time he was overseas, Sgt. Sproat continued advanced training as an air bomber, flying in medium craft in exercises that were to pave the way for his unit's engaging in offensive operations against the enemy. But the peculiarities of the British climate enforced his grounding and subsequent return before the climax of his training career was reached.

Enemy Raids

Sgt. Sproat is one of those who have undergone air raids on several occasions in the English capital, and as a consequence he is well acquainted with the advantages offered by the tube system at such times. He adds that "all through England it is possible to see evidence of the damage caused by the blitz, but a lot of clearing up is being done right along. Squares are being cleared and in many cases houses are being built or at least patched up."

He found there was plenty of food, only variety was lacking, and shortly before coming back actually enjoyed some of the recently almost forbidden fruit, the orange. There was a reasonably plentiful supply of fresh vegetables, Sgt. Sproat informed the Examiner, saying that English householders were carrying out Victory gardening in a strictly business like manner, using every available square foot of garden space and in most cases saying goodbye to their cherished green lawns.

He was immensely impressed with the total mobilization of women in the British Isles, saying they served in almost every capacity conceivable in order to do their part and release the services of men for the active fighting.

English Like Hockey

The Peterborough airman mentioned some sporting sidelights that tended to establish that games imported by soldiers from the Western hemisphere were advancing rapidly in popularity among English people. Though cricket and English-style rugby still maintained their ascendancy in British hearts, he found the people showing increasing interest in hockey and attending in large numbers the games scheduled by the R.C.A.F. hockey league. Sgt. Sproat, who played left defense and left wing positions for his station's team in the competition, said that the Canadian championshp of England was won by a team that had three former stars of the Boston Bruins in its lineup.

He found the English, Scottish, and Irish people, his year overseas brought him in contact with, all friendly and all nice, but he expressed a special liking for the inhabitants of Lancashire, followed closely by those of Yorkshire. The people of the south coast, Sgt. Sproat said, were a bit more reserved.

Credit Union Has Largest Meeting

The W.E.A. (Peterborough) Credit Union had its largest gathering of members at its monthly meting on Monday when the principal item of business was the report from the delegates to the recent conference of the Ontario Credit Union League in Toronto on March 4.

This report was given by A. E. Borland, secretary-treasurer and J. D. Lehane. They reported an inspiring and educational convention attended by some 200 delegates from 93 Credit Unions from all parts of Ontario. Speakers at the convention and banquet that followed were J. Perkin, Inspector of Credit Unions of the Ontario Government, Tom Doig, general manager of the Credit Union National Association of Madison, Wisconsin, also an old friend of Peterborough district Credit Unionists, John Colby, Field Representative of the C.U.N.A. Tremendous progress in the Credit Union movement on this continent was reported to the convention by all these speakers. Messrs. Borland and Lehane were thanked for their comprehensive reports.

The membership of the Peterborough Credit Union is now very close to the 100 mark. Loans granted since incorporation in 1941 total approximately $6,000. A further $100 was voted towards the forthcoming Victory Loan, making a total now invested in this way of $500, besides a $950 invested with the Central Credit Union of Ontario. A. B. Burrows, president, thanked the meeting for his re-election to that office.

Young Volunteer Convicted On Six Charges

Failure to attend drills of the 2nd Battalion, Prince of Wales Rangers (Reserve) has proven costly for Melvin D. McCartney, 223 George street, who was convicted on six charge of having missed parades of the unit. He was fined $5 on each count.

McCartney gave his age in police court this morning as 17 but Major J. M. Eastwood of the Rangers who prosecuted the cases said that the accused had stated his age as 18½ years and Major Eastwood said that he was convinced that this last statement was correct.

Sergt.-Major H. Chate of the Rangers testified that McCartney had been a member of the unit since last summer and that since October 2 last he had only attended two drills.

Lieut. Victor Gallon, McCartney's platoon commander testified that the accused had been missing from parades on January 25, February 1, 8, 15, 22 and 29, the dates mentioned in the various indictments.

Lieut. Gallon said that McCartney had been a hard boy to get into touch with and had given trouble at home.

Major Eastwood told the court that in the battalion's records McCartney's physical category was given as B1 but the accused stated that he had been rejected for active service because of defective vision and had been told by depot doctors that if he didn't have an operation on his eyes he would go blind. "In fifty shots at Connaught Ranges last summer," he said, "I failed to hit the target."

To Magistrate Gee McCartney admitted that he had not reported the condition of his eyes to the Ranger officers or sought to be given leave of absence from drill.

"That's what you should have done," Magistrate Gee told him.

Major Eastwood intimated that the accused would be discharged from the service and His Worship, remarking that McCartney was liable to a fine of $5 on each count, asked what should be done about the punishment if the accused was leaving the service.

"Is is the example to other members of the unit that we are thinking of," said Major Eastwood.

Magistrate Gee registered a fine of $5 without costs on each charge with the alternative of five days in jail on each count. He advised McCartney to get a steady job and stay at it.

"The country is full of young fellows like you," he said, "who start in stealing cars and going around the country committing robberies. That is what you will be drifting into too, if you don't watch your step."

Place Is Asked For Women At Peace Table

MONTREAL, March 15 — The efficient way women have carried out wartime jobs, which in many cases were totally new to them, has earned for their sex the right to a voice in the councils of peace, yesterday declared Hon. Iva Campbell Fallis, of Peterborough, Canada's second woman senator, at the Charter Day luncheon of the Montreal Women's Club held in the Mount Royal Hotel.

In the building of a better Canada after the war, the country will need all ability and talent available, she said. To ignore some of the nation's "human resources" on the basis of sex prejudice would be a pity, she added.

In this connection Senator Fallis was of the opinion that younger women should be encouraged to take their place in every phase of national life, especially in the leadership of various fields. "To ignore their abilities is not only unjust but today is detrimental to the best interests of the country," she stated.

Speaking of the "thousands of women who have thrown themselves with energy and aptitude into the industrial life of the country during the war," she noted their chances of securing employment in peacetime Canada.

Naturally the men of the armed forces have the first claim to jobs, she said, but after that there should be no sex discrimination. Ability to do the job and the need for money should be the only conditions in considering an applicant, whether man or woman, for employment, the speaker declared.

Made Place for Themselves

Women have made a place for themselves in the business and professional world, especially the former, said Senator Fallis. "In the public services women are not yet considered a necessity," she noted. The reason for the slow progress in this field is due to the apathy of Canadian women themselves, she added.

"If Canadian women become aware of their potential power and become sufficiently interested to use it they can move mountains," she declared in this connection she noted the great influence and opportunity for service, women's clubs can have on the life of their community.

Questions like the health insurance draft measure should be studed in clubs and recommendations submitted to the social service committee now drawing it up, she said. Considering health insurance the Senator noted that " if we are to get the full value for the money that would have to be put into it, a large amount should be marked for prevention rather than cure."

Canada today stands on the threshold of a new era, declared the speaker. It is every Canadian's hope that she will not only achieve a prominent place among the nations of the world but also become a better country within her own borders, the Senator said.

This hope must be coupled with a determination to bring it about through every individual contributing in some way, she said. Senator Fallis noted that the measure of a country's greatness was in the thrift, enterprise and initiation of the individual citizen. Thus Canadians must demand that business, industrial and government bodies give the individual a fair chance to make good, and then the responsibility for success must be left on the shoulders of the individual, she declared.

The speaker warned against enacting too much paternal legislature which would take away all initiative from the individual. In cases where the state must supplement the individual because of his misfortune of lack of ability, she said the emphasis should be placed on services first and allowances or cash second.

Hold Teachers' Jobs

TORONTO, March 15—(CP)—Assurance that teachers returning from war service will be reinstated on Board of Education staff, and due consideration for promotion given in each case, was given yesterday by the board's finance committee. Implementing its policy, the committee recommended that Col. Wilbert N. Bryan, first teacher to return, be given a school principalship. Col. Bryan was formerly principal of Church St. School.

V.O.N. Broadcast First Radio Show To Be Presented Entirely By Local People

The radio program "Kaleidoscope Number One" which will be presented over station CHEX this evening at 8.45, under the sponsorship of the Victorian Order of Nurses, is the most ambitious project of this kind ever undertaken by a Peterborough organization. Rapidly, and with a number of ingenious special effects, it will give the hearers an impression of what has been done during the past century to make life in Canada free from the worry of plagues, fevers, and all the ills which beset a land where there is no efficient public health service.

The history of Peterborough itself has been called upon for material to make up this broadcast. The Irish immigrations of the last century brought many settlers to this city, and the misery and hardship which these heroic pioneers endured make heard-breaking reading; one in every five of them died on the voyage out, from "ship-fever," and thousands died when they arrived, from the malaria which haunted the Canadian wilderness. The wife of the virtual founder of Peterborough, Mrs. Adam Scott, herself fell a victim of ague, and the story of her death is dramatically told in the V.O.N. broadcast.

But "Kaleidoscope Number One" is not a depressing or tragic entertainment; it is designed, before everything else, to amuse its listeners.

The presentation of a radio show of this description is a complicated undertaking and it has involved long and painstaking rehearsal both of the actors and the radio technicians. It is felt, however, that the result will justify the effort, and that Peterborough will be pleased with its first radio show to be presented entirely by local talent.

A pleasant surprise was provided for the cast at the final rehearsal on Tuesday night when Mr. Roy Powell, who is well-known in this city as a maker of kaleidoscopes, presented an example of his work to each of those taking part.

Those who will be heard in Kaleidoscope Number One are Mary Hale, Alene Holt, Lucy Jane McClellan, Margaret White, John Bradshaw, Robertson Davies, and R. L. Hale. Special effects will be under the care of Frank Scholes. The program will be produced by Brenda Davies from a specially written script. Following this, on each Wednesday at 8.45 p.m., there will be three subsequent "Kaleidoscope" programs.

You can only have one mother,
Patient, kind and true;
No other friend in all the world

She asks nothing in return,
If all the world deserts you,
To your mother you can turn,
So all we can do, dear mother,
Is to go and tend your grave,
And leave behind a token of love
To the best mother God ever gave.

—Loving remembered by her daughter Margaret.

boy and I have been in love with each other since we have been in high school . . This winter he went off to a military school, while I have continued here at school. When he came home at Christmas we eloped one night after a party. Now that he has gone back to school I want to announce our marriage and he won't let me. There is no fun in being married when I can't tell about it. What should I do?

Peggy S.

Secret Marriage Harmful to Girl

Answer:— You should tell your parents at once about your marriage and let them announce it no matter whether the boy wants it or not, because your good name is involved. People are always suspicious about a secret marriage and the sooner you produce a marriage certificate, the better it will be for you.

I agree with you that there is no fun in being married when you can't tell about it. On the contrary there is a lot of heartbreak and tears and repentance in it for having done a fool thing. So you had better lose no time in getting busy in trying to straighten out your affairs. Looks to me as if the boy has come to his senses and is trying to get out of the marriage.

W. Akins Named Truant Officer For Havelock

HAVELOCK, March 15 (ENS) — The question of appointing an attendance officer was again under discussion at the Board of Education meeting on Monday night. After having been advised by the town clerk, that this was not the duty of the village council W. J. Akins was reappointed at a salary of $40. a year, dating from Jan. 1 this on motion by trustees Matheson and Sarginson.

Notice from the County Clerk, Mrs. Spurway announced the appointment of Donald Anderson from Belmont Township as the County representative to the Board. Principal Goheen reported one of the assistant teachers had been ill last week and with no available spare teacher, classes were doubled up for study periods. The question arose regarding pupils going out for farm work but Mr. Goheen felt that these pupils who left April 28 lost a good deal of school instruction. It was finally moved by trustees Matheson and Sayers, that the Secretary write to the Department and get a direct ruling, regarding how late these pupils can be kept at school and yet be allowed their examinations, if they had made an average pass throughout the term. Also the Command Headquarters of the Air Cadets have notified the local Auxiliary that the Annual Inspection Day of Squadron No. 149 will be held on May 18. Since the Auxiliary receives $2.50 for each Cadet present for Inspection, it is quite important that these boys are not away at farm work.

School Attendance

Principal Jones reported for the Public School, an attendance of 161 pupils, the average is 142.1. Several cases of skin and head infection were reported since last meeting but pupils have since returned to school, with the permission of the Medical Officer of Health. A case of suspension of a pupil from one class room was discussed, and it will be further dealt with within a week by the Principal and the Board.

The annual report for Public School by Inpector L. Copp, covering the work of each teacher and class room equipment was dealt with and found generally satisfactory. It was ordered accepted and filed by trustees Plunkett and Sarginson. In the report of Inspector W. R. Stuart for the High School, hot lunches were recommended for country pupils, and the purchase of necessary dishes. He recommended a skating rink for wholesome sport and recreation, and on motion by trustees Anderson and Sayers, the School Board will meet with the Council and Park Board in the early Fall to try and make satisfactory arrangements.

To Audit Books

The Agricultural Grant for $96.-46 was received and deposited. A request for a certified report by Auditors of School Board books will be forwarded, after the books are done. All Super-Annuation deductions for 1943 are to be reported by July 1 and in the case of supply teachers, part of this may be refunded. The large account of the Hydro Electric bill for January and February was discussed, and it was decided to have the Clerk write the Hydro Commission to have the meter tested, and if found defective, to have it changed immediately.

The following accounts were ordered paid: Teachers Caretakers and Secretary's salary $1,150.35; Hydro Commission account $52.62; James Jacobs, repair to furnace $19.50; Robert McCutcheon, repairs to furnace $6; Havelock Creamery - for Sulphuric Acid .50; George Hubbel, supplies $13.64. A. C. Denike, supplies $26.31.

Brazilians Lead

ORLANDO, Fla., March 15—(AP)—A Pursuit squadron of Brazilian fliers yesterday was on its way to an unannounced destination, ready to take its place beside the fighting Allies as the first combat team to carry the flag of a South American country overseas. Brig.-Gen. Hume Peabody, commanding general, announced that the Brazilians had completed their course of combat training at the United States Army air force's tactical centre here and had departed for a secret destination during the week-end.

London Times Puts Ads On Front Page

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, March 15 — (CP). — A defence of the front page of The Times, which many consider indefensible in this day of towering headlines, could build its case around the simple point of asking the critic to read it.

For those who haven't heard, The Times is probably the kingpin among those papers which still insist that the proper page one is a page given to classified advertisements. In a moment of high excitement it stoops to modern practice to the extent of inserting a small heading at the top of the page to announce a story that can be found inside.

There is news on that front page, homely news about folks which, in a small town like yours or mine, might hit the top of the local page; news of big shots and little shots, news that makes you wonder what lurks behind its meagre content.

The Times personal columns tell many a story in a couple of lines. Like this one:

"McLaren, Moray.—Postcard received. Prisoner of war in Japanese hands. Unwounded and well."

Or this one:—

"Campo P.G. 29—Maj. G. S. C. Trench, R.A., reported safe in Switzerland."

Or this one:—

"Campo P.G. 21—Lieut. Denys Simmons now safe and well in Germany, having been recaptured within one day's walk of British lines, with his friends, Lieut. Robert Curran and 'George'."

Your paper back home would grab stories like that, put headings on them and run the man's picture. The Times runs them under a passage from the scriptures, like "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us—1 Samuel 7, 12" and an announcement that "the charge for announcements in the personal column is 7s 6d (about $1.70) per line . . . An additional charge of 1s is made to cover box fee and postage of replies."

Your paper would gloat, too, and send a reporter to inquire about an item like "the Board of Inland Revenue acknowledges receipt of £84 (about $375)—conscience money from 1819 to 1936."

Maybe there is not much news but there is interest in items like that inserted by "woman of integrity" who sought a position and listed among her attributes "a sense of humor," or that put in by somebody wanting to sell a "silk Paisley shawl, 6 ft. by 5 ft, 10 ins. and fringe. Over 100 years old. Perfect condition."

In column after column day after day there are three—or 10-line stories which tell the toll of war, like the death notice of the Lieutenant killed fighting with the guards in Italy or the notice calling for claims against the estate of a Brigadier killed in Tunisia.

You can read of marriages of the aristocracy, the business of the Elephant Tranding (South Africa) Holdings Limited." The advertisement of "City of Regina five per cent consolidated registered stock," because the page mirrors this nation from its blue of blood to its financial interests throughout the world.

To the Critic, the Modernist, the front page of the Times is out of date, too conventional too ponderous. To the 200,000 Englishmen who buy it it is England as much as tea in the afternoon or the pub down the lane.

Talented Canadian Soldier Lodged In Brig Makes 8 Pound Notes, Now Faces Charge

WHITEHALL, Hampshire, England, March 15 (CP Cable)—A Bank of England official held a pound note up to the light in court yesterday and scowled. Artfully woven into the engraving was the motto "make money in your spare time." The note had been traced to a Canadian soldier, identified in court as Pte. Edward Walter Fryer, 23, who had made it and seven others while in the guardhouse where he swapped the notes with a guard for cigarets.

Fryer, listed in army records as being from Montreal, was committed for trial on a charge of unlawfully possessing certain papers with words resembling those of a pound Bank of England note. He denied criminal intent and said he never had any intention of passing the notes as genuine.

SEEK THE BEST CHANCE

THERE ARE countless situations in which you must "play the percentage," trying the method which is more likely to succeed than some other course. If it then turns out that the less probable method would have worked, whereas the more hopeful one did not, don't let it upset you. Most especially, don't let it cause you to adopt the unsound method if the same situation confronts you again.

West put the weight on South at the outset by taking his spade A and shifting to the heart 6. Seeing the danger of club losers and therefore the necessity of preventing them, South decided to try setting up diamonds for discards instead of finessing against a possible Q-J of clubs held by East. Doing that would necessitate probably three entries to the dummy, which would require a trump guess. If it failed, he then could try the club finesse play.

He put in the heart 10, counting West for the J, and it won. Then came the diamond A, for discard of the club 3, the diamond 6 ruffed by the heart 7, the heart 3 to the Q, and the diamond 7 ruffed by the heart 4. When the diamonds did not set up, he had only one play left; try to find the club Q and J unguarded, or East willing to cover with one honor while West had the other either singleton or doubleton. He went to dummy with the heart 5 to the 8 and led the club 9. East covered with the Q and the A won. Now the K failed to drop the J, so the trump A and K could be scored, but the last two tricks were lost to the club J and spade Q.

Of course the club finesse tried earlier would have made the contract. But that depended entirely on finding the two club honors with East. Playing as he did, South would have succeeded if West had the diamond K alone, the J alone, the K singly guarded, the K-J unguarded, or those cards unguarded with East, or either with the K twice guarded, or the club Q-J unguarded in either hand, or East covering the first club while West had the other honor either singleton or doubleton. The hand had been played right, but the wrong way would have worked better.

Employers Must Check For Draft Dodgers

By The Ottawa Staff Of The Canadian Press

OTTAWA, March 15—(CP)—An intensified drive by National Selective Service to round up draft dodgers is expected to follow the compulsory canvass now being made by employers of all male employees within age groups eligible for military service.

Reports must be made to district mobilization officials by May 1 of any employees who fail to produce documentary proof that they have met the call-up requirements and employers have been provided with detailed descriptions of government certificates that may be accepted as proof.

Farmers as well as industrial employers are required to check their workers.

Radio Hearing.

The Parliamentary committee of radio broadcasting has been called to meet Wednesday, and the hearings probably will open with a statement from War Services Minister LaFleche.

Austin Frigon, acting general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, will attend to answer questions should Gen. LaFleche's statement not take up the entire sitting.

Liberal members, particularly those from the prairies, have voiced the criticism that the CBC gives the C.C.F. party more "play" in its news bulletins than the speakers from other parties, and may be expected to ask many questions about that phase of the CBC's activities.

The CBC plans to issue a white paper in time for Wednesday's meeting defining the January ruling of its governors on political broadcasting, and this will bring the issue squarely before the committee.

The CBC board of governors announced in January that the CBC would grant one half-hour monthly of broadcasting time to all political parties, and the white paper will show in detail how this period is to be divided.

It is understood the CBC has decided that no party shall be given less than 15 minutes in any one broadcast, so the division of time may present complications.

The white paper also will define the term "political party" as interpreted by CBC regulations. Protests are likely to be made if some of the new groups in the House of Commons are not included.

If the term "political party" is interpreted as including and is limited to the Liberals, Progressive Conservatives, C.C.F. and New Democracy groups, then each party could have 15 minutes of broadcasting time every second month.

Men Should Retire

WOODSTOCK, March 15—(CP).—More evidence of female ascendancy is the case of Mrs. Laister of Woodstock, who claims to be neither carpenter, plumber, nor mason, but since last September has built a house practically unaided. She required a small amount of male help to put in the foundation.

Omemee Pupils Given Diplomas At Graduation

OMEMEE, March 15 — (ENS) — Under the direction of their principal, Mr. A. D. Campbell, the pupils of Omemee High School presented a commencement program in Coronation Hall, Omemee, last week. Music, folk dancing, exercises, a three-act play, presentation of awards and diplomas were all part of the program, and one most impressive feature was the reading of the School Honor Roll with a moment's silence and a salute to the flag in honor of O.H.S. graduates who are serving in His Majesty's forces.

Mr Campbell welcomed the large audience and spoke a few pertinent words on Education—tracing briefly the history of education in Ontario and advocating the expansion of vocational teaching in the schools.

R. B. Harle, of Peterborough, music teacher, presided at the piano while the pupils sang three choruses, "The Red, White and Blue," "The Desert Song," and "I've Got Sixpence." Athletic awards were presented to the winners of the annual Field Day. The shields, donated by Dr. G. N. Earle, were presented to James Evans (Senior Boys), Elvira Magee (Senior Girls), Bill Parker (Junior Boys) and Henrietta Parker (Junior Girls). In the absence of the Doctor, Mrs. G. N. Earle made a charming little address, urging the importance of athletics in school life.

Presents Diplomas

Rev. F. W. Pooley, Christ Church Anglican, presented the school Diplomas and spoke on behalf of the School Board. Secondary certificates (complete middle school) were presented to the graduating class of 1943, namely: Hazel Fee, Margaret Hart, Gwen McConnell, Merle Rowan, Margaret Wright and Trevor Sandy, who was valedictorian but unable to be present. Intermediate certificates (complete lower school) were given to Elva Boate, Gwen Graham, Hertha Skuce, Roy Downing, James Evans and Donald Grandy. Farm certficates (for 13 weeks spent at farm work last summer) were awarded to Marie Dick, Lorna Graham, Margaret Hart, Margaret Wright, Howard Bailey, Donald Grandy and Trevor Sandy.

One of Stephen Foster's most harmonious compositions "Sweetly She Sleeps My Alice Fair" was then sung by a trio, Lorna Graham, 1st soprano, Barbara Weir, 2nd soprano and Elvira Magee, alto, with Elva Boate at the piano. Lois Nurse, Henrietta Parker, Betty Fee, Gertie Ellis, Jean Rowan, Margaret McGuire, Elvira Magee and Barbara Weir danced the old-fashioned Virginia Reel to the lilting music provided by Elva Boate, piano, Clifford Lance, violin, and Bob Brown, saxaphone.

Have Play

Mr. Campbell announced the play "Welcome Home Jimmy" and introduced the players: Lorna Graham, Elva Boate, Elvira Magee, Basil Fee, Bill Nurse, Harold Brooks, Gwen Graham, Donald Grandy, Howard Bailey, Georgette Hedge. A fast-moving comedy drama, it delighted the audience and the youthful players carried out their roles well.

Between Acts 1 and 2, Mr. Campbell directed the pupils in physical training exercises and the instrumental trio composed of Elva Boate, Bob Brown and Clifford Lance gave several numbers. Between Acts 2 and 3 the pupils gave an exhibition of marching, the Honor Roll was read, the Last Post sounded by J. L. Brooks and the pupils observed the ceremony of saluting the Flag.

Monty Banks On Canadians When Invasion Gets Underway

BY ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON March 14—(CP Cable)—Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery is going to get the Canadian troops in his invasion army group off to a good start in the attack on western Europe.

During a short, informal meeting I had with him here—most of it off the record—he said that troops new to battle should be given "a good party" to begin with.

It was obvious that this General who has never lost a battle is counting a lot on Canadians to make a good showing in the campaign in western Europe and he is likely to see that the Canadians have a few "good parties" when they land on the continent.

Gen. Montgomery repeated what he said in Sicily and Italy, that Canadian fighting men have his highest admiration and respect and he used a characteristic description of those he approves when he said: "Excellent chaps, really excellent chaps."

The General, former Commander of the famous 8th Army in North Africa, Sicily and Italy, had just finished a tour of British War factories which lasted several days when I met him. He was in high spirits and looked even fitter than when he was leading the 8th Army in Italy, despite long weeks of second front preparations and morale boosting trips around camps and factories.

In 5 minutes he ranged over a number of war topics. He said that to him a war requires the closest co-operation of all fighting forces. This is his conception of combined operations: the Army, Navy and Air Force operating as one striking force.

"You cannot expect an Army to do it alone and you will not win wars without bombing," he added, evidently referring to the heavy bombing attacks now being made on Germany and occupied France as part of the strategic invasion plan and a prelude to landings.

"The present bombing of Germany is a great thing," the Commander said. Referring to his visit to factories he said the British working men are "an awfully decent lot" and if you tell them what you want you will get it."

He probably told them on his trip just what his Armies want. The home front is of most vital importance, he said, and with a sly smile added that fighting the Germans is not the hardest thing to do in this war.

There are not many German Divisions up to full strength now, Gen. Montgomery said when speaking of the German Army and this applies not only to Italy.

At this point the General laughed and feigned no knowledge that the invasion would be made in western Europe. When those words words were mentioned he asked: "Is that where we are going?"

It is a mistake to think the German soldiers are wild beasts, Gen. Montgomery said, but he held no brief for them nevertheless, and would kill a lot. The British soldier is not like the German soldier at all, he said.

He praised United States troops here, saying they were first-class with excellent physique and referred to the great masses of manpower available to the Americans for the fighting services.

German soldier he said, could be divided into three classes from what he saw in Italy: First, the youthful soldiers of 16 to 18 years of age who were Hitler youth-movement fanatics and had never known anything else. The only thing to do with them was kill them in battle.

The other classes were made up of older men with ages ranging up to 40. They were wiser and had begun to have doubts about winning the war.

Gen. Montgomery said that Allied prisoners received good treatment from the Germans at the fronts when captured but the danger of ill-treatment lay in the rear areas when they were taken back to Germany.

The General seemed extremely confident and a dynamo of energy and enthusiasm but not under any illusions about the invasion battles ahead.

Liberal Member Approved Signs

TORONTO, March 15—(CP)—Attorney General Blackwell of Ontario said to-day that signs in Ontario beverage rooms about restrictions on the sale of alcoholic beverages were approved by A. St. Clair Gordon, Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature for Kent West, when he was chief liquor commissioner for the province.

Mr. Gordon, former provincial treasurer in the Ontario Liberal government, also gave the order for the printing and posting of the signs, said Mr. Blackwell in a statement.

The Attorney General said the signs, saying a Dominion government order-in-council was responsible for curtailment of the supply of alcoholic beverages, were put up because "many people, unable to distinguish one government from another, were blaming Ontario."

"We felt Mr. (Prime Minister) King should receive the credit or odium as the case may be. When Mr. King found it was not credit but odium, he immediately shed the 'armor of God' that he placed upon himself in the speech in which he introduced the restrictions and decided the restrictions were not necessary after all for a total war effort."

Skeena Sailor Says Destroyer Sank Sub

OTTAWA, March 15 — (CP) — The sinking of a Nazi submarine by the Canadian destroyer Skeena was disclosed today by a former crew member Able Seaman Leonard Lacelle of Ottawa who described the action in an interview as a 'definite kill.'"

Locale and date of the sinking was not revealed by Lacelle, at present at home on leave who said the destroyer sighted the U-boat as it was crash-diving.

"Our ship laid a depth-charge pattern which forced her to the surface," he added. "She blew to the surface bow first and then slowly sank back on her stern. Her torpedoes exploded and scattered wreckage over the area. It was a definite kill."

A veteran of 44 Atlantic crossings since 1940 Lacelle described the Skeena as "an efficient and good fighting ship."

Disease Cycle Kills Off Smelt In The Great Lakes

TORONTO, March 15 — (CP) — Smelt which have been caught by the millions in the Great Lakes in recent years will not "run" this year according to the prediction of H. H. McKay, Chief Biologist for the Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries in an address here yesterday. The cause of the scarcity is not the overexploitation of the delicate little fish by anglers and net fishermen but by a mysterious disease which practically wiped out the supply last summer.

The smelt, which spread like wildfish through the Great Lakes in recent years, died in millions last spring, just about the time they usually start to run up the streams in a silver horde.

Canadian and United States Biologists alike had attempted to find the cause of the mysterious disease which wiped out the little fish Mr. McKay said, "but as yet we don't know what did it. Nor, I think, would any biologist care to prophesy there would be a smelt run this year."

According to reports from Michigan and Wisconsin, few of the fish have been taken through the ice this year. One fisherman reported taking two pounds in a net in Lake Michigan, while in 1942, more than 5,000,000 pounds were taken by professional and sporting dippers.

Mr. McKay said efforts had been made last year to obtain smelt eggs for shipment to Western Canada, where it was planned to stock them. They could not be obtained however and he said, "we hope to get some at Midland. But we cannot prophesy any run this year."

1,000 Planes Rain Bombs On Stuttgart

Canadian Fliers Set New Record In Number On Raid

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 16. — (AP).—Hitting the Reich with ever-massing strength, the R.A.F. sent a great force which included more than 1,000 four-engined bombers—a large number of them from the Canadian bomber group—against the Germans last night and dropped what probably was a record weight of destruction—more than 3,000 long tons of bombs, mainly on Stuttgart.

To-day, following up the night smash, American four-engined bombers in great strength struck another hard blow at Germany, the second U.S. daylight attack in two days. First detailed accounts of the smash came from the German rado which said widespread falls of snow and close cloud caused great difficulties in getting fighters off the ground to meet the onslaught. Nevertheless, it said, fierce air battles took place among the bombers' course over Eastern France and Western Germany.

More R.C.A.F. bombers than ever before took part in the night's smashing blows. An R.C.A.F. communique said the force was 20 per cent greater than on any previous occasion.

At the same time that the important industrial target of Stuttgart, 300 miles southwest of Berlin and 450 miles souheast of London, was being grounded to pieces by the impact of the terrific load, other heavy R.A.F. bombers hit at Munich in southwest Germany, other targets in northwest Germany, and smashed at railway objectives in Amiens, France.

R.C.A.F. squadrons also joined in the attack on Amiens, key railway city back of the French coastal area north of Paris.

Forty R.A.F. aircraft, including eight of the Canadian bomber group, were lost in the huge night-invasion of the German air.

Only a few hours after the R.A.F. returned from the multiple attack, a big force of American bombers roared out across the English Channel to continue the onslaught by

Education Grant Increased By $3,500,000

TORONTO, March 16 — (CP) — The additional $3,500,000 education grant from the Ontario government in 1944-45 will go $400,000 to the Teachers' Superannuation Fund and some $3,100,000 to the municipalities through doubling of the one-mill municipal subsidy, Provincial Treasurer Leslie Frost said in his budget address to the Legislature today.

He added that the bigger grant is "only the first move in bringing about the most sweeping revision of our taxation system in the history of our Province."

The announcement of extra help from the Province was made last night by Premier Drew. Today Mr. Frost said:

"The Province will immediately raise its contribution to the teachers' and inspectors' Superannuation Fund by paying dollar-for-dollar with the teachers. That would cost the Province $400,000 a year. Teacher representatives would be asked to meet the Superannuation Commission "to arrive at a plan for better and more equitable benefits and for considering way and means to extend these benefits to widows of deceased teachers."

House Favors Direct Vote For Soldiers

May Use Proxies In Odd Cases As For Prisoners

OTTAWA, March 16—(CP).—The Commons elections committee decided today to recommend direct voting as against proxy voting for members of Canada's armed forces in the next Federal election.

The recommendation included a rider allowing other than direct voting in such cases as the committee might decide. This would cover the possibility of proxy voting for Canada's prisoners of war.

The committee also decided to recommend that the voting would be for the candidate by name and constituency rather than by party.

The committee's decisions were reached after three army colonels said they were against the proxy system. One officer said the troops think "it is a heck of a way to vote."

Representatives of the Navy and R.C.A.F. previously had appeared before the committee and stated flatly that unless some type of proxy voting was introduced many of Canada's servicemen would be deprived of their franchise.

Col. G. A. Ferguson, army director of administration, said that any system of service votes should take into consideration the wide distribution of troops and the time taken up in moving mail to the widespread stations.

He said the army was prepared to adopt any system of voting that the committee might decide upon. He

Germans Resist To The Last

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent

NAPLES, March 16 (AP)—Covered by a thundering artillery barrage, 5th Army infantry and tanks plunged into the ghost city of Cassino today but Allied Headquarters said the advance was impeded by continuing German resistance and the ruins left by yesterday's record aerial bombardment.

The enormous destruction wrought by the weight of some 2,500 tons of bombs actually delayed Allied armor. From surrounding hills the Germans were laying down heavy mortar fire on the town to hinder sappers struggling to clear the debris.

Steady progress was reported, however, both in the devastated city and in the hills to the northwest. As the troops drove into the piles of wildly-churned rubble left by history's most concentrated air attack, several hundred British and American artillery pieces pounded the enemy back.

On the basis of information available at headquarters this morning it was certain some Germans still were holding out in the immediate vicinity of Cassino but whether remnants remained in the town itself was not immediately determined. It was known, however, that there were many underground hideaways in the town.

At any rate, the Germans were obeying Hitler's orders that this key strongpoint on the way to Rome must be held at all costs and were fighting to the end, official reports indicated.

In the northwest hills where Allied infantry was penetrating the Germans still hold many strongpoints immediately adjacent to the town. The enemy was reported fighting stubbornly from these points, many of which are concrete emplacements reiforced by steel plate similar to that used in tanks.

Allies Lose 6.

In the 2,500 sorties sent against Cassino and other targets in Italy yesterday, the Allied air forces lost six planes, it was announced officially.

Debt Reduced $12,072,721 Provincial Treasurer Announces In Budget Speech

Investigation Of The Whole Field Of Real Estate Taxation Promised In Frost's First Budget

TORONTO, March 16—(CP).—A reduction of $12,072,721 in the net provincial debt for the fiscal year ending next March 31—largest decrease "in the history of the province"—was announced today by Provincial Treasurer Frost in his first budget address in the Ontario Legislature.

Mr. Frost also announced a reduction of $37,509,975 in the gross provincial debt, a surplus of $8,638,877 on ordinary account and a combined over-all surplus of $29,251,975 on both ordinary and capital account—all based on 10 months actual and two months estimated receipts and expenditures.

For six years chief financial critic for his party while in opposition, the new Progressive Conservative Provincial Treasurer also announced: An increase of one mill in the present one-mill subsidy to municipalities to be applied to the cost of education now borne by real estate; study by a Royal Commission of the whole field of real estate taxation including education costs; doubling of the present five per cent. tax on race track pari-mutuel tickets; and freeing of universities at Toronto, London and Kingston of debt through grants totalling $1,316,000.

Only Taxation Change

The increase in the race track impost was the only taxation change mentioned in the 15,000-word speech which gave assurance that "no new forms of taxation will be imposed."

"The government feels that with our people laboring under a great weight of wartime taxation that the greatest service which it can render is to avoid adding to that burden either by way of increased debt or taxation."

For the fiscal year ending March 31, 1945, Mr. Frost forecast a surplus on ordinary account of $209,799, based on estimated expenditures of $117,123,231 and estimated revenue of $117,333,030.

Although he gave a figure of an over-all surplus for the present fiscal year, the treasurer made it clear he did so only because such over-all surpluses had been presented in the previous two budgets, last year's by A. St. Clair Gordon (L—Kent west) and the previous year's by Mitchell F. Hepburn (L—Elgin).

"I find this combination of capital and ordinary receipts and expenditures creates a wrong impression." he explained. "A capital surplus does not necessarily reduce the net debt—however for the purposes of comparison I now present—figures showing an interim over-all surplus for the year ending March 31, 1944 of $29,251,395."

The true over-all surplus, he added is shokn in the figures giving the reduction in the net debt.

At the outset of his speech, Mr. Frost referred to the "brilliant budget addresses" delivered by Mr. Hepburn, who was provincial treasurer from 1934 until last March and the address last year by Mr. Gordon who held the post from March until last August. "I am sure they will feel a deep satisfaction in having rendered signal

Doctor Given 16 Years In Prison

DETROIT, March 16 — (AP) — Federal Edward J. Moinet today sentenced Dr. Fred W. Thomas, Detroit Obstretrician convicted of conspiracy to violate the Wartime Espionage Act to 16 years in Federal prison.

Dr. Thomas, one of eight persons indicted on charges of espionage conspiracy, was convicted two weeks ago by a Federal Court jury

Dr. Thomas was accused of supplying espionage information on war production and troop movements and ingredients for the manufacture of invisable ink to Miss Grace Buchanan-Dineen, native of Toronto, described by the Federal Bureau of Investigation as the leader of the espionage ring

Dr. Thomas throughout the trial denied the accusations.

The jurors who deliberated more than 20 hours over a five-day period before reaching a verdict, recommended leniency.

TORONTO, March 16 (CP)—Premier Drew told the annual banquet of the Mutual Fire Underwriters' Association of Ontario last night that British girls who have married Canadian servicemen overseas and their children will form the first addition to Canada's new post-war population. He said 18,000 Canadian servicemen had married in Britain.

Roosevelt Asks Finland To Reconsider

WASHINGTON, March 16—(AP).—The United States joined Great Britain in a direct appeal to the Finnish people today to end what President Roosevelt termed "this hateful partnership" in war with Nazi Germany.

A formal presidential statement was issued at the White House after Britain had urged the Finns to accept Soviet Russia's armistice terms or "court national disaster." This apparent last-minute effort to prevent complete collapse of Russo-Finnish peace negotiations, said in the President's name:

"It has always seemed odd to me and to the people of the United States to find Finland a partner of Nazi Germany, fighting side by side with the sworn enemies of our civilization.

"The Finnish people now have a chance to withdraw from this hateful partnership. The longer they stay at Germany's side the more sorrow and suffering is bound to come to them. I think I can speak for all Americans when I say that we sincerely hope Finland will now take the opportunity to disassociate herself from Germany."

Russian Army 25 Miles From Dniester

Nazi Central Sector Appears On Verge Of Complete Collapse

BY EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, March 16 — (AP) — The whole central sector of the German front in southern Russia appeared in a state of collapse, the Russians said today as arshal Ivan S. Konevs' 2nd Ukrain army drove relentlessly on toward Rumania, advance units of his troops reaching positions less than 100 miles from the frontier.

LONDON, March 16 (AP)—Red Army troops have captured Vapnyarka, cutting the Lwow-Odessa railroad, Premier Marshall Stalin announced tonight.

A vigorous attack by tank and infantry formations smashed into the railroad junction, 25 miles east of the Bessarabian border, said an order of the day broadcast from Moscow.

(The Rumanian frontier as defined by Moscow is the border set up in 1940 after Russia had annexed Bessarabia. Actually, according to official Russian reports on the Soviet advance, Red army troops are within 30 miles of the Bessarabian border.)

Field dispatches said two great Soviet drives were making speedy progress toward Nikolaev and Odessa and that the Germans were falling back in confusion upon these potential evacuation ports.

Railways Menaced

Some Russian units were reported about 100 miles north of Odessa while Nikolaev was almost cut off from the Black Sea by Russian big guns covering Bug Lake south of the city.

The Germans apparently were in danger of losing the most northern of the only two remaining railways in their hands which run into Bessarabia from Slobodzeya on the Odessa-Lwow line. The Russians said their troops were only 20 miles north of the junction.

The army newspaper, Red Star, said Stormovik dive bombers were blasting a way for Konev's calvary as it moves forward through the 62-mile gap on the western side of the Bug River. The Soviets were reported 20 miles beyond the river in some places and slightly less than 25 miles from the Dniester River, which is the Bessarabian boundary.

Indications are that the Germans will try to make an all-out stand on the Dniester, and this should

Churchill Issues Challenge To Atlantic Charter Critics

By JAMES LONG—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 16 — (AP). — Prime Minister Churchill answered an attack on the Atlantic Charter, in the House of Commons today, with a confident challenge to the Opposition to test the Government's strength, and declared:

"It is rather late in the day to begin these sweeping condemnations of the Atlantic Charter which at the time seemed to receive a cordial welcome generally."

The issue arose when Rhys Davies, Labor, asked Mr. Churchill to arrange debate and said recent statements on the charter by the Prime Minister and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden suggested that some of its principles had been abandoned.

Opposition to the charter was voiced by a Conservative member, Maurice Petherick, who asked:

"Are you aware that the desire for debate is not confined only to the honorable member from Westhoughton (Rhys Davies) and those who think as he does? It is also shared by those who maintain that the Atlantic charter, where it is not platitudinous, contains principles highly dangerous to the British and Allied cause."

Of Davies' motion for debate Mr. Churchill said:

"Although this motion is not sponsored by any organized political party is is couched in hostile terms, is supported by 70 members, and wears the aspect of a vote of censure.

"There being no official party opposing the government, a sufficient number of members banding themselves together ought, in my view, to have an opportunity of bringing their challenge to a test."

"If, however," he went on, "it is not a vote of censure we shall not give time, as the session already is crowded."

This left up to the framers of the original motion whether they wish to rephrase it as a formal call for a vote of censor.

Justice McTague Plans To Resign This Week

OTTAWA, March 16 — (CP) — Resignation of Mr. Justice C. P. McTague of Toronto as chairman of the National War Labor Board will be announced this week, it was learned today.

Officials declined to comment on the report but it was learned from very reliable sources that the resignation is likely to be announced in the Commons today or tomorrow.

The chairman is at present the only member of the three-man National Board appointed in February, 1943, at the time the Board was re-organized. Senator J. J. Bench, K.C., of St. Catharines, Ont., appointed employer representative at that time, resigned because of ill health and was succeeded by Leon LaLande of Montreal.

J. L. Cohen, K.C., of Toronto, Labor representative on the original three-man body, was removed by government action and placed by John A. Bell of Toronto.

Bracken Lashes CBC Policy Regarding Political Talks

OTTAWA, March 16—(CP).—John Bracken, National leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, today described revised Canadian Broadcasting Corporation regulations dealing with political broadcasts between elections as "a most arbitrary action on a government-appointed board," which "ought not to be allowed to go unchallenged."

(The new CBC political broadcast policy, outlined in a White Paper placed yesterday before the Commons Radio Committee, provides that the Liberal Party will receive two hours and 24 minutes annually and the Progressive Conservatives and the C.C.F. one hour and 48 minutes each.)

Mr. Bracken's statement follows:

The Board of Governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has once again violated the trust of the Canadian people. The revised regulations dealing with political broadcasts, between election periods, makes a mockery of the free speech to which the Corporation's governors pay lip service.

After laboring under the lash of country-wide criticism, the CBC governors let themselves say this: "The air belongs to the people, who are entitled to hear the principal points of view on all questions of importance." It then condescends to set aside less than 1-10th of one per cent. of the network time for political broadcasts—the equivalent of 10 minutes per month for each of the three major political parties in Canada.

The CBC Board of Governors has no reason to be proud of the new arrangement. This action on the part of a government-owned medium of public communication, makes it more apparent than ever that a drastic revision of the present set-up is necessary if free speech is to mean anything to radio in Canada. This is a most arbitrary action of a government-appointed board and it ought not to be allowed to go unchallenged.

Chinese Troops Capture Tinghawk

NEW DELHI, March 16.—(CP).—Chinese troops have captured Tinghawk Sakan, 12 miles south of Walawbum, in their steady drive southward to oust the Japanese from the Hukawng Valley in Northern Burma, Lord Louis Mounbatten's Command announced to-day.

This latest push placed Lt.-Gen. Joseph Stilwell's forces at the edge of the Mogaung Valley, containing the towns of Kamaing and Mogaung on the Mandalay railroad. The communique also said the Japanese were continuing to move northward in the Kaban Valley to the south-east.

Sofia Hit Hard In Third Raid

NAPLES, March 16 — (AP). — R.A.F. Wellingtons attacking in force on the tail of heavy and medium bombers early this morning smashed the railroad yards of Sofia, capital of Bulgaria. This was the third raid on Sofia.

The important railway line connecting the capital with Belgrade, the capital of Yugoslavia, was believed severed by thousands of bombs, including many two-ton blockbusters dropped by the night-flying Wellingtons.

The weather was perfect, the crews reported, and good visibility augmented by flares permitted the target areas to be completely covered.

70 Jap Planes Lost In 4 Days

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, March 16 — (AP). — Underscoring the growing power of the Allied Southwest Pacific air force, headquarters today announced raids in which almost 500 tons of bombs were dropped on Japanese positions ranging from Wewak, New Guinea, to Bougainville Island in the Solomons.

Heaviest hit was Wewak, Japan's big air centre and supply base on the north New Guinea coast.

It was the fourth consecutive daily strike on Wewak, and 174 tons of bombs were dropped, bringing the four-day total there to more than 600 tons. Eight more Japanese intercepting planes, making more than 70 in the four days, were shot down.

In the New Guinea area, Australian ground troops pushing along the Mintjim valley south of Madang reached an excellent road leading to Madang's main outpost, the town of Bogadjim, and now are 35 miles from Madang.

At Pearl Harbor, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the U.S. Pacific fleet, announced that Navy search planes on Monday delivered the first bombing attack of the war on Oroluk atoll in the Carolines, 190 miles east of Truk.

Finland's Final Answer Expected Sunday

Rejection Of Armistice Terms Grave Blow To Allied Hopes

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Anaylst

On of the momentous decisions of the war is in the making—perhaps has been irrevocably cast already—in Helsinki where the Finnish government has been struggling with the fateful question of whether to accept Russia's armistice terms or to defy the hurricane

The little country is generally reported to have decided on rejection of the Soviet conditions. An Associated Press dispatch says the Finns are preparing everything for the resumption of war. The final word, upon which hang great eventualities is expected to go forward to Moscow at the week-end.

Finland's rejection of the armistice terms must have grave consequences for all save the world's worst enemy — Adolf Hitler.

It means that this brave but mistaken small country will have to undergo a tragic manhandling with ultimate surrender which, at the least, may bring indefinite military occupation of Finnish territory by Red forces.

In effect it is a major military defeat for the Allies at the most critical moment of the war when we are marshalling all our strength to administer the coup de grace to Germany. As things now stand Finland continues to guard Hitler's flank on the Baltic; she compels the Russians to maintain in Northern Russia fighting troops which are needed elsewhere for the great offensives.

Bolsters Axis Satellites.

By the same token it is for Hitler a military triumph. But it's more than that, for it will have a far-reaching moral effect. It will bolster the failing morale of the German people. It may deter the wavering Axis satellites in the Balkans from deserting. It may encourage some neutrals to continue granting Hitler favors— Spain for instance.

Unless Finland recedes from this position at once, the immediate effect presumably will be a fierce bombardment of Helsinki and other cities by the Red Air Fleet. In due course that will be followed by a land offensive.

There can be only one outcome—bitter defeat for the Finns. The British Broadcasting Company has gone to the extreme of giving a "final warning" to the Finns to accept the terms. The BBC says that the alternative is the prospect of "national suicide."

One wonders whether the people of Finland as a whole really know all the hard facts of the situation or whether they have been kept in the dark. It presumably was with this thought in mind that the BBC made its appeal.

Nazis Murdering French

Gripsholm Passengers Rode "Hell Train"

By GEORGE MILLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

JERSEY CITY, N.J., March 16.—(AP).—After the privations of life in Nazi internment camps and the terrors of a "hell train" on which they left the Reich, 374 non-official civilians patiently waited today aboard the exchange liner Gripsholm to set foot on free soil again.

Disembarkation of the official party of 149 diplomatic attaches, Red Cross personnel and newspapermen was completed last night, seven hours after the Swedish ship docked. No Canadians were aboard.

Still aboard were some who told Mel Most, Associated Press staff member at Vichy and himself a Gripsolm passenger, of seeing anti-collaborationist Frenchmen shot dead by Nazis near the Compeigne interment camp; of seeing Augsberg a blazing inferno after an Allied bombing; and of being sealed in heatless cars in a "hell train" en route to Lisbon, Portugal.

Some travellers aboard the train told of being refused drinking water and being kept without food for 24 hours.

Highways Icy After Storm

Driving Will Be Bad For Few Days

By The Canadian Press

Most of Ontario was covered with a thin coating of ice to-day as rain, falling intermittently since yesterday, froze as it dropped, making highways dangerous and interrupting power and telegraph services.

Fifty-six persons were hurt in falls on Toronto's ice streets but most injuries were minor. Hundreds of others suffered breaks and sprains in the area from Kingston to London.

The Ontario Motor League said icy conditions on highways are general through most of the province and as far north as North Bay.

Highways were almost impassable around Belleville where much damage was reported to trucks. Two transports sideswiped near there, causing damage of $2,000.

At Hamilton it was said loss would be heavy if a strong wind comes before a thaw as wires and trees will be unable to stand the strain.

At several points brief interruptions in telegraph and power services were reported as wires broke under the accumulated ice.

Drew Subsidy Halts City Tax Roll Work

The Drew government's budget announcement today of an educational subsidy equivalent to one mill in the 1944 municipal tax rate was received at the city hall late this afternoon with the satisfaction that will be shared by all ratepayers, but slightly modified by official sense of lost time and effort in work that will have to be done over again.

City Clerk Outram told the Examiner that his staff was about half way through the tax roll, an accomplishment of the last two weeks, "but we will now have to go back to the beginning."

"I don't feel like saying anything about an announcement which I have not read yet. We are glad to know the government has been able to provide this subsidy for educational purposes. As to its effect on our own office work the assistance was not anticipated when the City Council struck the tax rates.

Individual Taxes

"We have to take the rate and the assessment roll, and from that we compute the individual taxes which are entered in the tax roll for this year. It must be correctly balanced and then turned over to the Tax Collector Couper, and the taxpayers' bills are made out and delivered to them.

"I have been putting a new system into effect in the present roll and it has been working well, and we have about half the roll done already. The announcement will require us to go back and make the alterations conforming with the government's subsidy of a mill."

Mr. Outram said he did not wish to make any further comment until he had received the budget information.

Effect of the government's first step toward reducing the cost of education in the province was assumed as reducing the tax rate by one mill, and leaving the rate for Public School supporters at 30 mills and Separate School supporters 33 mills, the local rates of last year.

Premium Help To Hog Industry

The new Dominion premium has been a great stimulus to the bacon hog industry, a fact which is mentioned in the Prince Edward county report this week to the Ontario Department of Agriculture. "And there will be a considerable increase in the number of chicks raised this year."

The country is bulging with foodstuffs, and Grenville says chick hatcheries "report an unusually high hatching percentage."

In Oxford county more than the usual number of farms are reported. Eastern Ontario bush farmers are in the woods many of them cutting their year's supply and the others making ready for the flow of sap.

Dairy cattle are moving to the United States from Prescott-Russell and in Renfrew there is some talk of a prisoner of war project. Wentworth says there is a considerable demand for extra help, but farmers are not so interested in high school boys as they were a year ago.

On that point Northumberland remarks that April 1 should bring considerable help to the land and its workers. That is when men on temporary winter work are due to return.

Prince Edward cattle men sent another car of springers to Vermont a week ago.

Liquor Permits Increased By 700 Percent

TORONTO, March 16 — (CP) — Liquor permits issued in Ontario from the start of rationing in January, 1943, to the end of January 1944, increased nearly 700 per cent Provincial Treasurer Leslie Frost disclosed today in his budget address to the Ontario Legislature.

When the first ration of 160 ounces monthly became effective there were 155,295 permit holders, compared with 73,117 the previous month, December, 1942, which marked discontinuance of the single-purchase permit system.

"It provides food for thought, however," said Mr. Frost, "that from that time, which is coincidental with the imposition of Dominion restrictions (on gallonage releases), that the number of permit holders has reached the total, as of Jan. 31, 1944, of 1,277,459."

Mr. Frost's figures showed a progressive monthly increase in permits as rationing moved to its present 26-ounce quota.

No Price Changes

Advocating "fair price and proper control," the Provincial Treasurer held out no promises for an early cut in cost to the consumer but declared that "when the Dominion government raises its wartime restrictions affecting spirits and wine, the Ontario government will be prepared to revise its prices to a proper level and to emphasize proper distribution and control."

Mr. Frost described liquor profits as "a legitimate source of revenue," and of revenue accruing from taxation on the sale of spirits he said:

"Dominion taxation on the sale of liquor consists of Customs Duty Excise Tax, War Exchange Tax and Sales Tax. During the fiscal year 1943-44 the total amount received by the Dominion government under the above headings from Ontario sale exceeded $34,000,000. During the same period the profits of the Ontario (Liquor Control) Board were approximately one-half that amount."

Any attempt by Ontario to lower the present price of liquor would affect "the Dominion guarantee which it is necessary that the Province should have to ensure the continuity of its income in these abnormal times." This guarantee, announced March 1, 1943, "was conditional upon the Province raising its retail prices for spirits by an amount at least sufficient to absorb the $2 per gallon increase in the duty of domestic and imported spirits which the Dominion put into effect" on that date.

A decrease of $3,687,383 in revenue from the Liquor Control Board was forecast because the "substantial inventory" the Board had at the start of the current fiscal year "has been largely sold and under present conditions cannot be built up or replaced." Maximum revenue which can be forecast is $16,312,616.49, the amount of profits "guaranteed by the Dominion for the base year ending June 30, 1942."

result in the most concerted defence since the Germans tried to halt the Red army at the Dnieper

Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 3rd Ukraine army of Stalingrad veterans poised the threat to Nikolaev at the mouth of the Bug River.

Konev's forces leaped the Bug River on a 62-mile front between Nemriov, 23 miles southeast of Vinnitsa, and Gaivoron, 62 miles southwest of Uman. The Russians also reported the capture of Olgopol, only 15 miles from the Odessa-Warsaw rail line, already cut 200 miles to the northwest at Tarnopol.

The Russians also announced the capture of Bereznegovatoye and Snikerevka, hinges of the trap between the Ingul and Ingulets River.

Capture of the rail station of Kopany brought the Russians within 17 miles of Nikolaev, which was almost cut off by water and threatened from three sides of the land. The fall of Nikolaev would menace German troops retreating from Novo Ukrainia. Nikolaev is 65 miles northeast of the Nazi's supply base of Odessa.

Thomas Bagnall Dies Suddenly

A heart seizure at three o'clock this morning brought death suddenly to Thomas Fred Bagnall, veteran employee of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company, where he has worked for the past 29 years. He was 56.

Mr. Bagnall had been in apparent good health, and his wife has been quite ill, so he was sitting up with her late last night, when the seizure overcame him as he sat by the side of her bed. He died within a few minutes.

He is a veteran of World War I having enlisted in this city with the 93rd Battalion. He was also a member of the Canadian Legion Branch 52.

The late Mr. Bagnall was born in Birmingham, England, and came to Peterborough 33 years ago. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bagnall of Birmingham, England.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Reg. Lesurf and Mrs. A. Hargrove, and one son Thos. Bagnall. Two sisters and two brothers also survive, Mrs. Mary McDonogh, Mrs. Ada Bretherington and Harold at St. Catharines, and George in Birmingham.

The funeral will be held on Saturday March 18 from the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street west at 2 p.m. to Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. Canon Robertson of St. John's Anglican Church will conduct the funeral services.

ment of a Royal Commission on Real Estate taxation and Education costs, announced last night by Premier Drew. Pending its report and action by the government, "in order to assist municipalities and by way of an immediate reduction in taxation on real estate," it was planned to increase the existing one-mill subsidy by an extra mill.

"This will involve an additional payment to municipalities of more than $3,100,000," Mr. Frost said. "The total subsidy, therefore, to municipalities, one mill to be applied to the general rate and one mill to the cost of education, will be in excess of $6,200,000."

Municipal debt had been reduced from the high point of $504,000,000 in 1932 to $305,000,000 in 1942. But despite the improvement "it has been felt that more drastic action should be taken." The Province was pledged to sweeping revision of Real Estate taxation and, as a first step, to assuming "at least 50 per cent of the school taxes now charged against Real Estate."

Meanwhile Allied headquarters' announcements from Naples reported a two-way operation against Germany of her satellites with a heavy and medium bomber attack from Italy last night against Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, followed by a raid in force by R.A.F. Wellingtons which rained two-ton blockbusters on that main junction in Hitler's Balkan rail network—now doubly vital for the German forces in Russia.

Dispatches from Naples said it was believed that the railway was severed at least temporarily.

Heavy Bomb Load

The record load on a single target—2,500 tons—which was tossed on Berlin, on Feb. 15 may have been exceeded in the hammering of Stuttgart, a manufacturing centre of ball bearings, Daimler-Benz engines and Bosch ignition and electrical appliances, although the Air Ministry did not specifically say that a new mark had been set.

The force of 1,000 heavy bombers was exceeded by the United States armadas during the start of the all-out bombing spurt the last week in February, but it was doubtful if the Americans' bomb load was as great as last night's.

On other occasions the R.A.F. has sent 1,000 bomber forces against Germany, as in the case of Cologne, Essen and Bremen in the spring of 1942, but not nearly all of them were four-engined aircraft as last night.

Stuttgart, visited by six major attacks—attacks involving from 500 to 2,000 tons of bombs each—since the start of the war, also is one of Germany's most important railway junctions. It also was bombed heavily by the Americans on Sept. 6.

"The weather prevented immediate observation of the results, but towards the end of the attack the glow of large fires were seen through the clouds," the Air Ministry said in announcing the Stuttgart attack.

Only a few hours after the British night raiders returned home a big force of American bombers droned out across the English Channel to continue the offensive by daylight.

The German air force also was out during the night, dropping bombs at several places in Southeast England and the home counties and giving London another alert, but no bombs fell in the Capital and the Press Association said only two enemy planes reached the city's outskirts.

Stuttgart, situated in south-western Germany about 90 miles north-west of Munich, was last attacked in force by the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. the night of March 1.

The R.A.F.'s heavy bombers have not been over Germany in strength since that time, although they have made a series of heavy night attacks on aircraft plants and other industrial targets in France—the last being the March 13 raid on the railyards at Le Mans, 115 miles south-west of Paris.

Finland Ready To Resume War On Russia

LONDON, March 16 (AP)—Warned by a BBC broadcast that she faces "the momentous decision of her history," Finland was reported drafting a negative reply today to Moscow's peace proposals and wearily digging in for a last-ditch fight beside the Germans.

A Helsinki communique last night said that the Finnish parliament had unanimously approved a motion "to return to the order of the day"—a move tantamount to approval of the Finnish government's rejection of the Soviet terms.

At almost the same time that parliament was considering the questoin of peace or war, a BBC broadcast, obviously officially approved, gave what it called "final warning" to the Finns to accept Moscow's "moderate" terms and get out of the war at once or face the prospect of "national suicide."

"To reject the terms will be to court national disaster," said the broadcast, directed to the people of Finland. "To accept means the survival of Finland as an independent sovereign state."

The British appeal to the Finns said "the world at large — notably America and Sweden—regards the armistice terms as acceptable and in the circumstances even moderate. It regards them as such in the light of facts which Finnish censorship has kept from you."

The statement declared that "the final defeat of Germany is at hand" and asserted that "the world regards you (Finland) as the aggressor nation."

A dispatch from Stockholm said it was expected there that Finland's final reply would be forwarded to Moscow Saturday or Sunday.

From Helskini, Associated Press Correspondent Edwin Shanke reported that the Finns were preparing everywhere for resumption of hostilities.

hoped that the system evolved would give every soldier a chance to vote.

Col. Ferguson said one objection to the taking of a direct vote was the difficulty of providing facilities for Canadians, attached to widely-scattered British units, casting their ballots. The number of Canadians in this category had recently increased with the adoption of a new policy of supplying junior officers to the British army.

Silly Idea

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver South) asked the Colonel what he thought of the R.C.A.F.'s suggestion on proxy voting with the next-of-kin acting for the service man.

"I think it is a silly idea," Mr. Green added.

Col. Ferguson answered: "I have given some consideration to this plan and if ordered to do so the army would carry it out but I think the soldier would be happier if he could mark his own ballot."

Answering D. F. McCuaig (L-Simcoe North), Col. Ferguson said he would prefer, as a soldier, to have a direct vote even though some of the troops were not reached by the ballot.

Col. J. G. MacDermad, Assistant Adjutant-General, said the direct vote, taken among the troops in Canada in the 1940 elections, had been successful.

Discussing the vote of reserve army personnel who might be at camps during an election he suggested arrangements be made for an advance poll.

Sam Factor (L.-Toronto Spadina) said only six per cent. of the men used the proxy vote in the 1943 Ontario elections.

Col. A. J. Brodie (P.C.-Royal), saiad he was "very much against" the proxy system even though it might mean some soldiers were disfranchised. He added that the direct vote would probably result in as large a proportion of soldiers voting as there would be civilians.

"There would be more if the men were paraded," put in Flt. Lt. James Sinclair (L.-Vancouver North).

State Secretary McLarty said if the next-of-kin proxy were used persons in Britain who had no interest in Canadian politics might be included among the proxies.

$3,500,000 New Grants For Schools

Drew Will Set Up Commission To Study Taxation

TORONTO, March 16 — (CP).— Premier drew announced last night the Provincial Government will contribute an additional $3,500,000 toward the cost of education during 1944-45.

The Premier's statement, issued last night, said the $3,500,000 grant was a temporary measure until the Government plans to assume 50 per cent of the cost of education can be carried out.

It said a Royal Commission, representative of all shades of opinion, will be set up to conduct an exhaustive public inquiry to ascertain essential facts which must be established before an attempt could be made to revise real estate taxation, as was the Government's intention.

Before a Royal Commission could be appointed, the statement said, it was necessary to reorganize the Department of Education to "provide essential background for the proceedings before the Commission.

"That reorganization has taken place and we now are ready to proceed with the selection of the Commission and the planning of the procedure to be followed."

Mr. Drew said experts had been working on the subject of tax reorganization for many months and have laid the foundation for a public inquiry which "must be conducted for the purpose of exploring the extremely complex problem to be solved."

There were 6,399 school boards and other local authorities in Ontario. It would be impossible to assure equality among them under existing conditions and the Government had been advised that any attempt to arrive at some temporary solution "would only aggravate the inequalities which now exist."

The most difficult aspect was the "tremendous difference in methods of assessment throughout the province" which in istelf represented an insuperable barrier to the immediate solution of the problem.

The Premier said he revealed last night what the Government proposed "because of the number of misleading statements made in the past few days which have been reported in the press."

He outlined what he had said in the election campaign of last August about revision of the whole system of real estate taxation and assuming 50 per cent of the cost of education but said it was never assumed that it could be done overnight.

Never at any time, however, had there been any suggestion of departing from those fundamental principles or the undertaking given the statement said.

I.O.O.F. Veteran Dies In Peterboro

George Edward Johnson, 308 Pearl Avenue, who was a charter member of Lakefield Lodge 358, I.O.O.F., having joined in 1905, died this morning at the hospital after an illness which had lasted about a week. He was in his 80th year.

Mr. Johnson came of a pioneer family in Smith Township. He was the son of the late George Johnson and Elizabeth Fairbairn, and his parents were born there, too. He resided in Smith until 26 years ago, when he retired and came into the city. The late Mr. Johnson was a member of Murray Street Baptist Church.

Municipal Plan On Health To Be Debated

TORONTO, March 16—(CP)—The Ontario Legislature today will receive the first budget brought down by Premier Drew's Progressive Conservative administration which took office last August.

Provincial Treasurer Leslie M. Frost will bring it down this afternoon and budget debate is expected to begin next Tuesday.

Tomorrow the House will deal with legislation now before it, including a government measure for a new municipal health plan, introduced yesterday by Health Minister H. P. Vivian.

Under this measure, municipalities on a majority vote of their elect[illegible] will be permitted to levy taxes [illegible] provide available health services to be co-ordinated by a provincial health services board. Provincial grants will be given to areas where adequate money cannot be raised by municipal taxation.

Won't Be Coerced

Premier Drew replied to a published statement of the Canadian Temperance Federation that Ontario and other provinces had failed to cooperate on the beer question with the Dominion Government and had resorted to statements that "misrepresent the facts."

The Premier tersed these charges without foundation and declared that, although the Ontario Government was opposed to intemperance, "intemperance is not limited to any one particular activity of mankind." Ontario, he said, "is not going to dominated either by beer interests or by intemperate advocates of any special cause."

Mr. Drew also revealed that [illegible] government was attempting to arrange with the Dominion for stricter control over export of mill feeds and bran to the United States to prevent a shortage here. Farmers had been

Felt Tired, Nervous, Rundown Back Ached; Stomach Rebelled

Is Delighted With Improvement in Health and Recommends Syntona to All Who Suffer Similarly — Says Stomach Felt Better From First Few Doses — Then Nerves Relaxed and Pains Went Away.

MRS. WESLEY HARRISON

"There has been such a definite improvement in my health since I've been taking Syntona that I will be only too glad to have others know about this medicine," said Mrs. Wesley Harrison, 161 Tragina Avenue North, Hamilton, in a recent report:

"In the last year I was troubled constantly with a dull ache in my back, and no matter what I tried, I couldn't get rid of it. I had become rundown, my nerves were bad and I couldn't sleep, so I felt tired and wornout right from the beginning of each day. My appetite wasn't very good and what little food I did eat just seemed to sour in my stomach and cause gas, bloat and cramps. I was subject to frequent headaches and I often felt lightheaded and dizzy.

"My husband was using Syntona and it seemed to be helping him, so I decided to take some, too, and it helped my stomach right from the first few doses. Now after a few weeks, I am feeling ever so much better. My nerves are relaxed and the pains have gone from my back so I can get a good night's sleep and I arise mornings feeling rested and ready for the day's work. I am free of those dizzy spells and headaches and I can now enjoy my meals without all that gas and indigestion."

Syntona produces these results without the aid of harsh drugs or depressors. It is made only from the pure extracts of herbs, roots, and barks that have long been known for their medicinal value. Make up your mind to take Syntona yourself. See how much better you can be feeling in just a short time.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

L. B. Reynolds Addresses Fruit Growers

COBOURG, March 16—(ENS)—Raspberry and strawberry producers met at the office of the Northumberland County agricultural representative recently, where they were addressed by L. B. Reynolds, chairman of the Ontario growers' group. Mr. Reynolds pointed out that the province was permitted last year to organize under the Ontario Marketing Act and bargain regarding prices and general control of the industry, and it was now necessary for a vote to be taken by the growers. All who sell these fruits to processors will receive a ballot through the mail in the course of a few weeks. They are urged to express their opinion and return the ballots at once.

Northumberland County growers appointed Robert Blyth of R.R. No. 4, Colborne as chairman of the local committee and William West of R.R. No. 5, Brighton as secretary. They are to represent the interest of the community in District No. 6 and their expenses will be looked after from the Ontario Raspberry and Strawberry Growers' Association. It is felt that some measure of control is very desirable in that nearly every community is now organized to forward the consumption, price and the general place in the farm program of the given product.

Mr. Reynolds pointed out that there was some difference in price conditions that must be rectified in that processors were somewhat limited in their price by the fact that figures for 1941 were the basis of their business. Fresh berries were in keen demand in many sections and had sold as much per pint on those markets where the demand was keen as could be secured from processing per quart. He stated further that much of Western Ontario would prefer that no ceiling price be placed owin[g] to the fresh trade but that the[re] was little doubt that organized [eff]ort by those selling to processors would bring about some assistance to both the producer and the manufacturer from the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, as there was a desire to have some berry products available for the armed forces and the general trade. It would appear, he said, that eastern Ontario interests would be well served by voting for the marketing scheme.

Competition Gone

In regard to raspberries, he pointed out that the proper weight per quart was from 21 to 22 ounces and that among the new varieties, Geneva was the most promising, at this time. One of the encouraging features in berry production is the fact that Japanese competition has been removed in British Columbia. They had tended to sell very cheaply and suppress the market. The climate of Scotland, especially around Glasgow was said to be the best in the world for raspberries and that the most foggy condition of the atmosphere seemed to have much influence.

In Canada, British Columbia and those areas near the water had a distinct advantage in the cane fruits, Mr. Reynolds said. The Premier was the best brand of strawberry and credited the fact that the blossoms, tending to bend down, was more protected from rain and the influence of frost among the leaves, and therefore a better set of fruit was obtained. It was pointed out that the processor was only limited in his ceiling by the portion of the crop sold for civilian consumption and this was only one-ninth of their business while the remainder was purchased by the government on a competitive basis at higher prices. With half the raspberries processed, produced in Northumberland and adjacent counties, the growers would appear to be serving their best interests by encouraging a marketing scheme, the speaker declared.

They Want Beer

Forums Unite For Meeting

HARWOOD, March 16—(BNS)—The Harwood-Gore's Landing Radio Farm Forum met on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCulloch, with an attendance of 28. R. E. Drope presided and Charles Chidley was secretary. The subject for discussion was: "Community action can be planned," and the meeting was divided into two groups. Highlights on each question discussed were: Threshing and silo filling bees are popular, but outside of these very little co-operation of labor is practised; very little equipment is purchased on shares, but there is a co-operative seed cleaning plant in the community. The trouble has always been in the business end of the undertaking. The seed cleaning plant is still in operation, and they still change labor for silo filling.

Two men working together can do more than three alone. However, the farms which require much machinery are too isolated from one another because of the hilly country. If the rules were general enough so that each community could apply its own peculiarities, it would work. A co-operative must be run in a sound way, and if this policy were governed by laws, it would be more likely to be adhered to. The recreational leader was Kenneth Symons. Mrs. R. E. Drope gave a recitation and Kenneth Symons put on a vehicle contest. Refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Rev. M. C. Fisher at Gore's Landing. A banquet will be held in the basement of Bethesda United Church on March 27, which will conclude the Forum.

St. Andrew's W.M.S.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 16 (ENS) — St. Andrew's W.M.S. held their March meeting on Tuesday when the president Mrs. R. McCulloch gave a reading "Faith", as one of the main features of the afternoon.

Mrs. A. C. Connor and Mrs. F. B. Adamson who have been ill for some time, were welcomed back by the president. Mrs. E. Wynn for the program which included prayer by Mrs. Alfred Hay; scripture reading, Mrs. Johnson; prayer, Mrs. Reg. McCulloch; a selection from the study book "British Guiana" by Mrs. Alex. Beattie; piano solo, Mrs. T. McNeice; vocal solo, Miss Hazel Atkinson. The group headed by Mrs. Edison Wynn served refreshments to the gathering.

Federation Sponsors Meeting

COBOURG, March 16—(ENS).—The Northumberland Federation of Agriculture is sponsoring a meeting of growers of peas, corn, beans and cabbage for canning purpose at Colborne hall Friday afternoon. Ralph C. Banbury, Northumberland county agricultural representative, stated that under present conditions, those in charge of agricultural matters in the Wartime Prices and Trade Board are continually asking for information on various crops and an organization to speak for the growers seems desirable.

It has been suggested that a group be formed called the P.C.B.C., standing for peas, corn, beans and cabbage, although other crops could be added or the organization could not embrace all of these four. The special speaker will be I. E. Anderson, chairman of the Ontario committee, who will outline in details the needs in regard to these crops to supp[ly] wartime demands and something [o]f the price arrangements to be agreed upon between producer, processor and the wartime control boards. These vegetable crops have a mutual value to all concerned in that they bring considerable cash income to Northumberland county farmers and contribute much to the food front, Mr. Banbury declares.

Doctors For Civil Life

On Monday a very important report from the Medical Procurement and Assignment Board was tabled in the House by the Hon. J. L. Ralston, the Minister of National Defence; it bears directly upon the shortage of medical and nursing service, which has become acute in some parts of the country.

We all know that the doctors and dentists are painfully overworked these days, and that it is hard to get a nurse when one is needed; we know also that hospitals are having every kind of trouble in keeping staffs of untrained but necessary workers. But the report which Mr. Ralston put before the House shows that the armed services are medically overstaffed: the Navy has almost five doctors to every 1,000 men, the Army 4.5 doctors per 1,000, and the R.C.A.F. 3.66 per 1,000. It is estimated that three or four doctors can look after a thousand men without any trouble. But statistics for March, 1943, show that at that time there was only one doctor for each 1,261 people in Canada; in some parts the shortage was so bad that there was only one doctor for each 2,000 of the population, the situation being especially bad in New Brunswick and Saskatchewan. Yet in spite of this shortage in civil life, and the admitted surplus of doctors in the services, another 583 doctors were taken into the services during the past year.

Among dentists the shortage is even more acute, as anyone knows who has tried to get an appointment for emergency work. There is one dentist in Canada for every 3,477 people. Small wonder that the dentists are distracted; they are bravely attempting the impossible.

In hospitals the difficulty of getting workers for kitchen service, cleaning and other necessary work is very great. Hospitals cannot compete with war plants in paying for unskilled workers, and consequently hospitals labour under a very great handicap, and their efficiency has been markedly lowered. The report before the House advises that a control be put on the staffs of civilian hospitals before matters become completely unmanageable.

The Canadian people are proud, naturally, that their doctors and dentists have been so anxious to give their services to the fighting men. But they are not proud to see doctors with easy jobs in the services in Canada, while older doctors bear the very heavy burden of civilian work.

The Medical Procurement and Assignment Board has made several recommendations which are of the utmost importance; some of the changes which they urge are drastic. But the situation is grave and it is growing worse, and we hope that Parliament will attend to the matter with all possible dispatch.

Mr. Power On Demobilization

The Hon. C. G. Power, Minister for Air, has discussed the problem of demobilization in a clear and comprehensive speech to the Commons, and it may be assumed that the points he made will be the foundations of Government policy in this matter. Mr. Power has asked for criticism and advice from the Opposition and undoubtedly he will get it; we shall be surprised, however, if any of his principal points are assailed.

Briefly, what Mr. Power proposed was this: that men in the services should be demobilized in accordance with each man's personal record, men who have served overseas being given the earliest attention, and their claims being estimated on grounds of length of service, nature of service, age and dependent children. It is understood, of course, that men will not be demobilized so long as their services are needed for necessary work. The system outlined by Mr. Power is substantially that which has been decided upon in Great Britain; it has disadvantages, and of these the chief are that it discriminates against older men, and against young ones who have never had jobs in civil life. Demobilization, however, is a gigantic task, and it has to be arranged with an eye to several different considerations; this system of establishing priority on 'points' is the fairest system that has been devised as yet; perhaps discussion of the matter in the House will suggest improvements upon it.

Mr. Power put forward several suggestions which will appeal very strongly to service men and civilians alike. Career planning, and not job placement is the important thing in getting men back into civil life, and educational and technical training will be available to men before they are demobilized. But Mr. Power does not believe that service organization is the best means of helping men to take up their lives in a world at peace; its methods and its attitude are bound to be wrong.

The line which the Government spokesman has taken in this matter should be reassuring to everyone who is interested in the fate of the service man in the first years of peace. The developmen and extension of the plan will be followed with great interest.

Asking The Children

It is said very often nowadays that the principal cause of delinquency in children is delinquency in parents; we think that there is much truth in this observation, but we do not believe that it is the whole truth, by any means. And although we think that it is a good thing for parents to accept blame for the bad behaviour of their children, we decidedly do not think that it is desirable that the children themselves should lay that blame upon them.

Recently in the city of Windsor some of the boys and girls of King George School made speeches in which they set forth what they believed the duties of parents to be. Now let us say frankly that while we consider lectures to children from parents to be perfectly in order, we think that lectures from children to parents are impudent nonsense, and should not be encouraged. A home should be a benevolent autocracy; there can be no real equality there. The parents must rule, as wisely and as gently as they are able; children may argue, and they should be heard, but the deciding vote must always lie with the parents.

And why? Because children are immature and know little of the world, however sophisticated they may appear to be. A priggish child of fifteen or sixteen can doubtless make an impressive speech on the duties of parents, but what does he actually know about the subject? The speech-making will exercise his voice and his capacity for oral composition, but so far as sense goes it is as a sounding brass or a tinkling symbol.

Impressed by the Windsor experiment, the Windsor Star writes:

> "How about gathering the children together some evening? Ask them in what particulars they think you, as parents, are falling down, what you are failing to do to help and guide them. Let them know that you want frank talk, that you are really seeking information and ways to improve your relationship with them. Properly approached, the boys and girls will speak their minds, and the penetration they display will probably amaze many fathers and mothers. If we want to help our children stay on the proper path, it is worth while to find out from them what help they think they need."

What, in actual fact, would come from such a family pow-wow? Embarrassment, hurt feelings, and trouble, we predict. The adolescent's greatest problem is that he does not know what he wants, and if he thinks he does, his demands change every week. He needs advice and understanding, certainly, but we do not think that he is able to diagnose his own case well enough to tell his parents how to bring him up.

No, we stand resolutely by the old idea that parents should bring up their families without benefit of direct advice from the children. There are certain places where the parliamentary system has no validity, and the home is one of them.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A report comes from Shelburne, Ont., of a pig which ate its owner's bankroll of $140. Very fond of green stuff, pigs.

Says the Toronto Telegram: "Ottawa's health program starts with a good, healthy grasp at the taxpayer's wallet". That is the usual beginning of government projects, and often it is the most vigorous thing about them.

A political writer attributes the success of Tito's Yugoslav partisans to "their trade-union training". Where they got it, in a country where 90 per cent. of the population works at farming, we really do not know.

Adolf Hitler, as commander-in-chief of the German armed forces, has created a new decoration, the Bandenbekaempfungsabzeichen, for the fight against Partisan forces.—Berlin Broadcast.

For the Axis, Tunisia is essentially an island which is worth holding even at the cost of heavy sacrifices. These are worth-while because Tunis represents an important bridgehead. — Hungarian Home Broadcast, March 27, 1943.

Canadian Scene

By DUAHCIM

(The fifth in a series of letters to a son in the armed services)

DEAR John: From my chair here in the great, glass-screened alcove which forms the west wall of this room, I can look up the gentle slope of Cedar Hill into the sunset. The sun, a cooling globe of molten gold lightly rimmed with still living fire, is bathing the western sky with gently glowing colour. To the left, high on the crest of our hill, the old sentinel pine is dark against the golden light. The soft contours of the descending slope to the right are heavy with cedar that in the near horizon make lacy pattern of their silhouette.

Sinking slowly in tired splendour to its rest behind our Cedar Hill domain, the sun has now embraced in wide diameter the little church of stone your Grandfather built in reverent deference to the Christian way of life. Its slender spire, softly gleaming in golden light, reaches upward in a calm farewell. Shadows lengthen ....fade away; dusk....and the night is here.

And as the sun today was born of the eastern sky and faded into the west a little while ago, so —since my last writing—did your Grandfather complete his cycle. And as we do not mourn the sunset, so do we not grieve his passing. Each has done for the world a kindly duty without stint, and taken his departure.

Your Grandfather would have it, John, that we carry on with life in normal fashion now that his passing is behind us. In life these letters relative to the passing show were pleasing to him and he pleased me with his thought they served a useful purpose.

ASSUMING that these writings have been sufficiently informative, I think you now possess a scale which may be safely used in judging the merits, or demerits, of our established ways of political and economic life as compared with such other methods as were described in previous letters. Let it be considered now the fact that proposed un-Canadian changes in our way of living do receive an undeserved attention by a portion of our people.

First and foremost is the reason that we are a young and eager nation with a population aggressively determined that if better things exist on earth we will to have them. So we are ready to examine whatever comes before us. As an individualistic people, free to act as separate units, and to think as much, there are those who choose to see improvement in the application of these methods. The fact our democratic laws allow the misleading of our citizens makes a spreading of these doctrines very easily possible.

We lean so far backward in our determination that freedom, as we know it, is the only freedom having worth, that conditions as existing in Quebec are tolerated. Regardless of the fact that Canada is at war, the people of that province are allowed to determindly oppose its successful prosecution. They band themselves together and openly declare dissatisfaction with all things British, ignoring that but for Britain we might be in sorry place. Some saving grace these people have: they are native to our soil, and bitterly resent such foreign doctrine as would be certain to deprive them of their liberty of thought. They value all four freedoms and would guard them sturdily.

THERE are in almost every town or village across the country groups of good Canadian people being instructed in the tenets of socialistic creeds. So call 'intelligentzia' who lay claim to a higher learning expound their weighty theories. Some people are impressed by the formidable array of significant letters following the printing of a name. Words falling from the lips of such as these must possess the wisdom of the gods! But could these expounders of the new conduct the business of Jim Jones, or farm the land of Pierre Masson? That is doubtful. But they most assuredly are pastmasters of the art of 'just suppose.' They can answer any question where their theories are concerned, but a practical earthy problem is beyond their vast attainments. Yet they gain a goodly following from the ranks of those of us whom adversity has visited and have not yet found strength to rally.

All these people, teachers and pupils, cannot see the great forest that is our Canada for the magnificent trees which go to make it up. There is nothing fundamentally different in the creed they expound. There is nothing they promise which we do not possess already, and much more. We have a freedom of the individual; their creed denies its followers that liberty. And for the future we are planting in the forest that is Canada even more magnificence for our children. There is nothing socialism can give that we cannot attain for ourselves. Are we beggars that we must look to others for improvement? Are our ideals so low that we must borrow of a foreign people.

THE socialists gain a following because they teach a certain creed. We lose in strength because we fail to consolidate our holdings. It must be realized that Canadian people must be taught to be Canadians. The nationalism that is so proudly rampant in Quebec might well be copied for all Canada. We Canadians, who breed as fine and true a race as live on earth, should realize our worth. What finer soldiers, sailors, airmen, fight the battles of this war? What finer citizens of the world achieve the miracles of effort necessary to support these super-Canadians? What better citizens can be found than those who had a hand in the last fifty years of Canadian development? Away with the humble habiliments of an inferiority complex that is depressing our young, and let us clothe ourselves in a manner befitting our position as a nation, lusty, strong, and proud in the light of our achievements. Let us outdo the socialist in his zeal for converts. We have all the advantage; they have to convert, we have but to awaken the Canadian people to the knowledge that he already possesses far more than the socialist teaches that he should possess.

I would ask, my boy, that you think about all this and with your fellows discuss the possibility of furthering these ideas, this awakening of a truly nationalist spirit. And now I must leave you. Your mother, Peter and Sara, all join with me in wishing you good fortune and goodnight, John.

YOUR FATHER.

Hint To Braggarts

An unofficial compilation places Canada's war casualties of all categories to date at approximately 25,000. Our own are reported in the neighbourhood of 150,000. Although our population is 11 times Canada's, we have lost in killed, wounded and missing and prisoners of war only about six times as many men as has the Dominion.

These figures are to be commended to people in this country who talk as if the United States were doing all the fighting.—Detroit Free Press.

UNSTRUNG NECKLACE —By Rube Goldberg

Bernard Shaw In Reverse

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

BERNARD SHAW was born in Dublin, and he went to London in 1876, at the age of twenty, where he engaged in socialistic agitation and later became one of the founders of the Fabian Society. The Fabians aimed to bring about "the emancipation of land and industrial capital from individual and class ownership and the vesting of them in the community for the general benefit", "the extinction of rent", and "the transfer to the community of the administration of such industrial capital as can be conveniently managed socially".

Mr. Shaw is now in his eighty-eighth year, and he is a sadder and a wiser man regarding the sociability of Socialism. He has had an opportunity of seeing it with his own eyes put into operation in Soviet Russia, and he has recently been suffering personally from its partial application in his own country. In a long letter to the London Times, the one-time socialist agitator and castigator of the capitalists has chewed up and swallowed his former self entirely.

"Facing an irresistible drift of economic changes from absolute private property to public property...to Fascist State-aided capitalism, from freedom of contract to State-regulated trade, from competition to co-operation to communism," Mr. Shaw now declares that these changes "may smash up civilization". He reminds us of how the socialists of Russia "convinced that private property in land is a baneful institution, took the successful farmer, the Kulak, by the scruff of the neck and threw him into the lane to beg." The result was "weeds and desolation, and Russia began to starve". Lenin very soon had to pick the Kulak out of the ditch and put him back on the farm "with instructions to cultivate and exploit it for all it was worth until the Soviet was ready to take on the job".

This is the wiser Bernard Shaw speaking. He goes further: "And what applies to farming enterprise applies to all enterprise. Lenin had to rehabilitate the trader, just as he had to rehabilitate the Kulak". While he still believes that collective farming and trading "may come in time; meanwhile the more private farming and trading flourishes the better for everybody. Dukes are better landlords than needy freeholders".

I ONCE heard Mr. Shaw say, in his usual oracular manner, that no one should object to paying taxes; the more taxes the merrier. He has evidently changed his mind, or he may argue that his dictum has been taken literally, and that you can have too much of a good thing. He is now calling upon the Government to abolish the surtax and the excess profits tax "root and branch". There can be no doubt that the continuance of these excessive taxes after the war would put private enterprise into reverse.

Mr. Shaw has lived long enough to learn, not only from personal experience, but from current history, that you can't have Socialism and Democracy at one and the same time. He has seen that the first impulse of the socialists is to injure those who profit by the capitalist system, and, as he says, "to liquidate all its functionaries and replace them with congenial revolutionists". He warns against any attempt to repeat the Russian experiment with its "terrible" results. "Nevertheless", he says, "it seems quite probable that we shall repeat them all, and learn from experience, at an appalling cost, what we are incapable of learning from history".

Should Bracken Enter House Now?

Yes

(Winnipeg Tribune)

For some months past, The Tribune has made no secret of its belief that John Bracken should take his place as Leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons. Every day's proceedings in Parliament confirm us in this view. Unlike some of the "faint-hearts," The Tribune believes that John Bracken has a great contribution to make to our national affairs in this crisis. The only place where he can play his full part is in the Parliament of Canada where the national issues are fought out....

What then are the arguments against Mr. Bracken's entering the House? The first is that he has another job to do, that of organizing his party. Mr. Bracken has done this with conspicuous success in the past fourteen months. The job is not complete, certainly. This is a duty which he owes to his party and to the movement which he heads. But there is a wider duty of leadership to the people of Canada which he cannot fulfill outside the nation's forum, which is Parliament.

Some of the "faint-hearts" even go so far as to suggest, since Mr. Bracken is inexperienced as an Opposition leader, and since he has so small a following in the House of Commons, that he would be "swamped" by the Liberal steamroller in the House. It is quite true that the Conservative group in the House of Commons is not strong numerically. Nor, with some shining exceptions like Messrs. Gordon Graydon, Howard Green and J. G. Diefenbaker, is it particularly strong in quality. It is true that the Liberals with 177 seats in the House, against 49 Progressive Conservatives, have an overwhelming advantage. It is nevertheless true that M. J. Coldwell, heading a little group of twelve C.C.F.-ers manages to put up a vigorous opposition.

It is true, also, that Prime Minister King is a brilliant parliamentarain who knows the rule book backward and forward and takes every technical advantage of the system. But even supposing Mr. Bracken were no match for Mr. King in the intricacies of parliamentary procedure, what then? John Bracken in the House of Commons would tower above petty politicians with their little bickerings about procedure. His full stature would be revealed. The whole tone of a parliament which has lately grown irritable and fretful would be improved by his presence.

And to those faint-hearts who doubt we would say, "Once there was a man called David." David, by facing up to the giant, proved that his true stature was greater than Goliath's.

No

(Ottawa Journal)

It has been left to Senator J. W. deB. Farris to discover that Mr. John Bracken's political activities are "subversive of Parliamentary government."

Senator Farris, we must assume, stumbled on his find accidentally. Because had he been searching in alert anxiety for things or persons subversive of Parliament, it is not Mr. Bracken he would have hit upon first. He would have discovered and been concerned with the fact that one-sixth of the membership of the branch of Parliament in which he sits has been vacant for some two years. He would have cried out against the truth that in recent years the Senate, as much a branch of Parliament as the Commons, has been treated by the Government with contempt.

He has just returned to a Chamber which has stood adjourned for nearly a month, yet the most use he can find for it now is that it takes up a day of its time in discussing the activities of Mr. Bracken, this associated with a complaint which, among sensible people, can arouse no emotion more profound than laughter.

Mr. Bracken not in Parliament! Does Senator Farris not recall that after Mr. Mitchell Hepburn took on the leadership of the Liberal party in Ontario (this with the benediction of federal Liberals, including Mr. King) he did not take a seat in the Legislature until some three years afterwards, remaining the while as one of Mr. King's most devoted captains in the House of Commons? We recall no deep stirrings for the constitution in the breasts of Liberals then—no caucus over it by Liberal members here at Ottawa. (Senator Farris will know what we mean.)

Canadians will wonder, listening to the juvenile talk of Senator Farris, what has come over our parliamentary institutions when men who are considered to be among its leaders can descend to such utter nonsense.

Senator Farris' proposed childish resolution with respect to Mr. Bracken will hardly heighten his stature in the Upper House, or in the country. Instead, it must lead to the conclusion that the supposedly judicial atmosphere of the Senate has worked no change on his party spirit; that at a time when the Upper House could and should be devoted to things useful he is attempting to prostitute it to a piece of petty politics—politics as small as it is dumb in strategy, resulting only in more public awareness of a Bracken panic in high Government councils.

A Bible Message

Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it.

Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravenly wolves. Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles?

Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit. A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.

Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire. Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them. (Matt. 7: 13-20.)

A Pagan Shrine

It may bring a glow of thankfulness to the hearts of some to know that, amid the fires of war which have destroyed so many relics of the cultured past, what is perhaps the most revered memorial of the pagan age still remains intact. This is the tomb of the Roman poet Virgil.

The master writer of Imperial Rome was buried at Naples, on the road to Puteoli, in 19 B.C., and his tomb, in the Middle Ages, was venerated almost as though Virgil had been a Christian saint, permitted by God to live before his time. The Fourth Eclogue of this poet, indeed, for centuries was believed by many to be a prophecy of the coming of Christ.—Halifax Chronicle.

History Repeats

The Germans, in attempting to make history, have failed to read it. In the 13th century at Lake Peipus, where the Nazis are retreating in a hurry now, Alexander Nevsky pushed many of the invading Teutons into the lake and shouted after the rest of them:

"Go and tell all in alien lands that Russia lives. Without fear, anyone who wishes may come here as a guest.

"But if anyone ventures here with the sword, he shall perish by the sword."—Ottawa Citizen.

The broadcast quoted a "reliable census" taken in Germany.

Colborne Man Pays Fine

COBOURG, March 16—(ENS)—Roy Purdy of Grafton was sentenced to 15 days for joyriding in a truck owned by C. Harnden, when he appeared in police court Tuesday.

George Edison of Colborne, French Canadian, was fined $5 and costs for striking Cecil Oliver at Colborne. Oliver had been teasing Edison over the latter's accent, it was revealed. Magistrate Baxter told Edison that he had no right to resort to force and also advised Oliver to show some respect for one who was not expert at the English language.

DECORATED FOR RESCUE OF 44 FROM TANKER—H.M.C.S. R. Kenney, R.C.N.R., of Halifax, who, in command of H.M.C.S. Goderich, was successful in locating the wreck in spite of adverse weather. On the Left is Chief Petty Officer William J. Franklin, R.C.N. V.R., of Toronto, who did yeoman work in treating survivors, and on the Right A.B. John J. Muir, R.C.N.V.R., of Owen Sound, who detected the hulk, low and listing in the sea, five miles away. The captain received the O.B.E., and the ratings were mentioned in dispatches.

Beer Situation Will Not Improve Much

MONTREAL, March 16—(CP)—Every indication today pointed to the probability that lifting of federal government restrictions on beer sales would mean little in the way of increased supplies — for some time anyway.

The reason given by leading brewers is that they aren't in a position to increase production at the moment, and haven't the facilities for larger distribution if production were increased.

"It means a complete reorganization of the distribution system as soon as greater quantities of beer can be made available," said one representative, who added that the brewers were limited in the amount of gas available for trucks, in the manpower for distributing the product, and in purchases of ingredients.

The brewers could see little possibility that any surplus from earlier periods now in storage would materially increase present sales.

So-called "storage" of beer did not necessarily mean large supplies that could be turned over immediately for sale, they said. Figures for beer in storage, arrived at by subtracting sales of any period from production of the same period included such things as beer in transit, beer at district depots, in the hands of representatives throughout the country, and beer set aside for the ageing period of two or three months considered necessary.

Beer at district depots and in the hands of representatives, they added, was merely that necessary to meet the daily needs of outlets—for instance, the depot receiving beer from a brewer once a month would have to have enough on hand to supply sub-district depots daily.

Brewing sources indicated they believed there was not in "storage" in Canada at present more beer than was needed to maintain normal distribution. Government figures indicate a "storage" of about 15,000,000 gallons a year ago, and the brewers, without giving any detailed figures, said they believed the figure would be lower now, and at any rate such a figure was not excessive when it included beer ageing, in transit, or in distributing centres.

New Revaluation At Lakefield Begins At Once

LAKEFIELD, March 16 (ENS)—Complete revaluation of all village property was definitely decided on at Monday nights' Council meeting with T. C. Ephgrave engaged to do the job at a figure not to exceed $1,700, the cost of which will be spread over two years.

The work will commence immediately with the business section from Coyle's Garage north to Hopkins Service to be finished in time for this year's assessment.

Mr. Ephgrave will use the card system showing complete details of property and building for all future reference, and to be kept on file in the village vault. The general residential section will be completed during the summer in time for a fall assessment, so that tax collection dates in 1945 may be April and September instead of September and December.

30-Day Leeway

It is proposed that the April tax payments may have a 30-day grace period.

It was figured that by having taxes paid in April and September, enough would be saved in interest on loans to pay for the revalution job in four years.

The vote on the issue saw Reeve G. D. Scriver, Councillors W. C. Grant and Reg. Doubt voting in favour and Councillor George Charlton swinging over in an effort to make it unanimous. Councillor George Graham voted alone in opposing the move on the grounds that while the job was necessary, the cost was too much! He said he could do the job himself for a whole lot less but when the Reeve called upon him to do it, he backed down.

It is proposed that land valuation on the main street be set by Mr. Ephgrave in consultation with merchants in each block on the main street.

E. H. Northey Resigns

Clerk E. H. Northey resigned as member of the High School Board after having served the village in that capacity for the past 15 years. This was due to the fact that according to Municipal Law he cannot serve on the board and at the same time serve as village clerk. Allan Clark was appointed to take his place for the remainder of the term.

Don't Want To Pay

The Ontario Hydro Commission wrote objecting to the charge of $150 made for the services of the Lakefield Fire Brigade at the Young's Point Power House blaze. Clerk Northey was instructed to inform the Hydro that the charge for services outside the village is fixed by the by-law at $50 for the first hour and $25 each hour after and nothing can be done about the complaint.

Fire Chief Clark reported on an inspection of Colonel Le Fevre's property, as to protection in the advent of a call, finding that the house was some hundred yards from the lake as to water supply and that the village pumper could be used providing the lane to the lake was kept open.

School Costs Up

It was disclosed that Public School costs were likely to be slightly higher this year but that the High School will be approximately the same. Clerk Northey reported that in 1904 sixteen and a half mills were levied to operate the school, while in 1943 it cost the village only fifteen mills for both High and Public Schools.

The Council members approved the renting of the village stable to Hugh Stewart of Hilltop Farm as a training barn for his three horses. It was indicated that other owners are awaiting accomodation in order to use the village track for their horses.

While no definite word has been received regarding the Grant-Doubt proposal to have the swamp cleaned up along the C.N.R., it is reported that the C.N.R. officials are taking a favorable view of the move.

If there is enough interest, a start may be made toward cleaning up this eyesore and making it the village playground.

Chief Garnet Samis reported one traffic and one criminal charge laid during the month, with 46 local calls, and petty grievances being investigated and 9 outside police enquiries handled.

The following accounts were passed: Chief Garnet Samis 1st half salary Feb. $51.20; village streets labor payroll $29.65; Percy Hockaday grading $14; Bell Telephone Co. hall and police $6.12; Wm. Fawcett wood 3½ cords $28.50; Registrar of deeds, transfers $2.03; Wm. Stabler express .5b; Percy Hockaday, snow plow $29.25; Stuart Peel, hall water $2.10; village streets payroll $49.74; High School advance $700.00; Public School advance $300; E. H. Northey, Feb. salary $50.; Beare Ltd. Stationery $2.43; Percy McFadden, plough and sanding $31.80; S. J. Charlton insurance on rink $87.50; Hydro Electric, Hall and streets $146.34; Lakefield News advertisement and assessment notice $21.20; Chief Garnet Samis car expenses $6; County Council Hospitalization $154.50; Total $1,1773.41.

Woman Drunk Says Didn't Use Son's Money

"I didn't spend a cent on it myself; it was all bought for me" said Mrs. Dorothy Stevens of Nassau in police court Wednesday after she had pleaded guilty to a charge of having been drunk in the Louis Cafe, Tuesday night.

The accused said that she had a son overseas who sent her money and it was after Magistrate Gee had told her that she would be better off putting the money in the bank for him rather than spending it in beverage rooms that she explained that her celebration had not cost her anything.

Magistrate Gee fined the woman $10 and $1 costs, and she declared that it would be the last time that she would be there on such a charge.

Team Reserves Shrink As Army Calls

NEW YORK, March 16 — (AP). —Bill Dickey is passed intentionally and Joe Gordon is coming up. The stage is set for a double play.

Which, freely translated, means the great catcher of the Yankees, world baseball champions, was accepted for armed service yesterday and assigned to the Navy, and that the star second baseman comes up for his physical to-day out in Oregon.

Thus is the war gradually whittling away at the team which defeated the St. Louis Cardinals in the World series last fall. Should Gordon be accepted he would be the 21st Yankee in service.

The loss of Dickey is a severe blow to the club. A cool, efficient workman, he is rated one of the finest catchers of all time. Last year he enjoyed one of his best seasons.

Other major league news:

Detroit Tigers—Ervin (Pete) Fox donned his old Tiger uniform yesterday to unlimber with the Detroit players before reporting for duty with the Boston Red Sox.

Boston Braves — Bob Coleman, new pilot of the Braves, gets his first look at his 1944 talent during the opening drill at Choate School to-day.

Washington Senators—The Nats may be warming up a dark horse for the hot corner, one Jake Powell, erstwhile outfielder. He looked good in a workout yesterday.

Cleveland Indians— The Indians held their first batting drill in Purdue University field house yesterday with every hurler in camp taking a turn on the rubber.

Pittsburg Pirates — The first Pirate casualty of the first day at the Muncie Camp was Pitcher Max Buter, who suffered a misplaced leg tendon. Frank Colmen sent word from London, Ont., he had been called for an Army medical re-examination. He was rejected earlier because of a bad leg.

Philadelphia Athletics — Connie Mack picked an infield yesterday while the squad again was idle because of wet grounds. He named Dick Sibert 1b, Irv Hall ss, Edgar Busch, up from Elmira, 2b, and Georgie Kill from Lancaster 3b.

LADIES' BASKETBALL FINALS

FRIDAY, MARCH 17

Y.W.C.A. GYM

8 P.M.—NORMAL SCHOOL vs. 'Y' CADETS

9 P.M. —TRANSPORTS vs. ST. JOHN'S

Admission 15c

By FRED D. CRAIG

Two cage championships will be decided at the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium tomorrow, Friday night, when the final games in the senior and intermediate playoffs will be staged. In both divisions the teams are deadlocked. In the senior bracket the Transports-St. John's best-of-three round is all even with each team having won a game. In the intermediate series which is a best-of-five affair the Normal School and the Y Cadets have each won two fixtures so the title hinges on the result of tomorrow's game. The senior game will be staged second on the bill, starting at 9 o'clock and promises to be a honey of a ball game. The unexpected battle the second-place St. John's outfit are making for the senior title against Transports who went through the regular schedule without being seriously threatened has turned the final round into one of the most thrilling finishes in the history of the Ladies' Basketball League. The series had been looked upon as a parade for the Transports. As it has turned out the leaders are a bit lucky they are still in there for St. John's have been in front of them most of the time in both final games and could just as easily have won the first game as lost it by a 18 to 12 margin. When they followed that up by a cleancut 16 to 12 defeat of Transports in the second fixture they left the championship round a wide-open affair. The final game should be about the most exciting tussle of the whole campaign if it lives up to the pace set by the first two.

* * * * * *

The Normal-Y Cadet clash which is staged for 8 o'clock should be equally exciting for the teams are very evenly matched and with the championship going to the winner both outfits will be in there punching from the start. A week ago the Normalites looked to have the title in the bag for after losing the first game of the series they had come back with two straight wins and were in front in the fourth fixture until the last few minutes when Cadets came through with a rally that pulled the battle out of the fire and sewed up the round. Now the deciding game is anybody's affair. Either can win and they will give everything they have to pull off the victory. The two school teams are well supported and the rival rooters will probably have a big evening as they do their best to drive their favorites through to a triumph. Undoubtedly the biggest crowd of the season will be in the galleries for this double championship bill which brings the campaign in both divisions to an end.

It Was A Pleasure

From A. H. Radford, secretary of the Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club comes the following letter to this column which is published principally for the reason that there are so many organizations that take for granted any publicity accorded them that a communication like this is something of a novelty. "At the annual meeting of the Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club held last night a cordial vote of thanks was passed to you for your many kindnesses during the past season. We very much appreciate the many favors you do for the game of cricket especially now that we are finding it more and more difficult to keep the game alive in Peterborough. We are going to do our best to try and carry on this season as we feel that we would like to keep the game going as long as possible. We are also very grateful for the fine publicity you gave to the soccer games that we have sponsored for the funds of the British War Victims Fund. Without that they would not have been the success they were." All we can say is that any slight service this column has been able to do for the grand old game of cricket was done gladly and that there will always be space for publicity for organizations who live up to the best traditions of sport so faithfully as does the Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club.

The Lucknow juvenile team has something new in hockey in an all-Chinese line composed of the three Chin brothers who are evidently decidedly smart performers at Canada's national winter game. Chick Appel of the Stratford Beacon-Herald who should know his hockey pretty well predicts a bright future for the Oriental lads and here is what he has to say about them: "It might be stated that these Chin boys are everything that is said about them. Hockey fans in Listowel, Kincardine, Goderich, Milverton and other centres will bear that out. They may not measure up to the calibre of the better junior "A" players, but it does seem that a smart hockey man might be wise if he landed this same trio of Chinese-Canadian brothers for his next winter's club. Only 14, 15 and 16 years of age respectively, the Lucknow threesome have displayed sufficient ability this winter to warrant that they'll improve, while their combination can hardly be improved upon by any junior "B" front-liners. Their presence on a team down in this section of the country next season would guarantee bumper crowds."

Kingston Juniors In There

The Kingston junior B team has been going nicely and are now playing Barrie in the next round after disposing of Markham. Bill Walshe has the following comment about their second game with Markham: "Kingston Victorias are in the O.H.A. junior B semi-finals, advancing another step along the title trail last night by winning in Markham 6 to 4 to take the round 17 to 10. The Kingston boys displayed their class by victory last night, fighting back to win the game when Markham had reduced a five-goal deficit to three and threatened to even the round when the Vics had two players in the penalty bench in the second period. By a rather unusual draw, considering wartime travel restrictions, the O.H.A. has matched Kingston with Barrie in the next round while Toronto De La Salle plays Kitchener. Just why Kingston and Toronto were not paired and Barrie matched with Kitchener has not been explained. Kingston boys are willing, and anxious, to meet any opposition, figuring they are good enough to capture the Ontario crown and the distant teams must be faced sooner or later. Kingston's smart passing attack was mainly responsible for the win over Markham, with most of the 17 goals in the series scored on combination plays. Kingston has displayed general scoring punch in the playoffs. In the knockout game with Marmora-Stirling Captain Johnny Myke was the high scorer. He was covered in the first game of the Markham series and George MacGregor broke loose while last night Ted Fowler set the scoring pace with three goals and an assist.

It is St. Mike's and Oshawa for the Ontario junior championship after all. The Toronto Irish, faced with a distinct Hamilton threat as the result of the Whizzers' 8 to 2 win in the second game of the semi-final series came up with one of their best exhibitions of the season last night to smother the Hamilton kids 11 to 5 and take the series two games to one. It was a rough battle with the Whizzers hanging on grimly in the first period but the Irish struck fiercely in the middle period when they fired six goals and put the game in the bag. The series with Oshawa should be a thrilling round. While the teams are not as brilliant as some of the junior finalists of the past they are the best of this season's crop and on the battles they have had during the regular schedule should provide the fans with a lot of spectacular and exciting hockey before the championship is decided.

NEW YORK, March 16—(AP).—The army sometimes does things to a guy—things that are good for a guy in a peculiar business like boxing....Take Sgt. Lou Woods, for example, or Al Davis....Woods, just matched for a Chicago fight with Jake Lamotta, leading civilian middleweight, used to be one of those carefree kids who found fighting enjoyable as well as profitable and who didn't have to work hard at his trade.......Then the army took him and eventually made him boxing instructor at Camp Grant, Ill....The responsibility sobered Lou and he decided to learn more about boxing, with the result, according to reports from the Midwest, that he's a lot better ringman now.

Davis was a kid with a terrific left hook and a reputation for being a rowdy fighter that was a source of pride to him...."Bummy" once was banned from New York rings for roughness but was allowed to return after the army gave him a medical discharge....He's a lot more serious now, and determined to shed that bad-boy reputation. He still has a lethal left, as he proved by stiffening Buster Beaupre and Bob Montgomery in less than three minutes of his last two fights.... And those who have been watching him say the Davis who will fight Beau Jack tomorrow probably is a better boxing businessman than the old Davis.

TORONTO, March 16 — (CP).— Lure of the dollar has replaced the old hometown pride and civic boosters spirit that once made Ottawa the centre of the hockey world, laments Clare Brunton, the manager of the Ottawa Auditorium and a backer of the Ottawa Commandos. On the heels of Commandos' crushing playoff defeat at the hands of Montreal Royals, Brunton let down his hair to Al (Montreal Herald) Parsley.

Brunton says there were too many players on the team who did not call Ottawa their home, so naturally they hadn't the old civic pride and fighting spirit. And worst of all, "They are just putting in their time for their pay cheques."

At that, those Ottawa "homesteaders" on last year's Commandos and the 1942 R.C.A.F. Flyers brought a lot of civic pride to the Parliament City by bringing home the Allan Cup those two years. Maybe the pay was better then.

Coast split?

Tempers are ruffled on the West Coast over suspension of Vancouver St. Regis senior hockey team. Ken (Vancouver Province) McConnell reports there are signs a separate hockey organization may be set up on the Pacific Coast and all C.A.H.A. ties severed. Hockey men in California may be interested too.

Strip gamblers note:

Police raiding a Turkish bath in Windsor surprised five men, clad only in bath towels, and engaged in a spirited game of cards. In front of them was a pile of silver and greenbacks.

"Pick it up, pick it up," yelled the proprietor, perhaps a drill sergeant in his youth, and the gamblers obligingly grabbed up the money. Since they had no pockets in their bath sarongs, they were caught red-handed and booked on gambling charges.

That points a moral of some kind.

Incidentally:

When Trail Tigers downed Edmonton Canadians in the junior play-offs it marked only the second time on record any B.C. junior team advanced beyond the provincial championship. In 1936 Trail defeated Calgary Jimmies, but was soon stopped by Saskatoon Wesles....Neil Colville, now playing with an R.C.A.F. Depot team in Edmonton, is still showing his New York Rangers form. He tallied all four goals as his team was beaten 8-4 in a senior league game.

Buffalo Bisons Can Reach Top

By The Canadian Press

Buffalo Bisons, in second place in the eastern division of the American Hockey League, still have a chance of capturing first place from Hershey Bears.

As a result of their 9-7 victory over Cleveland Barons last night, Bisons now are only three points behind Bears. They can capture the leadership of their section, and the right to meet Cleveland in the playoffs, if they defeat Bears in a home-and-home series over the week-end. The playoffs start next Tuesday.

Fred Thurier, Eldy Kobussen, and Roger Leger scored two goals apiece for Buffalo last night. Walter Atanas, Larry Thibeault and Fred Hunt added the other three for Bisons.

Les Cunningham paced Barons' attack with two counters, while Clayton Lavell, Dick Adolph, Earl Bartholome, Mike Shabaca and Tommy Burlington bagged the five others.

Frood Miners Win 4-2 Over Hamilton

By The Canadian Press

Two Hamilton teams went down to defeat in last night's Ontario amateur playoffs, the Majors bowing to Sudbury Frood Mine at Hamilton when the Northern Ontario senior challengers swept to a 4-2 victory and the Whizzers being eliminated from the junior "A" semi-finals of the O.H.A. at Toronto when St. Michael's impressed with an 11-5 triumph.

The Nickel Belt Pitmen put on a strong display in the senior series although Oscar Clouthier did not score the first tally for the winners until almost the close of the first period. Sudbury added one more in the second frame after which Hamilton began to click, holding the Northerners to an even score in the third stanza. Clouthier accounted for two goals while other scorers for the winners were Maurice Vaillancourt and George Blake. Shillington and Dinning were responsible for the Hamilton Majors' pair.

The second match of the best-of-five all-Ontario senior finals is scheduled for Friday night at Toronto.

St. Michael's played for keeps in taking on Hamilton Whizzers at Toronto for the third and deciding game of the junior "A" semi-finals, after the students' dismal showing at Hamilton Monday night. After gaining a 3-2 lead in the first period, the Collegians slapped in six straight goals in the second and added two more in the third against the Whizzers' three counters.

Ted Lindsay of St. Mikes led the scorers with four goals, to which Bob Schnurr, McCormack and Bauer added two each with Frank Dunlap coming across with a single. Successful snipers for Whizzers were Jackson and Tomiuk, with two apiece, and Rutledge one.

After disposing of the Whizzers two games to one in the semi-finals, St. Michaels now meet Oshawa Generals in the best-of-seven finals for the junior "A" championship and the right to go after the Memorial Cup, with the first game at Oshawa Saturday night.

Regina Team Wins

REGINA, March 16 — (CP). — Regina Commandos captured the Saskatchewan junior hockey title here last night when they defeated University of Saskatchewan Huskies 5-1 in the second of a best-of-three game series. Commandos won the first game Saturday 11-3. Commandos will meet Trail Juniors in the next round of Memorial Cup play-offs.

Sailors Win

PORT ARTHUR, March 16—(CP). —H.M.C.S. Griffon won the Lakehead junior hockey championship here last night, holding Port Arthur Flyers to a 4-4 tie to take the two-game, total-goal series 10-9. The Sailors are barred from Memorial Cup playoffs and Flyers won the right to represent Thunder Bay by defeating Port Arthur West-Ends in an earlier series.

Hollywood and Here

By HYE BOSSIN

"Yankee Doodle Dandy," Warner Brothers musical version of the life of the late George M. Cohan, was the choice of Canadian theatre men as the film which attracted the most patrons to their places of business during 1943, according to the annual poll of Canadian Film Weekly, a trade magazine.

Press and radio critics, asked to name the finest films of the year, picked "In Which We Serve." Noel Coward's magnificent tribute to the heroism of the British sailor, as first.

Theatre men were asked to name the ten pictures and players which had attracted the most people during 1943 and the critics were asked to name the best films and players.

Though Greer Garson, the British star of "Mrs. Miniver" and "Random Harvest," was the choice of theatre men for popularity and critics for acting excellence, the difference of opinion about the best picture reflects the old quarrel between artistry and public taste. This is best shown by the fact that "In Which We Serve," the critics' first choice, was rated last as a boxoffice film by theatre men.

The choices of both critics and theatre men showed that war films are not strong attractions and that material of an escapist nature, whether musical or dramatic, are far more popular.

Following are the complete selections in each case:

Theatre Choice of Ten Best Boxoffice Films

(1) Yankee Doodle Dandy, (2) Random Harvest, (3) My Friend Flicka, (4) Casablanca, (5) Coney Island, (6) Hello, Frisco, Hello, (7—Tie) Stage Door Canteen and This Is the Army, (9—Tie) In Which We Serve and Hitler's Children.

Theatre Choice of Ten Best Boxoffice Stars

(1) Greer Garson, (2) Betty Grable, (3—Tie) Bob Hope, Humphrey Bogart, (4) James Cagney, (5—Tie) Bette Davis, Walter Pidgeon, Mickey Rooney, (6—Tie) Bing Crosby, Abbot & Costello.

Critics' Choice of Ten Best Films

(1) In Which We Serve, (2) Random Harvest, (3) The More the Merrier, (4) This Is the Army, (5) Yankee Doodle Dandy, (6—Tie) Stage Door Canteen, Shadow of a Doubt, Human Comedy, Heaven Can Wait, (7—Tie) Claudia, Holy Matrimony, Mission to Moscow, Ox-Bow Incident.

Critics' Choice of Ten Best Stars

(1) Greer Garson, (2—Tie) James Cagney, Jean Arthur, Ingrid Bergman, Charles Coburn, Humphrey Bogart, (3—Tie) Cary Grant, Teresa Wright, Margaret O'Brien, Walter Pidgeon, Gary Cooper, Roddy McDowell, Ronald Colman.

American critics picked "Random Harvest" as the best film of 1943 and the Canadian choice for first, "In Which We Serve," was rated eighth. Betty Grable, second choice in Canada as the best theatre attraction, was first in the USA.

Bruins Tackle Detroit Wings

By The Canadian Press

With Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings definitely assured of a spot in the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup finals, the spotlight today—for the second time this week—was on Chicago Black Hawks.

On the other hand, hockey fans will be keeping a close tab on Boston Bruins when they meet Detroit on the Wings' home ice tonight. Chicago tangle with Canadiens at Montreal in the only other league game.

A loss for Bruins will write 'thirty' to their chances of making the play-offs, whereas a win will keep alive their flickering hopes of a berth in the finals. Last Tuesday, the Bruins downed Hawks 6-4 to give them a mathematical chance of catching the Chicago squad. However, Hawks must lose their three remaining games and Bruins win their last three to make the grade.

All six teams will see action over the week-end when the regular schedule will be completed.

The unhappy thought facing Hawks is the same as that facing Toronto Maple Leafs—which of the two will finish third and have to meet Canadiens. The teams finishing second and fourth meet in one bracket of the N.H.L. semi-final and the first and third-place squads in the other.

"Fixed" Matches, 3 Men Faces Charges

TORONTO, March 16 —(CP)— Three Toronto men were arrested here early today on charges of conspiracy to defraud laid in connection with the recent alleged "fixing" of boxing bouts at Massey Hall last Feb. 28.

The three were: Ossie Bobkin, Louis Appleby, manager of the Casino theatre here, and Max Kadin. All have been released from custody on $1,000 cash bail.

Shortly after the report of the alleged "fixing," the Ontario Athletic Commission released a statement saying three men, whose names they did not announce, had been barred from admittance to halls where boxing bouts were being staged under the sponsorship of the Ontario Boxing Commission.

The Athletic Commission submitted names of the three to the boxing authorities but their names were withheld.

Since that time police have been investigating the case.

O.A.C. officials learned of the "fixing" from one of the boxers in a match at Massey Hall, Feb. 28, who, the commission said, told them he had been paid a sum of money to "throw the match."

Fire At Farm Causes Loss Of $400

CAVAN, March 16 (ENS) — A fire which might have been serious broke out twice at the farm home of W. A. Hill this week causing $400 damage.

Mr. Hill and son Danny were returning to the house for supper about six o'clock when they noticed a cloud of smoke burst from the side of the house. They both rushed and straight to the attic from where the smoke seemed to be coming. Upon reaching the room they found the flames shooting up four feet into the air.

Help was immediately summoned and about thirty neighbours were at their aid in a few moments. They tore down the partition in the upstairs bedroom which was burning very quickly but did not manage to quell the fire before it had burned a hole in the roof and caused damage to the value of $400 to the house. Only a little of the furniture was damaged but serious loss might have resulted.

Second Fire

The house is a duplex, the other half being occupied by Mr. Nill's mother, Mrs. Mary Nill. The fire is believed to have been caused by a chimney fire which occurred about ten o'clock that morning in the dining-room chimney but was thought to have been extinguished. On close examination it was found that the chimney had been cracked and sparks had gone through the crack into the partition and had apparently been smoldering all afternoon.

Personals.

Mr. Clifford Larmer was a visitor in Toronto during the week-end.

Mr. Henry Fallis of Fallis Lane was suddenly taken ill on Monday and is confined to his bed for a few days.

Municipal Plan

complaining of lack of these foods, he said.

Introducing the government's health bill, Health Minister Dr. R P. Vivian said it was designed to make it possible to render health services to municipalities through municipal taxes and provincal grants and to create a sound plan for future expansion.

"It is obvious that an over-all provincial plan at the present time is not possible," the Minister said.

On introduction of the health bill, C.C.F. Leader Jolliffe questioned the legality of presenting it in view of the fact William Dennison (C.C.F.-Toronto St. David) had already introduced a similar plan to the House.

Dr. Vivian replied that the government bill had been in the course of production since last August after extensive surveys had been made and that it went further than the Opposition measure in providing for financial aid which only a government measure could do.

Speaker W. J. Stewart ruled that Dr. Vivian's bill was in order.

"The services required to fulfil an adequate program," Dr. Vivian said, "include those of hospitals, for acute, convalescent and chronic care, nurses, physicians specialists, dentists, etc. These services will be co-ordinated through a Health Services Board representing the technical and professional personnel performing this task.

"This Board will be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council and will be responsible through the Department of Health, to the people of the province."

No Force Used.

The statement said it was not the government's intention to force upon any area a service not desired. Where satisfactory plans already were in operation, it would not be necessary to dispense with them.

Under the bill municipalities will obtain the specifned services at a definite cost by expressing the opinion of electors through a majority vote. The contract for services will then be in force for a trial period of three years. The contract can be terminated by a vote of the people on the same terms as it was put into force.

Dr. J. W. McCutcheon, secretary of the Ontario Medical Association, in a statement handed to the press gallery, said whether or not the government's new municipal health bill is accepted or not, Ontario's doctors will continue to pursue their present objective of providing the best possible medical services for the people.

"If the people vote for a collective method of raising funds for medical care, the doctors will insist on the same rights for collective agreements as accorded to others," the statement said.

This, it said, meant that with a municipal approach to the health problem, the local medical societies will act as bargaining agents.

"The situation we wish to avoid is where a municipal doctor is forced into the unfair position of having to bargain by himself with the local council or government board," the statement said. "A collective plan should apply equally to those receiving and those giving the services."

Would Supply Text Books To Axis Lands

OTTAWA, March 16—(CP)—A Canadian contribution to the restoration of countries now occupied by the Axis, through the preparation of textbooks to be given them when they are liberated, was suggested yesterday by Canadian Teachers' Federation witnesses before the Commons reconstruction committee.

Dr. E. F. Willoughby of Winnipeg, Federation vice-president, said that school supplies might be provided by Canada, which had paper stocks, and held in readiness so they could be sent to liberated countries immediately they were needed.

If such supplies were required for countries now enemies of democracy it could be seen they were without the propaganda which had marked texts in these countries in the past.

In a brief, the Federation suggested that Dominion government educational grants be made to provinces on the basis of need so that all children in Canada would have equal educational opportunities. These grants could be made without interfering with the provinces' control over educational matters.

The status of teachers should be raised, with better salaries paid them, and other means to attract the best type of men and women to the profession.

Dr. C. N. Crutchfield of Shawinigan Falls, Que., Federation secretary-treasurer, said he would not go so far as to advocate a Federal Department of Education with authority over provincial education systems. The desired improvements could be brought about within the existing framework.

Some $144,000,000 in addition to present provincial and local board payments for education was required, said Dr. Crutchfield. This amount should be provided by the Dominion Government as the authority with taxation power, and be used to raise educational facilities to the standards desired.

Dr. Willoughby said the Federation had suggested there might be a national teachers' certificate which all provinces would accept and which would facilitate the exchange of teachers between provinces, with benefits to national unity and understanding.

Mrs. A. McKenzie Addresses Nursing Class

LAKEFIELD, March 16 (ENS)—Mrs. A. C. McKenzie of Beaverton, was guest speaker at the Red Cross Reserve Nursing Class on Tuesday evening.

Introduced by Mrs. S. Trude, Mrs. McKenzie gave an interesting address on "What is expected of Emergency Reserve Nursing classes."

The Emergency Reserve was formed to take care of epidemics and in the early stages was the home picture of C. D. C. It has outgrown the original idea, and in several communities the Reserve Nurses have had to go in and help in the hospital.

Have Definite Place

Mrs. McKenzie said she felt that if the Local Reserve continued with their practise periods they will be able to help with a definite Health program in the community. The speaker said the Reserve is to be complimented on the splendid set-up they have. Mrs. McKenzie suggested that the nurses continue weekly practises, and stressed the importance of all nurses in the community helping with the work.

The case of the woman in Manitoulin Island and Espanola was cited to illustrate how eager some of the women are to receive this training. With no doctors or nurses in this district the women are so anxious to learn the emergency nursing, in case of an epidemic in the nearby Indian Reserve, that they spend their holidays in Sudbury taking the classes.

T. B. Tests

The Red Cross will be asked to play a large part in the health program of the community. All families should be tested for T.B. and a campaign should be put on to combat the spread of veneral diseases.

The speaker reminded the members that it is up to them to help in their own homes first then wherever needed, but they must be well qualified.

One or two branches have formed Well Baby clinics. The Red Cross will have a great deal of work to do as the soldiers come back to this community and the Reserve Class could be of assistance.

There are between 9,000 and 10,000 members of the Reserve Unit, and all service is voluntary.

Mrs. S. A. Grylls, at the conclusion of the address, moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. McKenzie.

Labor Office Reports Workers Scarce

The number of vacancies on file with the local office of Selective Service shows a decline over figures prevailing in past months, but even so the number is substantial and applicants for jobs are comparatively few. Moreover, it is said by W. H. L. Mellis, manager of Selective Service, a large percentage of those applying are for one reason or another not fitted to the needs of the many employment opportunities that exist.

'At the moment," Mr. Mellis said this morning, "we have 160 vacancies for females and 80 applicants. The jobs are all full-time jobs, while many of the prospective women workers would only be able to undertake part-time work.

"There are 634 vacancies for males and 132 applicants," Mr. Mellis continued, "but here again the latter figure is deceptive, because anywhere from 60 to 65 per cent of the number would be over 65 years of age or physically unfit for the more strenuous type of jobs that make up the greater part of our vacancies list." He indicated that well over half of the vacancies listed were right in the city itself.

"An increase is to be expected as the month draws towards its close," Mr. Mellis noted, due to the return to the land of many farmers who have been employed in war work during the winter. Of these a few have left industry at the present time, and the rest must return by March 31, the deadline set for making the transfer. Selective Service will be mailing notices to employers and employees next week, a reminder that seven days notice of separation must be given before employment terminates.

Mr. Mellis was particularly specific in advising farmers leaving industrial employment for agriculture to be sure to bring back their copy of the Notice of Separation to the Selective Service office or to mail it in. Unless this is done, records will not reveal the then status of the worker and it will be necessary to report his name to the military authorities, thus making him liable for military service.

Aquarium Society Studies Fish Habits

A crowded gathering of young and old met in the Agricultural Room on Hunter street on Wednesday evening to see colored slides illustrating many various types of tropical fish and follow the discussion of the peculiarities, the breeding and feeding habits, of numerous species suitable for small acquariums presented by Robert Bickerstaff and Mr. Taylor, members of the Toronto Aquarium Society. Presented under the auspices of the Peterborough Aquarium Society, attendance was far in excess of the expectations of the organizers of the meeting, and a number of members of the Peterborough Horticultural Society were also present.

A series of slides pictured various of the live-bearing breeds and these were followed by a set that illustrated egg-bearing species. Among the questions arising was that of the proper temperature required to be maintained in aquariums, and it was stated that normally from 72 to 76 degrees was most suitable with as high as 80 at breeding periods. For the egg-bearing varieties the most desirable food was infusoria, but with the live-bearers it was said a coarser mixture would be required.

Several pairs of fish were auctioned at the meeting. Gold Moons bringing a price of $1.75, Black Mollies, $2.25 and egg-laying tropical carp $1.25.

Peterborough County Six Wolf Bounties

Bounties of $25 have already this year been paid out for six wolves as against a total of 11 in the whole of 1943, records of the County Clerk of Peterborough reveal at the present time. Of these, three have been brought in by Eric Whitmore of Apsley who had his catches certified all on the same day, though it is not known whether he got the trio of wolves at or about the same time.

Other killings certified by the County Clerk since the beginning of 1944 include one each from Ross Reynolds, Ole Stange of Kinmount and Stewart Murphy, R.R. No. 2, Lakefield.

It is of interest to note that not before April of last year was a single wolf killed—at least one that the bounty was paid on—in the area of Peterborough County, and that the concluding months of the year accounted for a large proportion of the 1943 total of 11. This, taken together with the rapid rate of bounty payments so far this year, would seem to indicate more wolves are about this winter than is usually the case.

MRS. CATHERINE COLE

HAVELOCK, March 16 (ENS) — Catherine Martin Cole, widow of the late Sidney Cole, who predeceased her three years ago, passed away following a stroke a week ago, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward Kelsey, Toronto. Battle Is Waging On 'Thermoduric' Front

It seems presumable that the laymen of the Board of Health must be given pause and forced out on to the end of the limb of their etymology if they carefully read the monthly reports of Sanitary Inspector MacPherson.

Commenting on sanitation in pasteurizing plants, the Inspector wrote this week: "The total plate (microscopic) counts are good except for the presence of thermoduric bacteria in five specimens, causing excessively high plate counts. This is not the fault of the dairy concerned, etc..."

That thermoduric bacteria sounds awesome and menacing, and apparently the Inspector keeps on its trail. In fact he has its exact number for he adds: (this fault) originates at the source of supply and would seem to emphasize the need of immediate and thorough checkup of the raw milk supply to these plants by means of sediment test and methylene blue reduction test."

Dr. Harold Worton, V.S., is helping out on the "thermoduric" front these days, and the opinion may be ventured that if there are any dairy farmers harboring these animalcules they'll be having the methylene blues one of these days.

"This month," Mr. MacPherson continued, "considerable experimental work was carried out on the use of cationic detergents as sterilizers for dairy equipment," and the members took that cationic term in their stride; that is if their dutiful scrutiny persevered to that paragraph. Mayor Hamilton did not raise an eyelid; nor did the chairman Alderman Dutton. And as for Alderman Sullivan and D. V. Canning, seemingly these detergents are old cronies of theirs, so familiar the mention of them does not cause labial halting to make sure of the precise pronunciation.

The rest of Inspector MacPherson's report presents no further difficulties for those who may be unacquainted with the thermoduric lads and a reporter found the rest of the monthly chapter comparatively smooth going and without any extraordinary conditions to cause uneasiness among the Public Health supervisors.

In fact, Alderman Dutton remarked on one point that it was agreeable to know that the restaurant proprietors were readily acquiescent to recommendations from Mr. MacPherson.

Aircraft Group Makes $39 For War Victims

Aircraft naturally suggests something that has to do with active participation in the war effort, and when it comes down to the fine instruments that emanate from the work of the Aircraft Instrument Engineering Department at the Canadian General Electric Co., Ltd. their work has not only a great bearing on the success of what is being done towards making the day of victory possible, but also carries a responsibility, when the lives of the nation's flying heroes depends upon the efficiency of their work.

Working among such an environment as this could also be inspirational in branching out to help the war effort in other directions of which proof has come in many directions from the employees at this plant, for since the beginning of the operations of the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, a total sum of $6,740.19 had already been raised by them to help the sufferers from Air raids over Britain.

And now further good work has been done by them through a draw held on a rather unique portrait calendar, under the leadership of A. R. Knobbs, which has realized the nice sum of $39.40 credited in their name to-day, which incidentally reduces the sum needed to complete the next donation of $500 down to well below the $600 mark.

Personality speaks through one who prefers to give under the name of 'Anonymous' for which receipt No. 3516 was issued, and when one considers that there has already been over 46,000 people killed in Britain through air raids since the war commenced, of which 961 occurred during last month with some 1,700 being injured in the same latter period, this donor is hereby taking an individual step to see that some help is given to them in their distress.

St. Patrick's Dance.

This Friday March 17th, is the big night for the St. Patrick's dance being sponsored by the management and staff of the C. D. S. Stores in the Canadian Legion Hall on Murray Street, who have held this attractive event on behalf of the fund for the past four years, and arranged an evenings enjoyment that has always been highly commended.

This year's dance promises to be bigger and better, with Irish specialties being under the direction of Marion Perry Laird, and will feature a number of novelty dances for which there will be prizes given. A half hour radio broadcast will take place from 11.15 to 11.45 p.m. when the winner of the draw they are also sponsoring will also be announced by His Worship Mayor Hamilton, who will be in attendance to make the draw as well.

Dress will be informal, and music will be supplied by Jack Marshall and his orchestra who are arranging a special program for the occasion, and when one considers that all the net returns will serve the double purpose of giving help to those in distress besides one's own enjoyment, there should be a wide support of this annual event.

Sketch Group Holds Yearly Display

The members of Peterborough Men's Sketch Club are again making an annual showing of their year's work featuring paintings in oil, water color and pastel as well as some portraits and landscape studies in pen and pencil.

An especially interesting feature of the year's exhibit are two pictures from the brush of Jack Hamar which were accepted for exhibition by the Royal Canadian Academy and were shown in Ottawa and Montreal.

Another attraction consists of a group of three pictures by Fred Brigden, R.C.A., who is an honorary member of the club. He was responsible for its formation, and, to a great extent for the maintenance of the interest still shown by the members.

These pictures will be hung on the third floor of the Richard Hall Store, and the exhibition is open to the public Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and in the evening from 8 to 9.30 o'clock; also on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Catholic Youth To Present Play

For the first time in at least a generation, the young people of St. Peter's Cathedral have to seek other facilities than their own for their annual St. Patrick's Day theatrical feature

The Simcoe Street Lyceum has been shuffled back into private hands to be reconverted to the purposes of trade, and with their footlights and boards gone from beneath them the Catholic Youth are availing themselves of the commodious stage and auditorium at the Collegiate Institute.

The Catholic Youth Organization of the cathedral are presenting "Laughing Irish Eyes" a modern comedy in three acts. The cast includes Mrs. Robert Baldwin, Miss Anne Schiarizza, Eleanor Collins, Agnes Barrett, Lucy Marrocco, Marie Biernan, William Gannon, Ferd Wolff, Michael Anglesey, Fabian Galvin.

The music for the occassion will feature a string trio; Miss C. Corkery and Mr. S. A. Seidel, violinists, and John Sheehan, cellist, with Miss Doris Strickland at the piano. Their music will be from "The Shamrock" by Myddleton.

Youth Arrested After Chase Through Yards

Arrested Wednesday night after a chase in which the barking of a police revolver supplied sound effects, Frederick W. Judge, 22, Kingston, was arraigned before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this morning on a charge of breaking and entering the office of Rehill Fuel and Builders' Supply, Wolfe street, with intent to commit theft.

Judge elected summary trial this morning and pleaded not guilty. He added that he was not ready to proceed with his trial today. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., informed the court that in any case he was asking for a remand, and the Kingston youth was remanded for a week.

Harold T. Rehill discovered the attempted burglary last night when he noticed a broken window in the office and found the place broken into, although nothing had been stolen. He noticed two youths in the vicinity of the office and notified the police.

Rehill accompanied Officers Archie Menzies and Allan Edmison in a police cruiser in search of the couple he had seen and in a short time two men were seen walking along the C.P.R. tracks at Townsend street, and Rehill stated that they looked like the pair who were being sought.

When Constable Edmison got out of the police car to question the youths they ran down the tracks in spite of the officer's order to stop. Constable Edmison chased the two along the tracks to Wolfe street and then east to Aylmer street where he fired a shot into the air in an effort to halt the fugitives. One of the men climbed over the fence into the property of H. B. Taylor and Sons and there was a chase there with Officers Edmison and Menzies and Rehill taking part. It finally wound up when Officer Menzies reached over a fence and managed to catch Judge by the collar and hold him that way until Constable Edmison could complete the arrest. The second man made his getaway.

This was the second break-in at the Rehill office in recent weeks. On the first occasion the safe was carried out and cracked and a sum of money stolen.

V.O.N. Discovers Practical Help Needed In Homes

Miss Mary Ross, in her monthly report to the meeting of the Board of the Victorian Order of Nurses on Wednesday stressed the need for practical help which existed in a great many homes in the city, and mentioned the homemaker service suggested by the Children's Aid Society as an excellent plan.

Miss Ross reported a steady growth in the work of the V.O.N., actual figures showing a steady increase in the number of cases from last fall. She said it was natural to believe that the increase would be of a permanent nature, and the question of employing a fourth nurse was brought up, with Miss Ross being instructed to make the necessary inquiries.

Miss Ross gave the percentages of time spent in various duties, and compared them with those of last year. She explained the office work which each nurse was required to do, and showed the reports which were filled, giving concise and accurate accounts of the cases. Fifty-two per cent. of the V.O.N. time is spent in home visiting, 17 per cent. in travel, 30 per cent. in the office, and one per cent. in assigned duties. Daily reports are totalled, and, at the end of the month are catalogued, balanced, and entered on the monthly report, of which a copy is sent to head office in Ottawa.

A breakdown of the visits for the month of February showed that 168 of the calls were directly in the interests of a mother and baby; 27 were for pneumonia cases; 45 for cases of the 'flu; and 267 for other cases. Miss Ross explained that the city was divided into districts, and that each nurse was responsible for the calls in her district. Accounts kept show from which section of the city most of the calls come; how the calls compare in volume with last year's figures; the type of visit; the extent of the relief; and what doctors are using the service.

To give an idea of the time needed in cases, Miss Helen Furlong gave an account of three different ones, showing how much time was needed for each. James Dutton, chairman, complimented Miss Ross on her report, and said that the increase in the cases being visited by V.O.N.'s was gratifying.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

We are starting our column with a few hints on meal planning. The day's meals should be planned so that they will include the foods mentioned in our writeup of March 14. One hot dish every meal is to be preferred as it aids digestion. Meals should be well balanced as regards protein, fat and carbohydrate. Serve approximately the same amount every day. Serve food that stimulates the appetite, and digestive juices. Serve hot foods hot, and cold foods cold. Variety is needful, but do not have too much. Secure variety through methods of cooking and serving. Do not have the same flavor in food twice at one meal, such as tomato soup, and tomato salad. The "protective foods" should be included in each day's meals, milk, butter, eggs, fruits, and leafy vegetables. The standard of milk is one quart a day for each child, and one pint for every adult. Now this does not mean to just drink that amount of milk, it can be cooked in the food and serve the same purpose.

Potato Soup

Two cups hot riced or mashed potatoes, 1 quart of milk, 2 slices of spoons flour, 1½ teaspoons salt, dash spons flour, 1½ teaspoons salt, dash of pepper, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley. Scald the milk with the onions, remove the onions, add the milk slowly to the potatoes. Melt the butter, add it to the dry ingredients, stir the mixture until it is well blended. Add the liquid mixture to this, stirring in constantly, and boil the soup for one minute. Strain it if necessary, add the parsley and serve it very hot. Water saved from cooking celery or carrots is a good addition to this soup.

As this is the Lenten season, I am going to give you today a couple of recipes for fish.

Baked Fish

Select medium-sized whitefish. Clean the fish, bone, dry, and rub with salt, fill the cavity with dressing, allowing room for the dressing to swell slightly. Sew up using strong thread, skewer and tie in the shape of letter S, if fish is large. Season and dredge with flour, spread with butter, and place in a greased rack in the baking pan. Baste every ten minutes. When the fish is brown, and the flesh may be pierced without juice running out, remove the strings and skewer, garnish with lemons and parsley, and serve either plain or with sauce.

Baked Smelts

Wash and dry them with a cloth, arrange in a well-buttered, flat baking dish, cover with a layer of fresh bread crumbs, first sprinkling the fish with salt, pepper. Place bits of butter over bread crumbs, and bake until brown. Squeeze lemon juice over them before sending to table.

Fish Cakes

Take remnants of cold fish, pull them to pieces and thoroughly incorporate with them a little milk and mashed potatoes, season well with salt and pepper to taste. Form the mixture into cakes and fry in hot fat until brown. Serve garnished with parsley. Time for cooking one to two minutes.

Scalloped Fish

Use remnants of any cold fish left from dinner, picking it to pieces and removing all bones. Make a cream sauce by cooking 2 tablespoons butter and 2 tablespons of flour until they bubble; then add 2 cups milk, 1 teaspoon salt and dash of pepper. Butter a pudding dish, put in a layer of fish, then a layer of sauce and so on alternately, until dish is about ¾ full. Spread bread or cracker crumbs on top, add bits of butter and bake about 20 minutes in hot oven 375 F. A little parsley or lemon juice can be added to the sauce for flavor.

Soybeans Rich In Protein Essential To Good Health

By MARY MOORE.

Dried soybeans can be bought; if your neighborhood grocer cannot supply you, buy them from the large groceterias.

I am giving you these soy bean facts because some readers want to know how to use them; not because they are short of meat coupons now, but because they think they are cheap and a good source of nourishment. They are right, too.

Soybeans are rich in protein, a food element provided by meat and milk, eggs and cheese, and it is essential to a good diet and for good health.

Baked Soybean and Weiner Casserole.

One and one-half cups dry soybeans, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 bay leaf, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1 cup boiling water, 2 tablespoons to ¼ cup molasses, anywhere from 2 weiners to 1 lb. Wash the soybeans, pick over and soak overnight in cold water to cover. Add the salt and boil slowly, covered for 2 hours until beans are tender. Drain water into cup—if there is one cup save it—if not make up to 1 cup. To the water add the remaining ingredients except the weiners and pour into a baking dish. Either cut up weiners and place through beans, or leave whole and lay over top. Put in oven of 325 degrees Fahr., covered, for about 3 hours, removing cover last ½ hour. You might like to pass hot catsup or chili sauce.

Soak washed soybeans overnight, and boil about 2 hours in salted water. Serve with a little butter and pepper or with tomato sauce.

Soybean and Celery Salad.

A salad made up from boiled and chilled soybeans is quite delicious. When beans are cooked and cold marinate them in French dressing for ½ hour, then drain well and add an equal quantity of chopped celery, and add 1 tablespoon minced pimiento or green pepper. Pass mayonnaise and serve on lettuce leaves.

Soy flour opens a new field of cookery. It must not be considered as a filler. While it has many of the properties of flour it is essentially a protein food. For instance, in making a meat loaf you can stretch 1 lb. beef to make a 2 lb. loaf if soy flour and milk are added. You have not stretched it to deceive your family—you have made an economical nourishing protein dish.

Soy Meat Loaf.

One lb. ground beef, ½ cup soy flour, 2 teaspoons salt, 3 tablespoons minced onion, 1½ teaspoons each prepared mustard and Worcestershire sauce, ½ cup milk. Combine beef, flour, salt, onion, mustard, Worcestershire sauce, and milk, and mix well; shape into loaf; score top in a diamond pattern, and brush with milk. Place on greased baking dish and bake at 325 degrees Fahr. for 1½ hours.

If our readers want recipes for muffins made with soy flour, or soyflour piecrust (it's good), write to me and I will print them.

Dinners Of The Week . .

By MARY MOORE

SUNDAY: — Roast Lamb, Corn Relish or Grape Jelly, Mixed canned corn and Lima beans (winter succotash) Chopped Buttered Spinach, Lemon Meringue Pie (see perfect recipe below), Coffee.

NOTE: This lemon filling I am giving you contains ½ cup sugar and ½ cup corn syrup and is the best lemon pie I know: Mix together 4 tablespoons cornstarch, ½ cup sugar, 1½ tablespoons butter, and add 1¼ cups boiling water and stir over boiling water until it thickens. Add the grated rind of 1 large lemon or 1½ medium lemons and let cook, covered, 15 minutes. Add corn syrup (½ cup) and 5 tablespoons lemon juice. Beat the yolks of three eggs and pour a little of the hot mixture over them, then return this mixture to the hot mix and cook for 2 minutes. Cool to lukewarm before pouring into baked shell. To make meringue beat the remaining 3 whites and add 6 tablespoons corn syrup; 1 tablespoon at a time, beating between each addition. Bake to brown meringue, 25 minutes at 275 to 300 deg. Fahr.

MONDAY: Scalloped Meat (using leftover lamb - see below) Baked Sweet Potatoes, Finely Shredded Coleslaw, Apple Betty Pudding or Applesauce Cake, Coffee.

NOTE: To make the scalloped meat put a layer of breadcrumbs in buttered baking dish and add 2 cups chopped cold cooked meat — any kind; melt 1 tablespoon dripping and add 1 tablespoon flour, stir, then stir in 1 cup gravy, stock or water and stir until thick. Add 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons each chopped parsley, celery and onions, and pour this flavoured stock over meat in baking dish. Cover top with crumbs and bake 30 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. If raw meat such as ground round steak is used in this it needs 1 hour's baking.

TUESDAY: Grilled or deep-fat-fried fillet of Sole, Scalloped tomatoes, Baked Potatoes, Quartered Head Lettuce with French Dressing, Pumpkin Tarts, Coffee.

WEDNESDAY: Liver patties or Fried Liver and Bacon, Mashed Potatoes, Diced Beets, Celery Hearts, Applesauce from Dried Apples (Strained), Macaroons, Coffee.

THURSDAY: Scotch Woodcock or Welsh Rarebit, Chopped Buttered Green Beans, Mashed or Riced Carrots, Fruit Cup: Prunes, oranges Apples, Crackers and Cheese, Coffee.

FRIDAY: Steamed Salmon with Egg and Parsley Sauce, Fluffy Boiled Rice, Mashed Turnip, Tomato Jellies on Lettuce, Caramel Blanc Mange Pudding, Coffee.

SATURDAY: Chili con Carne, Toasted Rye Bread, Shredded Cabbage and Celery Salad, Peach Ice Box Cake, Tea.

THE ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION—I am taking advantage of your offer (for further advice).

To begin with I am 26 years old, 5 ft. 3½ inches tall and weigh 160 lbs. Although most of my relatives are of fairly stock build, and it may be just natural....I feel certain I have certain fat surplus that could be disposed of dieting.

....The breakfast menu has no interest for me at all, and I come to work on a cup of hot water, which suffices very well until noon, when my meal usually consists of a fruit salad and black coffee without sugar. My real problem is at night. I go home at night famished and do away with a big meal. Then unless I go out I feel inclined to "pick" at food during the evening, although I realize that is a serious mistake. Our suppers very seldom consist of any rich foods, no rich desserts, but I eat enough....to make me feel "stuffed" after the meal is finished, which to my mind is more harmful than just eating a small quantity of anything that might be particularly rich in calories.

I have cut down (on my food) at various times and find that I can do this very easily for 2 or 3 days—but soon get back to my former habits....If you had a list of menus prepared, covering 2 weeks or month, I could follow, then use over again, I could make myself stick to the rules you set out, even though it meant increasing my breakfast and luncheon menus. This might automatically decrease my supper.

I work in an office and find that eating very much during noon hour prevents me from doing my work as well as I might. I would need some thing I could carry preferably—a fruit or vegetable salad.

I "batch" with another girl and we are fond of vegetables except potatoes, so they could be included generously in the diet.

....In the line of exercise I walk about 15 blocks to and from work every day, and skate about 3 times a week.....I would prefer a list of diet menus, listing quantities to be taken, etc.

ANSWER—I have a dear friend who had that vicious urge for more food about 9 o'clock in the evening if she was around home. I don't know if she entirely curbed it but at one time she would squeeze a half lemon and put it in a glass and fill the glass with hot water. This was so sour it was unappetizing, but filled her stomach and she forgot the food for the moment and managed to get to bed before her temptation became too great again. This little dodge works with me when I am starved about 6 o'clock and dinner is not ready yet; or I sip a glass of skim milk.

You are right—3 medium to small meals are much better than one huge one.

Breakfasts

Since you do not seem to mind monotony breakfasts should be easy: Clear coffee or skim milk, 1 orange (whole not juice), or half grapefruit, or six soaked but not cooked or sweetened prunes, or 1 8-oz. glass tomato juice and ½ slice whole wheat toast with no butter, but 1 poached egg on it. Vary this by cooking your egg in the shell or occasionally eat boxed cereal without sugar, and with a little skim milk if you must have the change. (You will notice that I am concerned with your nourishment as

Appropriate Apparel Required For Men In Home-Front Army

All our heroes are not in the armed services. Many are unsung, unselfish, home-front workers doing valiant service in civilian dress. The overall, coverall, slacks suit, and inevitable blue jeans are as proud apparel to-day as are many of our best "fighting" uniforms.

Clothing is a necessity....as is being witnessed by the great need of getting it to our Allies across the seas, in ever-increasing amounts. And here at home, too, the right clothing is important, and is available, although in somewhat less ambitious variety than heretofore.

Gentlemen Prefer Comfort.

Canadians in mufti have a reputation for being well dressed, from the point of view of quality, color, and practicality. To-day, however, another clothing characteristic is added....comfort, and appropriateness for doing a job. To-day men all over the nation are dressing the part they are playing in the winning of the war and peace. Conservative business suits, farm clothes, streamlined factory togs—all these are part of our national picture at present.

The growing popularity of casual sports-type apparel is seen in the vogue for contrasting jackets and slacks. Checked or plaid tweed jackets and solid-color flannel slacks are no longer too countrified to sit at boardroom meetings.

Keep Fighting Fit!
Every job is a war job these days. Don't let colds slow you down. Fight them with this well-known, quick-action, two-minute relief. Keep a bottle handy always. At all drug stores. Get yours today.

well as your figure.)

Lunches:

These should be easy. In linen napkin wrap about 3 choice leaves of lettuce. Put your fruit or vegetable salad in a covered jar and keep reducers' mayonnaise at the office in a covered jar. You can make your own and replenish this jar every 4 or 5 days. With this you may have two ry-krisp or vita-wheat biscuits, but no butter and about 6 dried figs or an ounce or two of raisins.

Reducers' Mayonnaise

Purchase mineral oil from the drug store.

Two egg yolks, 1 teaspoon each salt, mustard and sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice (usually about enough can be obtained from ½ large lemon), 1 cup chilled mineral oil. Beat egg yolks and add 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Add mustard, salt, sugar and mix well with rotary beater. Begin adding oil 1 teaspoon at a time until it begins to thicken (emulsify), then start adding oil 1 tablespoon at a time. When all oil is added add remaining lemon juice. Between each addition of oil the dressing should be given 25 turns of rotary beater.

Dinners

First Course: Hot or jellied consomme, tomato juice, celery hearts, 6-oz. glass skim or buttermilk, clear tomato soup, unsweetened fruit cup, whole sliced tomato, half grapefruit, etc.

Second course: Hot lean meat such as well trimmed, pork or lamb chop, meat cakes from ground round steak, or t-bone steak, calves' or pork liver, fish fillets, lean dark or white chicken meat; all of the foregoing would be broiled or baked or pan fried without any fat. If you pan fry you may use just the slightest bit of mineral oil to grease the pan at first. OR eggs in any form as long as they do not require butter; Or cheese preferably cottage cheese or cheeses made from skim milk. AND 2 servings of vegetables preferably green or yellow. Vegetables are nice with lemon and salt—this is especially true of spinach, Brussels sprouts, cabbage and cauliflower. Turnip and carrots and beets are nice with reducers' dressing. Eat a baked potato—medium to small in size—every other day for dinner.

Salad Course

If you are satisfied without a salad course it is just as well to eat your salad needs at another meal; if not eat quarter head of lettuce or whole ripe tomato, or shredded cabbage, or hearts of celery, or when in season cucumber and water cress and radishes — with reducers' dressing.

Dessert Course, Fresh Fruit

Fresh fruit covers the whole dessert field for you for a long time—it is satisfying and stops your craving for a sweet without giving you too many calories. Of course you must have fruit anyway for vitamins and minerals. While fresh fruit is scarce alternate between oranges, apples, grapefruit—using bananas, pineapple, grapes when available. A nice dessert which takes place of salad course too, is fresh pear and cottage cheese on lettuce with mayonnaise.

I realize that you must use your imagination. But I expect to hear from you again shortly telling me how this method works—if there are snags in it for you they can be adjusted. Good Luck.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

Contributed by Our Readers

DEAR MARY MOORE—I am losing no time in sending this recipe to you because my family were so enthusiastic about it for today's dinner. I received it through the mail from my milk company and since we are all observing Lent I tried it the same day.

It is called Cottage Cheese Ambrosia and will serve six, and looked especially nice garnished with quartered tomatoes.

Cottage Cheese Ambrosia.

One cup cottage cheese, 1 cup cream or rich top milk, 4 eggs, ⅛ to 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon white pepper. Separate the yolks and whites and beat the yolks very well. Add the cottage cheese and cream to them and the salt and pepper. Fold in stiffly beaten whites and pour into buttered or oiled mould and stand in hot water and bake in slow oven of 325 deg. Fahr. until when tried with silver knife it comes out clean. It requires about 45 to 50 minutes baking. Serve at once. Garnished with tomatoes and served with peas this makes a delicious company luncheon too.

Cottage cheese is being used much more widely in cookery than ever. It is delicious added to a fruit salad dressing and used on pears, apples, oranges or pineapple.

Thanks for the recipe—it is entirely new to me.

Cotton Suits In Blacks In Big Demand

In the Spring milady's fancy turns to thoughts of Easter clothes. After the long winter she can hardly wait for warm weather in order to blossom out in a fresh new outfit. And so she turns to cottons for her new wardrobe because she finds them as refreshing as a Southern breeze.

In coats, for instance, cotton linings, tuxedos, collars and cuffs and lapels, brighten up traditional navy blues and blacks. One of the smartest of these is black, completely lined and tuxedoed with black and white cotton checks, with sequins outlining the checks on the tuxedo. Reversibles and raincoats suitably styled for every type of wear, in and out of town, are big cotton boosters. One of the newest is of a shiny black cotton mixture which looks tempting as a licorice stick. It can be worn over everything from slacks to dinner gowns. With all the rain and wind scheduled for March and April, these months bring out lots of reversibles of water-repellent cotton gabardine and poplin to keep their wearers warm and dry.

Cotton Suit News

Cottons for suits rate high for Spring, 1944. More and more designers from the sportswear and suit fields are using gingham in plaids with slenderizing up-and-down lines. Some have the longer-length four-button jacket with handy pockets and kick-pleat skirt; others have short, fitted jackets and gored skirts, a style that is particularly flattering on petite figures. Plaid, checked, and striped seersucker is a favorite—when you can get it! Look for this calm, unruffled cotton in tailored suits and jackets dresses, the latter often trimmed with white pique collars and cuffs and other feminine details.

Town cottons continue to play an increasingly significant role. Black is going to be seen more than ever, not only on city streets but in play clothes, too. This feeling for black originated with Latin America. It's even found in darling children's dresses and pinafores! Other manifestations are in black dirndl dresses worn over matching bra and shorts to swim in. Prints and woven cottons are also town favorites — for mature women as well as their daughters. The prints go in for pretty effects that are worked up into feminine, softly tailored styles, while the woven group contains neat and fresh-looking checks and plaids in town colors predominated by grounds such as grayed-blue, leather brown, and gray.

The trend in cotton wash dresses continues toward greater softness, with the coat dress taking on a new and feminine look. One, made of an apple-and-flower border print uses the border for a ruffle around the portrait neck as well as edging the hem. That other great American classic, the shirtwaist dress, has young appeal in a new, low-necked variation, dressed up with neat ruffles, or with bib affects which are an outgrowth of the U-shaped neckline.

Fresh Cotton Accessories

All varieties of spring accessories feature cottons—blouses, neckwear, bags, gloves, hats. The blouses are charming, many of them the round-necked peasant types inspired by Mexico. These are made of tiny-flower-printed organdie in long and short-sleeved variations, and batiste, embroidered and plain. Lace yokes and baby trim are also used on these sheer types as well as ruffled fronts and sleeves and full cascade jabots with lace insertion to dress up tailored suits. That pet of the season, balloon cloth, is also popular for blouses with lace jabots, bow-ties, or fagoted bosom fronts.

Flat-Tops, Feminine Fedoras Sailors And Berets Popular

With soft feminine fashions starred for Easter, excitingly pretty color-bright hats make headlines In fact right through early Spring, there have been flowerful little half-hats, gay pastel felts, bright hats with bead embroidery to keep a wonman in the mood of the merry month of May. And now that Easter is just around the corner in the fashion world, hat designers have gone all out for color and there is such an exciting variety that every woman can choose her pet color and be sure it is fashion-right. Even in colors, the feminine shades are favored and one sees a great deal of turquoise, American Beauty, pastel blue and shades of violet. As for the hats themselves, they are feminine as can be, many of them going back to the Victorian era for their demure charm.

Silhouettes for Every Coiffure

The silhouettes like the colors are infinitely varied. Canadian designers expressing themselves in this free country, have given free rein to their creative ideas and the results are the smartest, more wearable hats that have been seen in many a springtime.

For those soft suits which many women will wear, there are dressy fedoras in beige and moss green felt, with clusters of apple blossoms posed on the brims and banked on top of the crowns. Snug little sling veils of fuchsia or Kelly green catch under the chin.

That most typical of all suit hats, the sailor, is strong in the Easter fashion picture, with more variations in its silhouettes than ever. Brims are narrow, wide or scooped, crowns are tiny broad, shallow or high. There are interesting color contrasts that give these hats a double-duty tie-up with both light and dark suits.

One black straw suit hat has a narrow brim and stove-pipe crown which is encircled with a wide band of cinnamon brown belting ribbon ending in little streamers down the back. The black face veil is trimmed with a border of cinnamon velvet graduated dots.

There is just as much versatility in the other hat silhouettes. Becoming features of fall and winter hats, such as the forward-tilted effects are retained. Berets, bumpers, tricornes, pillboxes and modified postillions, generally quite small continue to flatter the wearer. Newer styles that complement the flat-top hair-do, follow the head-hugging theme, with its balanced side width, seen distinctly in the version of the Dutch bonnet, the baby caps, the Templets and the helmet hats.

The half-hat continues for Spring These are sometimes little bandeaux of self-flowers with loops of lush French blue, fuchsia or purple velvet and sometimes they are small boatshaped hats in straw or felt. The "half-bonnet" is a smartly wearable fashion for those who like a hat that is a hat.

Berets Tops for Easter

Has there ever been a Spring when there wasn't a beret in the foreground of the fashion picture? Certainly there has never been a spring like Spring 1944 when all manner and size and shape of berets are to be worn.

Great Variety Of Color Found In New Spring Coat Styles

Coats of many colors are the rule for this busy Spring, with versatility, good looks and trim tailoring the top characteristics of models in many price ranges.

Toss-on coats with a casual air are leading the popularity polls from coast to coast, with a special bow to the new topper styles that look so well over suits, skirts and blouses, or casual dresses. Cardigan or classic collar styles, in the new shorter length, some with jumbo buttons, others without closings, are making the fashion headlines in stores throughout the county. Young, debonair and entirely functional, these charming young fashions come in pastels as bright and becoming as they are cheerful. Sunny fruit colors, smart natural shades, as well as navy and black, red, green and gray, are seasonable shades that are definitely preferred for Spring and after wear.

Another version of the short coat, the aviator's topper, is a success fashion for this season of clear-cut, ready-for-anything fashions. These are of course direct inspirations of the flying coats that our heroes of the air are "snapped" in here and abroad. Feminine versions come in smooth gabardine types of fabrics, and as a rule are weather-proofed, making them still more efficient and wear-worthy.

Classic Fashions Popular

Althought the topper is 1944's newcomer to the hit parade, there are runners-up aplenty...including the always-dashing, ever-appropriate chesterfield, the boxy coat and the simple, effective but eternally graceful fitted princess reefer. These are designed in smart wool weaves that flatter a tailored costume as ably as they do a casual or simple afternoon dress. The boy coat and the chesterfield come in wonderful bon-bon colors, oftentimes with matching buttons. The chesterfield is very much in vogue, too, especially in its 1944 variations which include slim pencil-stripe flannels and worsteds in the best Beau Brummel tradition. Worn with a crisp candy-stripe ascot, these chesterfields offer that neat-as-a-pin, streamlined chic that is so much a part of the new-season fashion picture.

Good Companions For Suits

This Spring a smart, well-tailored suit is practically a must. Never have there been such a deluge of good-looking styles, and the neckwear designers are outdoing themselves with attractive dickies, vestees, gilets and waistcoats to help set them off to new advantage. Now that the three-piece suit is out, due to wartime fabric restrictions, it's an excellent idea to purchase a separate matching or contrasting coat while you're choosing yuor suit. Not only is the coat itself a wise investment for all-season versatility...you can team it with your suit skirt for a stunning two-piece outfit, thus giving yourself variety as well as wearability.

The braid-trimmed coat in serge type fabrics is here again in a host of delightful variations. There are a bit dressier, but with their charming Victorian inspiration, are truly feminine fashions that can never lose their appeal. As background for fur scarf—also going full speed ahead for Spring-and-later success—these coats are elegant and dateless investments. Notable for their simple but precise lines and graceful detail, they are effective in navy, black or brown twill like woollens that wear as all good coat fabrics should.

In buying a coat, remember that it's the line, the color, the fabric and the purpose you should bear in mind A coat is never just another thing to hang in your closet...it should be a standby and a comfort to wear wherever you find yourself...going to and from the office, dashing across campus, or traveling out and back to that army camp or navy post, and serving ably and admirably while you're there, of course And this is the year, as never before, to find the coat that serves you, and your needs and your budget..smartly, capably and sucessfully.

England Is Doffing War Styles Fads Are Going Victorian

By BARBARA WACE
Associated Press Writer

LONDON, March 15 (CP)—British women are buying up Victorian furniture and bric-a-brac which before the war would only have been found hidden in attics, crowded in parlors of suburban villas or relegated to the servants' quarters in the "stately homes of England."

Old-fashioned lockets, fobs, chains and cameos, which a few yaars ago decorated the blouses of spinsterish school teachers and maiden aunts, or reposed on the ample stomachs of elderly clubmen, now cost fabulous sums and are worn by debutantes and brides of Mayfair.

Victorianism is in vogue — thanks partly to the 100 per cent luxury tax on jewelry and non-essential goods, and partly to sentimental reaction against the drabness and severity of wartime "utility" wares.

One big London West End department store has gone in for Victorianism in a big way, filling most of two floors with a hodge-podge such as can surely never have been seen before outside a seaside boarding house or an East End junk shop.

Fans, vases, lustre ware, miscellaneous ornaments, knives, table napkin rings, bottles, hair tidies, dish covers, artificial flowers, blotters, trinkets, silk curtains and ormulu clocks in glass cases are jumbled up together.

The richly ornamented sentimental Victorian styles are a welcome change from utility cups without handles. And a wartime bride would rather have a dressing table set of silver brushes and bottles, embossed with rosebuds or cherubs, than the most modern streamlined sophisticated design.

The girl who wears a uniform most of the year is happy to step out in civilian clothes with a heart-shaped locket round her neck, sentimentally inscribed "I love you," or "Forget me not."

"A dressing table set of heavy silver with little hearts and horseshoes went for £50 ($225) for a wedding present the other day," a salesman told me.

In a corner we watched a well-dressed woman turning over a pile of papier mache painted fans.

"I'm making the room entirely Victorian, my dear," she told her friend. "I've bought three hideous vases at four pounds each — too amusing for words—and we're converting them into lamps. And don't you think that gilt clock would look divine on the mantelpiece."

In the furniture department heavy Victorian suites are being stripped, limed and touched up with paint or gilt and even cheap sets from maids' bedrooms fetch about 60 pounds. Often the wardrobes are painted with flower designs to lighten them.

In the upholstery department piles of heavy silk and damask curtains stands in heaps shoulder high on the floor. Faded though many are, they are still of far better material than can be bought nowadays, and are coupon-free.

Victorian jewelry is shown everywhere. Men's "Prince Albert" chains have been hung with earrings, seals, coins, lockets, tiny silver charms to make bracelets. They cost at least six pounds.

Shoes Geared For Work

You'll be proud to stand on your own feet this Spring, and the new shoes will enthusiastically support your best efforts! All of which doesn't mean that the new shoes take their sensibleness too seriously—they look pretty wonderful, too! Fit and comfort have become first considerations for dress shoes, as well as sturdier shoes, these busy days — and the new pumps and sandals fulfill both these promises.

Pumps with curbstone toes, and "little girl" flat bows are classic dress-ups with versatile appeal this Spring — they are appropriately wearable with either suits or dresses. Patent leather, of course, is the shinging lightning again for the new season — and indeed, such popularity is deserved!

Boys' Clothes That Can Take It Win Their Favor For Spring

These days a boy's life is so full of a number of interests, he has to dress the part. Sensible, comfortable clothes, that allow him plenty of action, yet still conform to his own high standards of good looks, are definitely in the picture for Spring '44. The fact that many of them take their designing "cues" from older brothers at college or in the service, is all to the good, so far as Junior is concerned.

Naturally, boys' clothing is on the list of hard-to-keep-in-stock merchandise, as what items aren't, these days? Nevertheless, there's a goodly selection of the major things needed to keep our youngest class of home-front heroes going full steam ahead.

Designed for Action.

Clothes with a purpose are the buy-words for Spring, with particular accent on casual styles that go to school with the same sturdy good looks as they do after-hours duty in back yard, store or home. Now that the man-power shortage is more than a possibility, our school-age youngsters are taking an active part in manning our home-front chores.

Jeep hats and coats of sturdy water-repellant fabrics are among the ranking outfits wanted by masculine young America. The coats, made in fly-front or single-breasted styles, are natural in color, and either self or plaid lined. They are treated to withstand wind and weather, and are good bets for early Spring chilly spells, yet they follow the calendar willy-nilly season after season. The boys go for the matching jeep hats, which of course bear the name of the distinguished millinery worn by the gentlemen in khaki. These toppers have a practically indefatigable existence, because they can be washed, pocketed or stuffed into bicycle baskets without a hint of trouble.

Like Father, Like Son

Military-minded clothes are still popular with the pre-draft set, of course. But those with stay-at-home fathers are almost as interested in the casual sports togs that Pop adopts for his own wear during leisure-time week-ends or long evenings at home. Plain and plaid jackets, with slacks that blend, are among the most popular of the new Spring casuals. For victory gardening, backyard chores, or relaxing on the newly screened front porch, these new sports costumes are going great guns with the small fry and their adult relations. Plaid shirts in gay cottons and spun rayons, good for several wearings, are way up front with the ranking favorites. These come in colorful but tasteful combinations that blend well with solid color slacks and jackets.

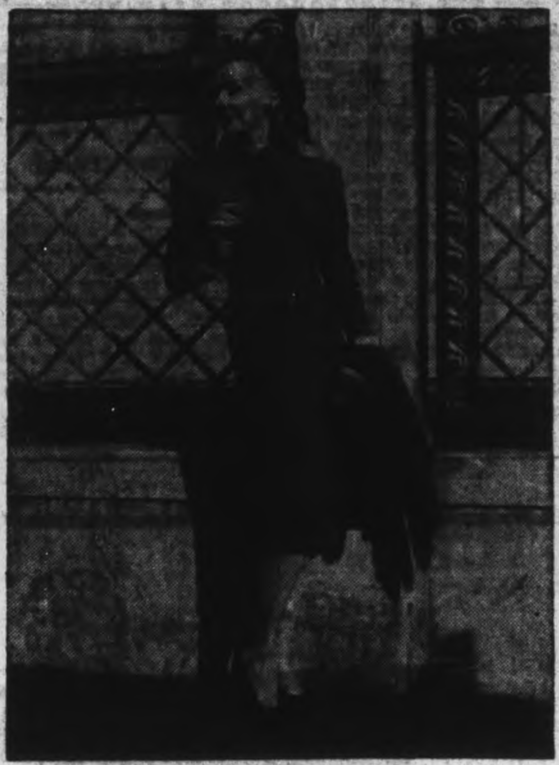
Accessories Are Popular

Weskits, sweaters, sports jackets and shirts are to be counted on as a means of expanding an active wardrobe. Sleeveless sweaters and weskits in colors that blend with the neutral tones of suits and topcoats are available in sufficient quantities to "keep 'em covered." Single-button sports coats in tweeds and corduroys are well up on the wanted list, too. Later on, the striped and plain-color basque shirt will be in evidence as companions for shorts and slacks in heavy cottons and rayons. These tub easily . . . and dry quickly . . . and thus conserve on the family laundry bill as well as on the energy of the lady that "mans" the tubs!

The bow tie is out for a record popularity vote, in the perennial polka dots, in stripes and solid colors. Field jackets, many made of the same cloth used by the army, are again the vanguard of Spring favorites for boys, and come in a variety of wearable styles that click with the youngsters as well as their parents.

Denim work-clothes though somewhat less appropriate for school, are expected to reach new heights in popularity . . . . if the supply of denim holds up! Just why these fashions are known as "fatigues" is a matter of mystery to all and sundry, for certainly from the point of view of hard work, they haven't any peers. Overalls, coveralls, and separates are the top three in these typically American wearables that can take it and then come back for more.

All in all, from the point of view of clothing, it's a young man's world, with all the country doing its bit to keep 'em in there pitching, rolling, growing . . . —for victory tomorrow, for peace long thereafter.



MAKES FASHION NEWS — A fan-tailed back and be-ruffled neckline make fashion news in this young sophisticated dressmaker suit, underscored for Easter through Spring.

Quick Change Dickeys Attuned To Wardrobes

For lightning-quick changes you'll want a supply of spanking-fresh dickeys and gilets. And fashion has worked wonders with them for Easter! Glistening sharkskins, snowy piques, color-bright rustling taffetas, whooshy organdies may be had in a host of styles for every suit—every mood. These include the beloved bow-tie gilet, the new weskit "front," stitched "necklace" gilets, ascot dickeys and for dress-up, ultra feminine dickeys spilling over with ruffles and lace. All make really delectabe suit seasoning and they're perfectly attuned to to-day's capsule wardrobes.

Floral Prints In Lingerie

Despite wartime rulings on yardage, trimmings and dyes, a host of delightful undie fashions has reached the counters of the country's retail shops, satisfying milady's vanity as well as her budget.

Floral Prints Are News

Flowered rayon crepes and cottons are among the most popular fabrics in pyjamas, nighties, slips and panties, as well as in negligees and gown sets to wear at home or enroute to and from army camps this Spring. All these styles are fresh-looking and feminine, yet they pack and tub as sturdily as any traveler could ask. The superfluous yardage of other years has been "scrapped" in favor of more form-fitting and thus more flattering silhouettes, yet there is no indication of skimping and short-cutting, thanks to the ingenuity of American design.

"Little Girl" Styles

The fluffy-ruffle vogue of a generation ago is back in the lingerie picture, this time with appropriate 1944 flavor. U-neck gowns, petticoat-inspired slips and Victorian-spirited panties are all on the scene, together with equall charming tailored styles. Desginers have combined the practical with the decorative in every case, so that today's undies can take the accelerated pace of wartime living perfectly in their stride. New fabrics are constantly being developed, and even though most of them will not make their bow until peacetime, new finishes have already been perfected that mean added vitality and wear for your undie purchases of this season.

Best of all, most of the lingerie success styles are priced to fit the war-bond buying, tax-busy budgets of today's careerist or allotment-check home-maker. All in all, the lingerie situation is well in hand, so sally forth and make your own sweet choice at your favorite shop.

Spring Scarfs Have Variations Unlimited

Long, square, triangular or oblong . . . . Spring scarfs are here in a galaxy of colors and fabrics. Worn as turbans, snood-type head-huggers, or as your favorite ascots, there are scarfs galore from gossamer sheers to menswear necktie rayons, to please taste and purse.

Scarf sorcery is being sponsored by one of the country's leading manufacturers who claims that individuality is a matter of scarf manipulation. Instead of just tying the scarf in the same old "tired" bow or knot, try pulling one end through a suit button-hole and over the lapel of the jacket; or gather a chiffon square into a cape-collar effect to perk up a basic frock. You can even contrive an apron effect with a scarf. . . . or twist yourself a head-dress that will "wow" a solid-color suit or dress.

Rock-garden florals, Mexican chili colors and wonderful new icy-mist tones are on the list of Spring scarf-shades. And of course the new peasant-type squares that double as shoulder-huggers or curl-cuddlers, are first in the hearts of the youngsters.

Scarf fascination may have started with Salome, but her 1944 sisters have a few tricks of their own to try on modern audiences!

FIG TREE PROLIFIC

The fig tree bears three crops a season.

Flattering Spring Hat Silhouettes Are Both Soft And Undulating

Flattery is the first rule of Spring millinery, and it's a golden rule for morale-boosting! Silhouettes are soft and undulating, with shell bonnets in both large and small variations to frame the face becomingly. Most of the new hats are very versatile—they are wearable tilted forward, or off-the-face, to suit the mood of the moment. The secret of this amiable trend is that there are tabs and tricks on the back of many of the new hats—that make them readily convertible for fore or aft wearability. Whichever way you choose to wear them, they are bound to stay on—that's part of the magic; and a good part, too, come windy weather! Suit sailors take the cue from the little miniatures of portrait fame—they're tiny, with straight little knife edge brims, and deep-but-narrow oval crowns!

Color does a flattering job for Spring millinery, too—soft blues, neutral blonde shades, pinks from soft to startle tones, grassy greens, violet shades and white for dim-out dining. Trimmings do something pretty wonderful about the hat pin problem—many of the season's headliners wear their hat pins decoratively, as well as functionally—they come in attractive shapes, covered in self or trimming straw braid.

The hat's the thing for Spring! And with such a wide choice of flattering styles, you wouldn't want to be seen without one! . . . . . .

Race Winners To Pay $2,000,000

TORONTO, March 16 — (CP) — The first budget announcement in five years of a new form of taxation in Ontario came today, whin Provincial Treasurer Leslie Frost told the Legislature that $2,000,000 annually instead of $1,000,000 will be extracted from holders of winning tickets at the Provinces race tracks.

The Treasurer announced that beginning the fiscal year next April 4 with the new racing season just around the corner — the contribution to his coffers will be 10 per cent, doubling the present five per cent tax on winning tickets.

Not since 1939 a few months before the war started has a provincial Treasurer pulled a taxation surprise from his budget bag. In that year Premier Mitchell Hepburn who also held the treasury portfolio, announced an increase from six to eight cents a gallon in the gasoline tax.

Mr. Frost's Financial Statement accompanying his budget address showed that in the current fiscal year revenue from the winning-ticket tax was $1,009,803.82. His forecast for the 1944-45 revenue is $2,000,000.

CHILDREN SHOW PARENTS' AIMS

If Good Expected of Little Ones, They Reveal Result of Encourment; Opposite True.

A 16-year-old boy appeared recently at a district police station to announce his retirement from a life of crime because his name was not mentioned in newspaper stories of a robbery. "I was the brains of that job," he explained disgustedly, "and they didn't say a word about me. They didn't even print my name."

This story should make every father and mother sit up and take notice and ponder carefully one fact in child-psychology that most of them completely ignore, and that is the passion that youngsters have for publicity and how strongly they feel that they have to live up to their reputations.

"Bad" All They Heard

Probably the juvenile delinquents about whom we are so concerned at present were born with no more criminal tendencies than any other children. They were just made what they are by being told from the time they were babes in the cradle that they were bad whenever they got into any childish mischief, and having established a reputation for toughness they had to become hoodlums to justify it.

No other phrase ever uttered by human lips has sent so many boys into penitentiaries and so many girls into brothels as the wail of parents that "we can't do a thing with Johnny and Susie." For Johnny and Susie, having gotten the name of being beyond parental control, go the limit to show how daring they can be and to furnish food for scandal.

Their parents are children's first audience and whatever Mama and Papa think of them color their whole pattern of behavior. If they are continually told at home that they are dull and stupid, or awkward and inept, they rarely try to overcome their handicaps. They think it is no use for them to study and try to get an education. Their self-confidence has been killed and they fail without even making a fight to succeed.

Mother Can Make Pretty Girl Beautiful

On the other hand, parents can boost their children's morale by setting a standard for them and making them feel that they expect them to reach it. Just as Mother can make a homely girl homelier by telling her how ugly and gawky she is, so she can turn a merely pretty girl into a beauty by giving her the self-confidence that makes her carry herself forty per cent above her looks instead of seventy-five per cent below them.

A boy who is not naturally bookish can be turned into a student by the pride a family takes in his school reports, and many a boy acquires drawing-room manners by his mother bragging before company that he is a little Chesterfield.

The dominant influence in children's lives is their parents, and ninety-nine times out of a hundred they are what their parents make them. If Father and Mother expect the best of them, they give it. If Father and Mother expect the worst of them, they get it. The poor little tikes, too young and ignorant to have any standards of their own, are just trying to get the spotlight turned on them and to live up to their reputations.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, March 17

Although there is much stimulus for active and determined efforts to obtain lofty ambitious, and objectives of great expansion and scope, yet there are signs of all sorts of tests, trials, disappointments and obstacles which may make a confused, complex and discouraging state of affairs. The obstructions seem to arise from many diverse sources, with public community, and co-operative support withheld from high influential places. There may be open as well as subtle and sinister opposition. Yet the mind is well equipped with shrewdness, insight and flexibility to revise ar accomplish worthy objectives. Be cautious, vigilant and shun unnecessary risks of all kinds.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of complex, difficult and confused issues, with many phases of obstruction, obstacle and opposition both open and under cover, and with little support or encouragement from superiors, elders, or public community authorities. A policy of going it alone, with confidence in the soundness and integrity of ambitious objectives assisted by a shrewd and forceful application of a fine and sagacious mentality may eventuate in some measure of success. Avoid risks of all kinds, physical as well as financial. Shun quarrels and impetuous and turbulent tactics.

A child born on this day may have advanced ambitions, with much ability, sagacity, and vision, which may lead it through many dangers and reversals, if it will avert many risks with health and funds as well.

Curtin Favors Plan Accepting Internees

CANBERRA, March 16 — (CP-Reuters) — Prime Minister John Curtin announced today that the Australian government has decided to allow some of the German and Australian refugees who were sent from Britain for interment in Australia to remain in the Commonwealth.

Applications will be considered on merit, and internees may seek naturalization after five years in Australia, he added.

Some refugees released from internment have returned to Britain; others are doing work in important industries.

The distinction that marks masterly styling, fine quality, and thorough craftsmanship, wins a Warren K. Cook suit, immediate popularity. See the Blackthorn Twist, a colorful product of the north of Ireland. You'll agree they are superb.

Luftwaffe Raid Fires Many London Homes

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, March 16—(CP Cable)—It wouldn't do to ask a good many Londoners to-day the question posed for the past 13 days by so-called air experts, "Where is the Luftwaffe?"

The Lufwaffe was right here on Tuesday night, spreading fire and destruction in its wake.

As in the past, the raid was nothing like the concentrated fury of the R.A.F. night attacks on Germany, but for those in the line of fire that was small comfort as they watched their homes burn.

One Canadian soldier was killed when high explosive wrecked two houses in a suburb. The soldier, a woman and two children were buried under five tons of debris which air raid precautions workers moved in 20 minutes.

The woman and children were rescued and taken to hospital, but the soldier was dead when searchers reached him.

There was something magnificent in the stoic calm of burned-out people, some of them women with babies in arms, as they watched grimly their flaming homes.

Two Waves Come.

At least two waves of bombers—not more than 100 all told—approached the London area before midnight, setting off alarms in the city which had been watching the wane of the moon and had expected an attack.

The anti-aircraft barrage was just as fierce and thunderous as anything during February's "pocket blitz" and the early count was nine planes down, some accounted for even as London skies were crimsoned from fires. Two of the raiders were destroyed by pilots of Canadian Mosquito night fighter squadrons.

It was really not so different from a fire in any Canadian city. Blazes attract great crowds just the same as when an apartment block of a cottage burns somewhere in Canada.

That's how it was near our place. We were really fortunate and did not lose anything except one window of our favorite pub, but it was frightening when it came crashing down into the street 20 feet from colleague Allan Nickelson who was crouching in a doorway.

A hundred yards away flickering flames arose as hundreds of incendiaries damaged roofs of buildings. In a few minutes a picturesque little school in lee of an ancient church was a mass of crackling flames and wardens were warning people to keep back from the windows which were expected to blow out from the heat. Fire guards—many of them girls, worked valiantly with sand to extinguish incendiaries in the streets.

As the little school burned the roof of a five-storey building next door burst into flames. Nothing could be dont about theschool, but the big building which blazed down to the third floor was the Home Guard Headquarters where a lot of stuff could be salvaged.

In no time there was a great human chain formed into the building; chairs, desks, tables and miscellaneous equipment being passed from hand to hand until the street looked as though there had been a mass eviction.

With Nickelson, I went inside, and learned just how a fireman feels when he reaches your house, axe in hand, and starts smashing doors, furniture and the grand piano.

Itching, Burning, Stinging Eczema or Salt Rheum

Eczema, or salt rheum as it is commonly called, is one of the most painful of all skin troubles.

The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night, or when the affected part is exposed to heat, or the hands placed in hot water are most unbearable, and relief is gladly welcomed.

The relief offered by Burdock Blood Bitters is based on the knowledge that such ailments as eczema, and other skin troubles, are caused by an impure blood condition.

SIX TONS OF DESTRUCTION READY FOR BERLIN—Here is the first picture to be published of the new six-ton bomb England is using to level German buildings and cities. The giant missile is on its carrier in this picture, placed in front of the Lancaster bomber that will carry it. The Lancaster has a wing span of 102 feet. The comparable size of bomb and plane is distorted here because the bomb is closer to the camera, but an idea of the tremendous size may be gained.

Enormous Vegetable Yields Can Be Had From Very Small Plot

BY GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

Those unfamiliar with actual gardening are always amazed at the amount of vegetables a plot of a few yards square can produce. Handled properly, a piece of ground 12 feet wide and 25 feet long should yield practically all the vegetables except potatoes, a small family will require from early June until frost.

For ease in cultivation, rows should run across the width not the length of the plot, and they can be as close together as 12 inches for little, narrow and early stuff like lettuce, radish and carrots, about 15 inches for beets and beans and 18 inches for corn and tomatoes. To save room and induce early and clean fruits, the latter should be staked with all side branches picnhed off.

Space can be saved by alternating early vegetables like radish, spinach and lettuce with later maturing sorts like beets, carrots and onions. By the time the second group really require all room the first will have been removed and eaten.

Prepare Thoroughly

In these small, intensive vegetable gardens, as so many Victory gardeners found last season it is essential to prepare the ground thoroughly in advance, to dig it well and get out all twitch grass and other weeds before the vegetables are planted. It is far more difficult to get out big weeds and grass roots after the vegetables are planted than before.

Another important point is thinning. Beets, carrots, lettuce, radish and all small seed vegetables should be thinned once so that those plants left can develop quickly and without crowding or checking. An inch apart will do for beets and carrots and seed onions, and then when more room is necessary one can take out every other plant and use for the table. Carrots and beets an inch in diameter make excellent eating.

Plot Planting Advantages

Even where one has a whole farm at one's disposal it is a good plan to grow certain vegetables in small plots where they can be cultivated often and watered if necessary. This advice especially applies to carrots, beets, lettuce, radish, seed onions, parsnips and such things. Vegetables of this type seem to thrive better in small compact plots than in long rows out in the field. On the other hand beans, peas, corn, potatoes, etc., seem to do better under field conditions.

Peas, for instance, do not fit in a tiny space, because at least 30 feet of row will be necessary to produce a decent family meal, and corn is almost in the same category, something like a dozen hills being necessary for minimum results. One can harvest beans from a row ten feet long every other day for a couple of weeks or more. As, however, they are susceptible to disease especially when damp, they are best grown in rows where they will not be disturbed when wet with rain or dew.

Lawn Work

As soon as the frost goes out it is time to put up protecting stakes and wire as soon as one can walk on the grass without miring it is time to plant seed. One can hardly sow the seed too early. Lawns should be rolled when ground is soft.

Next Week: Hardy vegetables and flowers nursing stock.

Curling News
By HERB. MARTIN

Augmented by rinks from the Lakefield Curling Club, the Peterborough Curling Club staged its annual mixed bonspiel, on Wednesday afternoon and evening, for the Red Cross Society. Close to $50 was realized.

The bonspiel was divided into two groups, one for those who could play in the afternoon and the other group for the night players.

Although the ice was not up to par, yet everybody looked upon the game as a part contribution towards a worthy cause.

In the evening the games were reduced to eight ends and that helped out a lot.

At the conclusion of the night's play, light refreshments were served in the club's parlors by the Peterborough lady curlers.

The ladies received Pyrex mixing bowls, presented by Mr. S. Lowe. The gents received neck ties, presented by Mr. T. Doughty and Grafton & Co.

Evening Results

First—Mrs. D. Charlton, T. Chaplain, Mrs. Killoran, D. Charlton, skip.

Second—Mrs. J. Dunkerley, F. Stenson, Mrs. G. Wood, P. B. Scott, skip.

Afternoon Results

Mrs. E. Welbourne, E. Brown, Mrs. R. Turner, C. Giroux, skip.

Mrs. J. Green, G. Green, Mrs. G. Green, T. McArthur, skip.

After being behind the eight ball for well into three quarters of the game, E. Fisher and his boys pulled themselves together and forced J. Woods' quartette to go into overtime before they would concede the trophy. This all happened in the final game of the leads and seconds competition.

The game was played on somewhat heavy ice but that did not seem to bother the players an awful lot. They took everything in their stride and all seemed to enjoy it.

An so another competition was brought to a successful conclusion.

Congratulations are in order for all.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK
—By J. R. Scott

New Set-up Is Outlined For The C.B.C.

OTTAWA, March 16 — (CP). — Leaders of the three political parties qualifying for the free radio time elaborated on in a White Paper placed before the Commons Radio Committee, to-day reserved comment pending further consideration of the Paper before making any statements as to the use they intended to make of the time.

War Services Minister LaFleche, Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, and M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. Leader, all said they had not yet had time to study the Paper.

Highlight of yesterday's committee meeting was an outline of a new Canadian Broadcasting Corporation setup which would see a $15,000-a-year full-time chairman in charge of policy and a $13,000-a-year general manager in a purely executive role.

The setup was suggested by Rene Morin, the present part-time chairman, proposed the new chairman would have dominant authority. The ranking executive would include an assistant general manager at an unspecified salary.

Gen LaFleche supported the full-time chairman suggestion, but said nothing on the division of authority between a chairman and general manager.

Political Broadcasts.

The new CBC policy, which comes into effect immediately, provides that the Liberals will receive two hours and 24 minutes annually, the Progressive Conservatives and the C.C.F. will each get one hour and 48 minutes.

Dr. Frigon said over a 10-month period, for instance, the Liberals would receive four half-hour periods while the Conservatives and C.C.F. parties each would get three half-hour periods.

One party will be allotted one half-hour one month and another party a half-hour the following month in the proper ratio. The parties will be obliged to use the time as it is allocated, and will not be allowed to build up free time for a program like a lengthy speech by a party leader.

Parties like Bloc Populaire, New Democracy, and Canadian, with only small representations in the Commons, do not qualify for free time.

Parties qualifying for the time must meet these requirements:

1. Have policies on a wide range of national issues.
2. Have a recognized national leader.
3. Have a nation-wide organization established as a result of a national conference.
4. Seek the election of candidates in at least three of the provinces and put into the field a minimum of 61 candidates.

The CBC will also provide "over and above time given to existing national parties" an allotment of free national network time to bring listeners an adequate presentation" of any new national political party's program.

Time on CBC-owned or operated stations cannot be purchased during or between elections, except at Chicoutimi, Que., and Prince Rupert, B.C., where no privately owned stations can provide for local broadcasting.

However, time may be purchased on private stations both during and between elections. During elections, parties recognized as national parties may purchase time on a hook-up of privately-owned stations which would cover any one province. CBC stations would not be included in the provincial hook-ups.

Provincial Parties.

Qualified provincial parties will be allotted free time over provincial networks and will be entitled, on a provincial basis, to the same privileges, as national parties.

The committee meeting was enlivened by a verbal exchange between Gen. LaFleche and M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader. The Minister denied Mr. Coldwell's charges that he was guilty of interference with the CBC.

For a time discussion centred around Gen. LaFleche's part in the temporary cancellation of an open form type broadcast, entitled "Things to Come."

Mr. Coldwell said Gen. LaFleche had admitted his guilt of interference by an admission of having referred the matter of criticism of this feature to the C.B.C. management.

"Don't put words into my mouth," retorted Gen. LaFleche, rising in his seat. "Would it be that you were dissatisfied with the outcome of the broadcast as far as your interests are concerned?"

Mr. Coldwell jumped to his feet. "I don't like the inference of the minister's remarks and all I can say is I took part in the broadcast which was an open forum."

Earlier, Gen. LaFleche said the CBC had reached the stature of big business and he thought the time had come for the appointment of a full-time chairman.

(The active direction of the corporation is normally handled by the General Manager, but with this office vacant the work is being done by Dr. Augustin Frigon, assistant General Manager.)

Mr. Morin said it was almost impossible to find a person possessing the qualifications needed to fill the divergent functions expected of the General Manager.

He said the Governors asked themselves whether the setup of the Corporation would not be improved by a better control exercised by a dual authority. Each would have his own definite field of action and normally their functions would not conflict, but if disagreement arose "the authority of the chairman might be predominent or the board easily settle such differences."

He said the board was unanimous in its view on this subject and had suggested the appointment to the government. No suggestion had been made as to who might fill the posts.

He outlined the background of the wartime agreement with the federal government, under which about 75 per cent of provincial income is fixed, with the Dominion guaranteeing provincial revenues from fields of taxation the Province abandoned for the duration of the war.

"We have suffered the loss of income which would accrue to us from the general prosperity which has obtained in the country due to wartime expansion. It must therefore be borne in mind that the province of Ontario has made great sacrifices to assist in the war effort.

"I hold that the time is at hand when the Province should take stock and inventory of its financial position, to find out just what its position will be at the termination of this agreemen; how long it will be before it may expect to receive sufficent revenues from its own fields of taxation to discharge the normal functions of government; and what plans the Dominion has for vacating fields of taxation which normally and morally belong to the Provinces we feel that this is a very necessary subject of an early Dominion-Provincial conference."

One of Ontario's greatest problems is its debt—estimated at $483,368,569 as of next March 31— and its interest charges of about $20,000,000 annually.

Establish Sinking Fund.

Mr. Frost proposed as a post-war plan that a sinking fund be established with a view to retiring the net Provincial debt "over a period of not more than 50 years." Coupled with this was a suggestion that revenue-producing debt—such as that incurred in highway construction—be retired from such revenues.

In a discussion of public accounts, the Minister recommended "as a temporary measure" that the Legislature rule banning questions by members about accounts for the current year should not be enforced although he asked the members to co-operate and not make unreasonable requests."

The Government has appointed a budget committee comprised of three ministers and three senior treasury officials to keep our expenditures always under review and to eliminate waste and duplication wherever found."

The grants to free the universities from debt—$816,000 to the University of Toronto and $250,000 each to the University of Western Ontario and Queen's University — will enable them to take an active part in research work following the war.

Mr. Frost dealt with the operation of the Farm Loan Adjustment Act under which farmers may ask a County Judge to review their mortgages and said that adjustments were made in 31 of 42 applications heard since last November.

Recalling that the government invested $5,000,000 in the Fifth Victory Loan, the treasurer said provincial sinking funds "are in good order" and his recommendation "to add to our sinking fund provisions for this current year on amount in excess of the legal requirements by $4,000,000."

Decreases in anticipated revenue for the coming fiscal years total $6,393,000, accounted for as follows: Liquor $3,887,383; corporation tax, $1,256,549; Hydro, $777,822. Increases are also anticipated, including $275,000 from income tax and approximately $1,000,000 from the new Race Track Act.

Maximum liquor revenues "I can forecast are the amount of profits which are to be guaranteed by the Dominion for the base year ending June 30, 1942, amounting to $16,312,616." Profits for the present fiscal year are $20,000,000. During the 1943-44 fiscal year the Federal government collected in liquor taxes more than $34,000,000 on liquor sold in the province. He reported the number of liquor permits in force in Ontario had increased from 155,295 to $1,227,457 in 12 months.

Three-Point Program.

In a lengthy discussion of plans for relieving real estate of its taxation burden, Mr. Frost said the government "declares this to be its permanent and continuing policy" and announced a three-point program to achieve the objective.

First step will be examination of the real estate taxation question by a Royal Commission; the second, provision of greater security for teachers through increasing by $400,000 the government's annual contribution to the teachers' and inspectors' superannuation fund; and third, payment of an additional one-mill subsidy to municipalities to be applied against the cost of education. The present one-mill subsidy applies to the general rate.

Some reductions in expenditures in the coming year were reviewed, $1,139,406 in the Attorney-General's Department largely accounted for by the fact that costs of an election are not included this year, spending of $2,840,200 less on ordinary account in the Highways Department and reduction of $853,000 in the gross cost of foreign exchange and interest on the public debt.

Highways Minister Doucett has "so arranged his work that despite this reduction $1,000,000 extra will be spent on municipal roads."

Mr. Frost referred also to increased health costs of $1,013,305, additional costs of $2,800000 for mothers' allowances and old age pensions extension of the eight-hour day to employees of prisons and reformatories at a cost of over $200,000, expenditure of an additional $300,000 in the Department of Lands and Forests for preventative services and spending of $100,000 for the new Provincal Department of Planning and Development.

Extension of rural Hydro lines would cost $900,000 and the cost to the Provincial Treasury which bears half the capital cost would be about $400,000. The 400 miles of lines to be constructed would serve an additional 5,670 customers.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

SPOT CARD SIZE VITAL

TOO MANY players think of cards lower than honor rank as merely "small cards." They seldom make any distinction between a 9 and an 8, a 7 and a 6, a 5 and a 4. But many contracts depend on just such factors. It is worth just as much to you to have a 7 over the other fellow's 6 when a late trick comes along as to have an A over his K on an early trick. Watching the little cards is essential to fine bridge.

East refrained from doubling, he said after this deal, only because the declarer was a man who makes the best use of every little card, J. Harlin O'Connell of New York.

The diamond J lead was won by the K, and Mr. O'Connell decided to cash his high cards before guessing trumps, hoping eventually to have the defenders lead them to him. The spade K and A were taken and the spade 6 ruffed by the heart 2. Then came the diamond A, club Q, the club A and the club K. If East, now down to five hearts and the spade Q, had discarded his spade, so could Mr. O'Connell, then lead another club. If East ruffed with the 6, he could be over-ruffed with the 7.

Actually, East made the apparently best play, ruffing the club K with the 8. South discarded his spade, and East was still trapped. He led the spade Q, South tossing his last diamond and ruffing with dummy's heart 4. For nine tricks trumps had not been led. Now on the tenth Mr. O'Connell led the heart Q from dummy. East covered with the K and the A took it. The heart 3 to the 9 enabled East to score his 10 and J, but he had to lose the heart 6 then to the 7, making the contract.

We have all heard the old story about people walking the streets of London because they didn't draw trumps. Here was a case of the declarer being in the soup if he led trumps before the ninth trick.

British Parents Strive To Repay Debt To America

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 16—(CP)—English parents, eager to prove their gratitude to Canada and the United States for giving their children wartime haven, have set up a scheme to bring young people from North America to Britain for education and training when the war is over.

For this venture, known as the Kinsmen Trust, more than $70,000 has been collected. Most of it was contributed by parents whose own children, when the future looked bleak in Britain following the fall of France in 1940, were sent overseas.

The people behind the plan, who include Viscount Bennet and Lady Tweedsmuir have the vision of hundreds of young people crossing the Atlantic to attend British schools or to receive vocational training in their chosen careers. They hope the fund grows to many thousands of English pounds.

Numbers of large boys' and girls' schools have offered scholarships to be made available to the young people. The Royal Academy of Dramatic Art and other schools of specialized study are providing scholarships.

Besides this a number of apprenticeships will be available in various industries, such as publishing and printing firms, solicitors, offices, aircraft production. These will enable the boys and girls who wish to enter these trades to have a background of British training and techniques.

To Promote Understanding

Lord Gorell chairman of the fund, said, "The purpose of the scheme is to promote understanding between the people of Canada and the United States and those of Great Britain.

"More than that, the parents of what Canada calls her 'guest children' want to try to make a return for the kindness and hospitality shown towards their own children."

Capt. Hamish Hamilton, honorary secretary of the trust, pointed out that British children were given refuge although their parents could not send money from Britain to pay their expenses.

"But this never tempered the warmth of their welcomes," he said.

Children who will visit the British Isles under this scheme will be chosen by selection boards which will be set up in their own countries.

"Preferences will be given to children of people who gave hospitality to our children," he said. "Or they may nominate boys and girls for the scholarships. We want representative young people from all walks of life.

"We hope the plan will grow enormously until it develops into a sort of junior Rhodes trust."

Cobourg To Open Another School

COBOURG, March 16—(ENS)—Cobourg town council has approved the issuance of $3,600 worth of debentures to cover the purchase and fitting up of the Hilda Niles property just west of the public school. The acquisition of the property is to relieve the congestion of pupils at the school.

The school board submitted to the council at its meeting this week a copy of a resolution passed on March 8, this year, at a meeting of the board, which read as follows:

"Moved by Charles Nicholls and seconded by Dr. G. A. Dundas, 'that the town of Cobourg be requested to provide the sum of $3,600 by debentures, to purchase the Hilda Niles property on James street and to fit it for a school building'."

Councillor Alan Field told the council that the Finance committee had taken the matter up with the board and that the committee felt that it was a necessary expenditure.

Overcrowded

Mrs. Kathleen Spooner, chairman of the school board, stated last night that the board had to do something to relieve the overcrowding. By law, only a certain number of pupils could occupy a class room and the kindergarten was badly overcrowded. At present there was a floating teacher who could look after the kindergarten accommodation which could be provided by the Niles house but an addition to the staff would be necessary in the near future.

Charles Gummow principal of the school, said that the enrolment last fall in the kindergarten class was the largest he had ever known and next fall there would be another class of youngsters starting to school. Present total roll of the school was 708, about the same as last year.

Some of the kindergarten pupils came from families which had moved into town and might not be permanent residents, but nevertheless their educational needs had to be met, Mr. Gummow said.

Council passed a resolution that the sum of $480 be paid to Mrs. Myrtle McClelland, being the balance of the honorarium provided to the late T. H. McClelland by the trustees of the Collegiate Institute, and that this sum be deducted from the 1944 requisition of the Collegiate Board.

A letter from Capt. J. A. Munro, padre of the 5 Canadian A.A. Reg. enclosed a song written by Gunner Tom McMahon of Cobourg. The song had been used in many concerts and was a hit, and it was thought that the council might see if it could be published through the local Legion and thus protected.

Mayor Jack Burnet said that he would look into the matter.

Wants a Home

Council received a letter from a Mrs. M. Gow, Reg. N., of Toronto, asking if she could get an apartment or cottage as she wanted to move to Cobourg. This was something new to the council and it was decided to send her a list of Cobourg real estate agents.

A delicate situation was avoided by council. A resolution from Kitchener council recommended on increase in the beer supply. However, prior to the council meeting the radio had announced that the Federal government was permitting the removal of the 10 per cent cut. Consequently the local council took no action in regard to the Kitchener resolution.

INCENDIARIES BURN IN BERLIN—There just aren't enough firemen to cope with the number of fires started by Allied raids on Berlin, battered capital of Hitler's Germany, as this photo, just received through a neutral source, testifies. Incendiaries, which the German caption describes as phosphorous bombs, "most frightful of all air terrors," here burn unchecked on the roadway. In the background, dense clouds of smoke billow from struck buildings.

Spring Cleaning Hints Given W.I.

MILLBROOK, March 16—(ENS)—Mrs. T. G. Harkness was hostess for the March meeting of the Women's Institute, held at her home with the president, Mrs. Delbert Olan, in the chair. The roll was answered with "A Spring Cleaning Hint," a number of helpful suggestions being received. The treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Hilton, reported $4.25 from a card party at her home; $1 donation to the cigarette fund; $27.45 in the war relief fund, which had been turned over to the community organization of that name; $1 donation to the Red Cross fund, which has a total now of $6.30, with 83 cents added from the day's collection; $4 turned in from piano rent, making a balance on hand of $15.37. The branch had given $5 to the recent drive for the sale of War Savings Stamps, this amount to be used toward the prize list.

The Federation fee of 15 cents per member was ordered paid, and announcement made of the district annual on June 6, at Elizabethville if transportation facilities permit. Otherwise the gathering will be at Millbrook. Mention was made of the loss the Elizabethville branch has sustained in the death of Mrs. Cecil Quantrill, an active and efficient worker, well known throughout the East Durham Institutes, and sincere sympathy was expressed for the officers and members of the branch who will miss a faithful helper. A card of sympathy will also be sent to the president of the East Durham W.I., Mrs. Ira Lowe, who is convalescing after a severe illness.

Complete Layette

The layette which the branch has had under way for some time is to be completed by next meeting, when it is hoped all contribution will be in, and as this will be the annual meeting, a lunch will be served at its conclusion. Mrs. Harkness invited the branch to meet again at her home, which is central, and the third Saturday in April will be the date, as the regular day, the second Saturday, immediately precedes Easter Sunday. To increase the funds, and mark St. Patrick's Day, the branch will hold a euchre at the home of Mrs. E. C. Richards, Centre street, Friday, March 17, when each member is asked to bring a friend, and help toward the refreshments which are to be served at the close. Mrs. Richards and Mrs. D. L. Lunn sponsored the vote of thanks to the hostess, and the national anthem dismissed the gathering.

Association Plans To Hold April Tea

BETHANY, March 16 — (ENS) — The regular meeting of the Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. Vincent Jackson with 16 in attendance. A discussion followed on the advisability of holding an Easter Tea and it was decided to hold one on April 10. It was left in charge of Mrs. Veale to call the menu committee, leaders of group 5. Mrs. A. B. Ryley kindly consented to look after the printing of the bills. The treasurer reported $91.01 in the bank.

In the absence of Mrs. Waddell, leader of Group 3, Mis Staples took charge of the program. A reading "Seek God In The Morning", was given by Miss Staples; Mr Harding gave a talk on the subject, "Truth"; Mrs. Neil played a solo "Happy Day with variations," and a reading, "The Proof of Your Worth," was given by Mrs. McKinnon. Mrs. H. H. Ryley put on a Scripture contest, which was enjoyed.

A vote of thanks was moved by Miss Richardson, seconded by Miss Staples to the hostesses. The collection was $3.45.

Personals

Miss Doris Fair and Master George Fair of Fairmount were guests of their grandmother, Mrs R. Fallis on Saturday.

Miss Irene Fallis of Toronto spent the week end at her home on Wilson street.

Mrs. Roy Ferrin of Cavan was a week end guest at her parental home, on Wilson street.

Misses Margaret and Isobel Jackson of Peterborough spent the week end at their home, west of the village.

Another member of a pioneer family is Rev. James McMullen of Bethany, whose passing occurred at Toronto recently has removed a widely known person. The late Mr. McMullen is mourned here by two brothers, Robert McMullen and Charles McMullen, and two sisters Miss Sara at home and Mrs. H. Arnott of Front street.

NIAGARA FALLS, March 16 — (CP) — A fine of $2,000 and costs of $130 was imposed on the Canadian Oil Companies Limited, St. Catharines Branch, today on a charge of selling or supplying gasoline for a purpose other than the operation of a motor vehicle or a non-commercial marine engine, the same not being marked as provided in Order No. 12 of the Oil Controller. Thirty-one similar charges were dismissed when no evidence was offered by the Crown.

News Article Galls Aussies

CANBERRA, Australia, March March 16 — (CP) — Australia's Army Minister, Francis E. Forde, said in an interview today "It is galling to the Australian public after 4½ years of war, during which Australian forces fought in nearly every world theatre, to read in a newspaper report that 'Australians better get into the Pacific War themselves.' "

He said his comment was prompted by an editorial appearing in the Chicago Tribune.

(The Tribune in an Editorial March 10 stated: "Rather carping about the pay of American soldiers the Australians had better be getting into the Pacific war themselves. They still retain severe restrictions against sending drafted troops beyond the area of Australia's direct interest.")

"Australia has fulfilled every obligation to her Allies in this war not only in the Pacific but in all theatres and will continue to do so until final victory," Forde said.

"In proportion to the population, Australia has as many men under arms as any Allied or enemy nation."

Soviets Reach Dniester River Port of Nikolaev Under Fire

CANADA SIGNS AGREEMENTS—Tangible evidence of Canada's important role in the supplying of war materials and essential supplies to the fighting fronts was given in the signing of Mutual Aid Agreements between this country, the United Kingdom, the Soviet Union and Australia. The ceremonies took place in the office of the Prime Minister. Photo shows the Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King signing the agreement with Australia. Looking on are, from Left to Right, Howard Measures, Protocol Officer, Department of External Affairs; Hume Wrong, Assistant Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs; Dr. Anstey Wynes, official secretary, Office of the Australian High Comsioner; Major-General the Hon. Sir William Glasgow, K.C.B., High Commissioner for the Commonwealth of Australia; the Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply.

Canada Delivers Lend Lease

OTTAWA, March 17—(CP).—Mutual aid agreements covering deliveries of all supplies made up to now under Canada's $1,000,000,000 mutual aid bill of last year as well as all future deliveries, have been concluded with the United Kingdom, the Soviet Union and Australia, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced last night in the Commons.

Copies of the agreements, which contain the terms under which Canada supplies war materials to other United Nations, were tabled by Mr. King, who said that similar agreements with other countries, including China and the French Committee of National Liberation, are in process of negotiation.

The agreements did not indicate how much each country has received or will receive in supplies from Canada.

(Dr. H. V. Evatt, Australian Minister of External Affairs, told the Australian House of Representatives yesterday that "it is anticipated Australia will receive from Canada goods to the approximate value of $85,000,000 to $100,000,000 per year."

(These goods will include automotive parts, metal and wood-working machinery, communications equipment, chemicals and raw materials, including ferrous alloys and non-ferrous metals, electrical equipment, lumber and many other goods essential to Australia's war effort.")

The agreements contain no provision for repayment and only limited provisions for return to Canada of some of the goods delivered under special conditions.

Little Hope Held For Peace As Finns Reply To Russia

By ROBERT N. STURDEVANT—Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, March 17—(AP).—Finland's reply to Russion armistice terms was delivered to the Russian Legation in Stockholm today and a Finnish diplomatic source told The Associated Press "I do not hold much hope for peace."

The reply presumably was handed to Mme. Alexandra Kollontay, the 75-year-old Russian Minister, for transmission to Moscow. The deadline for the Finnish answer to Russia's final proposals is Saturday.

The action followed a last-minute appeal from President Roosevelt for Finland to "withdraw from this hateful partnership" with Germany. King Gustav of Sweden urged Marshal Baron Carl Mannerheim and other high Finnish Government figures to accept the Russian conditions.

Report Saturday.

It is understood that Finland will announce the contents of its note tomorrow after receiving assurances that the reply has reached Moscow. The Finnish Parliament was reliably reported to have rejected the terms in secret session Wednesday. Russian insistence upon internment of seven German divisions, with Red Army help if needed, was said to have been the chief stumbling block.

Helsinki dispatches told of measures to preserve church archives and bank records in anticipation of renewed Russian air assaults.

Came Too Late

HELSINKI, March 17 —(AP)—A foreign office spokesman today said the Finnish government "has to give serious consideration" to President Roosevelt's statement urging Finland to withdraw from her "hateful partnership" with Germany.

"We regret it wasn't made three days earlier," informed political figures said, in obvious reference to the fact that the Finnish parliament had reached a decision.

The section of the press opposed to the government displayed President Roosevelt's statement prominently. Newspapers supporting the government tucked it away inside.

May Ration Pork To Fill Orders

TORONTO, March 17—(CP).—W. P. Watson of the swine branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, told the Agriculture Committee of the Legislature today that it may be necessary to again restrict domestic consumption of pork in order to fill overseas contracts, but it was doubtful if such restriction would be as severe as prevailed during time of meat rationing in Canada.

Marketings of hogs in Canada in the first 10 weeks of this year totalled almost 1,000,000 more than in the same period last year. Up to March 11 this year 2,208,021 hogs were marketed by Canadian producers as against 1,239,289 for the same period last year.

"Up to last week," he said, "the meat board has shipped 200,000,000 pounds of bacon to Britain this year. We have contracted to supply Britain with 900,000,000 pounds during 1944-45 but more than two-thirds of this amount will be shipped this year. I see no difficulty in reaching this figure."

He placed weekly consumption of pork in Canada today at about 4,000,000 pounds greater than during the period when sale was restricted. This did not mean that Canadians were eating that much more meat, but that pork consumption had greatly replaced that of beef and had tended, perhaps more than anything else, to account for the present "draggy" meat market.

Mr. Watson predicted that hog marketings will decline, within the next few months, because of a drop in hog production last fall.

Market Will Last.

Regarding post-war markets, he said there was every reason to believe there would be a market for the present rate of Canadian production for one or two years after the war.

G. F. Perkin of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, said there were 173 credit unions in Ontario at present, 35 of them in rural areas. Small loans could be made through the unions at a maximum

P.E.I. Discusses Liquor Control

CHARLOTTETOWN, March 17—(CP). — Sitting almost all night, the Prince Edward Island Legislature early to-day cleared the decks for prorogation except for disposition of a private bill to modify the Island's prohibition law.

The House, which convened February 15, was expected to prorogue some time this afternoon if the liquor measure could be disposed of by that time. The bill, introduced only yesterday, apparently would set up a form of government control in the province, though it was not explained on first reading.

Members of the House rose at 4:45 o'clock this morning and were to convene again at 11 o'clock. During the Marathon night sitting they completed passage of the estimates, providing for expenditures of $3,162,849 and revenues of $2,803,458.

Interest centred to-day on the Liquor Bill, which would empower the Government to designate persons to issue prescriptions with the "same force and value" as doctors' prescriptions. Two per month could be issued to individuals.

At present only doctors may issue prescriptions for liquor in Prince Edward Island.

Allies Take Hills Near Cassino

New Zealanders Mopping Up Nazis Inside Town

BY RICHARD G. MASSOCK
Associated Press War Correspondent

NAPLES, March 17 — (AP) — Fifth army forces have now fought their way through bomb demolished Cassino to its southwestern outskirts and have captured several prominent heights overlooking the ruined town, Allied headquarters announced today.

New Zealand troops who plunged into the rubble immediately after Wednesday's 2,500-ton aerial bombardment encountered strong resistance from Germans fighting back from the ruins but finally drove them from all except one corner of the town.

From that point strategic route 6, via Casilina, leads into the Liri valley and on to Rome.

Still Hold Abbey

The Germans still were occupying the ruins of ancient Monte Cassino Abbey overlooking the town and from there were directing artillery and mortar fire on Allied positions in the valley.

The Germans were reported fighting hard to retain their hill positions west and northwest of the town and from there were directing artillery and mortar fire on Allied positions in the valley.

The Germans were reported fighting hard to retain their hill positions west and northwest of the town where, the communique said, Allied forces also were making progress.

In that area New Zealand and Indian troops have occupied prominent features despite fierce German opposition.

The Allied forces had occupied three-quarters of ruined Cassino by yesterday and Allied units were clawing their way up Mount Cassino to the Nazi-occupied ruins of the historic Benedictine Monastery at its summit.

Wreckage Plentiful

Devastation wrought by Wednesday's bombing and shelling handicapped the advancing Allied infantry and tanks. They had to force their way foot by foot through the wreckage under the fire of German multi-barrelled mortars from the surrounding hills.

LONDON — American medium bombers attacked the rail centre at Creil, north of Paris, this afternoon supported by fighters.

HASTINGS MAN PASSES — Walter M. Fowlds, prominent Hastings citizen, who passed away on Thursday in Nicholls Hospital in his 74th year.

Walter Fowlds Prominent Citizen Passes

One of the most prominent citizens in Central Ontario during the last thirty years or more, Walter Milburne Fowlds, of Hastings, died Thursday night at Nicholls Hospital in his 74th year. His health had been impaired for the last six months by a rather rare illness attacking the composition of the bloodstream, and his vitality gradually declined as he lost ground in recent weeks.

W. M. Fowlds was born at Hastings on July 12, 1870, son of Henry Martin Fowlds and his wife, Victoria Campion, who was a daughter of Colonel Campion, of Marmora.

The paternal family has been associated with the Trent River and Asphodel district for more than a century. The family was founded in that district in the southeastern section of Peterborough County along the Northumberland fringe by Henry Fowlds, of Glasgow, Scotland, who arrived at Marmora in 1835 and moved in the following year to Asphodel Township. In 1844 the industrial interests of the family originated in the erection at Westwood by Henry Fowlds in 1844 of a sawmill, grist and oatmeal mill, one dwelling and store.

Bought Land In Hastings

In 1850 Mr. Fowlds sold his Westwood properties and bought the water power and 1,100 acres owned at Hastings by Hon. James Crooks. Since then, the Fowlds family has been continuously engaged in one or more branches of industry, lumbering and cereal milling, and also developed a light and power enterprise on the south side of the Trent at Hastings.

Walter Fowlds was for years reeve of the village, and was warden of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham in 1924. At the conclusion of that term he reduced his interests beyond his own municipality, but at home he was for years Hydro commissioner, until about three or four years ago.

Canadian Planes Comprise Forty Per Cent.

LONDON, March 17 — (AP) — R.A.F. Lancasters bombed the Michelin rubber tire factory at Clermond-Ferrand, 30 miles southwest of Vichy; Halifaxes and Stirlings, some from the R.C.A.F. bomber groups, attacked Amiens railway targets, and Mosquitoes raided western Germany last night, the Air Ministry announced. None of the aircraft was lost.

Canadian Halifaxes constituted about 40 per cent of the strength of the force sent out during the night, it was learned.

The attacks constituted the second successive night blow by the R.A.F. More than 1,000 R.A.F. heavyweights—including the largest force of bombers the R.C.A.F. has ever sent out in a single night—unloaded 3,000 tons of bombs Wednesday night on Stuttgart, Munich, and other targets in Germany.

Heavy U.S. bombers destroyed 48 Nazi fighters in yesterday's drive on targets in Southern Germany, including Ulm and Friedrichshafen, bringing the day's total to 125, a United States strategic air force communique said today.

Gunners of the heavy bombers accounted for 48 of the enemy single and twin-engined fighters, a strategic air force announcement said, while the fighters downed 77. Twelve American fighters and 22 bombers were lost.

All Germans Wiped Out In Huge Trap

Retreating Huns Streaming Into Bessarabia

BY HAROLD KING
Reuters News Agency Correspondent

MOSCOW, March 17 — (CP-Reuters)—Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 2nd Ukranian Army has already reached the Dniester River, frontier of Bessarabia and present border of Rumanian territory, at several points. The Germans are retreating across the river at Mogilevpodolski, with Red Army forces hot on their heels.

Marshal Fritz Von Mannstein, it is believed, now has his headquarters in Iasi.

Around Proskurov the Red Army like a giant mill is slowly grinding German forces to powder. Northeast of the town the thunder of Soviet guns never ceases from dawn to dusk. Mighty German counter-attacks are being launched in the effort to hold this vital bastion.

At Vinnitsa Nazi defences are being overwhelmed as the Russians surge forward.

Two hundred miles to the south, where the last German in the trap east of Nikolaev has been killed or taken prisoner, Gen. Rodion Amlinovsky's forces are concentrating their assault on the Black Sea port itself.

One Soviet correspondent described the state of roads in the Nikolaev region as "unimaginably bad," but somehow Red Army guns are being rushed forward with the advancing infantry.

There is increasing panic among the enemy as Russia tanks operate across their lines of communication, according to a late dispatch received by "Izvestia."

The German Army appeared unable to hold the Red Army drives on Nikolaev and Odessa, and Nazi troops seeking escape by rail and sea have tied up miles of communications in the mud of the Ukraine.

Russian units are about 70 miles northeast of Odessa, big Black Sea port, and are drawn up in a semicircle around Nikolaev and are already battering at its defences.

Northwest of Odessa and Nikolaev, the Russians are rapidly expanding their hold on the Odessa-Lwow trunk rail line main north-south communications route for Field Marshal Fritz Von Mannstein's German armies in southern Russia.

The battle for more miles of this railway has produced the fiercest fighting on the Ukraine front, but only in the Proskurov sector — where the Nazis are trying to pro-

MacArthur Still Determined To Return To Philippines

CANBERRA, March 17—(CP).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur said tonight he is interested in only one thing—to return to the Philippine Islands. At a Commonwealth dinner following ceremonies in which he was decorated with the Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath, MacArthur stated he wanted to reiterate that when he arrived in Australia two years ago today, his mission was to return to the Philippines.

This mission, he said, is still unchanged.

"I shall return to the Philippines."

In geographical terms, MacArthur is not much nearer the Philippines today than he was when he arrived by air at Darwin, Australia, two years ago.

But MacArthur is much nearer fulfillment of his goal in terms of the military machine he now commands.

When the General arrived, he found Australia under hourly threat of invasion, the core of its first line troops still at sea or engaged in the Middle East and the majority of its airmen serving in distant theatres.

Today, Australia is not only reasonably safe from invasion but is proving its worth as an operating base.

The Japanese made repeated, vigorous attempts to knock the Allies off-balance during the transition from the defensive to the offensive. But the American Army, Australian, American and New Zealand troops and American-Australian air support stemmed the enemy drives.

Darwin still is nearer the Philippines than any other Allied-held point. But instead of the shattered, "easy" target for Japanese bombers MacArthur found in 1942, Darwin now is a strongly held base from which Allied fliers take off to hit and observe the enemy.

British Troops Drop Behind Jap Lines

NEW DELHI, March 17 — (AP) — Air-borne British troops have made a successful landing behind the Japanese lines in northern Burma, Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters announced today.

It was the first reported use of air-borne troops in the current campaign, which is being fought through dense jungle and over rugged terrain where communication facilities are at a minimum.

Details concerning the operation were not immediately available.

Badoglio Lacks U.S. Recognition

WASHINGTON, March 17—(AP)—State Secretary Cordell Hull made it clear today that the United States would not consider extending diplomatic recognition to the Badoglio government in Italy.

Hull also disclosed at a news conference that the United States was not consulted by the Soviet government prior to Moscow's decision to exchange official representatives with the Badoglio regime.

There had been speculation that both Washington and London possibly had approved Russia's recognition of the Badoglio government because, according to this theory, Washington and London secretly want to see the regime strengthened in power.

Army Demanding More Men

Chance Of Resuming Civilian Production Fades

WASHINGTON, March 17—(CP)—Hopes for resuming the production of some civilian articles in the United States were dealt a body blow today by the Army's insistence on shifting more young men from the factories to the fighting fronts.

The makers of munitions face the fact that the military has made its choice between their manpower and their materials. The Army will take the able-bodied men and let production struggle along.

The new manpower crisis arose from the Army's pressure for men and its decision to take an estimated 250,000 physically-fit youths under 26 who now are draft-deferred.

The decision was disclosed by Donald M. Nelson yesterday after a group of steel executives warned him that the new draft policy would mean "serious loss" of production.

"The army and navy need men", replied the War Production Board chairman. "They must get the men even if it means losing production." But he said he was confident the essential munitions needs could be met.

Lewis B. Hershey, Draft director, who also addressed the steel executives, said he could offer them little but sympathy. Admitting that the draft system had failed to meet its calls for many months he declared that the steel men "should not be dismayed" at the prospect of failing to meet production schedules.

Tough Fighting Continues At Cassino

Spectacular Bombing Of Mountain Town Fails To Dislodge Germans

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

One supposes the spectacular bombing of Cassino will be listed among the war's phenomena, if for no other reason than because of its terrifying weight, but it remains to be seen how much more the feat has achieved than to prove anew that such concentrated air power grinds mighty fine.

The purpose of this carefully prepared attack was to break the Gustav Line and open up the broad highway to Rome for the stalled Allied forces. Pending developments we shall do well to reserve judgment as to how far it has succeeded. It strikes me there's tough fighting ahead before we smash through the remaining Nazi mountain defences.

Probably it has come as a shock to some to learn that, despite the pulverizing of Cassino, Germans were there to defend the ruins when the Allied troops rushed in after the deluge of shattering steel. Fighting at close quarters has continued, instead of an easy advance by the attacking forces.

Thus there at at least two things we can note with profit. The first is that victory is a tough nut to crack and that we have a bloody business ahead of us. Secondly, the Allies have had to call in the good old infantry to capture Cassino. The thousands of tons of bombs dumped into the ancient town, and the accompanying artillery bombardment, couldn't in themselves take this position

The moral, of course, is that we can't win the war from the air alone.

Some observers are wondering whether this demonstration will provide useful lessons for the forthcoming invasion of Western Europe. Well, it should increase our confidence in Allied ability to lay down enough explosives to clear a way for the landing troops on the beachheads. Beyond that the comparison isn't very useful, for there is small similarity between the sloping seashores and the craggy mountains of Central Italy.

There is one thing we shouldn't allow ourselves to do, and that is to lose our perspective of the Italian campaign because of this sensational operation. The fact remains that the further conquest of the peninsula is subsidiary to fighting on the Continent. Hitler's inner fortress will be breached by blows from the Russians on the East and from the Allied forces on the West.

Now don't misunderstand the position. Henry Stimson, United States War Secretary yesterday described the opening up of the Mediterranean as "a great strategic victory for the Allied cause." That is so true that he could have made it much stronger but for his conservative way of putting things.

Halifax Says 2 Countries Remain Partners

NEW YORK, March 17—(CP). — Viscount Halifax, British Ambassador to the United States, said here last night that the destinies of Britain and France are linked inseparately and the two countries "must remain partner in the peace that we shall keep secure together."

He spoke at the second anniversary ceremonies of the Ecole Libre des Hautes Etudes, at the new school of social research auditorium.

Paying tribute to the Loyal French who are fighting within and without their country to gain her delivery from the enemy, Lord Halifax expressed confidence that soon France would "again take that place which belongs to her, of right, in the future of Europe and the world."

Pending the opportunity for the French to choose their government in a free election by the whole of the people, Lord Halifax said the French Committee of National Liberation and the Consultative Assembly under the leadership of Gen. De Gaulle "are a sincere attempt to insure a representation, geographical and political, as complete as may be of all France and the French Empire."

Jungle Units Land On Last Island

Air-Strip Capture Will Finish Admiralty Drive

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, March 17 (AP).— Battle-hardened American troops hacked away at fixed Japanese defences around Lorengau airdrome on Manus Island, headquarters reported today, after a new landing designed to wipe out the last organized Japanese resistance in the Admiralty group of the Bismarck Sea.

Going ashore under cover of a bombardment by rocket guns, land-based artillery on nearby islets, naval guns and aerial bombing, a strong force broke light Japanese resistance in the first hours of the assault on Wednesday.

They pushed within one-half mile of Lorengau village and the airdrome after landing near Lugos mission on the northeast coast of Manus. They had minor casualties, some from land mines and booby traps left by the Japanese.

A headquarters spokesman said the advance was continuing despite Japanese wood and dirt pillboxes and machine-gun nests.

Capture of Lorengau air strip would virtually conclude the Admiralty campaign. The remainder of the island, 49 miles long and 16 miles wide, is largely jungle.

The communique today told also of a 500-ton aerial offensive against Japanese from Wewak, New Guinea, to Bougainville Island in the Solomons. Over Wewak 140 tons of bombs were dropped and five Japanese planes were shot down. Rabaul, New Britain, got a 173-ton plastering.

At Empress Augusta Bay, Bougainville, where new ground attacks by the Japanese were repulsed with heavy enemy losses, 145 tons of bombs blasted the Nipponese positions.

Land-based American bombers from the western Marshalls bombed the fortress of Truk in darkness early Wednesday, it was announced from Pearl Harbor.

Specific targets were the islands of Dublon and Eten, flanking Truk's harbor.

Cattle Prices Advance During Week

TORONTO, March 17 — (CP) — Cattle prices advanced 25 cents on a light opening run on the livestock market here this week but most of the advance was lost on following supplies. Veal calves and hogs were strong while lambs gained 25 cents cwt. Sheep were steady.

Weighty steers and butcher cows lost early gains of 25 cents cwt. The cattle supply situation changed during the week. Light early runs were increased by fairly liberal following supplies and large shipments of dressed beef were rushed down from western Canada in order to benefit from the freight subsidy scheduled to end on March 18.

Top weighty steers opened at $12.75 and closed at $12.50. Butcher steers and heifers made closing tops of $11.85 with a few at $12. Fed yearlings were $12 to $13.50. Butcher cows opened at $9.25 for tops and closed at $8.75 to $9. Light bulls were slow sellers at $7 to $8 with heavy fat bulls not wanted. A few stockers sold at $9 to $10.50. Milkers and springers were $130 to $150 each.

Calves were $16.50 to $17 for choice with common light vealers downward to $11.

The lamb run was mostly from Western Canada. Prices were up 25 cents at $13.75 for westerns. Common to medium local lambs sold at $8 to $13 cwt. The few sheep offered sold at $3 to $6 cwt. with a few westerns at $6.50.

Hogs firmed with most market sales at $17.25 dressed for the basic grade. Direct shipments, off truck, were $17.15 to $17.25. Sows were generally $13.25 dressed.

MORE ABOUT— All Germans

tect the railway leading westward toward Czechoslovakia — were the Germans apparently able to hold the Red Army tide.

The most important stretch of the Odessa-Lwow line, from the Germans' point of view, is that section running from Odessa to Slobodzeya, off which run two escape railways westward into Bessarabia. The Nazi are in grave danger of losing the northernmost for Marshal Ivan S. Konev's calvary, light tanks and infantry are already advancing upon that junction.

The Nazi are relying on the Tiraspo escape railway for this is closer to Odessa and much better for large-scale evacuation which is inevitable because of the hopeless position of the Germans at Odessa and Nikolaev.

Fall of Vapnyarka marked the second time the Odessa-Lwow trunk railway has been cut. Vapnyarka is on that part of the Odessa line running into Zhmerinka and is 25 miles from the Dniester River frontier of Bessarabia.

The Russians previously announced they had slashed the Odessa-Lwow trunk line between Tarnopol and Proskurov. Vapnyark's fall left the Germans to the southeast but two secondary rail escape lines into Rumania. Its seizure represented a 28-mile exploitation of the Bug River break through by Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 2nd Ukraine Army.

Halifaxes, now are operating in the Mediterranean theatre. They played a major role in a smashing attack on Sofia last night.

Vienna, on the Danube, noted for its leisurely habits and cultural centres, was bombed for the first time by Russian planes in September, 1942. British and American planes hit the area for the first time last August when African-based aircraft struck the Messerschmitt aircraft plant at Wiener Neustadt, 25 miles west of Vienna.

A few subsequent raids were carried out in the same area. The Germans are reported to have shifted much of Berlin's government business to the former Austrian capital. Last month, however, they were reported preparing extensive evacuation measures in anticipation of further raids. The city, which had a population of nearly 2,000,000 in 1939, is 470 miles from Foggia air bases in Italy, and over 800 miles from London.

perate endeavor to smash the raid.

Last night attacks were carried out by small but heavily-freighted fleets of the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. which struck again at German transport in France, pounding the Michelin tire factory at Clermont-Ferrand and the rail yards at Amiens, both master cogs in Hitler's anti-invasion machinery.

Fleets of minelayers also carried out widespread operations, while R.A.F. heavy bombers, disclosed to be operating in the Mediterranean for the first time in recent months, delivered the second consecutive night attack on Sofia, capital of Bulgaria.

The Air Ministry said Lancasters, thundering to Clermont-Ferrand in a clear night sky, deposited a well-concentrated pattern of bombs.

Amiens, a key rail junction between Paris and the Channel, had been hit three times in 48 hours, and four times this month. It was one of the targets in the R.A.F.'s 1,000-bomber operation Wednesday night.

Medium bombers also struck in daylight Wednesday at the railyards at Aulnoye, only four miles south of Amiens and an important point in the line btween Lille and the Channel ports of Dunkirk and Calais.

Amiens is 81 miles north of Paris and about 30 miles from Pas-de-Calais. It has a peacetime population of more than 80,000.

Clermont-Ferrand is one of the most important centres of the rubber industry on the continent of Europe.

7 In Switzerland

Berne dispatches said seven of the American bombers in yesterday's smash into Southern Germany were forced to land on Swiss soil, three of them crashing.

Two British bombers (presumably part of Wednesday night's force) and one German night fighter also were forced to land in Switzerland.

The communique describing Thursday's daylight raid on Germany said the bombers attacked in "very great strength"—a phrase which was taken to mean the force probably was as strong as that which raided Berlin March 6—an armada estimated unofficially at about 850 planes.

Sweden Angry

The newspapers in neighboring Sweden adopted a sharp tone toward Finland's reluctance to accept Russian armistice terms.

Berlin dispatches received in Stockholm said there was "great satisfaction" in the German foreign office that the Finns had rejected the Russian peace conditions, but the Morgentidningen's correspondent noted that the fact that the Finns had made peace overtures to the Soviet in the first place was a bitter pill for the Germans.

The Berlin dispatches indicated that the German foreign office expected that Russia will demand that the United States break relations with Finland if the peace terms are formally rejected, as unofficial reports in Stockholm say the Finnish parliament voted to do.

The Berlin radio declared a new Nazi "destroyer" fighter was used in the defence and Junkers-88's were observed firing rockets from their tails for the first time.

Industry Must Pay For Record Music

OTTAWA, March 17 (CP)—Rate schedules sought by the Canadian Performing Rights Society and Broadcast Music Incorporated for the Broadcasting of copyright music have been approved by the Copyright Appeal Board, it was announced today in the publication of the schedules in a special addition of the Canada Gazette.

The Board reserved judgment on the application of the American Performing Rights, which sought for the first time this year to make a charge on radio stations and other users of copyrighted music. Copyrights held by the American Society were formerly under the control of the Canadian Society.

The Canadian Society's 1944 schedule as approved includes a new provision for a charge on industrial establishments using music through their own loud speaker systems. Such firms will be required to pay a semi-annual fee of $25 for up to 500 employees and an additional $5 for each additional 100 employees. A levy of 10 per cent on the rate charged which has appeared in previous tariffs, applies to music transmitted by telephone or other wire service.

The new C.P.R.S. schedule also provides an increase from $1 to $2 for each four 16mm. film negatives using copyright music controlled by the Society.

The total charge by the C.P.R.S. to Canadian radio stations in 1944 is $136,310, compared with $129,879 in 1943. The rate is based on eight cents per licensed radio set and the increase results from an increase in the number of licenses sold.

B.M.I. will be entitled under the 1944 tariff to collect $17,266, on the basis of one cent a set. Last year the Corporation's fee was $16,234.

The American Performing Rights Society in its schedule which is still under consideration by the Board seeks $17,266 for the use of its music by radio stations and also asked that a fee be imposed on theatres.

At the hearing held in January Mr. Justice J. T. Thorson, chairman of the Board, said the Board proposed having a survey made in an effort to determine the value of music controlled by the three organisotions.

Canada agrees to make available such supplies as the government may authorize. The other parties agree to:

Contribute to the defence of Canada and provide "such articles, services, facilities or information" as they may be able to provide and as may be agreed upon;

In the case of Russia, negotiate protocols with Canada setting forth the nature, quantities and delivery dates of supplies to be made available from Canada;

In the case of the United Kingdom and Australia, support applications for supplies with such information as Canada may require to decide upon applications and execution of the terms of the agreement;

Use supplies delivered in the joint prosecution of the war;

Refrain from selling them without the consent of Canada.

In the case of Britain and Australia, Canada retains title to cargo ships delivered and still in existence after the end of the war. No ships are being provided Russia and the clause was not in the Russian agreement.

Canada reserves the right to ask for transfer after the war of any remaining delivered equipment to Canadian forces still serving overseas, if required, instead of shipping additional from Canada.

There is also the right to ask for the return to Canada of any aircraft and automotive equipment still serviceable, if needed for domestic use.

Warkworth Flier In Raid On Tire Factory

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 17 (CP Cable)— R.C.A.F. fliers taking part in last night's bomber command attack on targets in France and Germany said today the enemy's defences were light except for searchlights.

A Halifax bomber flown by FO. Bob Pratt of Toronto was coned five times on its way to its target at Amiens, France.

Pathfinder markers fell directly on the railway tracks at Amiens, said Sqdn. Ldr. Hank Dow of Toronto, a Bluenose Squadron flight commander. "We could see bombs from an aircraft ahead of us fall away and strike in the railway yards," he said.

FO. Doug. Wiley of (869 Dufferin Ave.) London, Ont., a reargunner in the Iroquois Squadron saw several big explosions. He and his fellows in a Halifax bomber, including FO. John Keane of Orono, Ont., and FO. Bill Roberts of Salford, Ont., believed one explosion they saw was an ammunition train going up.

"It happened during our run-up and there were flashes all over the place like exploding ammunition," said Roberts.

"It was the best precision bombing I have seen in a long time," added FO. Jack Barlow of Ottawa, a Moose Squadron bombaimer. "You could even see the bomb bursts going right through the target indicators."

Other Canadian airmen on the raid included Sgt. Alex Cossar of Warkworth, Ont., and FO. Edson Armour of Brantford, Ont.

A. H. Acres (PC—Carleton) said "no man can afford to pay 24 per cent. or 12 per cent. interest and stay in business." He wanted to know, however, whether the credit unions were replacing the banks.

George Lockhart (CCF—Rainy River) said that during the depression "no farmer dared go into a bank for a loan." Most borrowers from credit unions did not have necessary collateral to get a bank loan.

Mr. Perkin said the unions did not compete with banks but only with corporations engaged in the small loan field. In fact the largest credit union in the world was among employees of a bank in New York.

G. Anderson (CCF—Fort William) said he understood the credit unions were now going into the life insurance field. This was confirmed by Mr. Perkin.

fairs of Hastings, Mr. Fowlds was long a leader, energetic, enterprising and retaining the confidence of his fellow citizens.

His lively interest in public affairs attracted him years ago to the Trent Waterway Development Association, of which he was elected president in 1931. This organization enlisted men like Walter Fowlds throughout the towns and cities from Trenton to Midland, and including Orillia and Peterborough, with some meagre interest briefly at Lindsay.

The accomplishment of the Trent Waterway Development Association was chiefly in the publicity it obtained for the Trent and Kawartha summer resorts and scenic and healthful attractions which nature had provided in a large area of this Central Ontario district. For years the association fulfilled a most useful purpose, gaining publicity across the United States border for this part of the province. The fruit of that publicity was the streams of summer visitors through the Kawarthas up to 1940 when the war's restrictions discouraged travel from the United States. But, that is a long story of achievement which is beginning to fade into the past as the public today seems to accept the tourist business as an accomplished fact. One of its earnest promoters was Walter Fowlds, and among those associated with him at that time were F. D. Kerr, K.C., and Gordon K. Fraser, M.P.

The old Trent Waterways Association never received credit for their works, and only a few citizens here and there remember how valuable to the district as a whole those undertakings in publicity became.

Had Host Of Friends

In 1880 Henry M. Fowlds erected the grain elevator on the south side of the Trent at Hastings and founded the business of Henry M. Fowlds and Sons. Eventually the management of that business in its latter days passed into the hands of Walter M. Fowlds. His business and public affairs won for Mr. Fowlds a host of friends who were attracted by his genial spirit and by obviously sincere desire to do things for the community, not only his own village, but the broader section of the province.

Mr. Fowlds is survived by his widow, the former Mary Alice Archer of Petrolia, whom he married in September 1908; one son Harry Fowlds of Campbellford; and two daughters, Mrs. D. A. Dewart of Toronto; and Miss Louis and Miss Grace Fowlds of Toronto, and Mrs. James A. Fraser of Outlook, Sask.

50 Years Postmaster

Mr. Fowlds was postmaster of the village of Hastings for 50 years, up until his death, having succeeded his father. Between father and son, the postmastership has been in the family since 1851. For his service, Mr. Fowlds was awarded the Jubilee Medal direct from Buckingham Palace.

Succeeding his father as member of the Toronto Board of Trade, he was appointed notary public in 1929; was chairman of the local Hydro Commission, and a director of the Colonial Weaving Co. in Peterborough. He was past District Deputy Grand Master of the Peterborough district A.F. & A.M., a member of the Scottish Rite and an elder of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and president of the Hastings Bible Society. He was also president of the Trent Valley Cemetery Co. and a director of the Ontario Retail Lumbermen's Association.

The funeral will take place Saturday at 2 p.m. from St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Hastings. Services will be conducted by Rev. E. A. Thomson, assisted by Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart. Interment will be made in Trent Valley Cemetery.

The funeral will be under Masonic auspices and members of the Hastings lodge and other brethren are asked to attend.

Canadian Army Will Fight Japs

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 17—(CP)—Assurance that Canadian land, sea and air forces will take part in the Pacific war was given the House of Commons yesterday by Naval Minister Macdonald, but at the same time he turned aside questions as to when and how it will be done.

As a prelude to the important announcement of Canadian proposals to other countries on the regulation of international civil aviation, coming today from Munitions Minister Howe, Mr. Macdonald spent some five hours answering questions on his naval estimates.

It was Howard Green (PC-Vancouver South), consistent advocate of more active participation by Canada in the war against Japan, who raised the question of action on the Pacific, but Mr. Macdonald stressed the big job the Canadian Navy is doing in the Atlantic, and the big operations pending in Europe in which it will participate.

"We are disposing our fleet to the very best possible advantage in accordance with the plan agreed upon by all those vitally concerned, Canada, the United States and Great Britain," he said.

Mr. Green said he was afraid naval headquarters were not sufficiently aware of the importance of a two-ocean navy. He said he feared Canada's relations with Australia, New Zealand and the United States might suffer if a more active part was not taken in the Pacific war and that Canada might have little to say about the disposition of Pacific territories after the war.

In this point of view he was challenged by another Progressive Conservative, T. L. Church of Toronto-Broadview, and another Vancouver member, Flt.-Lt. James Sinclair (Vancouver North), both of whom said the Navy's present job was in the Atlantic.

Leave Pacific To U.S.A.

Mr. Macdonald declined to comment on Mr. Green's inquiries about future use of Canadian ports as bases for operations against Japan by British and Canadian fleets, based on reported remarks of Admiral

RECTAL SORENESS AND

Quiet Reigns In Eire On March 17

BY ROGER GREENE
Associated Press Staff Writer

DUBLIN, March 17 — (AP) — The bells of an uneasy peace, rang out in troubled Eire this St. Patrick's Day. The warning of Prime Minister Churchill that the country would be isolated from the outer world hung heavy over the nation.

Britain has said that the quarantine of Eire is necessary to safeguard against possible leakage of information about Allied pre-invasion movements, and Eire on the holiday looked forward to grim days rivalling, if not surpassing the leanness of wartime Britain.

There was no great marching of the Irish people as in happier years.

Dublin was thronged, but all the pubs were closed and the olden picture of Irishmen parading to the skirl of pipes and the inner lift of "a wee drap o' the crature" was missing.

O'Connell street, where blood ran in the days of "the terror," was jammed with slow-moving crowds in their Sunday finest, all adorned with bright sprigs of shamrock.

There were loudspeakers at street corner blaring lively Irish jigs. However instead of miles-long St. Patrick's Day parades the demonstration was limited to a small group of Red Cross nurses and a column of some 200 unarmed Home Guards led by half a dozen drummers and seven pipers.

The army, which in normal times puts on a three-hour march was held to barracks.

The Irish of Eire are perhaps 90 per cent pro-Allied, with many thousands of their sons fighting the Nazis.

A husky Irish policeman guarded the German legation.

"Sure, and nothing ever happened at all, at all," he said.

There was no guard outside the British or American Legations. The only "armament" visible was a tin helmet on the head of a lone Air Raid Warden who had not sounded his warning siren in nearly two years.

Casualties To Send Special Cards Home

OTTAWA, March 17 — (CP).— A Canadian Army priority casualty postcard has been authorized to enable next-of-kin in Canada to receive personal notification from casualties in hospital overseas as soon as possible after receipt of the casualty telegram, the Post Office Department announced today.

Each soldier admitted to hospital other than those suffering from minor ailments, is furnished with a priority casualty postcard which is completed by the patient or on his behalf by an orderly or a nurse.

The card then is dispatched by the fastest route available to next-of-kin in Canada.

Women Playing Big Part In War Effort

CAMPBELLFORD, March 17 — (ENS).—"Opportunities for Women in War Services" was the interesting topic given by Mrs. Reg. McCulloch at the Seymour West Branch of the Women's Institute on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. McCulloch said thoughts on this subject naturally turn to the Auxiliary and nursing services where women are doing a "big job well," however much of the call for increased production had been answered by women in the various industries.

Institute members were grasping opportunities for service on the home front—family responsibilities and helping to increase food production. "It is to women that the civilized world looks to in time of war to alleviate the suffering and discomfort and for help and inspiration." Since it is the women who spend the greatest share of the money, the real appeal is made to them, when the government attempts to bring about a new phase of economy. This she felt put a great responsibility on them.

Clothing repair is an essential war service, since it falls in line with the ideal of making what you have do, and saving for victory. She urged members to keep healthy by eating the proper food, as improper foods effect health and efficiency. "We must remember that we have less of certain types of food, and we must learn to replace them with foods of equal value."

Women Blood Donors.

Another valuable service being rendered by women was in giving blood to the donors' clinics for the battle front—"this simple, painless act of giving a small amount of blood that some day may mean the difference of life and death to someone and is the modern miracle of what one human being can do for another."

Now is the time to renew the spirit of neighborliness in the community since in these times many are reaching out for comfort and assurance and the courage to carry on, Mrs. McCulloch said. "Keeping the community sense of 'oneness' is a very important job, and being a good neighbor is more than simply helping the man across the line fence. It is part of the larger pattern of world peace.

"If we do all that is expected of us as women, in this war, we have our work cut out for us. We all need the understanding with which the best kind of home-maker surrounds the family."

Mrs. Ray McCulloch, second vice-president, presided for the meeting, and Mrs. Reg. McCulloch reported another car load of blood donors had gone to Peterborough. Mrs. Mac Waddell read the programs for 1944-45 which had been prepared by the committee in charge. Mrs. James Waters read the chapter from the study book on "Recreation," in which she emphasized the part to be played by the Institute along this line in the community. During the business period members voted $20 to the current Red Cross drive which was an increase of $10 over the amount they gave last year.

Mrs. Reginald McCulloch presided for the program, and in addition to the topic members enjoyed community singing with Mrs. Fred McCulloch at the piano; Mrs. Thomas Dunham conducted a quiz; Mrs. Douglas Rutherford presided for a contest. Mrs. Robert McCulloch gave a demonstration of Red Cross work, displaying a number of articles made by the local branch.

Find Burglars Foiled At Museum Home

COBOURG, March 17 (ENS) — Provincial Constables A. MacLeod and D. Wilson investigated Thursday a reported break in of Barnum house, just west of Grafton. Examination revealed that someone had removed a pane of glass in the rear and slid open the window lock. However the contents of the house, which is a museum of early Canadian furniture, were removed in the fall of 1941 when the place was closed until after the war, and there was nothing left to steal except a few odds and ends of no value. There were indications that some cupboards had been rummaged through but apparently nothing was taken.

Sewing Circle Makes $10 At Surprise Bazaar

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 17 (ENS) —Approximately $10 was raised by the Stanwood Sewing Circle at their surprise bazaar which was a feature of the March meeting Thursday afternoon. Twenty members met at Mrs. William Madill's and each one brought a pair of tea towels carefully wrapped with some other article valued at fifteen cents. The packages contained many useful things, such as salt and peppers, flour sifters, hot dish mats, and dish mops.

Another novel plan to raise money for their war activities was brought forward at the meeting. By this one, the group hope to raise considerable by November when the scheme ceases to operate. The one having the greatest return from her sale of recipes by the November meeting will be given a prize. During the afternoon members completed a quilt which will be donated to the Red Cross.

Symbol Of Cross Explained To WA

ROSENEATH, March 17.—(ENS). —The Church, the Cross and the Crown were headings of an address delivered by Mrs. E. H. Unstead during the devotional period at the meeting of the United church W.A. on Wednesday afternoon. She demonstrated how the cross stands for the tragedy of a sinful world, and the triumph of Christ. The prayer offered was written in 439 A.D. by St. Patrick, the martyr saint.

The meeting was held in Mrs. Ella Brown's home and the president, Mrs. G. L. Tucker presided. Letters of thanks for parcels received, were read from Lieut. Matron Elva Honey, Ewart Tucker and Basil Robinson, Italy, and Ray Timlin in England, and verbal thanks for a parcel received by Elmer Down, Italy, were relayed to the society by his father, Harry Down. Mrs. Tucker offered her home for the April meeting and Mrs. Brown and Mrs. E. Braithwaite form a program committee.

Mrs. A. Nill had charge of the program and announced the numbers as follows: A vocal solo, 'Have Thine Own Way,' sung by Mrs. Isaac Skuce; a poem, 'Resignation,' read by Mrs. Tucker; a reading, 'The Big Four,' by Mrs. E. Braithwaite; community singing, 'Silver Threads Among the Gold"; a reading, 'A Seaman's Version of the 23rd Psalm, contributed by Mrs. C. Grigg, and a piano solo, 'Falling Waters,' played by Miss Irene Brown.

The meeting closed with the benediction pronounced by Mrs. Unstead. The hostess served refreshments and a social hour followed.

St. Patrick's Day, 1944

It was suggested to us earlier in the week by a disgusted Irishman that what Eire needs now is a miraculous return of St. Patrick to drive the toads and serpents into the sea once again; the reptiles, he made it clear, would be found in the German and Japanese legations. Certainly it is true that this proud anniversary is darkened for many Irishmen by the predicament in which their homeland finds itself. In the greatest war in history hundreds of thousands of Irishmen are fighting on the side which would naturally appeal to a proud, high-spirited, intelligent people; many of these Irish soldiers are from Eire, and many from the British Dominions and the U.S.A.; but with the ill-luck which seems to dog its political decisions, Eire is caught in a neutrality which harms her friends, but which does most harm to herself.

The Irish right to neutrality has never been disputed. The British Isles are, for purposes of war, a single geographical unit, and the neutrality of Ireland is almost as embarrassing as the neutrality of Scotland would be. But Britain has maintained friendly relations with Eire, and in recent months these ties have been more cordial and binding than ever. What Britain would have done if the U.S. State Department had not acted first, we cannot say, but Britain, the U.S.A., Australia and Canada have now made it clear to Ireland that they cannot enjoy her friendship while she harbours their enemies, and measures have been taken to isolate Ireland. She must now say goodbye to her wartime prosperity, her advantageous friendships, and to her likelihood of having a seat at the peace conferences. That is a heavy price to pay.

Ireland says, with justice, that she fought bravely on the Allied side in the last war and that her reward was the occupation of the Black and Tans. Ireland's grievances go back to the days of Elizabeth, and we certainly cannot blame the Irish for remembering them. But can she gain anything, or establish any useful prestige, by putting herself on a level with Spain and the Argentine? The millions of Irishmen abroad look to Eire as their spiritual homeland; they feel, understandably, that in harbouring Axis spies — for Axis diplomats are nothing more—the old land is betraying them.

The people of Eire are in a dilemma. They sympathize, as individuals, with the Allied cause and want to see it victorious. But as a nation they are strong in their support of Eamon de Valera's policy of neutrality; they do not want Ireland to be dragged into the war. This split in opinion was bound to have wretched consequences, for in these critical days those who are not with the United Nations must be reckoned against them; Turkey, Spain and now Ireland have all learned this lesson. The prospect before Ireland is bleak indeed. St. Patrick's day, 1944, will not be a very merry occasion.

The Ontario Budget

Provincial Treasurer Frost presented his first budget to the Ontario Legislature on Thursday, and from an early study it is a budget which should meet with favour in all sections of the province. Realizing that the Ottawa government is hard pressed in raising sufficient revenue to finance the war and people are finding it more and more difficut to meet federal taxes Mr. Frost has not imposed any new taxes upon the citizens of this Province, with the exception of doubling of the tax on the holders of winning tickets at the Provincial race tracks.

Chief financial critic for six years, while his party was in opposition, Mr. Frost has sought to incorporate into this budget many of the criticisms he offered about previous budgets. He has advanced a two-point program for post-war debt retirement, which recommends the establishing of a sinking fund to 'extinguish the present net debt over a period of not more than fifty years', and the planning of future capital expenditures to repay the Province from revenue over an agreed term of years if they are revenue-producing expenditures like highways, or financed in such a way that the debt will be liquidated within fifteen years, if they are non-revenue producing. In this way Mr. Frost hopes the citizens will enjoy the largest possible measure of prosperity and the maximum social services and social security.

As part of the Government's pre-election pledges a Royal Commission is being established to study the whole field of real estate taxation, including educational costs. As the first move in easing the taxes on real estate the present subsidy of one mill to municipalities is being continued and an additional mill is to be applied to the cost of education now borne by real estate. This should be welcome news and here in Peterborough it will mean reducing the 31-mill rate, as set by the city council for Public School supporters to 30 mills, and 34-mill rate on Separate School supporters to 33 mills. How this is to be divided between the several rates as applied to the internal financing has not been made clear, but from an early survey it would appear it would be divided according to local assessment proportionately between the Public School supporters and the Separate School supporters with the secondary school revenues getting no part of the subsidy. However this is only a start in reducing the education tax against real estate in urban areas by fifty per cent.

A reduction of $12,072,721 in the net provincial debt, the largest decrease in the history of the Province, is another highlight of the budget, together with a reduction of $37,509,975 in the gross provincial debt and a surplus of $8,638,877 on the ordinary account.

Welcome news to the farmers, especially at a time when help on the farm is scarce, will be the extension of rural hydro lines at a cost of $900,000, the provincial treasury bearing half the capital cost. The 400 miles of lines to be constructed will serve an additional 5,670 customers.

Grants to the three universities to free them from debt are going to enable these institutions to take a more active part in research work following the war. The grant to the Teachers' Superannuation Fund is to be increased $400,000, and this should enable the fund to be placed in a position to give more equitable benefits; and teachers not completing their 40 years will not suffer so heavy penalties through not doing so. It is also hoped that this will provide a way of extending these superannuation benefits to widows of the deceased teachers.

There will be criticisms of the budget, but for a government in office since August a very creditable attempt has been made to put in effect its pre-election promises and to legislate to ease the hard-pressed taxpayer.

A Youthful Prodigy

Quite a stir has been caused by Merrill Kenneth Wolf's entry into the ancient university of Yale; Wolf is twelve years old, and the youngest student ever to be enrolled at that university. He is, in fact, a prodigy and we shall expect to hear great things of him later on. It is said that he spoke a complete sentence when he was only four months old; when he was a year old he was able to read a book meant for five-year-old children; at the age of twenty-two months he picked out a Liszt melody on the piano; when he went to school he embarrassed his teachers by knowing more than they. Now, at twelve, he has gone to Yale, and he hopes to have his Ph.D. by the time he is sixteen.

Many people are apt to be sour about youthful prodigies. There is a strong belief that they rarely bear out their early promise. But it is necessary in making judgements of this kind to distinguish between a true prodigy and a merely precocious child. It must also be borne in mind that the average child is rarely expected to exert his full intellectual powers; in Queen Elizabeth's day, in contrast, boys were men at sixteen, and scholars, too, for more was expected of them than is now the case. The prodigy defies rules and develops according to laws of his own; the precocious child is merely brighter than his companions, and generally loses his precocity at adolescence.

Kenneth Wolf is principally interested in music, and now thinks that he would like to make an art of the chief concern of his life. In the history of music there are many prodigies; the names of Mozart, Beethoven and Liszt spring at once to mind, and it is uncommon to find a musician of the first rank who did not show considerable early promise.

The Personality Of David Fife

By A. FLOSSIE F. TINKER

(The author is a great-niece of the subject of this sketch)

"DAD--DY, oh Dad--dy," the call floated across the stretch of newly-fallen trees and was echoed back by the forest-wall. "Look, Daddy, here's a parcel," panted the small son of David Fife, away back in 1842, as he ran toward him waving a small parcel. "Uncle Hutchinson left it on his way home from Cobourg. He had more letters with him for Uncle Tom's family. I wonder what's in this parcel." He would have liked to add, "Let me open it," but he knew better; he had a proper respect for parents' rights, so he tried to work off his excitement by jumping around like an expectant terrier.

"We'll soon see, Son," as he struck the axe into a log and wiped his brow. What do you hope is inside?" queried the father.

"I hope it's jack-knives, Daddy," answered the boy gravely, as David laughingly said, "What; more knives; such a boy for knives!" As his eyes scanned the sky, he added, "Well, I think I'll call it a day; the light is beginning to wane. We'll open the parcel where Ma can see. I get few letters and seldom a parcel; we must share our joys."

AS he trudged toward the log cabin he little thought this was another milestone in his life, that the coming of this little parcel was an event that would influence the prosperity of this new Canada from the Atlantic coast to the Pacific.

He seemed to be in reminiscent mood; he recalled that it was in 1820 that his Father, John Fife, with his Mother and their seven sons had come to this country. 'They would need to summon all their courage to take that step,' he mused. 'It was hard to obtain work in Scotland and there was little chance of any of us having land of our own there, my parents would see that. They faced that long ocean voyage in a sailing ship for our sakes. Away north of Cobourg, across Rice Lake, on the 4th Concession of Otonabee they had to tramp before they could claim new land for themselves and us.'

'In 1825 I married Jane; that was another milestone in my life. Well do I remember rising while it was still dark that May morning and hurrying off to the Beckett home near Westwood; then Jane and I proceeded on foot to Cobourg, cross the Trent on stepping stones at Crook's Rapids, a mile above where Hastings now is.'

A chorus of, "What's in the parcel, Daddy?" from the cabin door broke short his reverie, as he came within sight of home. Ah, the parcel; it was forgotten for a moment.

"What makes you smile?" asked little Sylvester who had been trotting by his father's side. David smiled down at him for answer.

"Where's your Ma?" as he passed the children near the doorway to where she sat, and flashed her a smile. She returned his greeting and quilted her needle into the coat she was mending.

"It always heartens me to look at you, David; you beguile any of my worries into gladness."

"Tut, tut, my Jane, it isn't like you to worry; think of the courage of our parents in leaving their native land; you see it was partly the love of adventure which lured them. Nothing daunted them, nothing shall daunt us; that's the spirit of this new country. Do you know, Jane, as I was coming home tonight I was living again that day when you and I walked 20 miles to Cobourg to be married; nearly seventeen happy years have we lived here and these children make us happier," as he glanced proudly around at their simiiing faces.

"Daddy, the parcel," and little Sylvester nudged his father.

"Suppose this is a silk dress for you, Jane," David said, teasingly as he untied the little parcel.

"What's silk, Daddy?" asked Sylvester, as his mother involuntarily shook her head.

"How little our children have seen, David, when brought up in this isolated place."

"They know as much about silk as I do about Arabic, and it would be as useful to them. No peculiar pricking do I feel behind my ears, so this can't be silk in this parcel," bantered David, while the smaller children looked curiously at his ears.

"Nonsense leavens this serious business of living, Jane; a little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men—and women too," quoted David.

One of the older girls, Agnes, peering around her father, exclaimed, "It's wheat!"

FAT, golden grains of wheat cascaded from the little box onto the deal table.

"Here's a letter too," said David. "It's from Will Carruthers in Glasgow. He says he obtained it from a boat-load of wheat from Danzig on the Baltic Sea. If it has grown in a cold country like Austria, it should grow well here. Just fancy that wheat coming such a distance to us; it's like a fair tale.' They say 'Time and tide on no man abide'; I'll plant the wheat tomorrow in a corner of the garden so it will be separate from the other grain; it's lucky it came just at planting time."

"And I'll help you to cover it with a hoe," chimed in Agnes.

Before the end of the next day the first planting of Fife wheat had been made by hand.

DAVID FIFE was a man of medium height, rather solidly-built, who stood squarely and looked powerful. He looked every man in the eye, always with his own twinkling, as if searching for that dauntless happy spirit that was his own and challenging the other to make it his. He and Jane had seven children whom they ruled with a firm, yet gentle hand. A busy, happy and contented life they led together in the wilderness.

Now we will follow the romance of this wheat planted by David Fife. Weeks passed; they seemed to crawl. That little plot of ground was closely watched, if not hopefully. Any green thing growing there was closely examined for its resemblance to a blade of wheat. It would have been wiser to have planted only half of it this time, he thought. Why did I plant it so hastily? Oh well, probably the squirrels would have eaten it before the fall planting.

At last one day, after a shower of rain, Agnes came running with the news that something like wheat was growing. When they hurried out to see, there, sure enough, were a few blades from one grain. As time passed no more green showed in the much-watched plot. This would be no bounteous harvest, that was very clear.

Tall and strong grew those blades into healthy stalks. The last of June saw them heading out into five large, juicy green ears. The hot summer days of early July followed one another and the five ears changed to amber. What was vastly more important than the amount of wheat was the fact that this was the only rust-free wheat they had. Here indeed was a treasure.

BUT it was not all to be theirs. In the direction of their cabin one day David heard a terrific hullabaloo. Strange, thought he, why they're making such a fuss. Around the corner of the cabin ran the oxen, with his Jane pounding them with a stick. She drove them away, scolding them meanwhile. Then she ran toward him, holding up three heads of wheat in her hand, and half crying, "That's all that are left—three heads! I could kill those oxen; they broke into the garden and ate two heads and trampled these into the ground."

"Jane, when you're in that mood I'd better give you a wide berth, you who I thought to be the meekest of creatures."

"David, any person worth her salt would have half-killed those oxen. Only three of our precious ears left."

"But we must look at everything philosophically, Jane; a few months ago we had none of that wheat; there was the huge loss of the grain which failed to grow; now the oxen have taken their toll. We have to be thankful to have even these left. I'll see that the oxen have no chance to feed off our wheat next year. We'll dry those ears and store them in a tin box to be safe from mice and we'll look forward to our next crop."

The following spring the seeds from the three ears were sowed and there were no misadventures this time. A good-sized sheaf was reaped from the little plot. The family gathered around the table and carefully culled out the poorer grains, keeping only the perfect for seed-grain.

SO this rust-free wheat multiplied on the farm of David Fife until he had enough to sell to his neighbours asking no more than the current price of two dollars a bushel.

In a few years not only his neighbours bought the wheat but many people in other sections of Ontario until it became well-known in Eastern Canada.

In 1847 the "Canadian Agriculturist," published in Toronto, records the highest award being given to the Fife wheat for the best Spring wheat grown in the Colborne District.

But when it began to be grown in Western Canada it struck a snag. The frost came down before its time and killed the wheat before it had matured. To the Western farmers that spelled ruin. Failure once again stalked the progress of this wheat. Then a scientist, Dr. Saunders, of Ottawa, came to its rescue in 1904, just twenty-seven years after the death of David Fife in 1877. After years of experimenting Dr. Saunders succeeded in crossing the Fife wheat with an earlier-maturing variety from Calcutta. The resultant Marquis wheat ripened a week earlier than the Fife wheat and thus the problem of the shorter growing-season in our Western Provinces was solved. Therefore to Dr. Saunders goes the credit for the success of the Marquis wheat.

To have retained through life a joyous heart as David Fife did is some accomplishment. To have increased the prosperity of the people of Canada is no mean success.

SHE LOVES ME, SHE LOVES ME NOT

—By Rube Goldberg

The Locksmith's Apprentice

AT fourteen I was apprenticed to a locksmith. In a musty little shop with windows set in stone walls too feet thick, this deaf old man made iron locks, hammered and chased by hand. They were not the modern locks that we know, but the ancient warded kind that might have been designed by Martin Luther's father. Each was different. They were decorated with chased or engraved designs, sometimes fauns and mythical animals cut out of thin strips of iron and standing free. He spent at least a month on castle locks. To open them he made letter keys. If the customer's name began with "B," he made the bit of the key in the shape of a "B" and designed an elaborate set of wards to match.

Warded locks, the old smith taught me, are the second oldest in the world. Nobody knows when they were invented or by whom. And he might have added that there had been little improvement in them.

He showed me how on a very simple principle he could make an endlessly complicated lock. A ward is a ring on the inside of the lock, centered to slip over it. By adding concentric wards of different heights and notching the key to match, one can make a formidable affair. The inner wards are cut off near the lower end of the keyhole so they cannot be seen by anyone peering in, but a good smith with a lock pick can make short work of them.

The smith also made an occasional puzzle lock, the kind that the French made popular in the fifties. These were padlocks closed with a cylinder. On them were four—usually four, although I have seen as high as eight—rings on which were engraved the letters of the alphabet. The trick was to turn the rings until the letters spelled a word, whatever word the smith or his customer had selected. There was a groove on the barrel and a corresponding groove on the inner surface of each ring at the back of the chosen letter. Only when the letters were in line would they fit into the groove and release the shackle that held the lock.

"These letter padlocks," the smith insisted, "are the safest in the world. They were used on couriers' dispatch boxes." I used to wonder how long it would take to open them if the recipient forgot the secret word; years, I suspect, because there are over three million combinations of four-letter words. — From "Unlocking Adventure," by Charles Courtney.

The Enjoyment of Poetry

TO understand poetry is a vain ambition. That which we fully understand is the part that is not poetry. It is that which passes our understanding which has the secret in itself. There is an incommunicable grace that defies all attempts at analysis. Poetry is like music; it is fitted, not to define an idea or to describe a fact, but to voice a mood. The mood may be the mood of a very simple person,—the mood of a shepherd watching his flocks, or of a peasant in the fields; or, on the other hand, it may be the mood of a philosopher whose mind has been engrossed with the most subtle problems of existence. But in each case the mood, by some suggestion, must be communicated to us. Thoughts and facts must be transfigured; they must come to us as through some finer medium....

The poet may weave his story of the most common stuff, but "there's magic in the web of it."...He does not construct a work of the imagination,—he makes our imaginations do that. That is why the fine passages of elaborate description in verse are usually failures. The verse-maker describes accurately and at length. The poet speaks a word, and Presto! change! We are transported into a new land, and our eyes are "baptised into the grace and privilege of seeing." Many have taken in hand to write descriptions of spring; and some few painstaking persons have nerved themselves to read what has been written. I turn to the prologue of the "Canterbury Tales"; it is not about spring, it is spring, and I am among those who long to go upon a pilgrimage. A description of a jungle is an impertinence to one who has come under the spell of William Blake's

"Tiger! tiger! burning bright
In the forest of the night."

Those fierce eyes glowing there in the darkness sufficiently illuminate the scene. Immediately it is midsummer, and we feel all its delicious languor when Browning's David sings of

"The sleep in the dried river-channel where bulrushes tell
That the water was wont to go warbling so softly and well."

The first essential to the enjoyment of poetry is leisure....To enjoy poetry, you must renounce not only your easily besetting sins, but your easily besetting virtues as well. You must not be industrious, or argumentative, or conscientious, or strenuous. I do not mean that you must be a person of unlimited leisure and without visible means of support. I have known some very conscientious students of literature who, when off duty, found time to enjoy poetry. I mean that if you have only half an hour for poetry, for that half hour you must be in a leisurely frame of mind. — From "The Gentle Reader," by Samuel Crothers.

A Bible Message

And Asa in the thirty and ninth year of his reign was diseased in his feet, until his disease was exceeding great: yet in his disease he sought not to the Lord, but to the physicians. And Asa slept with his fathers, and died in the one and fortieth year of his reign (II Chron. 16: 12, 13.)

Behold my servant, whom I uphold; mine elect, in whom my soul delighteth; I have put my spirit upon him: he shall bring forth judgment to the Gentiles....

I the Lord have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee, and give thee for a covenant of the people, for a light of the Gentiles; to open the blind eyes, to bring out the prisoners from the prison, and them that sit in darkness out of the prison house. I am the Lord: that is my name: and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images. (Isa. 42: 1, 6-8.)

And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people. (Matt. 4: 23.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"My dear, I never imagined you would marry the man you did," said Gladys.

"Neither did I," replied her friend. "I disliked his ways, but I adored his means."

A sugar-planter in Hawaii took a friend from the States to the edge of a volcano.

"That crater is 70,004 years old," he explained.

"How do you get the exact age?" asked the newcomer. "I can understand the 70,000, but how do you calculate the four?"

"Well, I've been here in the islands for four years, and the crater was 70,000 years old when I arrived."

After giving hubby a specially good supper, the bride nestled up to him with a sweet smile.

"Can I have some money for shopping tomorrow, darling?" she cooed.

"Certainly, darling," said the male partner of the combine. "Which would you rather have—an old fiver, or new one?"

"A new one, please," exclaimed the delighted bride.

"Good—here's the one," said the brute callously. "I'm four pounds up on the deal."

One-Man Army

Sgt. Charles E. Kelly, Pittsburgh Irishman, is officially credited with protecting a storehouse from attack by using up two rifles, lobbing over 60 mortar shells in the absence of hand grenades, covering the withdrawal of his unit with a bazooka and pausing long enough to expend all the ammunition he found with an abandoned anti-tank gun. Doomed From Start

It may well be that the Germans have lost the war because they threw overboard the moral law —because by outraging all sense of decency they made enemies of all men of good-will. They failed to understand that neither Britain nor Europe could be conquered and ruled by hate, and that their system, based on hate, was doomed from the moment it was formulated. — New York Times.

Canada's Volunteers

Whether one is a Walter Winchell fan or not, it can scarcely be denied that he has rendered some service to this country by telling his fellow Americans "Things I never knew 'til now about Canada's war effort." He informed them, for instance, that "about five out of every six Canadian soldiers you see are volunteers—the Canadian Army has the largest volunteer force in the world."—Brantford Expositor.

Engineer Firms Extract High Profits

WASHINGTON, March 17—(AP)—Profits running as high as 250 per cent. of the services of workmen hired out to war contractors by professional "labor-hirers" have been disclosed in report of investigators of the House of Representatives military committee, H. Ralph Burton, committee counsel, said today.

Burton estimated in an interview that at least 25 cases of what he called "labor renting traffic" are being investigated throughout the United States, with profits running into millions of dollars which are charged against the Government through the cost, plus-a-fixed-fee contracts.

Because the investigations have not been completed, he declined to name the companies engaging in the practice, but said one of them, operating plants in Chicago and New York, had realised in 1943 a profit of $4,240,968 on the wages of men it sent out to war industries.

Wages paid by the company to its Chicago men, Burton said, were $1,015,559, but the war plants engaging the workmen were billed for $3,562,191. The same company billed New York plants for $2,511,874 and paid only $817,517 of that amount to the men it sent out.

"This company," Burton said, "bills for its services at a flat rate of so much per man-hour and assumes all expenses."

Other companies, he added, have billed employers for as much as $46 for the services of a skilled man for Sunday work, although the worker received only a small part of it.

Many of the companies, Burton claimed, operate under "names" that are often misleading" and pose as organizations formed to render engineering services. By employing all available craftsmen and technicians, he explained, they obtain a corner on the skilled labor market and are able to demand exorbitant prices for their services from manufacturers in need of skilled labor.

Archery Hunters Seeking Game Reserve In Ontario

TORONTO, March 17.—(CP). —Establishment of an archery hunting reserve either in the Nipissing district or a suitable location unfrequented by hunters was urged by the hunting and fied archers of Ontario yesterday to a meeting of the Game and Fisheries committee of the Legislature.

R. J. Mitchie, representing the field archers, made the suggestion and was supported by Len Hughes, representing the Northern Ontario Tourist Trade Association.

They said there were growing numbers of bow and arrow hunters in Ontario. This type of hunting required inconspicuous clothing which would be dangerous in areas open to use of fire arms.

The Toronto Association to the Ontario Federation of Anglers urged the Ontario Game and Fisheries Department to petition the Federal government to release more ammunition for hunters.

A brief from the Northern Ontario Tourist Trade Association said the wolf menace in Northern Ontario had reached major proportions and asked a special committee to study some control measure more effective than existing bounties. The brief also sought increased salaries for game wardens, with a minimum of $125 and a maximum of $200 a month.

Oppose Hi-Power Rifles.

Stricter bird conservation laws and higher penalties for those convicted was asked by the Essex County Sportsmen's Association D. V. Reddick of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters who supported the suggestion, said there had been violations of the Migratory Bird Convention Act in wild duck areas.

Adam McGuire of Comber, representing the Essex County Association, recommended that Point Pelee National Park be made a game sanctuary and asked the duck hunting season be opened Oct. 1 in Essex.

In the anglers' and hunters' brief was a request that the use of high-powered rifles in settled areas be prohibited from Oct. 1 to February 28 each year.

W. B. Elliott, speaking for the St. Catharines and Niagara District Sportsmen's Association and the Ontario Bird Dog Association, opposed this proposal. He said the high-powered rifle was no more dangerous that the low-powered rifle or the shotgun.

Deputy Minister of Game and Fisheries James Taylor told the meeting deer had greatly increased in southern Ontario areas and in some had reached the point of becoming a menace. He added that while many municipal councillors and others held the high-powered rifle was dangerous, he, presumably did not feel that it was any more dangerous than other types of weapons.

Chairman H. R. Scott (P.C.-Peterborough) assured the delegates their representations would be given consideration.

Irish Program Given At Yelverton Forum

LIFFORD LINE, March 17 —(ENS).—The Yelverton Farm Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson this week with a large attendance. The topic for the evening was "Community Co-operative Projects," and those present were divided in three groups for discussion on several relative subjects.

Following a lively discussion, the three groups got together and compared notes. Other interesting points were added and definite conclusion reached regarding the particular community and its special needs.

Miss Edna Robinson took charge of the recreational period which followed. As this meeting so closely preceded March 17, the program favored St. Patrick's Day. An Irish song contest, with Mrs. George Heaslip at the piano, was enjoyed. Ten Irish songs were identified from the music and sung. Mr. Victor Malcolm, president, succeeded in securing the titles for all ten songs. Lunch was then served by the hostess' family and assistants.

Mr. and Mrs. George Heaslip invited the group to their home for the next meeting.

13 Squadrons From R.C.A.F. In Big Raids

BY LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 17 — (CP) — The Royal Canadian Air Force's bomber group now is delivering a bombload substantially in excess of the tonnage dropped by the Luftwaffe in any single raid during their heaviest attacks on British cities.

This was revealed today when it was told that at least 13 Canadian Lancaster and Halifax Squadrons were included in last nights great raids on Stuttgart and Munich in Germany and Amiens in France.

The Canadian effort, which cost eight planes, was at least 20 per cent greater than on any previous sortie by squadrons in the group.

At least nine Canadian Lancaster and Halifax squadrons struck at Stuttgart while at least four Halifax squadrons blasted railway targets at Amiens.

The Canadian group's attack on Stuttgart was led by the Thunderbird squadron under Wing Cmdr. Bill Swetman, D.F.C., of Kapuskasing, Ont., who was on his 51st trip over enemy territory. Other Canadian units attacking Stuttgart included the Bison, Alouette, Tiger, Porcupine, Leaside, Snowy Owl, Lion and Goose squadrons.

Canadian squadrons attacking Amiens targets included the Moose, Ghost, Iroquois and Bluenose.

Fighters were seen by Flt. Sgt. Harry Grayson of (61 Wellington street) London, Ont.

Sgt. Gordon Squair of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., said his aircraft was followed by what looked like a "sheet of gasoline on fire."

Airmen taking part in the Stuttgart attack included Flt. Sgt. Herb. Larivee of (38 Southern Ave.) Timmins, Ont., and Sgt. Rod. Banks of Flesherton, and Mike O'Leary, of Rockcliffe, Ont.

Among those taking part in the Amiens attack was P.O. John Keane of Orono, Ont.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

The ladies' basketball season will wind up in a blaze of excitement at the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium when the senior and junior titles will be decided. The biggest crowd of the winter will see the finish of what has proved to be a hectic battle in both divisions. In the senior bracket the Transports, after winning top place without a loss, find their claim to the championship menaced by the fighting St. John's team who finished in the second spot and polished off the C.G.E. team in the semi-final round. Transports, a picked team of girl stars, with plenty of scoring ability, experience and well supplied with reserve strength looked like sure winners of the final series and most fans predicted they would take the title in two straight gams. The amazing Saints who demonstrated once again that a team that won't be beaten can't be beaten have turned the championship round into the most exciting battle in years and by sheer fight have thrown the much-fancied Transports back on the defensive. The leaders who had never been seriously threatened during the regular schedule have had the surprising experience of finding themselves behind most of the time during the two playoff games and while they managed to salvage the first fixture and win by a single point they were well beaten in the second battle and now it is all up to tonight's tussle. Both camps report their teams in good shape and the game should be full of tobasco. It will get under way at 9 o'clock.

* * * * * *

In the 8 o'clock game the Normal School and Y Cadets who are all tied up with two wins each will decide the intermediate championship and their clash should be just as hardly fought as the senior affairs. On the season's record there is little to choose between the two rivals and every game between them has been a tense struggle. Tonight with the championship riding on the result the final tussle should be about the tightest the two teams have staged and it is anybody's ball game and anybody's title. Normals' top scorers Reta Chappelle, Evelyn Fritz, Pauline O'Donnell and Helen Baird will be battling to put the Benson Avenue educational factory out in front while Betty Stewart, D. Saunders, Mary Barrett and other Cadet snipers will be carrying the attack for the Y team. This column is glad that it has not the job of trying to pick the winner. That would be a tough task for every game the two have played has been close and tonight's final is likely to be of the same calibre. This is the closest a Normal team has ever been to winning a championship and the future school teachers will battle every step of the route.

The Champ Is Coming

The ace attraction of the wrestling world, Champion Wild Bill Longson will feature the Frank Tunney wrestling bill at the Brock Street Arena next Tuesday night and the announcement should be enough to pack in the biggest crowd of the season. Longson, the pride of St. Louis is the greatest box-office attraction in the mat game today and has set new attendance records all over the continent. His ruthless style of wrestling and the manner in which he has triumphed over all kinds of opposition have combined to bring the fans out in droves. They don't always cheer him—but they come out to see him in action. Peterborough fans are fortunate in the fact that the champion will be opposed here by a mat veteran who knows all the answers in the person of Strangler Bob Wagner, who holds the position of Public Enemy No. 1 in the estimation of local enthusiasts. Wagner is big, tough, experienced and a fighter and he should be just about the right kind of opponent for Longson who has met all the hard-boiled boys in the wrestling game and made them all say uncle. The champ's rugged style which ordinarily might arouse the ire of Peterborough followers of the game will on this occasion be regarded as just the right kind of medicine for the battling Wagner. If Wild Bill can give the Portlander a double dose of the pile-driver hold that wrecked Toar Morgan here some time ago it would make the evening perfect for most of the customers.

From that ace sport publicist and historian Frank G. Menke, whose job of boosting the annual running of the Kentucky Derby is one of the finest demonstrations of how to win publicity, this column has received a copy of his annual booklet on "Churchill Downs and the Kentucky Derby." Menke has surpassed himself in this effort, a beautifully printed 128-page publication in which a wealth of information in regard to the Derby has been compiled for reference use. The writer starts with the history of the horse and from there he goes on to give about every fact in regard to Churchill Downs and the Derby itself that could possibly be thought of, compiled in such a way that the data is all readily available. How many arguments in regard to the classic event will be settled by this booklet is a matter of conjecture but it is difficult to imagine any question popping up that could not be speedily answered by perusing the pages of the Menke masterpiece. As a sample the work contains the names of every starter in the Derby since 1875, a complete list of the winners and what happened to them after their respective victories, the names of the jockeys, trainers, owners, breeders and a thousand and one other details. The volume is effectively illustrated and is a treasure trove of dope for racing fans.

Baseball Is Right

Big league baseball is being harder hit by the call of the armed services than professional hockey has been up to the present moment as the induction of 37-year-old Bill Dickey, star catcher of the New York Yankees, into the U.S. Navy shows. Many of the outstanding players of all the big league clubs are fighting the war instead of playing ball and more will follow shortly. But in spite of that fact the Czar of baseball has moved to protect young players from being grabbed off for the major loops before they are old enough for such competition. Judge Landis has issued orders that no club may sign a player with any of the American Legion junior organization until the youngster is no longer eligible for competition in the junior ranks. There is a heavy fine for the offending club and more than that any contract that may have been signed is declared null and void and the club who signed the player loses any claim upon his services. That ruling is in vivid contrast to the action of N.H.L. clubs in signing up 'teen age hockey players, mere kids who are not strong enough or old enough for service in the cash and carry ranks and should be kept out of there. Baseball, much more hurt by enlistments than is professional hockey has shown the way to handle this question of young players. And baseball is right.

Two of the great teams of the past New York Rangers and Boston Bruins will sit out the 1944 Stanley Cup series. The Rangers have been out of the running some time but the Bruins last chance disappeared last night when the battling Bossmen after a gallant stand lost out to the Detroit Red Wings 10 to 9. Boston scored three goals in the last 3½ minutes and nearly pulled the game out of the fire but the rally fell short. Chicago Black Hawks were beaten 3 to 2 by the Canadiens in the other game of the night but the Boston defeat put the Hawks into the playoff division. They will probably finish in fourth place, however, and will draw the Detroit Red Wings in the Stanley Cup semi-finals while the Toronto Leafs as third place occupants will have to meet the surging Canadiens in the other bracket. The regular schedule ends on Sunday night, winding up a season of less than average hockey and more than average patronage.

Jay's Bowlers Put Cleanrites Out Of Running

Jay's Bowling team practically cinched another City League championship when they defeated the second place Cleanrites all three games at Duffus' Alleys last night. There was no stopping this crack aggregation which has won the City honours for the last seven straight seasons. All five trundlers were right in their glory piling up 3736 pins and topping off a great performance when the pressure was on, with a fine 1,367 game. They have now won a total of 56 points, which is eight more than the Cleanrites and seven more than the K. of C. outfit, which incidently took full advantage of Cleanrites' downfall and stepped up into second position by defeating the Empress two out of three games. As things stand now Jay's require only nine more points to se' their title, providing K of C. or Cleanrites sweep the remaining 15 which it is possible to win.

With the excitement of the race for first place nearly over the boiling point now has centred among the teams in lower brackets. The fourth and fifth placers took a tumble last night as the Machine Shop trounced the Fractional Motors 2 to 1 and Chief Gimblett's men rolled the sinking Ramblers down three straight games. Sunocos' stock went up in winning three from Canada Packers while the Big Five, Freeman's and Old Timers registered two to one victories over Westclox, Outlaws and Stags.

Walter Firth of Freeman's repeated his fine performance of a week ago by jamming in a 796 score to lead the high three men, while good singles included a 350 game by Harold Davis, Firth's 348, Fred Martin's 325, Bill Martin's 323, Gene Reynolds' 312 and Eddie Johnston's 306.

It looks as if Bud Weese, Doug. Abraham and Fred Martin will battle it out for high average. Weese is now well away with 248, Abraham has 246 and Martin 243. Bob Dyer and Jack Playford both had a comparatively bad night, Dyer dropping to 239 and Playford to 236.

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP)—The National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs, by way of demonstrating that it isn't solely concerned with those 16 "dead" leagues and that $300,000 in the treasury, is calling the attention of all members to the Fayetteville, N.C., Junior Victory League . . . Boss W. G. Bramham urges all league and club presidents, especially in the suspended circuits, to "get busy on such a project in your community at once, that a similar league may be organized for the coming season." . . . From here it appears that the Jedge might do well to revive his dormant promotion department and put it to work locating men who would maintain active interest in the kid leagues and helping them to organize.

Just to show how important the basketball tournaments are regarded, Muhlenberg made a special trip here from Allentown, Pa., last week for a workout on the Garden court . . . and, faced with the problem of checking Foothills Kurland of the Oklahoma Aggies next week, Coach Allied Seelbach of Canisius borrowed his own former six-foot-eleven goal tender, Joe Dudzick, from a Buffalo war plant team for practice . . . Up to last night, Depaul's George Mikan hadn't allowed any opposing centre more than eight points during the time he faced George . . .

Cleaning the Cuff:

Several National Football League clubs are interested in Joe Kaulukoui, former U. of Hawaii four-letter man who was picked last season as the Hawaiian Senior League's outstanding player over such guys as Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones and Mike Jabealo. . . . If he ever should be tackled by Wojciechowicz!

Ball Players Limber Up At Spring Camps

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, March 17 —(AP)— Like every baseball player, Fireman Joe Beggs, Cincinnati Red hurler, likes his base hits.

Last year Joe's output was five singles in 35 trips, for a not too robust .143. Maybe that's why, out at the Reds' Bloomington, Ind., training camp yesterday, the Fireman moaned because it rained.

"This is the one week all year that the pitchers get a chance to hit," Joe complained as he ducked indoors, "and it's got to rain. Next week nothing short of a machine gun will keep our so-called hitters away from the plate."

Pitchers always look good with a bat—during spring training.

At Evansville, Ind., Detroit Tigers came up with their first training casualty as Infielder Joe (J.P.) Wood complained of a sore arm. Joe, who hit a rousing .323 last year, said his arm "hasn't been right since I fell asleep with my arm hanging out the window of a train" in 1942 while in the Texas League.

Elsewhere in the baseball realm, the news was:—

Chicago Cubs—Lon Warneke, veteran pitcher, advised Vice President Jim Gallagher from his Hot Springs, Ark., home that he had been ordered to report for induction March 23.

New York Giants: Gus Mancuso and Rookie Catcher Joe Stephenson signed contracts, then went through four-hour batting, fielding and "pepper" session with rest of squad.

Boston Red Sox: First American League club to sign all its players as Outfielder Bob Johnson, last year with Senators, comes to terms.

CHAMPIONS AT PETAWAWA MILITARY CAMP—One of Canada's fastest garrison hockey leagues, active at Petawawa military camp this winter, has wound up with the A-2 C.A.T.C. "Blue Bombers" as champions. Three other teams were in the league with many "name players on their rosters, including Gnr. 'Turk' Broda, former goalie with Toronto Maple Leafs, and Bmdr. H. C. 'Conny' Brown, of Detroit Red Wings, both being pictured here with the winning team. The team includes: Back Row, Left to Right: Gnr. L. Bouchard (trainer), Montreal; L.-Bmdr. G. Kelly (manager), Masson, Que.; Bmdr. R. Langlois (defence), Montreal; Gnr. J. Kazak (defence), Montreal; Bmdr. A. C. Campagnaro (forward), Guelph; Gnr. P. Bastien (defence), Timmins; 2nd Lieut. G. Munro (defence), Toronto; L.-Bmdr. E. S. Smith (trainer), Cobalt; Bmdr. H. C. Brown (defence), Toronto. Centre Row, Left to Right: Sgt. R. Bocchini (forward), Windsor; Gnr. S. Shepstone (forward), Toronto; Gnr. C. Cattarello (forward), South Porcupine; Col. E. B. McPherson (hon. coach), Toronto; Gnr. W. E. Broda (goal), Toronto; Capt. A. P. A. Green (coach), Toronto; Gnr. P. C. Brown (forward), Ottawa; L.-Bmdr. O. Biochi (forward), Sault Ste. Marie; Gnr. J. Rush (forward), Owen Sound. Front Row, Left to Right: Gnr. W. J. Cooke (forward), Coldbrook, Saint John, N.B.; Bmdr. G. Robert (forward), Montreal. Team members not present: Gnr. R. P. Wallace (forward), Port Colborne; Gnr. Romney (forward), Montreal; Gnr. D. Keeler (goal), Oshawa, Ont.

Kingston Juniors Tie Visiting Colts

KINGSTON, March 17—Kingston Vics and Barrie Colts played to a 4-4 tie in the first game of an O.H.A. Junior "B" semi-final home-and-home series here last night. The game was a bitter, close-checking struggle.

Kingston caried the play most of the time and missed many scoring chances. Barrie was content to shoot from long range and wait for the breaks and the second game of the total-score series.

Barrie got a two-goal lead in the first period, and Kingston tied the round in the second period. Kingston twice took the lead in the last frame, but Barrie battled back to tie the score.

Barrie—Goal, Ambrosio; defense, D. Clark, Cook; centre, Richardson; wings, Mason, L. Clark; subs, Robinson, Bowen, Needham Lougheed, Bark, Murray, Richardson.

Kingston—Goal, Stone; defense, Metcalf, Plumb; centre, Myke; wings, Wallis, Moore; subs, MacGregor, Fowler, Onkle, Watts, McCarney, Snider.

Referees—G. Marker and R. Vamiele.

TORONTO, Mach 17 — (CP).— It's an old argument, always good for hours of heated debate, this question whether a goalie makes the team or the team makes the goalie. Showing of Montreal Canadiens and their sensational goalie, Bill Durnan, this year added fuel to the discussion.

Without detracting from Durnan's performance, Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson suggests the Habitants' bruising defenceman, Butch Bouchard, can be singled out as the most potent tank trap keeping opposing forwards away from the Durnan line. Fergie picks Bouchard as one of his all-star blueliners on the strength of his husky blocking, even if his scoring feats and playmaking aren't so spectacular.

That and the enthusiastic backchecking and follow up play of centre Elmer Lach and his forward mates contributed in no small measure to Durnan's success. It's hard to pick out the stars on Canadiens, because most of their starriness comes from teamplay, and that's what pays off.

Valor's better part:

A motorist drove up to a Brantford, Ont., filling station and found another car taking on gasoline. In a few choice, if inebriated, words the newcomer told the squatters to vamoose. Then from the other car stepped the bulky figure of Joe Maich, the well-known Brantford wrestler. With a gulp and a sickly smile our hero backed away, muttering, "Isn't it funny what a few beers will do to a chap like me?"

Incidentally:

Dick Irvin told Joe (Windsor Star) Burns that N.H.L. hockey this year is far better than its critics admit. Dick says the youngsters are getting a chance to make good they otherwise would miss, and for that reason wartime hockey is a "blessing in disguise." Irvin prefers the enthusiasm of the younger players to the tiring legs of the oldsters....

Page the Brooklyn Dodgers. The intermediate basketball team from Saint John, N.B., had two games slated for one night, a provincial semi-final against Moncton Clark Ruse and a service play-off with Scoudouc R.C.A.F. Repair Depot. Scorning the Moncton entry, Saint John floored only five players for the game. Fouls soon sliced into the line-up until in the dying seconds of the game, Saint John had only one man on the floor. They lost 56-42, but won the two-game round 102-84.

More Records Topple In N.H.L. Play

By The Canadian Press.

New records in the National Hockey League are cheap this season — it would seem they range about a dime a dozen. At least that is the impression one gets in seeing teams and players set up new standards of play.

Montreal Canadiens last night broke the total points record previously held by Boston Bruins, in defeating Chicago Black Hawks 3-2 at Montreal. The Canucks lifted their total for the season to 79, two more than the previous high total. Elmer Lach drew an assist out of the encounter to boost his total in that column to 47, two more than the previous high.

At Detroit, Herb Cain scored one goal and assisted in four other counters as Red Wings defeated Bruins 10-9, to lift his total in the individual scoring race to 80. He already had set a new record in a game on Tuesday night at Chicago.

The loss for the Bruins wiped out all hope the2Boston club had of making the post-season Stanley Cup play-off. Hat-tricks also came easily, with Bill Cowley and Harvey Jackson of Bruins both ringing up three goals and Carl Liscombe adding a similar tally for Detroit. Johnny Crawford and Art Jackson scored the other goals for Boston and the remaining goals for Wings were netted by Syd Howe, Don Grosso, Bill Jennings, Modere Bruneteau, Flash Hollett, Brown and Thomson.

Boston came out on the low end of its series with Detroit this year, winning one and tieing two of ten games.

At Montreal, Chicago took a 1-0 lead in the opening frame on a shot by Bill Mosienko and in the second frame, Maurice Richard and Fernand Majeau sent Montreal ahead until Vergil Johnson forced a 2-2 deadlock. The score remained even until two seconds from the end of the session when Richard registered his second goal of the night. The third period was scoreless.

The question of who will be third or fourth when the season closses on Sunday night still is unsettled. Chicago with two games remaining are one point behind the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs, who have only one game left on the schedule.

Headliners for the St. Patrick's Day boxing card at Madison Square Garden, New York, to-night are two swingsters whose real names are Abraham Davidoff and Sidney Walker who will go through a 10-round main bout which is expected to attract 17,000 fans and a $100,000 gate. Their professional names are Al (Bummy) Davis from Brooklyn, and Beau Jack, the former Augusta, Ga., bootblack. Beau has had 11 main bouts in the Garden and their aggregate gross has been $814,654, an average of $74,059 per match.

Only twice in recent years has the Garden crossed over $100,000 for a lightweight contest and Beau Jack figured in both of them, with Hammie Armstrong and Philadelpia Bob Montgomery as opponents. Two weeks ago Montgomery outpointed Beau to win the New York version of the lightweight crown. Four weeks ago, Al Davis handed Montgomery his first knockout. Yet the fans were expected to flock to see to-night's go.

Trainer Jim Fitzsimmons of Sheepshead Bay, N.Y., now 70 years of age, has started to condition Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Free Lance for the Kentucky Derby May 6. His previous candidates which won the classic at Churchill Downs were Gallant Fox, Omaha and Johnston.

Labor Relations Board To Start Work

OTTAWA, March 17 —(CP) — Appointment of the new Wartime Labor Relations Board to administer the new Federal Labor Relations Code and resignation of Mr. Justice C. P. McTague, chairman of the National War Labor Board, supervisory body of the Wartime Wage Control Order, were announced yesterday in Commons.

Labor Minister Mitchell, tabling an order-in-council, announced that Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor of Edmonton is to head the Labor Relations Board with Mr. Justice Francoeur of Quebec City as vice-chairman. The other eight members of the Board will be equally representative of employers and employees.

There was no immediate indication of who would be appointed to the National War Labor Board chairmanship.

The other two members of the Board, Leon LaLande of Montreal and John A. Bell of Toronto, constitute a forum and can deal with cases but no hearings are at present scheduled, Board officials said.

Mr. Justice O'Connor said in Edmonton that he had accepted the chairmanship of the Labor Relations Board for a period of six months.

The Board has no relationship to the National War Labor Board which administers the Wartime Wage Control Order.

Resignation of Mr. Justice McTague was announced by Prime Minister Mackenzie King who read an exchange of correspondence between himself and the Labor Board chairman. Mr. Justice McTague said he was anxious to return to his legal connections. He is a member of the Ontario Supreme Court.

In a letter to the Prime Minister dated March 8, Mr. Justice McTague said to avoid any misunderstanding he wished it understood that his decision to resign "is not based on any differences with the government nor with the Minister of Labor personally."

Mr. King in his reply dated yesterday accepting the resignation with regret expressed the government's appreciation for the services performed by Mr. Justice McTague.

Mr. Mitchell in announcing personnel of the Labor Relations Board said the new body would have the task of creating precedents and administrative procedure. In a dministrating the new code which introduces compulsory collective bargaining for workers in War Industries and occupations previously under the Industrial Disputes Inquiry Act.

Labor representatives on the Board will be: A. R. Mosher, Ottawa; F. Molineaux, Hamilton; W. L. Best Ottawa; and R. Harmegnies, D'Alma, Que. Employer representatives are: H. Taylor, Toronto; W. H. Brown, Toronto; A. Deschamp, Montreal and A. J. Hills, Montreal.

Tempers Flare

Drew said he had done nothing wrong and that governments frequently made such announcements to correct misleading statements being circulated among the public.

The Haldimand-Norfolk by-election and Liberal Leader Harry C. Nixon were brought into the exchange which produced the "hottest" scene of the session, now nearing the end of its fourth week.

Interruptions were frequent when Premier Drew was replying to the C. C. F. leader and at one point Speaker W. J. Stewart said if they did not cease he would "be advised to adjourn the House."

Gave Paper Statement

The clash was precipitated by A. A. MacLeod (L-Toronto Bellwoods) who said he was amazed to find a statement in the Toronto Globe and Mail announcing a grant of $3,500,000 to municipalities toward education. The Premier had promised the House a full statement on the education tax problem and he questioned the "propriety of releasing information from the budget in advance."

Mr. Jolliffe also drew attention to the Premier's announcement in a "newspaper this morning" and termed it "positively a discourtesy to this House."

He said many protests had been heard from the Premier regarding action of the Dominion in giving advance announcements to the press. He did not know the contents of the budget, but he was sure the $3,500,000 item for education would be there.

Warned By Speaker

Premier Drew replied his issuance of the statement was not similar to the action of the Dominion which he had criticised. The Dominion had released decisions affecting the province and prejudicing financial arrangements between the Dominion and the province.

He maintained his statement to the press had been proper and suggested if Mr. Jolliffe "sought to learn" he would know it was customary for governments to make announcements on matters causing misstatements to be circulated outside the House.

He then quoted from a speech by Mr. Jolliffe in the Haldimand-Norfolk by-election in which the C.C.F. leader said the Ontario government had done nothing to halt the profits of Imperial Tobacco Company. The opposition leader should know the head office of the company was at Montreal and outside the jurisdiction of the province. Mr. Jolliffe was "misleading the people."

At this there were interruptions from the C.C.F. side and the speaker cautioned the House.

Continuing, Mr. Drew asked why the opposition leader had not moved an amendment to the address in reply to the throne speech and answered his own question by saying "he didn't have the courage to do it."

There were more interruptions and the speaker said if they did not cease he would be "advised to adjourn the House."

In support of the Cassino fighting, medium bombers of the tactical air force plunged beyond the wrecked town and attacked enemy gun positions in the Liri Valley in and around Piedimonte and southwestward toward Pontecorvo. Fighter bombers also unloaded explosives on German guns at Esperia just outside of the perimenter of the Anzio beachhead.

Adriatic Line Quiet

It was reported Thursday that 5th Army troops had captured two enemy strongpoints on the beachhead and had held them against repeated German counter-attacks.

In air operations, coastal Air Force medium bombers hit the docks at Leghorn and fighter-bombers attacked shipping on the west coast of Italy.

In all operations yesterday, the Mediterranean Allied Air Forces flew 1,144 sorties, losing four planes and destroying three enemy aircraft, the communique said.

On the 8th Army front, of which the Canadian 1st corps forms a part, there was sharp patrol activity, and casualties were inflicted on the enemy in several clashes.

Canadian troops met stiffer German opposition Wednesday night during patrols into the enemy's forward defence positions in front of the Arielli River, Douglas Amaron, Canadian Press War Correspondent, reported.

Amaron said Maritime troops in the central sector engaged in a brisk fight and suffered some casualties. Elsewhere patrols reported that machine-gunners silent the previous night, again were on the alert.

Sir Percy Noble of the Royal Navy and Rear-Admiral Victor Brodeur of the Royal Canadian Navy.

"The strategy of this war to a great extent was to leave the Pacific very largely to the Americans and to leave the Atlantic to the British fleet and the convoy work to the British and Canadian fleets," he said. "That was the arrangement made and it has worked out with reasonable satisfaction."

He said he did not agree that Canada's influence in the Pacific depended on the extent of participation there at any one time and said that Britain and Russia would have something to say about the future of the Pacific although they were not actively engaged.

The Canadian naval staff, however, is constantly studying all phases of naval warfare including the war against the Japanese on the Pacific.

Mr. Macdonald said that 37 Royal Canadian Navy Volunteer Reserve Officers had the rank of Commander or higher and 63 were acting commanders or higher.

He gave the figures in answer to J. G. Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) who said it was thought Volunteer Reserve officers had difficulty obtaining promotion to higher ranks because of a ceiling of permanent force officers.

Mr. Diefenbaker asked how many officers with the rank of captain or higher were retired in the past year.

Mr. Macdonald replied that none in this category had been retired, but two captains now were on leave prior to retirement.

Mr. Macdonald said, in replying to inquiries about the stiffness of examinations faced by would-be Navy officers, that eight or nine failures out of a class of 70 or 80 would be considered high.

Fraser Misinformed

He said he believed G. K. Fraser (PC-Peterborough West) must have been misinformed when he heard that hardly 15 per cent of the candidates in one such examination had passed.

In the combat branch of the Navy officers came only from the lower deck and more than 2,000 had reached the higher rank in this way.

A brisk storm blew up in the House when Labor Minister Mitchell mentioned Federal co-operation with the province of Ontario.

Dr. H. A. Bruce (PC-Toronto-Parkdale) asked if Mr. Mitchell would take steps to relieve the situation in two Ontario Tuberculosis Sanatoria where shortages of help delayed patients they needed.

Mr. Mitchell said he would be glad to give the matter his immediate attention. A similar situation in another province had been dealt with in co-operation with the provincial government.

"Now! now! never mind playing politics," interjected Karl Homuth (PC-Waterloo South).

Government and Opposition pounded their desks and shouted.

"This matter is too serious a one to play politics," said Mr. Mitchell.

"That's what you're doing," said Mr. Homuth.

Mr. Mitchell said he felt sure that the Ontario government would co-operate.

Would Enforce Curfew Ruling

TORONTO, March 17. — With a view to aid in decreasing Toronto's juvenile delinquency, G. Blair Laing last night presented a motion to the Board of Education asking stricter enforcement of a section of the Ontario Children's Protection Act, regarding children under 16 loitering or being in any public place after 9 p.m., when not accompanied by authorized adult.

The motion, which was referred to Management Committee, requested consideration of stricter enforcement of the statute by the Board of Police Commissioners, the Judge of Juvenile Court, and the Children's Aid Society.

"I feel every organization should stand behind this request," said Mrs. Colin Campbell. "Though it is against the law, children are in moving picture houses every night of the week."

"You couldn't enforce a curfew law in a big city," said Dr. C. C. Goldring, the superintendent of schools. He described New York City's system whereby plainclothes men and women question young couples on Times Square, to ensure that they are not "pickups."

Replying to a request from Toronto Teachers' Council for an exchange of views regarding the proposed Teaching Profession Act, the Board carried a motion inviting representatives of Toronto and Ontario Teachers' Councils to present their views.

Board carried Dr. J. P. F. Williams' motion that Urban School Trustees' Association and the Association of Public School Trustees and Ratepayers be asked to consider the advisability of petitioning the Provincial Government to re-establish Ontario training schools for boys and girls.

Robert F. Fitzpatrick attended his first meeting as representative of Separate School supporters. He succeeds the late H. L. Conlin.

THE WALKING RECORD

In answer to a telephone inquiry as to the five mile walking record, official records show that the outdoor mark for the distance is 36 mins. 10 secs. established by a Canadian walker, George H. Goulding, of Toronto, in 1916. The indoor record is slightly faster. It is 35 mins, 46 2-5 secs., set in 1926 by Ugo Frigerio.

ESCAPED LIGHTLY

Judging by the experience of Peterborough citizens who have been in Toronto and Western Ontario in the last couple of days, this district escaped lightly in the matter of ice and sleet. Conditions in Toronto and many centres in the western part of the province have been extremely hazardous, both to motorists and pedestrians, with sidewalks and roads turned into skating rinks.

Russ Sacrifice Dwarfs Farm Problems

"If this year you find yourselves in trying conditions, and that is not unusual, try to ponder the sacrifice of the Russian people, sixty millions of them, driven from their homes, and now coming back, fighting their way mile by mile," was one aspect of the challenge to his audience of farmers which John A. Carroll, Toronto, Superintendent of Agricultural Societies branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, directed last night in his address at the convention of the Eastern Brotherhood of Threshermen in the Canadian Legion Hall.

The dinner was held in the Legion's upper hall, and as Mr. Carroll was concluding his talk with a message of encouragement to farmers which could be abridged into the slogan, "Remember the Russians," some one at the piano on the dance floor downstairs was striking, by ironic coincidence, the familiar chords of Rachmaninoff's C sharp minor prelude, a ringing, pervasive and accidental accompaniment to the measured phrases... "fighting their way back, foot by foot and mile by mile."

In his reference to conditions which strain and vex the farmer's fortitude throughout the season from seeding time to the harvest, Mr. Carroll did not spare them with his ardent wish "that Ontario will have a big crop this year."

Officers Elected

At the business session in the afternoon, the Brotherhood elected their officers as follows, with only two executive changes from last year:

President, W. W. Dawson, Otonabee; 1st vice-president, James Lamey, Warkworth; sec.-treas., J. A. McIntyre, Peterborough; executive committee, Arthur Bailey of Blackstock; Joseph Slattert, Otonabee; Robert Ard, Orono; legislation committee, J. A. Moore, Hastings; Basil Bell, Garden Hill; Herbert Jones, Omemee.

Appreciation of the annual grant from the Ontario Department of Canada as continued by Hon. T. L. Kennedy, was expressed in one resolution, and another recommended that an extended program of seed control be considered by the Department in post-war planning.

Visitors from the western Ontario Brotherhood were: David Bennett of Dutton, 1st vice-president, and Mrs. Bennett; Francis Deshaw of Muirkirk, secretary-treasurer; E. S. Down of Shennen and Mrs. Down; and Byrell Harris of Chatham, president of the Ontario Threshers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company, and Mrs. Harris.

Mr. Dawson presided at the afternoon session, and was dinner chairman in the evening. F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, discussed during the afternoon program the importance of soil fertility and the cultivation of new pastures. He declared that soil conservation and new grass planning were kindred projects which were receiving today more attention than ever in both the United States and Canada.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture had been advocating this kind of soil and feed enterprise for years, but the advice did not cost farmers anything personally and possibly for that reason had been too long ignored. Mr. Paterson cited the experience of some Peterborough farmers during the last year or two with results which have been creating a great deal of interest in their neighborhoods.

Dinner a Feature

The dinner, arranged and served by the women of Stewart's Hall, Otonabee, was literally excellent, and won unanimous praise from the Brotherhood members and their guests. Alderman Sands commented, with a glow of appreciation, "this is one time I am glad Mayor Hamilton delegated to me the honor of representing him and of extending to this Brotherhood a renewal of Peterborough's welcome."

"I feel sure the farmers of Ontario will do all they can to grow their own grain this year," Mr. Carroll said. "Certainly there is a need of a huge bank of feed when we remember that during last fall and this winter we have brought fifty million bushels of grain from the west and 190,000 tons of mill feed." He also mentioned the returns from last year's farm work in Ontario as the worst "in my forty years of farming and connection with farming."

Mr. Carroll appealed to farmers to "make the best possible use of what we have" this year. Although there was some improvement in the agricultural machinery quota, the supply would still be far from adequate. Engines were needed for all kinds of war machines, and the supply of bearings was another problem because the moulders have left the foundaries and it was difficult to obtain malleable parts. "One hundred pounds of metal used in repairs will take the place of a ton in new machines."

Farm labor would probably still be scarce, but Mr. Carroll said the shortage of help was general. "Go into a restaurant and see how long you have to wait to be served. Then there was the really alarming news report today of 168 beds having to be left empty in provincial sanatoria because hospital help was for the present unavailable. "We've got to be prepared in town and country to go through another year with a scarcity of help."

As to post-war conditions, Mr. Carroll said he believed there would be a greater demand for food than the world had ever known, "and we in America will be expected to supply the greatest part of it."

The program concluded with motion pictures of agricultural interest, supplied by McColl-Frontenac Company, and the convention closed with several hours of dancing.

PRESENTED WITH WINGS — Sgt. Pilot J. E. (Jonny) Rexe, son of Mrs. Ann Rexe, 387A George Street, graduated a few days ago at Hagersville. His wings were pinned on by Group Capt. Dave Harding, commanding officer of No. 16 S.F.T.S. at Hagersville. Sgt. Rexe enlisted in September, 1942, and received his training in Toronto, Brantford, St. Catharines and Hagersville. Prior to his enlistment he worked at the C.G.E. and Florence furniture store. A brother, Robert Charles, was discharged early in the war because of low category.

Men's Sketch Club Exhibition Is On More Ambitious Scale

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

The Eighth Annual Exhibition of the Men's Sketch Club is more ambitious than the Exhibition which was held at this time last year; it is not an adverse criticism, therefore, to say that it is somewhat less successful. The Sketch Club is primarily concerned with the growth and development of the members' work, and therefore none of its exhibitions should be thought of as presenting the work of artists who consider themselves to have completed their apprenticeship. In general it may be said that the work in water-color is pleasing, accomplished, and of a high standard, and that the work in oil is still rather heavy-handed. Oil paint is, of course, a very difficult medium, and a thorough mastery of it comes only after years of work. The oils exhibited this year are markedly better than those shown last March.

In the work of a small group of friends it is perhaps invidious to choose some pictures for special mention. However, the work of J. Hamer has a deftness which immediately attracts attention. Two of his water-color sketches, "The Bell Apartments" and "Behind The Post Office" are interesting in composition, and also because they get away from the conventionally pretty country scenes of which water-colorists are so fond. In his group of exhibits "Winter Repairs" is also very pleasing. C. S. Browne also has an interesting group in the Exhibition, of which "Norland" is especially attractive. D. G. H. Melton shows fewer pictures than the other exhibitors, but they show marked individuality of approach to the subjects. As was the case last year, A. B. Burrows is the most adventurous exhibitor, showing sketches of dogs, still life, and a variety of local scenes. An interesting group of portrait sketches by C. H. Saunders is also included in the Exhibition.

Three water-colors by F. H. Brigden, R.C.A., O.S.A., are on loan for the Exhibition and they show that mastery of the medium for which the members of the Sketch Club strive. Mr. Brigden has been the Godfather to the Club since it was founded, and it is clear that many of the members take his work as their model. They would not easily find a better water-colorist in Canada from whom to derive

This Exhibition must be accounted a success, and a valuable contribution to the cultural life of Peterborough.

English House Invites Americans

LONDON, March 17—(CP)—The House of Commons, by formal motion, today invited the United States Congress to send a delegation to visit parliament.

Maj. Albert M. Braithwaite, Conservative, who initiated the motion and who recently returned from the United States, said the proposed visit had been discussed with Speaker Sam Rayburn of the House of Representatives.

Preliminary plans call for inclusion of Congressmen from both major parties, plus representatives of the independent parties. Some women members will be included, it was indicated here.

A similar resolution later was adopted in the House of Lords.

Election Coming Liberals Told

HAMILTON, March 17.—(CP).—Revenue Minister Gibson, in an address to Hamilton West Liberal Association, said last night "it is generally known that an (Federal) election will be held early next year, if not late this fall."

He urged his audience at the Association's annual meeting to organize and prepare for any eventuality.

(Prime Minister Mackenzie King said in the House of Commons Jan. 31 that his government proposes to stay in power until the war is won unless it is prevented from properly carrying on the business of government.

(He said there might be situations in which it would be "impossible" for the government to carry on with the authority it should have in wartime, but he had no thought of seeking an "issue."

(Should it be necessary, the present parliament might continue until June, 1945, time of the constitutional limitation on its duration.)

"The Liberal party believes in free enterprise," said the Minister. "It believes that citizens should acquire gain through mental and physical effort but that there should be controls to prevent exploitation."

Letter Delights Judge

WHITBY, March 17 — (CP) — A letter of appreciation tendered Mr. Justice W. D. Roach by 42 members of a Supreme Court jury panel for the "new concept of and respect for the law" he had given them brought a 15-minute reply from him yesterday.

Saying he had never heard of such a "noble gesture" in the history of Canadian courts, Mr. Justice Roach added: "If there were more juries like you the life of a Judge would not be so lonely and hard."

War—4 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press.

March 17, 1940—Paris police arrested 37 members of the banned Communist party, making a total of 96 arrests in two weeks on charges of subversive activity. German command claimed air raid on Scapa Flow, March 16, severely damaged three British battleships.

$536 Required To Complete Next Donation

On the last lap toward reaching a total of $75,000 that will have been raised to alleviate the distress of air raid victims in the British Isles, the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund now has on hand in the bank, a total of $1,703.80 towards the next gift of £500 leaving a balance of $536.20 needed to complete that amount.

Previous to this, the fund has already forwarded a total of £16,200 to the Lord Mayor of London, and when this latest objective goes over the top, it will mark the 28th time that help has been sent from this city and district, and by that time will have amounted to a total of $74,767 in Canadian currency.

It is interesting to note that the fund starts on a second book of records to-day, the first which contained 300 pages each capable of 37 entries having been filled, and so it passes into history to stand as a memorial to the sympathy, kindness and generosity that has been displayed by those whose names adorn its pages.

Regent Theatre Repeats.

From the earliest days when the penny boxes were first put into circulation on behalf of the fund, the one located at the Regent theatre has done good work on its behalf, and on a number of occasions when the box was due for collection, the theatre itself has augumented this by doing something special through their Foto-Nite, which is held each Monday evening.

Another such occasion is brought to light this day, through a special of $5.00 in their name to accompany the penny box collection of $11 which is also listed the former coming as a tribute to the Miss Canada girls who sold war savings stamps on one of these special nights recently, through Jack Marshall who is M. C. for the occasion.

Three Personal Gifts.

The first entry to be made in the new book of records gives credit to the lady who has given so many times in a personal way under the name of E. M. F." and it would seem a favourable portent of what the future might hold for the fund, to commence the new book with one who has supported it so regularly and well for a long period of time.

Another personal gift of $5 comes under the heading of "I. H. N. per W. K. L." which also happens to have appeared on more than one former occasion, while a third one under the name of "Anonymous" also appears.

March 17th is always a big day to all Irishmen, and those who like to celebrate this their patron saint's day, will find ample opportunity in the big St. Patrick's day dance being held in the Legion Hall this evening, sponsored by the management and staff of the C. D. S. Stores. All net proceeds are for the fund.

Peterboro Tops Cash Objective

Peterborough exceeded by $12,407.52 its objective of $60,000 in the recent Red Cross and Community Fund campaign.

Total of all contributions was $72,407.42 as announced today by the executive of the fund, and the number of subscribers was 9,367 persons, excluding the school children whose pennies amounted to $430.52.

Two-thirds of those citizens who accounted for the success of this campaign are comprised in the industrial division, the employees of local industries who were assigned an objective of $25,000 and who gave a total of $28,898.80. Of the total of 9,367 subscribers, 6,376 are listed in the industrial category.

The retail division, with an objective of $12,000, turned in $14,493.75 from 2,160 contributors.

In a special division there were 121 subscribers whose total subscriptions was $23,008, and their objective was $20,000.

In a women's division 710 subscribers gave $5,576.45, as compared with their objective of $3,000.

The campaign was a bright and reassuring success for which the main credit is due to those 9,367 men and women of Peterborough who have carried through another wartime undertaking with a spirited and generous response that will reach out to the Red Cross Society and community good works in their needs for this year.

Instal Monitor

BUENOS AIRES, March 17 — (AP) — The Postoffice Department yesterday ordered Reuters News Agency to discontinue operation of a leased Teletype circuit between Buenos Aires and Montevideo pending the installation of monitoring equipment in the government's communication division. The Associated Press and United Press received similar instructions two weeks ago.

1,300 Nazis Killed

LONDON, March 17 — (CP) — Marshal Tito (Josip Broz) said yesterday in a preface to his Yugoslav Army of liberation communique that the Germans lost 1,300 soldiers in their last offensive in Slovenia and current operations are also costing the Nazis heavily.

Greek Rector Grateful For City's Help

Rev. Nicholas Salamis, rector of St. Georges Greek Orthodox Church, Toronto, conducted an Easter communion service for his little flock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Spiros Zakos Thursday morning.

"I manage to come to Peterborough three or four times a year," Father Salamis told an Examiner reporter. "We are not many, and I have a very large area, from Belleville on theh east to Windsor on the west and north to Owen Sound.

I always like to come to Peterborough because I remember it as the city where my brother lived for four years, working in the electric test department of the Canadian General Electric Company. He is a graduate of McGill University in electrical engineering, and you perhaps have heard of him as William Salamis, Montreal, secretary of the Greek War Relief Fund.

Grateful For Help

I should like to thank the people of Peterborough on his behalf for their generous response to the appeal in Canada for help to the people of Greece. Perhaps you read in the news yesterday the statement by the Archbishop of Canterbury that 1,900, 000 children in Greece were suffering from effects of the German War on their country That is a dreadful thing to think of, the scourging of these young lives in the old civilised countries of Europe.

Probably the people of Peterborough know that the Government of Canada is sending large supplies of wheat, 15,000 tons a month or something like that, a splendid gift to the people of Greece. Perhaps our many friends in Peterborough knew that their contributions of money and articles are sent to Greece through the very helpful agency of the Canadian Red Cross.

Our Relief Fund in Canada, with which my brother is connected, does not spend any of the money given by the people. We turn it over to the Red Cross Society of Canada, and they buy the goods as they are needed.

Suppose it is medical supplies needed,—our funds give the necessary money to the Red Cross and they do all the rest. They have the facilities and experience, and they can buy to the best advantage."

Father Salamis said "we never get a bill of expenses from Peterborough. If there are costs for of an appeal to the public for funds and goods, the amount is taken care of by our own people in Peterborough, who pay these costs out of their own pocket.

For my brother I would also like to say that the expenses of the Greek Relief Fund are said to be the very lowest, something around 3 per cent or less."

Too Much Liquor

TWO TONES OF BLUE—Navy seasoned with a dash of pale blue is a color scheme that has popped up more than once at recent showings. It is used for this neat and useful frock, fashioned of navy blue crepe with the light blue introduced in the form of medallion inserts. These are applied with fine drawn-work to form a yoke and to trim the sleeves. A round beret of navy straw with veil and flower trimming completes this attractive ensemble.

School Children Have Foster Night

"An Evening with Stephen Foster" was presented Thursday evening by the pupils of Queen Elizabeth School to a capacity audience. The direction of the program was in charge of Mr. Q. McKinney, musical director, and the teachers, Mr. L. Bird and Miss M. Munro.

The concert was introduced by a piano solo, "Memories of Stephen Foster", by Beverly Frise, followed with "Oh Susannah" by the school. Marjorie Brown gave a brief account of the life of Stephen Foster, and the school sang a group of four songs: "Old Folks at Home", "Nellie Bly", "Old Dog Tray", and "Old Uncle Ned."

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of two three-part songs "Massa's in de Cold, Cold, Ground" and "Old Black Joe," Billy Brown telling the circumstances which occasioned the writing of the latter. Another group of three songs, "Nellie was a Lady", with Bob Welsh telling the story, "Ring, Ring, the Banjo" and "Glendy Burk", with John Frise telling the stories were presented.

The pupils also put on an exhibition of acrobatic stunts, tumbling rolling, and pyramid building, under the direction of Ken Masters and Trevor Davies. The story of "Camp Town Races" was told by George Bedford, and "Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair" by Sheila Maciver. "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming" was also sung.

An account of the memorial house, dedicated to Stephen Foster, in Pittsburgh was told by Ken Masters. Two songs concluded the program, "Beautiful Dreamer," and "My Old Kentucky Home" in which the audience joined. The walls of the room were decorated with pictures painted by the pupils illustrating several of the songs sung during the evening. A portrait of Stephen Foster was also painted and on display.

Provincial Park Advantages Told To Women's Group

"If a project can return the money invested in it, and also return the money already spent, it should be seriously considered," said Mr. Fred Marshall, speaking of the proposed provincial park, to the regular meeting of the Local Council of Women. Mr. Marshall explained that the park he proposed, north and west of the Crown reserve, and a great deal larger in area, would make use of the highways already built, and would increase the tourist trade.

The speaker used a large map of Peterborough County to illustrate his points, and the Crown Game reserve, and the area he proposed, were filled in in different colors. "I have been advocating a provincial park since 1935," he said, but did not make much headway. However, with the great deal of controversy about whether a federal or provincial park should be set up has brought it to the fore. The results in both cases are similar, but the methods differ."

"To make an area into a national park and game reserve, it is necessary that the title to all land within the boundaries be turned over to the government, and that all timber leases be cancelled. In a provincial park this is not necessary. In the area which I propose for a park, there is very little timber suitable for market purposes, and the only people near the area are the settlers who live on the outskirts. The interior is undeveloped, and would require the building of roads. However this would benefit the settlers, since they could provide some of the labor needed on these roads, and for opening up the area. Also, the section is bounded by good highways, and it is only natural to take advantage of installations already built."

"The Crown reserve," the speaker went on, "has served a useful purpose, but it is not suitable for a park. There is a great deal of swamp land, few lakes, and it is not well bounded. In addition, it borders on another county, and wild life, if protected by law, would increase, and the surplus would spread into another county. The new site, on the other hand, is centrally situated, and the surplus of wild life which would occur would spread into other sections of the county, where people could hunt and trap."

Highways Linked

"As I have already stated," Mr. Marshall continued, "the highways bounding the proposed hite, although intended as through highways, could be linked by other roads leading into the park, and a reasonable amount of tourist trade, which normally goes through to Algonquin Park, would be attracted here. Peterborough is ideally suited for agriculture, manufacturing, and the tourist trade, although the latter has been sadly dwindling in the past few years, and will continue to do so if steps are not taken."

"I remember visiting Jack Miner's bird sanctuary," the speaker continued, "and thinking of the numbers of people it attracted every year. Algonquin Park is of a similar nature. The chance to see wild life, and to live and fish has an irresistible attraction to a great many people, and wouldn't it be better if the development could be easily reached from Peterborough?"

Mr. Marshall explained that the project would certainly benefit the settlers, since they would be able to take advantage of the surplus of game in adjoining sections; they would be able to work in that area; and could cater to the needs of the summer resorts and cottages which would invariably be built. "Think too," he said, "of the benefits to the city of Peterborough. Tourists like to get situated in a comfortable spot which is not too far from a good shopping district. Peterborough has an excellent shopping district, and would certainly look attractive to visitors. The people of Peterborough could easily take advantage of the park too, since a short drive would bring them within the reserve."

Appeals To Women

Mr. Marshall said that he knew the part women were playing in the world today, and that they would be interested in anything which would improve their city. "I couldn't think of a better group to judge the merits of this plan than the members of the Local Council of Women," he said, "and I know that you will support anything which you feel is in the best interests of the city of Peterborough, and of Peterborough County."

Mrs. W. H. Morton thanked Mr. Marshall for his timely address and told the ladies that, since the Local Council of Women was a neutral organization, speakers were always welcome to come and give their ideas and their plans.

Pass Resolutions

Mrs. Morton also presented an account of the two-day conference of the National Council of Women, held March 1 and 2 in Montreal. Several resolutions were passed, dealing with home nursing, immigration, employment of mothers of children under 16, old age pensions, and labelling of textiles to show the amount of shrinkage.

The employment of mothers of children under 16 was of particular note, Mrs. Morton explained, since the second day of the conference was devoted entirely to a highlight summary of a report of the sub-committee of the Advisory Committee on Reconstruction, studying the post-war problems of women. The resolution stated that "any woman seeking employment, who is a mother of a child under 16, must produce a written statement from an adult, signifying willingness to be responsible for the child, while the mother is at work."

The highlight summary dealt with four important classes and their post-war problems: the married women at home; including the problem of household workers; the single women earning their own living; married women working outside the home; and farm women. A summary of the principal recommendations was given at the conclusion of the report. The complete report was sent to the government, so that it might be studied along with the Marsh, Beveridge and James reports. Later, it will be printed in book form, and sold when completed.

Mrs. C. M. Scott presented Mrs. F. Merritt with a life membership pin and certificate in the Local Council. The announcement of the spring tea, to be held April 22, was made.

Plan To Ship Box To War Prisoner

The twenty ladies present at the regular meeting of the Fairview Women's Association held at the home of Mrs. Wilbert Rosborough, completed another quilt for the Red Cross during the afternoon. The roll call was answered by a donation for the soldiers boxes, and a large offering resulted. The first group, with Mrs. E. Coburn as convener, will be in charge of the packing and mailing of these boxes, and it was decided that the Association be responsible for the box, to be sent in August to Frank Paige, a prisoner of war in Germany.

Another item was the honour roll recently received from the government for the Church, and Mrs. W. Fowler was left in charge of filling in the names of servicemen, of suitably framing the scroll. The social committee served refreshments.

Sandy Johnson Weds Western Girl

A wedding of interest took place recently in the ballroom of the Harrison Casualty Retraining Centre, when Ruth Elizabeth Whitlam became the bride of Pte. Alexander Willis (Sandy) Johnson. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Whitlam, Harrison Hot Springs, B. C., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson of Peterborough. Lieut. Col. G. O. Fallis, protestant chaplain of the Pacific Coast Command performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white sheer, with lace inserts. Her veil hung from a Mary Queen of Scots halo, and she carried a colonial bouquet of cream roses. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Gwen Whitlam, of Vancouver, wearing a floor-length gown of winter mist blue sheer, a shoulder-length veil caught to her head with small pink roses and carrying a bouquet of pink carnations.

Cpl. C. Hare was best man and L./Cpl. Donald McLean was at the piano. A guard of honour was formed by members of the staff.

At the reception, held at the home of the bride's parents, the brides mother received, in a delph blue gown, matching accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations. The rooms were decorated in evergreens and tall pink tapers were set at tables. The bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, with Mrs. H. Whitlam sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Kasha aunt of the bride, pouring tea.

For a short motor trip, the bride chose a turquoise rabbit wool afternoon frock, a brown herringbone tweed coat, and brown accessories. On their return, the young couple will live in Harrison Hot Springs.

A highlight of the evening was the taking of a picture of the group by James Choate. Refreshments were served by the hostess, and the vote of thanks to her was extended by Mrs. W. King who invited as many as possible to be present at the next meeting, to be held at the home of Mrs. R. Harvey, 162 Dublin street, March 24.

Hostesses for the month were Mrs. D. Wyatt, Mrs. W. Reid, and Mrs. R. Northcott.

BAD WITH GOOD IN MARRIAGE
Couple Must Stick Through All Its Phases To Make Success of Life Together

Dear Miss Dix:— My husband and I have been married for 17 years and during that time we have been separated at least a dozen times. At first it was his fault, because of other women. But he would soon tire of them and come back to me. I didn't flirt then, but now the tables have turned and I am always with some other man, always thinking of some other man. He catches me—we separate — stay apart a while—go back together. What I want to know is this Do we really love each other? If we do, why do we both think we want someone else, only to discover we were wrong.

TRIFLERS

Homemaking Hearts Happiest

Answer: I should say that you have strong attraction for each other but that you are incapable of any real, lasting affection. You do not know what love means.

Furthermore, you do not seem to have any conception of any duties and responsibilites in life. You only seek sensations and thrills. That is why you are not only tire of each other, but of the other men and women who attract you for the moment and of whom you weary as soon as they have ceased to be novelties.

You will never find happiness in life that you are leading, because happiness only comes from right living and from doing one's duty. It is impossible for any marriage to be a perpetual picnic, or for husbands and wives to be in a state of continuous palpitation over the sound of each other's footsteps.

But just as you could not make a success of any business at which you only worked when you felt like it, or when it offered some particularly intriguing angle, so you can only make a success of marriage if you stick by it through all of its phases, its drugery, its disillusion, its stretches when it becomes merely an endurance test.

So my advice to you is to give up trifling and settle down to making the best of each other, instead of hunting up new lovers. Try to make something of your marriage and you will find far more contentment than you do in your philandering. Homekeeping hearts are happiest.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have an old fashioned book in my library which says that when a boy is falling in love he is usually very distant and often rude to the girl he loves, owing to the fact that he thinks that if she discovers his feeling toward her she will turn him down because she is so perfect and he is so unworthy.

Do you think the modern boy still acts that way? Or have boys changed in spite of the old saying that human nature is the same the world over and through all ages?

MARGO.

Answer: Human nature never was like that. In old-fashioned novels the hero and heroine always insulted each other on the first page and kissed and got married on the last page but that was before the day of realists and before novelists tried to depict life as it is.

Anyway, no boy nowadays would give that peculiar manifestation of the state of his affections. On the contrary, his first approach is to tell the girl what beautiful eyes she has and what an exquisite complexion, and how different from every other girl in the world, and how he has never felt that way about any girl before.

Nor does he think that the girl is perfect and he is unworthy. The inferiority complex is no characteristic of the boy of today. He considers himself a lady-killer and thinks any girl is darn lucky to have him notice her and take her out.

Don't put your faith in any old manual of courtship. It won't work nowadays.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been going with a man 7 years now and received a ring six months ago, but he never talks of marriage and I am getting sick and tired of it and I don't care when we get married now. Last summer I was crazy to get married, but he wasn't ready. I am 25 years old and it is time something happened one way or the other. What do you suppose is wrong? Belive me, I think this going together so long is all the bunk.

Answer: Right you are, Helen. Long engagements just sorter naturally wear themselves out and nearly always either one or the other, or both, of the high contracting parties, get tired of it and want to call it off.

When a man keeps putting off the wedding it is in the hope that the girl will take the hint and put it off forever. So if you are wise, you will call off this affair and find some chap who is a more peppy lover. At 25 you are young enough to do it, but if you drag along this moribund engagement seven more years you will be too old and too

SPRING GOES TO THE HEAD—Deep pink felt is cut into a head-hugging cloche which yet permits room for the chignon hairdo, and is trimmed with two brushes of aigrette-like glistening feathers. Spring is new today, and you couldn't do better than to cap your head with something suitable to the new mood and fare forth to meet it. It's not a facile phrase, a corny use of words, to say that a certain hat is "important." It means, if properly used, that a model is far-reaching in its effect on women's heads, and not just something to clap on. This cloche hat, a revival with a new twist from the last Armistice fashions, is important. Watch the cloche!—By Prunella Wood.

TRIG FOR TOWN—Women will be glad to know that despite restrictions they can still have some pleats in their skirts as is shown by this two-piece costume of New York design. The navy polka dotted crepe skirt with its cluster pleats is matched by a tailored gilet.—By Alice Alden.

JUST FOR WOMEN

By CONNIE NICHOLSON (Society Editor of The Examiner)

With spring just around the corner, skirts and jackets are becoming the vogue again. However, winter wear is hard on skirts, and they are likely to shine in spots, even though they do not really need to be cleaned. Here's the way to get rid of that annoying gleam, and economize on the cleaning bills too.

Brush the garment well first, and then sponge the shiny spots, on the right side, with a good cleaning fluid. If the shine is particularly tenacious, rub it gently with a cloth wrung out in warm, soapy water. Press the skirt on the wrong side, and it will look like new.

Often, the parts of a garment which receive the most wear lose their color as well as develop a shine. To restore the color, sponge the spot with a cloth dampened in water to which a few drops of ammonia or vinegar have been added. Materials, such as blue serge, which shines very easily, can be restored to their former appearance by rubbing gently with fine sandpaper.

Shine on coat collars is always hard to remove, but if the collar is rubbed with a cloth moistened with either vinegar or ammonia, it disappears. Lint is another problem to be met in taking care of clothes, and it is sometime difficult to remove with a clothes brush. If this is the case, try using a dry sponge instead of the brush, and it will disappear.

WAXING LINOLEUM

A great many housewives, who have difficulty in keeping the linoleum on their kitchen or bathroom floors clean, have never really considered waxing them. Kitchen floors especially, in this muddy spring weather, present a real problem. Yet, a good coat of wax, well polished, forms a protective coating which makes it easier to sweep dust and dirt off, thus making frequent washing unnecessary and saving the linoleum from wear.

The floor should first be washed, and let dry. Then, a coating of wax should be applied and polished. Care should be taken that the wax is completely dry before walking on it. If a wax applicator is used, most floors can be done in about ten minutes, and will last much longer before needing to be washed.

PRESERVE COLORS

Colored vegetables always look more appetizing if they have retained most of their original color even after they have been cooked. A little soda, added to the water in which green vegetables are being boiled, will preserve the fresh green color. Keeping the lid off, while the vegetables are cooking is also a good idea.

Vegetables which are going to be steamed can be treated in a somewhat similar way. Prepare and wash them and then, just before cooking, give them a final rinse in boiling water, to which a little soda has been added. To preserve the whiteness of cauliflower while cooking it, add a little lemon juice or vinegar to the water.

MOVING FURNITURE

With spring housecleaning again in sight, housewives are getting the urge to move furniture and rearrange most of the rooms in the house, and husbands are resigning themselves to their fate. However, a housewife can keep her hubby in better humor, and a little more co-operative, if she makes sure that the casters will stay in place, and not slip and fall out. A narrow strip of adhesive tape, wound around the stem of the caster until it fits the casing, will save the man of the house the extra trips usually needed to pick up casters which have fallen by the way, and will thus do a great deal to help preserve his even temper.

BLOUSES FOR SPRING

Blouses are blooming again this spring, and are loved for their usefulness as well as dainty appearance. A smart silk blouse looks equally well under a tailored or dressmaker suit and with separate skirt. Ruffles and long full sleeves are being featured. Color is again the keynote, and almost every shade can be seen in shop windows. Pastels are the most popular, with soft pinks and blues leading the line.

CLEAN KITCHEN DRAWERS

Nothing is more annoying to the tidy housewife than kitchen drawers which persist in looking dull and dirty looking, no matter how often they are scrubbed. A good plan to keep them clean and attractive is to paint the inside with a good, hard-drying enamel. A coat of flat white paint, but on before the enamel, gives body to the finish, and makes it last longer.

Bright squares of ever-useful oilcloth, tacked on the bottom of the drawer, give a cheery finish, and are easily washed and replaced.

CLEANING CARPETS

To clean a carpet that has been soiled with soot, black lead, or black shoe polish, dissolve a little "fuller's earth" in a mixture of equal parts of cold water and ammonia, and apply to the soiled spots with a pad made out of soft rags. Allow this to dry on the material, and they remove all particles with a fairly stiff brush.

When brushing a carpet, dip the broom in cold, salted water. This will not only keep down the dust, but will also freshen the carpet. It is wise to remember that rugs and carpets should always be swept the way of the nap, since to brush against it roughens the surface, and tends to force the dust into the carpet instead of out of it. Wet tea leaves, spread evenly over the rug, and swept up in the usual way, brighten the rug, and stir up very little dust.

For Saturday March 18.

ACCORDING TO the lunor transits there may be a normal degree of social domestic, cultural and emotional gratification on this day. It is advised that such functions and aspirations claim the greater attention. Business, contracts and alliances of every nature are subject to subterfuge, suspicion, graft, duplicity and fraud with many intrigues and entangling associations, reacting on the good credit, fair name, moral and spiritual integrity. Be careful and alert in these directions, control personal indulgences, extravagances and appetites and there may be happy personal relations.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a moderately happy and satisfactory year, with business, social, domestic, and artistic projects flourishing. However nearly all associations and activities may have an undercurrent of duplicity, fraud, confusion and intrigue, with subtle and sinister reactions on credit, reputation and mental and spiritual composure. Keep alert to all snares and misconstructions, refrain from excesses, extravagance and personal indulgences affecting the health.

A child born on this day may have talents, social graces and domestic attractions, but may have eccentricities and be easily duped and ensnared.

Of Interest to Women

FROM A DESIGNING COUPLE — The soft and heavy leather shoulder bag is styled after a Civil war carbine case. Drawstring front and an old Pennsylvania regiment insignia. Cowhide belt with Civil war buckle. The man and wife who made this ensemble of cowhide leather just waltzed off with a national fashion award. Using their talents and what material is at hand in wartime, this couple burst flaming like the Phoenix into publicity in a field sadly depleted by wartime . . . the department which is devoted to handbags. Theirs is the vogue for the over-shoulder handbag; theirs the chic of old American regimental, fire brigade, fraternal devices for bag and belt trims. In their nimble fingers rests a new American craftsmanship.

By The Canadian Press

OTTAWA, March 17 — (CP). — The March sun is getting stronger and where it pours in the kitchen window it feels warm and comfortable. But it is deceptive, because there are several months to go before the sun can take the place of cod and other fish liver oils for vitamin D, necessary to make full use of calcium to build strong teeth and bones.

Growing children especially need daily amounts of this vitamin. Dr. L. B. Pett of Nutrition Services, reminds mothers who have been giving the youngsters some form of vitamin D throughout the winter that the daily ration should continue until winter clothing is put away in moth balls. By starting the fish liver oil dose now, lively children can build up health for strenuous spring outdoor play, even though they have not been taking the "sunshine vitamin" all winter.

BUTTER RATION — Housewives have been busy reorganizing demands on the butter ration. Where to be liberal, where to be stingy is the problem to be decided, and here are some tips on the subject from the Agriculture Department Consumer Service:

SANDWICHES are pretty much of a mainstay in the lunch box, and they come in handy for quick meals, too. But the butter disappears. It needn't, for like many other foods butter can be stretched . . . .one of the most satisfactory stretchers is milk. Cream half a pound of butter until soft and fluffy, and gradually cream in half a cup of milk, beating until all the milk is absorbed and adding a dash of salt. This stretched butter is good for table use but should not be used for cooking.

Butter may also be creamed with salad dressing, chili sauce, prepared mustard, relish or horse radish for sandwich fillings. This will make the butter go farther and make the sandwiches more tasty.

CANUCKS EAT MORE—In spite of rationing and shortages, civilian consumption of the mainstay foods is at a higher level than in pre-war years, the Prices Board says. Per capita civilian consumption of meats in 1943 is estimated to have been 12 per cent higher than the average of 1935-39; beef 29 per cent higher; milk products, excluding butter, 16 per cent higher, and eggs 24 per cent higher. Butter consumption was slightly lower and sugar was down 20 per cent.

LEFTOVERS are one of the problems for every conscientious housewife, especially these days when waste is classed among the deadly sins. Mindful of the difficulties of making poultry leftovers attractive to both eye and palate, the Nutrition Bureau sugests these tips for using them up:

Besides being used in sandwiches, slices of turkey or chicken can be reheated in a tasty sauce or baked with a spoonful of dressing on each slice and basted with gravy while baking.

Remove the meat from the bones and make a salad with crisp lettuce, shredded cabbage, chopped apples or celery.

Scallop leftover pieces with corn, cooked noodles, macaroni, spaghetti or rice. Leftover chicken makes just as delicious chicken a la kings as does fresh fowl. Creamed leftover poultry can be used in individual pastry shells, or on fried Chinese noodles or hot biscuits.

ALL IN ONE

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Spring . . . . It is a metal coil, it is a season of the year, it is also something you have in your step, a bouncy quality like walking on, well, on springs. It rises, even this year, in spite of weariness and war, in spite of slivers of butter, Ration Book No. 4, thinner newspapers, and so on. It is unreasonable, ridiculous and wonderful. It can't be explained or denied. There it is springing eternal in the human breast. Call it hope or just call it spring.

Spring, to women, it once was quantities of new clothes. This spring it won't be quantities but one right hat, suit or coat. It may be a new beret or an old beret with a new veil. A new cutaway suit or the last year's one with a new shantung blouse. A bright box-jacket with a bright lining. It may be one of the new jersey tube-dresses, say, in grey, or any of the many new colors showing this spring.

For evenings, we can wear a black wool-and-rayon faille dress, with a blue taffeta top. If we want to go to an afternoon tea, wear the same dress, don a black jacket, a blue off the face hat, black gloves, blue bag, and the evening costume is transformed into the smartest of afternoon costumes.

There's a new bright accent on the coat-dress. All women love a coat-dress, it accomplishes such gracious things for matronly curves. The coat-dress for this spring is distinguished by many new touches—a crisp white muslin gilet, a gay new spurt of checks, swishy bows, precise little frills and prim new pipings. Checks hold a very important place in the spring picture. Nothing makes you look nattier or neater, nothing is more right for this spring. You'll long to get into checks the minute you see them. The all-checked theme carried out in boxy-jacket two-piecers, tailleur-types of soft dresses, the blithe accent in checked bows, bindings and gilets, all are the last word in the spring fashions.

A very smart coat-dress, made of grey rayon with pipings of petunia-pink. With this may be worn a black pill-box turban, worn well forward and with wing trimming of petunia-pink, black gloves, and shoes.

A pretty coat-dress in chocolate brown and white print. A yoke and collar of plain brown is flattering and ever so different. A suit in beige-gold, with matching buttons and a spicy gold-flecked scarlet scarf, black gloves and purse. With this is worn a forward turban in gold. Later in the year, this will be lovely with wood-green accessories or a high shade of blue.

A suit in grey flannel with white pin stripes, worn with red blouse, red bowler hat and red purse.

We will tell you more about the many smart spring styles next week.

HAS WIDE RANGE

Almost every form of literature is represented in the Bible.

SPRING SONG—If Spring whispers to you in the dulcet tones of a flower-trimmed hat, you'll find that many designers have turned their talents to especially charming flower-trimmed hats this season. This dainty feminized fedora is in natural straw and trimmed with a cluster of violets topped by a tiny flame-colored plume for additional color accent. The corsage of violets worn on the shoulder intensifies the Spring accent.—By Alice Alden.

Presentation Made to Kenneth Jakins

Some people have the wrong slant on Postum.

When they try it for the first time, they expect it to taste like coffee. Which it distinctly does not!

Postum tastes like Postum. It has a grand flavor that's all its own! A lusty, invigorating flavor that's a heart-warmer to everyone who tries it.

Millions of Postum drinkers enjoy it as one of the great mealtime drinks. The whole family enjoys it . . . because there's not a bit of harm in it. Nothing to keep you awake . . . nothing to harm nerves or digestion.

Postum comes in two forms—Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup by adding boiling water, or hot milk. And Postum Cereal Beverage, which you boil, percolate or drip.

Insurance Plans Would Cost $21.60 A Person

OTTAWA, March 17—(CP)—Operation of a Health Insurance plan in Canada would cost approximately $242,235,000 annually, J. T. Marshall, chief of the vital statistics branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said Thursday.

Speaking before the Commons Social Security Commission, Mr. Marshall said that the annual operational cost of the plan would be about $21.60 per capita.

Under the plan now being studied by the committee, every adult would pay $12.00 annually. Single persons with an income of more than $600 annually would pay an additional contribution of three per cent which would be collected as income tax. Married persons with an income of $1,200 or more would pay an additional contribution of five per cent which also would be collected as income tax.

The contributions and Dominion government grants would pay for operation of the plan.

Mr. Marshall presented to the committee a table showing the estimated annual cost operational per province, net yield from the $12 contributions per province and the amount per province which would be provided by the income tax contributions and Dominion government grants. The estimated cost per province and the yield from the $12 contribution per province were outlined as follows:

Province	Operational Cost	Contribution
P. E. I.	$ 2,021,000	$ 761,000
Nova Scotia	12,208,000	4,654,000
New Bruns.	9,725,000	3,558,000
Quebec	70,727,000	25,943,000
Ontario	79,752,000	32,663,000
Manitoba	15,183,000	6,055,000
Sask.	18,874,000	7,117,000
Alberta	16,740,000	6,444,000
Brit. Col.	16,753,000	7,187,000
Yukon	73,000	33,000
N.W. Ter.	179,000	65,000
Totals	$242,235,000	$94,480,000

The amount of contributions collected as income tax and the Dominion grants per province were listed as follows:

Province	Tax and Grants
Prince Edward Island	$ 1,260,000
Nova Scotia	7,554,000
New Brunswick	6,167,000
Quebec	44,784,000
Ontario	47,089,000
Manitoba	9,128,000
Saskatchewan	11,757,000
Alberta	10,296,000
British Columbia	9,566,000
Yukon	40,000
Northwest Territories	114,000
Total	$147,755,000

The income tax contributions and Dominion grants, totalling $147,755,000, plus the yield of $94,480,000 from the $12 contributions would cover the annual operational cost of $242,235,000.

Councillors Wrangle Over Sewage Disposal

LINDSAY, March 17 — (ENS) — Complaints from many citizens regarding drainage and sewage conditions led to a controversy among Lindsay councillors when Mayor Charles Lamb suggested that the council should use the services of a good roads committee. "There is always an argument as to where the sewer line is and if it is up to the corporation or the residence to pay for repairs to blocked pipes," the mayor explained.

Ald. L. T. Braunton, chairman of board of works, was granted a request for increase in wages of employees and town foreman.

Quads Are Born Three Die In Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES, March 17—(AP)—Quadruplets were born Thursday to a 38-year-old Argentine woman, but by night three of the babies had died, leaving a girl weighing slightly more than two pounds surviving.

The birth of the quads, two boys and two girls, to Senora Celio Giachino de Angiulli at a hospital in a suburb of Buenos Aires came while the public was discussing the authenticity of the previously reported Diligenti quintuplets.

Meanwhile, a search of vital statistics failed to show any registration of the birth of quintuplets here, although Argentine law makes parents responsible for registration of births within three days after the event. The five babies of Senora Franco Diligenti now are reported 8 months old.

Franco Diligenti, the father, exhibited a birth certificate today for one of the babies, but refused to allow reporters to examine it.

He also said the births had taken place at the home of the attending midwife, Mrs. Angelica Delfino.

He said Senora Diligenti and the babies remained in the Delfino home for five days. Then Mrs. Diligenti and three of the infants — Maria Fernanda, Maria Esther and Franco —returned to their own home, leaving Maria Cristina and Carlos, whose condition was delicate, in an incubator at the midwife's, who nursed them to normal health.

The Buenos Aires Herald, English-language daily, which first printed the story that the Diligenti babies were believed to be quintuplets, said editorially today that "it is entirely up to Senor Diligenti to dissipate all doubts about his five children being genuine quintuplets by explaining the blanks in the story he already has told."

Canadians Lucky With Prices Set

GORE'S LANDING, March 17 — (ENS)—Canadian citizens do not need to complain about rationing in this country when prices are compared with certain articles only obtained with difficulty in England.

A clipping of pictures with price tags included was received this week from Pte. Ed. Gilpin of the Ordnance Corps, at present in England. Pte. Gilpin is a brother of Roy Gilpin of this village and is well known here for his interest in athletics.

An English paper checked up on "Luxury snares" in the West End for rich pockets. First, asparagus was shown at two guineas a bunch, about the amount of the average food budget for a good sized family. Beside it, a pineapple, costing eight guineas, a bit less than six weeks' pay for a fighting soldier, or one week's lodging in an expensive hotel.

Out of Reach

For a final puff (cigarette) and swallow (drink of beer) to finish up a meal 14s 6d was the price. A smart leather bag with the price tag £21/8/-, half of the price goes to the government as purchase tax, still this travelling bag about equals in cost a utility dining room suite of table, six chairs and sideboard.

A bunch of luscious looking grapes brings 35s to 40s a pound—equal to the return fare from London to Manchester. Finally, even the flower shops are asking luxury prices. Tulips were bought for 4s but the week this check-up was made, they were selling for 2s 1d, so one mauve tulip costs about the same as a couple of middle-day meals at a British restaurant. "What price Victory."

Parry Sound Flier Wins Air Decoration

OTTAWA, March 17 — (CP) — The R.C.A.F. announced to-day the award of the George Medal to WO. W. K. McGrath of Bartonville, Ont., serving with the R.C.A.F. overseas.

Also announced were the award of the Distinguished Flying Cross to FO. W. A. Healey of Parry Sound, Ont., and the Distinguished Flying Medal to Flt. Sgt. A. W. Tinmouth, of Halifax.

McGrath, a navigator, received the George Medal for risking his life to rescue his pilot from the blazing wreckage of their aircraft.

Healey and Tinmouth, both bomber pilots, won their awards for gallantry during raids on Berlin.

Drive Returns $5,500

COBOURG, March 17 —(ENS).—Returns have come in fairly well in Cobourg but are slow in the rural sections in connection with the Red Cross drive. J. W. Maize, treasurer, reported Thursday that so far $5,500 has been turned in but the canvass is not complete. In Hamilton township, bad travelling conditions, aggravated by the recent sleet storm, have held things back. Objective is $10,000.

90 Players At Euchre

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 17 (ENS)—The euchre party sponsored by the Past Noble Grands of Loch Lomond Rebekah Lodge here on Wednesday evening attracted a crowd of nearly ninety players. The affair was held in the Lodge rooms of the Ferris Block and the prize winners were Mrs. R. Perry and Mr. Wilbert Dorrie for high score, while Mrs. Gerald Kellogg won the door prize. Mrs. A. E. Burgiss made the presentations. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

BID GAME YOURSELF

WHEN YOU know your side is strong enough to justify its being in a game contract, and also know what is a good declaration in which to place it, the surest move you can make is to bid the game. Even if you try forcing your partner, there is always the danger that an earlier bid by him may have been "shaded" and that he will pass promptly on his next turn even if you try to force him.

Can you blame South at Table 1 for doing no more bidding, after North went to 2-No Trumps? He had opened the bidding weakly and then had made a second bid of 1-No Trump. A partial was all he was gunning for, and he even felt a bit afraid of No Trump at the range of one, with only three trick-takers and a partner who had passed originally.

Or can you blame South at Table 2 for passing? The force in diamonds, after he had said 1-No Trump, made it seem as if North was interested in an 11-trick minor suit game. So South passed, as 11 tricks seemed far too many, even with his own four-card fit for North's suit, when he had no singleton or blank.

How much sounder North was at Table 3. When South showed probable stoppers in the other suits with 1-No Trump, he reckoned he could deliver six tricks in play, five in diamonds and one in clubs. So he bid the game. Everybody in the duplicate scored nine tricks at No Trumps or ten at diamonds.

Britain Feels Rumania Will Fight On

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 17—(CP-Cable)—Reports from abroad of peace moves by the Balkan nations to get out of the war before the Russian avalanche hits them are making the biggest diplomatic news in Britain but informed opinion here is not optimistic that there will be any immediate break away from Germany by Rumania and Bulgaria.

Peace feelers put out by itinerant politicians and diplomats in Ankara seem to have fizzled out and now the distinguished Prince Barbu Stirbey, long-time adviser and intimate friend of the late Queen Marie of Rumania, is in the Middle East with what appears to be Rumania's terms of surrender. But his chances of quick successes in this diplomatic mission appear remote.

While Russian and possibly Allied attacks probably will knock down the German Balkan bastion during the summer and autumn campaign, any break in the Balkan front at this particular juncture is not looked for.

London is generally inclined to view the many rumors from the Balkans about peace efforts with a jaundiced eye but the emergency of Stirbey, a man with more stature than any previous negotiators, gives the latest spate of peace reports more credence than usual.

The Daily Express, paying more attention to this latest Balkan development than any other paper here, said editorially: "We have seen Italy make the leap through the gates of peace—and get stuck half in and half out. Finland goes round and round in the swinging doors. So we shall not be in too much hurry to make room for Rumania."

Rumania has been more closely bound to Germany than any other Balkan state. She provides one-third of Germany's oil and much of her grain. Her soldiers fought on the Russian front and were in Stalingrad. But with disaster crowding on her from the eastern front, she is genuinely anxious to get out of the war.

Stirbey is the current hope for this step and it will have to be determined by Allied negotiators just whom he is representing. He might be acting for the government or for a strong opposition. Before the war he was the link between the royal family and the Liberal party, and a confidante, too, of the strong Peasan party.

Canadians And Nazis Share Well Water

HALIFAX, March 17 — (CP) — Canadian and Nazi troops shared the same water well in the hills of Italy for several days, Lieut. Reginald MacNeill, O'Leary, P.E.I., said in an interview released by army public relations here.

MacNeill added:

"It was just south of Orsogna. The lines between our main positions and those of the enemy were not very far apart. Good water was very scarce in this area—the best source being a well in no-man's-land between the two lines.

"Each day you would see our troops go out in the morning and fill their water containers without being fired upon. Then in the evening the Germans would go out to get their water, and, of course, would not be fired on."

MacNeill is back in Canada to attend a staff course at Kingston, Ont.

Father Albert Roger who, for the past three years, has organized a summer "Boys' Town" in the countryside near here.

Soldiers Groomed For War In Course At Debert Camp

By SYD THOMAS—Canadian Press Staff Writer

CAMP DEBERT, N.S., March 18—(CP). — On the rolling lands of this sprawling army camp near the eastern tip of storied Minas Basin, Canadian fighting men are being groomed for battle, fitted for the tough fighting that lies ahead by a gruelling course in the Dominion's only brigade battle training school.

Here on this one-time waste of marsh and forest that has seen the training of thousands of Dominion fighting men and the final polishing of a Canadian armored division, soldiers are given the final battle-testing before going overseas and into the real thing. The training is the same as was formerly given the troops after they reached Britain, and has been given before in Canada at only a few places, mainly on the west coast.

Top Officers.

Commanding the camp is a tall, colorful disciplinarian, Brig. W. G. Colquhoun of Hamilton, Ont., the first commanding officer of the famous Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry Regiment in this war. Towering well over six feet, the Brigadier keeps the camp on its fighting toes, drumming in the needed battle lessons of team-work, tenacity and forgetfulness of discomfort.

Brigade major and the man in charge of whipping a mixed collection of soldiers into a smooth-working, co-operating brigade unit is Maj. H. J. Purminger of Toronto, a former Toronto Scottish officer.

Other officers on the Brigade Administrative Staff include Capt. W. L. Hurley of Cornwall, Ont., the transport officer.

From all areas Canada men funnel into this camp from Basic and Advanced Training Centres where they learned the rudiments of soldiering. They come as individualists, well enough acquainted with their

He was referring to a comment by Premier Drew in the Ontario Legislature Wednesday on a published statement of the Canadian Temperance Federation charging Ontario had failed to co-operate with the Dominion on the beer rationing question. The Premier termed the charge without foundation and said Ontario would not be "dominated either by the beer interests or by intemperate advocates of any special cause."

Russia Receives Finland's Reply

HELSINKI, March 18 — (CP) — Finnish political quarters today still clung to the hope—admittedly faint—of rescuing the peace negotiations with Russia.

Recognizing that time is running out fast, these sources said Finland still wants to negotiate an armistice but at the same time felt she ought to have an opportunity to get a more precise idea of the terms before going to the Kremlin.

These quarters said it is quite likely that this is the essence of Finland's new reply to Moscow, which reportedly has now been delivered.

(A Stockholm Dispatch said Friday that the answer was delivered to the Russian legation in Stockholm. The Finnish parliament previously was reported without confirmation, to have rejected Russia's peace terms by a 160-40 vote on Wednesday.)

Canada Plans For Aviation After The War

Munitions Minister Enunciates Policy For Canada In The Air

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 18.—(CP).— A new double-barreled aviation policy for Canada in the air-minded world of the future was the chief topic of conversation on Parliament Hill today.

Reduced to its bare essentials the policy, enunciated yesterday by Munitions Minister Howe in the Commons, involved:

In the international sphere, Canadian support for the principle of "limited freedom of the air" with an international authority regulating air traffic on international routes, except those between two adjoining nations, and tied into a system of world security.

In the domestic sphere, maintenance of the government-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines' monopoly on international routes and main-line routes in Canada, separation of airway ownership and operation from railways; regulation of aviation by a separate board, and manufacture of transport aircraft "as an essential complement to Canada's post-war aviation plans."

Experience of Ten Years.

Mr. Howe, the United States-born engineer who was the chief architect of Trans-Canada Airlines, spoke from the experience of almost 10 years as the minister responsible for civil aviation.

The policy he enunciated was the result of more than a year of study by an inter-departmental committee of experts on aviation, transport generally and international affairs, headed by C. P. Edwards, Deputy Minister of Transport.

It puts Canada in a position of being the first nation publicly to propose a plan for control of world aviation.

Australia and New Zealand in a recent agreement on post-war aims stated the general principals to which they adhere, but Mr. Howe tabled in the house a draft convention providing for the creation of an "International Air Transport Authority."

After hearing Mr. Howe's statement the house approved Navy Minister Macdonald's estimates in the war Appropriation Bill and then discussed non-war estimates for the Department of Agriculture.

Outlined a year ago

A year ago when international aviation became a live topic Prime Minister MacKenzie King outlined Canada's policy in broad lines. Yesterday Mr. Howe filled in the details.

Mr. King said TCA would continue to be the government's instrument for international air operations and transcontinental lines.

Mr. Howe said this declaration had not brought privately-owned airlines into conformity with government policy, and the same kind of competition which once developed between railways was developing between railway-controlled air lines.

To meet that situation the United

Bitter Fighting Continues In Cassino Town

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK
Associated Press War Correspondent

NAPLES, March 18—(AP)—New Zealand and Indian troops are driving the Germans from one strong point after another in the southwest corner of devastated Cassino and the rugged hills extending from the town to the monastery above it, headquarters announced today.

The Germans continued to hold out in the corner of the town against a closely co-ordinated Allied infantry, tank and air attack. Fluid fighting raged around the peaks and ridges in the hills west of the town, with the Allies losing one height to a German counter-attack. Indian troops, however, firmly held two others which they had captured.

New Zealanders and Indians were reducing one by one the German positions in Cassino's rubble and the caves in the hillsides. Allied tanks moved into Cassino Thursday night after having been held up by huge craters from Wednesday's tremendous air bombardment.

The Germans driven into the southwest corner of Cassino were protected by supporting fire from Nazi positions on high ground to the west and southwest of the town. Allied infantry went through a hurricane of mortar fire to engage the Germans in hand-to-hand struggles.

New Zealand troops started an attack toward the railroad station at the southern edge of Cassino shortly before noon yesterday and by 2 p.m. one or two tanks with some infantry were reported in the station.

Bridge Rapido

Allied artillery engaged eight German tanks and anti-tank artillery nearby. As the New Zealand infantry went forward 18 Focke-Wolfs appeared suddenly and dive-bombed them, but failed to break the attack.

While the whole area trembled under gunfire and bombings from both sides, American engineers threw a bridge over the Rapido river to speed the flow of infantry and tanks. The Germans threw 18 fighter-bombers against the bridge but failed to destroy it.

Prisoners said that when the air and artillery bombardment began last Wednesday the Germans in Cassino took refuge in deep shelters they had prepared extensively under the town. Casualties were severe, they said, but the survivors were able to present stern resistance to the Allied ground assault.

The communique also reported the previously-announced raid on Vienna

Russian Army 70 Miles From Lwow

Heavy Soviet Guns Shelling Huns Beyond Dniester Line

By EDDIE GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW March 18 — (AP) — The massed calvary, infantry and tanks of Marshal Ivan S. Konev, pouring deep into the deep valley of the Dniester across flooded streams and mud fields, were within sight of Bessarabia today.

The latest Soviet communique said the Red Army had smashed forward to within 11 miles of the Dniester (the pre-war boundary of Rumania) and the offensive was unchecked.

In one sector, Russian units captured Tomashpol and drove to within 12 miles of a good highway which extends northeastward from Mogilev Podolski, ancient border town and a highway centre on the network of roads running to Rumania and Czechoslovakia.

At the northern end of the Ukranian front Marshal Gregory Zhukov's new drive swept on from Dubno (in eastern Poland), threatening the large area east of the headwaters of the Bug river. His troops were less than 60 miles from the Curzon line and appeared to be spreading in several directions.

Bad weather prevailed between Dubno and the Bug and the great wheat fields were knee deep in mud.

The most significant feature of the capture of Dubno was the communications advantage gained by the Russians. A hard-surfaced highway runs northwest into Luck (Lutsk), 30 miles away, and another into Lwow, 85 miles to the southwest. The Russians already were within 70 miles of Lwow.

In the southern sector two Russian armies were making steady progress tward Nikolaev and Odessa, the two Black Sea ports. The former, a one-time Russian naval base, was virtually neutralized by Russian forces pressing in from three sides, and by Soviet artillery which commanded the roads leading into the town. The Russians said they had captured places 18 miles northeast of the city.

In the advance toward Rumania, Soviet spearheads ripped through tottering German defences southeast of Vinnitsa, the Soviet communique said, and captured the towns of Klembovka and Olshanka, both 11 miles from the Dniester, which borders Bessarabia.

Zhukov's drive threatened to neutralize the grim German defence at Tarnopol and Proskurov by outflanking the Nazi forces.

TORONTO, March 18 (CP) —Six-year-old Barbara McIntyre is in hospital today in critical condition with a fractured skull, caused, police believe, by being struck with a flatiron last night. The child, police believe, was awakened and struck by the flatiron as she passed the dining room.

Aerial Armadas Resume Heavy Raids

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 18—(AP).—Hundreds of R.A.F. and American planes were thrown against the Continent in an aerial offensive renewed with force today, and Berlin broadcasts said strong American bomber formations were roaring over southwestern Germany at noon.

The daylight forays followed night blows by Mosquitoes of the R.A.F. against unnamed targets in western Germany.

The Berlin broadcast said the American bombers were escorted by fighters and were engaged in violent battles by strong forces of the German air defence.

In far-flung blows yesterday Italy-based American heavy bombers loosed heavy explosives on Vienna, and Britain-based Allied planes resumed the attacks against communications in France and the Netherlands.

The German-controlled Vichy radio claimed 22 bombers and 12 fighters were lost in the Vienna attack, adding that "many planes were believed to have crashed in snowdrifts over the Alps." U.S. headquarters did not immediately specify the number of planes failing to return, but Allied headquarters at Naples said 11 planes were lost in all operations of the Mediterranean Air Force yesterday.

The Paris radio said 25 persons were killed and 30 wounded in a "British-American" attack yesterday on Oise. It referred apparently to the American Marauder blow against the railway centre of Creil, 30 miles north of Paris.

Last night's Mosquito forays were the 13th of the month for the speedy bombers, and they made the assaults without loss. In their steady series of operations during March they have hit Berlin twice, Hamburg, Duesseldorf and Frankfurt once and attacked a number of unspecified targets.

Britain-based medium-bombers smashed Friday at the rail centre of Creil, 30 miles north of Paris, serving both the German garrison in Paris and installations closer to the Atlantic wall. The blow was the ninth of the month against transportation points behind that section of the anti-invasion front. No bombers were lost, but two fighters did not return.

U.S. fighter-bombers attacked air fields in Northern France and Holland yesterday afternoon. Targets in Northern France also were hit by Mosquitoes.

Hack Airstrip Out Of Jungle In Heart Of Burma; Move Catches Japs Napping

Enemy Supply Lines Cut Far In Rear By Land-Air Operations First Time Allies Used Gliders In East

By FRANK L. MARTIN—Associated Press War Correspondent

ON THE INDIA-BURMA FRONTIER, March 18 — (AP). — British infantry and American engineers, landed by American gliders and transports, have carved out an air strip and land base behind Japanese lines in North Central Burma and placed a strong force squarely across supply lines linking the enemy's northern and southern armies.

Details of this daring assault were disclosed today, nearly two weeks after the operation established a strong Allied position more than 100 miles south of where Chinese and American regiments are driving southward to clear the way for a new supply line to China.

The green-clad British and Indian infantry forces were flown into the Burma jungle from India bases by a special air commando task force, first proposed at the Quebec Conference of Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt.

Commanded by Col. Philip G. Cochran, of Erie, Pa., the special air unit was whipped into shape by the United States Army Airforce as a solution to the problem of getting a strong ground force into the heart of Burma without struggling through the mountainous jungle.

The bold attack caught the Japanese completely by surprise. Allied forces established the air base and fanned out into a widening offensive [illegible] point southeast of [illegible] before the Japanese discovered that their supply lines between north and south Burma were in danger of being cut.

The first elements landed at night more than a week ago.

EAST OF THE IRRAWADDY, Burma, March 9 (Delayed)—(CP)—(Reuters)—This dispatch is being written 150 miles inside Burma and well over 100 miles behind Japanese lines, at the beginning of a new kind of warfare, long-term, combined land-air operations.

For several nights now, the moonlit Burmese sky has been filled with the throbbing of a great Anglo-American fleet of transport aircraft bringing in men, equipment, ammunition, mules, ponies and [illegible]

These planes landed on runways hastily prepared in clearings in the heart of Japanese-occupied territory by advance parties who made their hazardous landing by glider.

As an indication of how thinly Japanese troops are stretched out over this territory the Japanese did not discover our presence until several days after the first glider landed. Part of the force marched in, cutting through some of Burma's densest jungle which even the Japanese thought it impossible to penetrate.

This army consists largely of men from Great Britain. Though disruption of Japanese communications and rear installations is one of their objectives their action is also directly assisting American and Chinese troops to realize Lt.-Gen. Jos-

Omemee Flier Awarded D.F.C.

OTTAWA, March 18 — (CP). — Group Capt. Paul Y. Davoud, D.F.C., of Montreal and Kingston, veteran R.C.A.F. night fighter, now serving at a Group Headquarters overseas, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Order in recognition of his brilliant leadership at Intruder operations, the R.C.A.F. announced to-day.

The Air Force also announced the award of the Distinguished Flying Cross to six others including Flt. Lt. J. R. Owen of Windsor and Flt. Lt. J. R. F. Johnson of Omemee, Ont., whose wife is serving in the R.C.A.F. (W.D.) at the St. Thomas Technical Training School.

Davoud's squadron has more recently been engaged on Intruder work, attacking enemy airfields and dock installations.

His citation, praising his "forceful and courageous leadership," credits him with many attacks on targets in Holland, Belgium, France and Germany since he won his D.F.C. 14 months ago.

Johnson's citation said that as an observer he had completed a large number of sorties. He had displayed great skill and determination throughout and his example of keenness and devotion to duty has been most commendable.

Why Did Stalin Recognize Badoglio?

Action Would Indicate Russian Leader Opposing Communist Faction

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

It would be interesting to know what inspires the odd conclusion that Premier Joseph Stalin, in recognising the government under King Victor Emmanuel, has jettisoned the Italian communist party which demands the Monarch's abdication.

There's nothing to support any such notion, so far as I can see. Stalin merely has signified that he thinks the Badoglio government under the King is better left to act for the time being. The Soviet chief has in no way committed himself beyond the present emergency by recognition.

The Marshal did agree at the Moscow conference of the big four — Britain, the United States, Russia and China—that Fascism should be destroyed and that the Italian people should be allowed to choose their own democratic form of government. However, it seems absurd to believe he deviates so far from ordinary human nature that he wouldn't be happy to see a communist government in Italy ultimately—or in any other country, for that matter. He's not going to stifle his own followers and doctrines.

Uneasy Throne

So probably Victor Emmanuel finds his throne an uneasy seat, despite the working agreement with Britain and America, and outright resumption of diplomatic relations with Moscow. And he's not the only king with troubles, for the four kingdoms of the neighboring Balkan Peninsula—Greece, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Rumania—are shaking to their very foundations.

Take the case of King George of Greece, a refugee in Cairo. The political trend among his people now is to reject him once more and re-establish the republic. When they called him back in 1935 he had a chance to rebuild the glories of his throne, but he allowed the late General Metaxas to set up a dictatorship and take over the government.

Now, the Greeks throughout history have hated dictators, but they would have forgiven King George if he had disavowed the dictatorship when Metaxas died in 1941, and had taken over the active leadership of his people.

Well, the Greek political parties, including the Royalists, have asked King George not to return to Greece until after they have had a plebiscite to decide what government they want.

The plight of young King Peter of Yugoslavia is equally serious. Since the war he has encountered influences which have weakened his standing not only at home, but also abroad. As it is, the tendency in Yugoslavia is towards abolishment of the monarchy.

Different circumstances, but similar ideas are sweeping Bulgaria and Rumania. It is notable that all four countries were under dictatorial rule.

Doukhobor Group Ousted

Icy Streams Of Water Turned On House

NELSON, B.C., March 18 — (CP) — Sons of Freedom, members of a Fanatic Doukhobor Sect in this west Kootenay area, were driven from a large brick house at nearby Brilliant by some 40 "non-Doukhobors" who roared into the town on a fire engine from nearby Castlegar and turned icy streams of water from several hoses on the building, it was reported here today.

The incident climaxed a series of disturbances attributed to the Sons of Freedom, once Orthodox Doukhobors but subsequently ejected from the community by the more temperate element of the Russian Religious Sect.

One Castlegar resident was quoted last night as saying: —"We can't wait any longer for the government to take action. We want this business over with."

The ejection of the Sons of Freedom from the brilliant "Village" as the big Doukhobor community houses are known occurred Thursday night.

Yesterday another demonstration was held by the Sons of Freedom but there was no report of violence. About 80 of them marched the short distance from Thrums to Brilliant where they held a meeting in front of the home of John Verigin, spiritual leader of the Orthodox Doukhobors.

King Loses Coin Collection

Victor Won't Even Answer Attackers

NAPLES, March 18 — (AP). — While six political parties demand his abdication, King Victor Emmanuel mourns his lost coin collection.

For many years he collected coins as others accumulate postage stamps. He was probably the world's most exalted numismatist. When the fortunes of war ran against Italy he hid his collection in a villa in the north, but the Germans took over the villa and found it. It was a great blow to the king.

Italia Libera, an liberation weekly, reported that when the king reached Southern Italy after its liberation by the Allies an admiral asked him:

"What caused you the most suffering, Majesty, in leaving Rome?"

"Having to leave my collection of coins," the king replied without a moment's hesitation.

Yet the little old king is not insensitive to the clamor for his removal from the throne by those who accuse him of complicity with Fascism for more than 20 years. Not long ago he said to one of his court gentlemen something like this:

"For 40 years nobody attacked me. Now that they are doing so, it is not befitting me to answer them."

Judicial Board Checks Licenses

TORONTO, March 18.—Handling of liquor licenses and beverage authorities is removed from the Ontario Liquor Control Board in a bill introduced in the Legislature yesterday by Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell. Licenses will be handled by a judicial board to be set up.

Rights and obligations of licensees will be determined by the bill, the Minister said. The measure, with a complementary bill amending the Liquor Control Act, passed first reading.

The new board, which will supervise authorities, is to hold hearings throughout the Province in districts to be specified later. It will be able to summon witnesses under oath as in civil courts.

Five reasons for which licenses may be cancelled are listed as non-compliance with the Act, failure to carry out orders of the board or the Liquor Board or fire marshal, persistent failure to keep premises clean, non-compliance with a municipal by-law and for any offense involving "moral turpitude under provisions of the Criminal Code."

The board will pass on hotel authority transfers and there are strict regulations concerning minors. Violations of the Act will bring penalties of from $10 to $50 for first offense and imprisonment up to 30 days for subsequent offenses.

The bill also sets out regulations governing persons to whom beer or wine may not be served, hours of sale, requirements of employees and fees for issue and transfer of authorities.

FREDERICTON, March 18 — (CP).—G. W. Perry (PC—Carleton) advocated in the New Brunswick Legislature yesterday the union of the Maritime Provinces. "If we had union we would have a population of around 1,000,000 who could make a loud noise," he said.

Walter Winchell Under Fire

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP). Ordering an investigation of radio comment by Walter Winchell, the Dies Committee yesterday issued a subpoena on the Blue network to produce all scripts and recordings of the Winchell broadcasts for the two years.

Chairman Martin Dies (Dem.-Texas) of the committee set up by House of Representatives to investigate un-American activities currently is engaged in a controversy with Winchell over the latter's Sunday night broadcasts.

Dies recently charged in the House the newspaper columnist and commentator was engaged in a campaign to "smear" Congress, and cited the commentator's frequent references to Dies and other House members, notably Representatives Clare Hofman (Rep.-Mich.) and John Rankin (Dem.-Miss.).

At Miami Beach, Winchell demanded "Why don't they subpoena Winchell?" when he was informed of the committee's action.

"I have repeatedly asked to be called before the committee or any Congressional group, to tell them things I am not permitted to say on the radio or in the newspapers.

"They don't want me.

"The committee has had access to my radio scripts for two years. The subpoena doesn't mean anything."

own particular job, but lacking in the ability for teamwork.

When they leave Camp Debert after four weeks of the most intensive training they are parts of the brigade machine and know how to swing their weight as vital cogs in the fighting machine.

All Branches

Every man must not only know his own job inside out, but also know that of his comrade-in-arms, and what to expect when the chips are down.

Here comes the artillerymen—those to handle the 25-pounders, the light anti-aircraft guns and the anti-tank weapons—the infantrymen engineers army service corps, field ambulance, ordnance men and provost as well as all the others needed to keep an army going.

They do their own jobs, serve in their own ranks and get a taste of what the fighting will be like on the "battle inoculation" course where they crawl through barbed wire and obstacles with live ammunition spitting over their heads, land mines exploding about them and the roar of battle noises in their ears.

The training plan culminates in a three-day battle scheme when the battalions go out on manoeuvres, sleeping, living and "fighting" in the open for a 72-hour period.

Safely through that the troops then are assigned as reinforcements for various units overseas and are posted to transit camps to await the draft that will take them across into battle. Leaving here, they will need only the final polish of large-scale battle manoeuvres in Britain to ready them for the big attack when the Allies storm into Europe.

Defend Doctors In Debate On Health Plan

LONDON, March 18—(CP Cable) — Debate on the government's proposals to provide free medical service for all the population entered entered its second day Friday in the House of Commons with opposition from members fearing the government would get powers of compulsion over the medical profession and that the plan would mean the end of hospitals supported by voluntary contributions.

Although health minister Henry Willink assured the government has no intention of regimenting doctors by forcing them to serve in health centres that would be set up, Dr. W. S. R. Thomas, National-Liberal, suggested that since all physicians in the centres would be salaries state officials, medical freedom eventually would disappear.

Arthur Greenwood, Labor, said that doctors could not be regarded as the final factor in determining the future of the plan nor could the fate of voluntary hospitals.

Miss Florence Horsbrugh, parliamentary secretary to the health ministry, said the health plan might be regarded as an extension of the voluntary hospital principle and such hospitals would be more than reimbursed for losses from existing contributory schemes.

Dr. Edith Summerskill, Labor, generally approved the proposals and said that some of Britain's finest doctors were medical authors who worked on a salary basis. She said she thought the government's White Paper on the plan put the interests of the doctor before those of his patients and had been planned primarily to cure disease rather than to prevent it.

Sir Henry Morris-Jones, Liberal said the proposals represented the finest White Paper he had ever read. He though the plan should be confined to those requiring state service otherwise private medical practice would disappear.

Churches Ask

"In attributing the statement to me and in calling the attention of the Legislature to it in a special reference before the orders of the day on Wednesday the Premier has done me altogether too much honor.

"The action of Prime Minister King which imposed restrictions on liquor was the response to requests made by the churches of Canada, Protestant and Roman Catholic, appearing for the first time in united action, together with certain temperance groups. Their requests were based upon the conviction as to what national interest demanded under war conditions. These were subsequently strongly supported by action of the various church courts. The churches are deeply concerned over the liquor problem among our people. No apology for, or renunciation of their views is necessary."

Mr. Irwin's statement continued: "The executive of the Canadian Temperance Federation consists of 18 members. They represent mainly the Protestant churches and among them are several prominent church leaders. It was called in emergency session on Tuesday morning and 13 were present. The statement of which Premier Drew complains was the joint product of that body and was issued with their unanimous approval.

"Now that the entire responsibility for handling the matter rests with his government it is to be hoped that Mr. Drew will give due consideration to this body of public opinion which centres within the Christian church, and that he will surround this demoralizing and dangerous traffic with every possible restraint."

The plane in which I flew off from a forward air field in Assam, India. For several hours there had been intense activity on the air field. Every second transport planes were taking off or returning. It was the most impressive sight as, like an aerial tramway service, one after another the aircraft taxied along the lamp- studded, four-mile-long runway.

When we reached our destination the pilot switched on the headlights and it seemed impossible to believe that we were landing more than 10 miles inside Japanese lines.

The gliders and pilots were all American. The first glider was piloted by film star Flight Officer Jackie Coogan.

After dark more gliders came in with equipment and engineers.

The engineers started work at 9 p.m. and at 5 a.m. completed the runway.

It was the following night that the wave of troops to which I am attached flew in, but more were to come the night after that, so defences had to be put out. Three villagers found nearby, however, stated there had been no Japanese in this area since August last year.

A similar operation had been going on at another landing ground. Headquarters had been established some way from the runway clearing.

was reported from the Solomons.

The week-long Japanese drive aimed at the Allied airdromes on Empress Augusta Bay flickered out in fighting Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

The communique said the enemy's formations in the Bougainville fighting had been "dispersed and decimated," and "over 1,100 of his dead lie within our lines alone."

With Allied air and sea control over relief routes, the future appeared bleak for remaining Japanese troops believed concentrated in southern Bougainville.

It also was announced that heavy bombers flew 2,400 miles round-trip to stage a surprise night raid on Japanese installations at the one-time important Dutch naval base at Surabay Java, in the Netherlands East Indies. All planes returned safely.

Wewak, the Japanese New Guinea base, was raided Thursday for the sixth consecutive day, with 143 tons of bombs dropped.

Allied planes from Solomons airfields raided Rabaul, New Britain five times Wednesday, hitting airdromes, supply areas and barges in the harbour.

At Pearl Harbour Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the United States Pacific fleet, announced raids Wednesday by navy planes on Oroluk and Pingelap Islands in the Carolines and on three enemy Atolls in the eastern Marshalls. All the planes returned.

Court Judgment Affects All Communities

TORONTO, March 18.—(CP). — A judgment handed down in Osgoode Hall to-day by the Ontario Court of Appeals rules that the responsibility for the welfare of neglected children rests with the municipality in which the mother resides for a consecutve year following the birth or for a consecutive year during the five years preceding birth.

The appeal was made by the corporation of the city of Hamilton against a judgment by a juvenile court judge in which responsibility for the child's welfare was placed on Hamilton.

Chief Justice R. S. Robertson wrote the judgment, with Mr. Justice R. G. Fisher and Mr. Justice J. G Gillanders concurring.

It was argued that the mother had left Hamilton to live at Brantford a few months before the child was born and resided there for several months after the birth. The child was born Feb. 23 and the mother was arrested in September, and is now serving a two year reformatory term.

It was admitted the mother resided at Hamilton before the child was born and until the time she moved to Brantford.

Haley Freed On Murder Count

KINGSTON, March 18 — Walter Haley, 22, Wagarville farm-hand, was acquitted on a charge of murder by a Supreme Court jury late yesterday afternoon, after the jury had considered the case for only 25 minutes.

Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier told the accused, after the verdict had been given, that it should be a warning to him. The trial judge further stated that he could not accept the evidence of Mrs. Annie Mae McCumber, who was also charged with murder and was acquitted one week ago, and also the evidence of Mrs. Rita Wagar, daughter of Mrs. McCumber, the mother of the child which was supposed to have been murdered.

The judge, in charging the jury, said there was no case against the accused, as he could not accept the evidence of these two women who were Crown witnesses.

Haley, following his discharge, was returned to the county jail where he will remain for two more days to complete a nine-month sentence which was imposed by Magistrate James Garvin when he pleaded guilty to a charge of concealing the birth of the baby.

Haley was charged with murdering an infant whose body was found in a groundhog hole about a half mile from the home of Mrs. Wagar, the mother of the infant. Haley admittedly was the father of the child.

Auxiliary Enjoys Amateur Show

CAMPBELLFORD, March 18. — (ENS).— The amateur show sponsored by St. John's Evening Auxiliary showed much originality and provided two hours of delightful entertainment to a large gathering here Thursday evening. A program of fourteen numbers, each of whom had been arranged by one of the church groups, was given an enthusiastic reception that bespoke the success of the entire affair.

The opening number was an attractive song dance by boys and girls of the Mission Band followed by an Irish solo by Mrs. A. G. Watson. The girls of the C.G.I.T. contributed an amusing motion song and Misses Patricia and Dianne Ironside offered a piano duet, "Invitation to the Waltz" as representatives of the Sunday school department. Ten ladies took part in a spelling match conducted by E. G. Greig and following this a male quartette, comprising H. M. Donald, H. Pierce, H. Twigg and G. W. Lucy, who were costumed as crows, sang "Three Crows." Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Bates played a piano duet that was warmly applauded.

Maxwell introduced each of the models, explaining the advantages and fine points. The models were Mrs. A. G. Watson, Mrs. H. Free, Mrs. L B Glover, Mrs W. A. Kingston, Mrs. W. F. Scott, Mrs. H. Donald, M. Sayers, H. Pierce, C. W. Palliser! More Irish music was given by an instrumental trio comprising Edward Bates, Mrs. Roy Young and Miss Helen Young.

Mrs. George Nicholls played the wedding music and others taking part in this number arranged by the Evening Auxiliary were Mrs. V. Cochrane and Mrs. Little as bridesmaids; Mrs. H. Pierce as best man; Miss N. Hoover, matron of honor; Mrs. Gunter, the bride's father; page, Murray Sayers; ushers, Mrs. M. Labrash, Mrs. C. Stephens.

Brutal Actions of Mob Told In Mark's Crucifixion Story

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 19 is Mark 15:21-47, the Golden Text being Isaiah 53:5, "He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed.")

IN HIS description of the crucifixion of Jesus, Mark is brief, merely mentioning the dreadful act, but emphasizing the brutal actions of the mob and its scoffing of the suffering Lord.

Jesus was required to carry His own cross out of the city of Jerusalem, but evidently faltered, and a centurion summoned a man who happened to be passing at the moment, one Simon, a Cyrenian, who had just come from the country. He carried the cross the remainder of the way. It is the only mention of this Simon, but because he was at the spot at the time he won lasting fame.

Arrived at Golgotha, which is interpreted as the "place of the skull," they gave Jesus a drink of wine mixed with Myrrh—a precious commodity of trade and one of the gifts brought by the magi to Jesus at His birth. It was used, mixed with wine, to numb the pain of criminals about to be crucified, and so was offered to Jesus, but He refused it.

Cast Lots for Garments

"And when they had crucified Him," Mark writes, "they parted His garments, casting lots upon them, what every man should take."

The soldiers were as callous as could be, you see. There was no question but that anything Jesus had worn belonged to them. They were not offered to relatives and friends who would treasure them for the memories they brought of their loved one.

Over Jesus' head they placed a superscription, "The King of the Jews." Two thieves were crucified with Him, one on each side. Other gospels tell us one of the thieves was converted.

"And they that passed that way railed upon Him, wagging their heads and saying, Ah, thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days, save Thyself, and come down from the cross."

The chief priests and scribes forgot their dignity and were also present at the crucifixion, but they didn't mingle with the common mob, but talked among themselves, saying, "He saved others; Himself He cannot save."

When the sixth hour had come, three hours after Jesus was nailed to the cross, "There was darkness over the whole land until the ninth hour." At this ninth hour Mark records Jesus' fourth cry from the cross, "My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?" One ran to Him, offering a drink of sour wine on a sponge. This wine, or vinegar, was usually drunk by laborers in the fields. Some of those standing by said He called on Elijah, the prophet. Again Jesus cried and then died. At that moment, while the darkness still veiled the earth, the veil of the temple in Jerusalem which separated the Holy Place from the Most Holy was rent in twain from top to bottom.

Truly the Son of God

As He died, the Roman soldier standing at the foot of the cross exclaimed, "Truly this man was the son of God."

"There were also women looking on afar off; among whom were Mary Magdalene and Mary, mother of James the less and of Joses and Salome." The disciples ran away, and, as far as we know, none were at the foot of the cross on which their Lord and friend died, but the women did not leave Him. Many others were there who came with Him unto Jerusalem, Mark tells us.

We now hear of another man who has never before been mentioned in the scriptures—Joseph of Arimathea, "an honorable counsellor, which also waited for the kingdom of God, came, and went in boldly unto Pilate, and craved the body of Jesus."

Pilate, Mark says, "marveled if He were already dead." He called the centurion, and when he knew that He was, he gave the body to Joseph. Joseph brought fine linen, and "they took Him down, and wrapped Him in the linen, and laid Him in a sepulchre which was hewn out of a rock, and rolled a stone unto the door of the sepulchre."

This is the simple story of the greatest crime in history.

New Coventry Cathedral

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

COVENTRY, March 16 — (CP). —Rt. Rev. Neville Gorton, Bishop of Coventry, has envisioned a new communal Christian centre of religion and learning to rise like a phoenix from the pinkish rubble of this blitzed city's old cathedral.

Two striking innovations have been planned for the new cathedral, designed by Sir Giles Gilbert Scott, a Roman Catholic.

There will be a central altar, instead of the conventional placing at the eastern end of the building, and an inter-denominational centre of service in full partnership with the Free Churches. A special chapel of unity, belonging to the Anglicans and Free Churches together, will connect the centre to the cathedral.

The edifice has been planned to run north and south, in the shape of a rectangle, and the bulk of the old cathedral whose scarred walls still stand will form a cloister joining the 15th century tower to the new cathedral.

"This is my conception," Bishop Gorton told visitors. "There"— and he pointed toward the tower—"lies the body of our Lord, and here"—he opened his arms wide to north and south in the line of the new building— "here are the outflung arms of Christ."

The idea of the central altar, he said, goes back to the earliest days of the Christian Church.

"The altar does not belong only to the clergy, it belongs also to the people. Therefore, set it in the middle of the church and gather round it."

The inter-denominational centre has been planned to help bring closer together the people of the various sects.

"Eighty per cent of Coventry are without membership of church or chapel," the Bishop said. "....We cannot tackle this 80 per cent in isolation."

Dr. Gorton does not contemplate any opposition from the people towards the plan to pool so much with the Free Churches. He told of one man who had worshipped in St. Michael's Chapel in the old cathedral for 30 years, and the Sunday after the blitz went into the uncleared rubble and read the service over to himself.

"Men with such an intense affection for the cathedral may tend to resent so close a union," he said. "But the scheme will go through."

God Reveals Himself To All Who Are Willing To See

REV. E. E. JAMES

Jesus Christ is the image of the invisible God. Col. 1; 15.

Are you shocked at this word "image". Perhaps you are thinking of the words you learnt as a child: "Thou shalt not make to thyself any graven image". Yet you meet your boy-hood friend's son and exclaim: "You are the very image of your father."

One day you met a girl. You fell in love with her. Why? She fulfilled your mental image of the girl you would marry. When you saw her your soul went out to her soul. You saw in human form the image in your mind. As you knew her better she revealed her character and your soul was knit to her soul. But remember she was changing all the time.

"In the beginning God created man in Hisown image; in the image of God created He him". In the mind of God there was the portrait of the Perfect Man. Thousands of years pass. "A thousand years in Thy sight are but as yesterday". Then in the fulness of time the Spirit of God breathed upon the Virgin Mary and the power of the Highest overshadowed her and that Holy Thing which was born of her is not only the Son of man but the Son of God.

At the beginning of the Master's ministry He went forth and called 12 men "that they might be with Him". Those who had eyes to see were attracted to Him. They saw in Him the beauty and holiness and the loveliness of God Himself. The beloved Disciple looking back upon that experience writes: "We beheld His glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth".

Why did the prophets of Israel hate idols? Primarily because the idol never changed. It is always the same. Multitudes today have a mental image of God carved into their minds by their parents or spiritual teachers. If you are in middle life are you still worshipping the God of your childhood—that graven image of your boyhood. It has never changed. Then you are an idolater.

Your boy goes to school to develop his mind. A really good teacher is proud to tell him: "I cannot teach you any more; go to a better". This is the secret of true development. The preacher, the modern prophet, through his spiritual development and study of the Scriptures must develop his mental image of God. He should not be worshipping his childhood God.

The Jewish prophets were stoned because they were endeavouring to teach their people a new revelation of the truth of God. Their hearers eyes were blind and their hearts sealed by the graven image of their childhood idea of God.

Modern scholarship has enabled the spiritual teacher to see and realize a more wonderful God than in his childhood. He knows more clearly that Jesus Christ is indeed "THE CATHOLIC MAN"; the universal Man Who makes an appeal to every man and will satisfy the most brilliant intellects. The modern prophet burns to reveal this new Image of God to his people. But his congregation is worshipping their childhood God and refuse to hearken. They stone him by cutting off his salary.

Let us not forget that modern science and historical research is God's gift to our generation. God is revealing Himself to those who can see and hear. He is a more wonderful God than our fathers ever thought of 50 years ago. God in Christ Jesus is making His appeal to this generation and wishes to fascinate our minds and imaginations by the glory of the ever living God as revealed to us in His Son Jesus Christ.

As you study and ponder upon those four portraits in the Gospels your inward eyes will see more and more clearly that Jesus Christ is indeed the image of the invisible God. As He himself with deep emotion says: "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father".

A restless, self willed boy of six was greatly influenced by a neighbour who came into help his mother. He enquired: "Mummy, is God like Mrs. Brown? I love her." This is the highest compliment a child can pay. Are you becoming like God through your vision of Jesus Christ? Are you fascinated with His radiant Goodness. This means that you are growing in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

Little children, keep yourselves from idols.

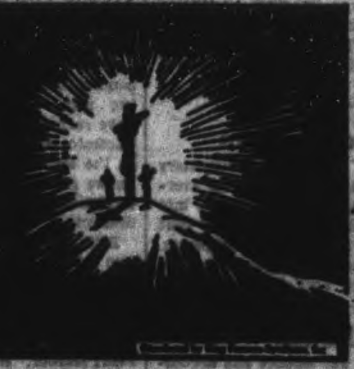
JESUS CRUCIFIED

Mark 15:21-47

By Alfred J. Buescher

They compelled one Simon, a Cyrenian, who passed by coming out of the country, the father of Alexander, and Rufus, to bear Jesus' cross.

They brought Jesus to Golgotha, and when they had crucified Him, they parted His garments, casting lots upon them, what every man should take.



With Him they crucified two thieves; one on His right hand, the other on His left, fulfilling the scripture, "He was numbered among the transgressors."

There were also women looking on afar off, among them Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of Joses. [illegible]

Why This Poor Record?

It would be interesting to know why the attendance record in the Peterborough schools is so unsatisfactory; it is among the worst in the Province. In exact figures, our Attendance Percentage is 91.3; that means that 16.5 days in the school year are lost by each pupil, which is a very great deal. To reduce the matter still further, the loss is 14.6 days for each pupil in the Separate Schools, and 17.2 days for each pupil in the Public Schools. This is a decidedly bad record.

There are several legitimate reasons why children should be out of school. They may be ill, or quarantined with brothers or sister who are ill; they may be out of town for one reason or another, or their parents may decide to keep them at home for a day or half a day for a number of sufficient reasons. But the average of this sort of absence is not likely to differ greatly from town to town; the parents of Peterborough do not keep their children at home more than the parents of St. Catharines, for instance, and in St. Catharines the children miss, on the average, 10.8 days in the school year. No, we think that the attendance record here is unsatisfactory because parental supervision is not strict enough. The school principals and the attendance officer do their part; the failure must be in the home.

Many parents are working now, and mothers are not giving the careful supervision to their children which the children need. The temptation to play hookey is strong, and the consequences of so doing are not severe enough to be a deterrent. As a result too many children help themselves to a holiday when they happen to feel like it. The managers of the movie houses in town are co-operative, and never admit children during school hours; this point must be stressed, for obviously the absent children are either skylarking about the streets of the town, or they are enjoying themselves at home, where there is no one to pack them off to school.

We think that it would be a good idea if parents who have any doubt about the regularity of their children's school attendance would make enquiries, to see what is going on. The record as it stands tells its own story.

Outbreak Of Polygamy

During the past month it has been necessary for the State authorities of Utah to take action against people within its territory who practise polygamy on religious convictions. These people, it must be emphasized, are not Mormons, or if they call themselves by that name they are not accepted by the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-Day Saints. But Mormonism, in its early days, was only one of a number of sects holding curious Old Testament doctrines; Mormonism has prospered and the other sects have not, but they are not all dead yet, by any means. The polygamists who are now giving trouble in Utah may be the remaining adherents of an almost extinct cult.

The polygamy of the Mormons was perplexing to the more conventional inhabitants of the United States because it was not practised in a licentious manner. People who are convinced that monogamy is the only respectable form of marriage not unnaturally expect polygamists to be abandoned creatures, delighting in a life of sin. The Mormons, on the contrary, were abstemious, industrious, and highly respectable; the household of Brigham Young was conducted on the most decorous lines, and he watched over the behaviour of his many daughters as carefully as any monogamous Victorian papa. The spectacle of the Mormons practising polygamy and not going to the dogs because of it seems to have been harder to bear for some of their critics than the most lurid excesses of depravity. In any case, laws forcing monogamy upon them were passed in 1862, and although they were very loosely observed to begin with they became more and more powerful, and in 1890 the Mormon Church itself formally abandoned the tenet of polygamy which was revealed to Joseph Smith in 1843.

Who the modern polygamists are we do not know, but apparently they are not as respectable about it as the Mormons were, and doubtless they will soon be locked up, to repent their ways.

"If Smirking Wine Be Wanting..."

Everyone seems to have a different opinion about the recent transfer of beer control to the provinces. Except for Mr. Mackenzie King, we think that most people are disappointed by it. The advocates of total abstinence are disappointed because they think that more drink will be available in Canada; Premier Drew is disappointed because the porcupine which he concealed in Mr. King's bed has suddenly strayed back to his own mattress; beer drinkers are disappointed because it is clear that there will not be any more beer than there was before. They were dancing in the streets on Monday night, carolling

If smirking wine be wanting here
There's that which drowns all care, stout beer,

but by Tuesday morning they knew better.

Many attempts have been made to give a Machiavellian political turn to this transfer, but none of them have been convincing. To say that Mr. King hopes to gain favour for a forthcoming election by it is nonsense. There is still less hard liquor and wine than people want to buy, and the transfer has not created any more beer; drink is still in short supply, and we doubt if the people who want it badly and are aggrieved by the restrictions are going to make nice distinctions when they go to the polls. If Mr. King had transferred the control of all liquor to the provinces, and the provinces had immediately made large supplies available to buyers, Mr. King would have done himself great political harm. But it is not Mr. King's way to make gross political blunders.

What he has done, in effect, is to say to the provinces, and to Mr. Drew and Mr. Low in particular: "You are having a good deal of fun pretending that this liquor mess is all of my making. Very well, you may now deal with the beer problem. See what you can do with it". This move caught the provincial premiers amidships, and they have been forced to admit that there is not very much that they can do about it. For a long time to come there will be about as much beer as there has been in the past. No one has gained anything but Mr. King, who has shown that he does not intend to be an Aunt Sally for the provincial premiers.

Onions As Medicine

Not many of us nowadays use herbal cures for our illnesses, but our ancestors set great store by them. In the eighteenth century, and even later in remote districts, the local herbalist or wise woman would provide a cure for almost anything; some of the cures were worthless, save perhaps as aids to faith healing, but some of them were extremely good. Preparations of foxglove, for instance, were quite commonly given in cases of weak heart; it was not for many decades that medical science discovered that the herbalists were right, and began to administer the stimulant from foxglove themselves. Now two Soviet scientists, Dr. I. V. Toroptsev and Dr. A. G. Filatova, have investigated the peasant notion that onions, and particularly garlic, are good medicine for some ailments, and they have discovered that onion vapour is an excellent aid to the healing of wounds.

The Russian peasant has long used garlic as a preventive of typhus, and there was some reason to believe that it worked. Now the Soviet scientists have found that there is a powerful germicide in onions, which they do not fully understand, but which they have proved to exist. Perhaps we should investigate a few more old wives' tales; they may contain wisdom which we, in our pride of science, have forgotten.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We read of a bank teller who bet some of his bank's funds on a race and won. Which shows that the wages of sin is sometimes a pretty little profit.

An electrically-driven abrasive machine had to be used to remove lipstick from a stone wall at Niagara Falls. But for removing it from the face a wad of steel wool will do.

A writer remarks that there are few Americans who could fill President Roosevelt's shoes. And there is absolutely no one who could fill Mrs. Roosevelt's seven-league boots.

The Kitchener Record says that "It's getting so that a camera doesn't see anything but legs". Well, there are certain important matters which should not be skirted.

Diary Of A Likeable Old Duffer

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Because I had no definite job to do today I hoped for a few hours of delicious idleness, but instead I wandered about like a lost soul, trying to decide how best I might fritter away my time, and as a result sunset came and I had not idled at all; I have lost my grip on the art of loafing. However, it was a grand sunny day, and I went for a walk and enjoyed it very much.... This evening re-read Sigmund Freud's 23rd introductory lecture on psycho-analysis, and there found this interesting passage: "I know you have heard a great deal about the sense of inferiority which is said to distinguish the neurotic subject. It crops up especially in the pages of works that have literary pretensions. A writer who brings in the expression 'inferiority complex' thinks he has satisfied all the demands of psycho-analysis and raised his work on to a higher psychological plane. As a matter of fact the phrase 'inferiority complex' is hardly ever used in psycho-analysis. It does not refer to anything we regard as simple, let alone elementary." Freud was a great scientist and a magnificent thinker, but he was even more distinguished for his common sense; what a pity more psychologists do not possess that quality.

MONDAY: Today I learned how much income tax I still owe. As I do several jobs, and get a little money from all of them, my reckoning is apt to be complicated; people who write for a living never know for certain how much they will earn in a year. As G. B. Shaw has pointed out in England, that makes taxation very difficult for them, and tends to drive the poor wretches into other trades. I doubt very much, however, if the Department of Internal Revenue, or indeed any part of official Ottawa, would notice or feel any sense of loss if every writer in Canada stopped work at once and took to the woods. Officialdom has no time to read and, as it shows in its official statements, it cannot write.

TUESDAY: I see by the papers that a Toronto audience made a demonstration at the last performance of the Russian Ballet last Saturday; that is what I like to see; it is a good thing for Canadians to be stirred up and to show their emotions. Too many of us live in torpid, frozen-faced solemnity from one year to the next; we need emotional exercise, and we do not find it in our perpetual grumblings about the government, the weather and the taxes.... Had occasion this afternoon to interview a girl who wanted a job as a stenographer. She was just out of the egg; the girls who want jobs grow younger every day. This one should have been at home with her dolls.

WEDNESDAY: A charming letter today from G.Y. who recently accused me of being an English nonagenarian, seeking refuge in Canada. She still insists that I am 'European' in outlook and tastes because I do not admire strenuosity for its own sake. She also says that Russia will soon be the only country left where artists can work. Perhaps so; Russians respect artists, for they realize what art can do for a country. None of the English-speaking countries has yet grasped the fact that art is the only thing a country can export which really creates lasting goodwill. The high employment, efficiency and Chamber of Commerce life of Sparta has left us nothing but an adjective which we apply to disagreeable people; Athens, the home of artists and philosophers, still lives in our hearts. I shall be glad to hear from G.Y., who is obviously a person of sense, any time.... 'Spanish John' has written, calling me "a likeable old duffer," but upbraiding me for my animadversions on "swing"; he describes himself as "a young man of average culture," but he misspells 'prejudice' twice; who can Spanish John be? I once knew a fellow called Portuguese Joe, and he could not spell either.

THURSDAY: I was offered two opportunities to make after-dinner speeches next week, but I had previous engagements and refused them both; the appetite for oratory in this country is worse than the appetite for drink. Truly, 'where two or three are gathered together, one will be a chairman and one a speaker.'.... Helped some children build their blocks this evening, and built several temples for their delight; my taste inclines toward the Byzantine. Also built a passable reproduction of Stonehenge and then, to please the children, built a sidewalk leading up to its front door.

FRIDAY: In conversation today a lady asked me who the hangman was, so I called upon my store of legend, and informed her that he was named Arthur Ellis (a professional pseudonym), that he always wore morning dress when doing his work, that the scaffold he used had thirteen steps, and the rope thirteen knots, and that his clients were usually given a sedative before he met them. For anything I know to the contrary, these may all be howling lies, but they are what everybody believes about the hangman, and doubtless far more exciting than the truth. .... Read some government news hand-outs today; they were written in what I can only call gibberish. Soon there will be three separate tongues in this land—literary English, colloquial English and official English.

SATURDAY: The opera this afternoon was Verdi's "Falstaff," sung in English; it was wonderfully stimulating. Critics always hold that the Falstaff of The Merry Wives of Windsor is a poor creature compared to the Falstaff of Henry IV; certainly the Falstaff of the opera is a mere buffoon, but he is very good fun all the same. I was tickled to hear the ineffable Milton Cross say that Falstaff appeared in the last act "wearing antler's horns"; I wonder what kind of ferocious wild-fowl Mr. Cross imagines an 'antler' to be? Went to bed early to read Bemelmans' "Now I Lay Me Down To Sleep," the funniest book I have come across in months, full of agreeable irreverences.

Understand Freedom

The 2,465 inmates of the Eastern Penitentiary, Pennsylvania who, out of their earnings averaging 10 to 15 cents a day, have put $32,750 into bonds of the Fourth War Loan, give proof that good examples can come from unexpected places. But then, freedom, to them, must seem especially worth paying for.—New York Sun.

Still Useless

Can A Man Choose His Job?

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

"SOMEBODY should compute the man-hours lost by competing insurance salesmen," stated Dr. E. A. Forsey, research director of the Canadian Congress of Labor, addressing a C.C.F. group in Ottawa one night this week.

This is a most fascinating statement. And it gets better as it goes along. Mr. Forsey declared that under a C.C.F. government surplus insurance personnel would be retrained and placed in socially useful work.

And this from the "party of the people," the men who are going to free us from oppression and regulation!

We have always had a hunch that one of the fundamentals of freedom was a man's right to choose his own profession. But not so the C.C.F. They will place a man where he will do "socially useful work."

However quite apart from our disagreement with the basic idea of this proposition we wonder how the C.C.F. would carry it out.

Who is going to decide how many insurance salesmen are enough insurance salesmen? Who is going to decide which insurance salesmen are surplus insurance salesmen? Will it be done by the colour of their hair or the colour of their politics? If a salesman tries to sell a policy to the Comrade-in-Chief of the C.C.F. will he run the risk of losing not only his sale but his job? We confess there have been insurance salesmen in our office who have so annoyed us that we would gladly have ordered them to do "socially useful work" in the city dump. But that we or anyone else should have such power never seemed to us desirable, even in our most heated moments.

Then would they draw the line at insurance salesmen? Once they adopt this principle of ordering a man to do "socially useful work" won't they find one thing inevitably leading to another? We can see the Comrade-in-Chief dispensing with lawyers, violinists, architects, barbers, editors and preachers. And to him it will be immaterial whether John Jones would prefer to make a meagre living at painting pictures than a better living at manufacturing brass screws.

Truly, we think the best possible way to defeat the C.C.F. is to let it talk itself to death. A few more revelations from Messrs. Winch and Forsey and the country will surely see that the C.C.F. and Fascism are brothers under the skin.

Americans In London

(CHARLES V. MURPHY in FORTUNE)

THE British have turned over entire ports to the U.S. Navy. They have moved out of villages to provide billets for our troops. Even fields and hedges, lovingly tended for generations, have been opened to the mercies of our tank crews, who must have room for manoeuvres. "I'm beginning to understand what the American Indian went through," an Englishman recently commented.

The trains, movies, pubs, taxis, hotels—particularly in London—are filling with Americans. In the dining rooms of Claridge's and the Savoy, the shoulder insignia of American officers gleam as brightly as they do in Washington's Carlton—and Englishmen at times are quite as scarce. The British mourn their own disappearance with a popular song, the first line of which they parody: "An Englishman spoke in Berkeley Square...."

This raises a touchy point affecting the Anglo-American partnership—the amount of spending money in the richer partner's possession.

A British Tommy's base pay is roughly $16 a month, against an American private's $60 (counting overseas allowance). After the British Treasury has been satisfied, he is lucky to be able to treat himself and his friends to an occasional round of beer.

Similarly, the R.A.F. squadron leader draws about $175 a month against an American major's $400. He finds dinner for two at a good hotel an extremely stiff proposition, what with the dinner costing $5.50 and a bottle of dubious French wine $8. One can imagine the mischief the difference in pay makes, especially over girls.

A columnist in the London Daily Mail recently appealed to Americans to stop paying taxi drivers ten shillings for a two-shilling ride, barbers ten shillings for a two-shilling haircut, bartenders five shilling for a half-crown drink, and bootblacks a half crown for a sixpenny shoeshine. "You've made it hard for me to get a haircut, buddy," he wrote. "And the bartender serves you first."

EVERY hotel has its tales of young American airmen on leave who check in with £200 or £250 and blow it all in three more or less glorious nights. There are extenuating circumstances, of course. This hell raising is done by hard-working men, who by honored American practice have earned a blowoff. They arrive from lonely, uncomfortable billets. And they regard London as the Paris of World War II. The Londoner knows this and tries to put up with it, but he can't help wishing that Americans were less exuberant.

Britain is populated by millions of shopkeepers, taxi drivers, farmers and home guardsmen who are surprised and a little disillusioned that an American soldier should want to decorate himself with an "area" ribbon just for setting foot on British soil or for being in service before Pearl Harbor. Having just got around to awarding medals to their own veterans of the great desert campaign and the Battle of Britain, they can't help feeling let down to be told by a young American fighting man with a solid row of ribbons that he has yet to see the enemy or hear a shot fired in anger. A story now making the rounds in London concerns an American who went to see the British battle film Desert Victory. As he left the theatre he was seen to pin a campaign ribbon to his tunic.

Doubtless all this discussion of ribbons only proves that there is a British and also an American way of doing things. However, the fact remains that in the Englishman's eyes the ribbons our Army gives men for crossing the ocean represent "Hollywood values."

Cobb No Salesman

When Irvin Cobb was a callow youth, anxious to earn some money of his own, he fell victim to the blandishments of a life insurance manager who sought to enlist him as field canvasser. Armed with a rate book Cobb hied himself to the estate of a prosperous farmer in the vicinity of Paducah, hoping to get a fat application.

He found the farmer out in the field behind a plow, while the warm Kentucky sun beat down on the dusty furrows. Cobb stayed with the farmer all morning talking of this and that and the other thing but he could not not find words to broach the topic of life insurance. Come noontime the hospitable farmer invited Cobb to the house for dinner. A pleasant hour was spent and then they sallied forth again for the field.

Come supper time the farmer again invited Cobb to the family table, where all did full justice to the ample fare. After supper Cobb stood by the farmer while he milked the cows and followed him around as he did his evening chores. They returned to the kitchen and eventually the other members of the family went off to bed. The farmer took off his shoes and stockings and began to toast his bare feet on the hearth of the stove, a polite intimation that he was strongly disposed to hit the hay himself.

Still Cobb sat patiently. At last the farmer, stifling a yawn, said, "Anything particular you wanted to see me about, Irv?"

"Yes," answered Cobb quickly. "You don't want any life insurance do you?"

The farmer frankly disavowed any such desire and Cobb grabbed his hat and escaped. He escaped to a fascinating career of reporting and magazine writing, with a closing interlude on the silver screen, thoroughly convinced in his own mind that he did not have what it takes to make a life insurance man.—Fort William Times-Journal.

A Soldier's War

Nearly a century and a half ago, Napoleon is said to have declared that if he were given an army of British soldiers, commanded by French generals, he could conquer any country in the world. The unfolding events of this world war have not yet gone far in refuting the implied left-handed compliment to British generals. But they have splendidly vindicated Napoleon's tribute to British soldiers.—Sydney Post-Record.

A Bible Message

Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, saith your God....

The voice of him that crieth in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight in the desert a highway for our God. Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low: and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough places plain: and the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.

The voice said, Cry. And he said, What shall I cry? All flesh is grass, and all the goodliness thereof is as the flower of the field.... The grass withereth, the flower fadeth: but the word of our God shall stand for ever. (Isa. 40: 1, 3-6, 8.)

The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness; but is longsuffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance. But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night; in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up.

Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness, looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat?

Nevertheless we, according to his promise, look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness. (II Pet. 3: 9-13.)

Letters To The Editor

FAVOURS PROVINCIAL PARK

Sir,—I cannot refrain from making a few comments on the park proposal. Federal Park does not seem to be what we want. On the other hand, it seems hard to understand why anyone should oppose a Provincial Park if operated like Algonquin Park.

For a start, all game and fish are the common inheritance of the people of Ontario as a body. There are at the most only a few thousand people who do any real hunting in Ontario other than the shooting of pests as groundhogs, but the rest of us, numbering several million, really can lay claim to most of the game but prefer, if it is possible, to see a live deer at the side of the road than a dead one on the side of a car. Coming down to hard facts, a larger park will mean that in the future, we will see more live deer and also the hunters will find a much greater overflow to be taken each year. The tourist trade means a great deal to this district and there is no better way of increasing it than by increasing our park area.

There are several points which should be cleared up. First, the new section and the old one should form one continuous Provincial Park. Then, the Provincial Government must supply, at least, one live and fearless resident game warden and also rigidly supervise all lumbering. Reading the police court news last fall would impress anyone with the amount of poaching that goes on. Even the elk are not safe. This warden should be a man from some other district with no friends or relatives in or near the park, and one who cannot be bought or intimidated. Also, a road should be built along the north shore of Stoney Lake. The township surely collects taxes from these cottages, and if so should do this. With proper government support, the park will be a success.—Yours truly,

M. V. POWELL.

Art Group Told Beauties Of Vancouver Island

A description of a holiday spent on Vancouver Island during the summer of 1943 was given by Mrs. Derwent Kinton, at a meeting of the Women's Art Association Friday afternoon. Her subject was "Pictorial and Word Sketches of Vancouver Island."

Mr. and Mrs. Kinton, who live in Toronto, travelled a great deal before the war, but had given it up because of travel difficulties. However, when their son Clare asked them to go to Vancouver Island and spend a few of the summer months with his wife and son, they accepted. Mrs. Kinton explained that they had really missed their travels and were eager to explore new territory.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Kinton lived a few miles out of a little town called Ucluelet, and just before Mr. and Mrs. Derwent Kinton's departure, word had come that a place not very far from it had been shelled. "Anxious friends assured us that we would be running right into the war," she said, "but actually, it was one place where one could almost forget that war existed."

"Our idea of Vancouver Island had been somewhat vague," the speaker continued. "However, we discovered that it was almost three hundred miles long, and that although there was some farming, I should judge that almost four-fifths of the land was covered with forest, especially along the west coast. We were three miles from the nearest settlement, and for six weeks were practically isolated, with no telephone, radio, or newspaper within reach."

Good Subject

"On the trip from Vancouver to Nanaimo we crossed the island, and then stayed at night at Port Alberni. The port had a fascinating little harbor, and I want to go back some day and paint it. We took a little old-fashioned steamer, where all the baggage was piled on the top deck, to get to Ucluelet, and went through a canal. The scenery reminded me of Norway and the Norwegian fiord. When we landed, we had a trip through the forest before arriving at "Fletcher's Place," where my son and his wife and child were living."

"The trip through the forest was certainly a surprise to us. On either side, huge trees seemed to stretch up to the sky, with never a break. The underbrush was surprisingly thick and impenetrable. Indeed, I had not known that such jungle-like growth existed in Canada. The immensity of this forest was difficult to picture on paper, and I learned to appreciate Emily Carr's British Columbia canvasses. At first I thought her colors a little harsh, but now I know that she chose them to express the primitive and primeval aspects of the land."

Mr. Kinton told of an old Indian trail which had been shown to them. She said that it was difficult travelling, but that after a mile of crawling over huge logs, immense roots, climbing under logs, and jumping from hummock to hummock in marshy spots, they came out on a tiny beach, with cliffs hemming it in on either side. Huge golden eagles nested there, and often flew quite close to the visitors.

"The roar of the breakers was deafening," she went on, "and the favorite sport of the other members of the family was going along the beach, picking up shells and the glass floats, which floated on the Japan current right from Japan itself."

"These floats," she explained, "were used by the Japanese fishermen to float their fish nets. The Japanese fishermen who fished from the British Columbia coast, and the white fishermen, generally used wooden ones." Mrs. Kinton had the smallest of the floats with her. It was a round, hollow, glass ball, which had probably broken away from some fisherman's net as he hauled it into his boat. She explained that the floats varied in size, and some of them were two feet in diameter.

Stick to One Thought

"In painting the ocean," Mrs. Kinton continued, "one must decide what he wants, and then stick to that idea. If this is not done, too many aspects will be crowded into one picture, and will nullify themselves." She had several paintings done while on this holiday, and displayed them and explained where they were done. She also brought with her a paper mosaic, which took her almost three weeks to complete. The scene depicted was a lighthouse, and was made by pasting small bits of colored paper over a gray ground.

Mrs. J. E. R. Munro, president, thanked Mrs. Kinton. She made the announcement of the annual meeting of the Association, to be held April 21. She also announced the Army Auxiliary Tea, being held March 16 in the Y.W.C.A., and the exhibition of work of the Men's Art Club, being shown at Richard Hall Limited. Exhibition of Mrs. Munro's paintings will be held April 13 and 14 in the recreation room of the Y.W.C.A.

In introducing Mrs. Kinton, Mrs. Munro mentioned her two previous visits to Peterborough; the first in 1937, shortly a trip to Edinburgh; and the second in 1939, when she told about a trip to Iceland.

ALL THE Extra VITAMINS AND MINERALS . . . SHE NEEDS

Authorities say the difference between husky children and those who are poor eaters, underweight, and nervous is often simply a matter of proper nourishment, especially an adequate supply of vitamins and minerals.

But don't worry about vitamins and minerals! Children who eat 3 average-good meals including fruit juice, and drink 2 glasses of Ovaltine each day, are getting all the extra vitamins and minerals they need.

In addition to its well-balanced food values, Ovaltine adds significant amounts of Vitamins A, B, and D and the minerals Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron. So, if your child is not developing normally, remember this rule:

3 good meals plus 2 glasses of Ovaltine every day.

Irish Comedy of Errors Given By St. Peter's C.Y.O.

The Collegiate Auditorium was filled to capacity Friday evening for the presentation by the Catholic Youth Organization of St. Peter's Cathedral, of the comedy, "Laughing Irish Eyes." A great many people were turned away, making a repeat performance necessary, and further announcements will be made soon.

"Laughing Irish Eyes" was the story of Mrs. Oberon, played by Mrs. Robert Baldwin, a widow and a social climber, who had, some years before, made her husband change his name from O'Brien to Oberon. In the first act, Mrs. Oberon found that her maid, Annie, played by Miss Agnes Barret, had a sick mother, who needed immediate help, and that Danny, her chauffeur, played by Mr. Ferd. Wolff, had suddenly acquired another and better position. However, in the best interests of their mistress, the two had kindly arranged to have their places filled.

Mrs. Shannon, played very well by Miss Eleanor Collins, was the housekeeper, who stayed, because, although Mrs. Oberon was quick and short-tempered, "there's something about her I like, and I can't just put me finger on it." Maggie Shannon later discovered that it was because Mrs. Oberon was Irish that she unconsciously liked her.

Mrs. Oberon had two children, a daughter, Marguerite, played by Miss Lucy Marracco, and a son, Myro, played by Mr. Fabian Galvin. Marguerite was secretly in love with Harry Ryan, a somewhat shiftless individual, played by Michael Anglesey. Mrs. Oberon, although she did not know about the affair, knew that Marguerite had been seeing Harry, and had forbidden her to see him again. Myro was a budding composer, much to his mother's disgust, since she wanted him to adopt a steadier occupation, and was in the throes of a new operetta when the action in the play began.

Family Mix-up

Mrs. Shannon was greatly surprised when the new maid appeared, and she discovered that it was her own daughter, Molly, played by Miss Anne Schiarizza, whom she thought was still in the city taking singing lessons. She was further amazed, when the new chauffeur turned out to be Tom McFadden, Molly's fiancee, played by William Gannon. Molly wouldn't explain how she and Tom got the jobs, but she did explain that Molly and Danny were going to be married, and that Danny really had a better job.

An amusing scene occurred when Molly talked Mrs. Oberon into hiring her, and when Tom finally got the position as chauffeur. Maggie Shannon was aghast when she heard her daughter talking a blue streak to Mrs. Oberon, and, at the conclusion of the scene, said, "you didn't just kiss the blarney stone, you bit a hole in it." Maggie of course, didn't want Mrs. Oberon to know that Molly was her daughter, so Molly changed her name to St. Clare.

Another highlight of the play was the scene where Myro, the son, was in the throes of fitting suitable lyrics to a new melody, inspired as he said, by Molly's laughing eyes. He made the song the central theme of his new operetta, but when Dolores Dawn a young singing star, finally persuaded her manager to produce the operetta, she demanded that a new song be put in the place of the feature. Myro didn't wont to change the song, since he thought it would be a hit.

Miss Dawn, therefore, became so ill, as she said, that she could not appear in the operetta. However, Myro's operetta is heard after all, because Molly agreed to sing the leading role. This scene is complicated, however, by the mysterious disappearance of Marguerite's jewels, and a $100 bill given to her for her birthday. Mrs. Oberon also had her troubles, since she had received blackmail notes, threatening to publish the fact that her real name was O'Brien, unless she paid a sum of money. She immediately accused the servants, and Marguerite backed her, forgetting that she had told Harry that her real name was O'Brien.

Trailing Thieves

Tom saved the day in that scene, when he produced a detective's badge, explaining that he and Molly had been on the train of a gang of young blackmailers, working for a tabloid called "Topical Topics," which specialized in printing little known facts about prominent families. Harry was finally found out, and taken cheerfully off to stand trial.

Maggie Shannon was surprised when she learned that her daughter and her young man were "disinfectives," and was proud when Molly became a success in Myro's operetta. When she returned to gather up her things, Mrs. Oberon and Marguerite apologized for their behavior, and Mrs. Oberon explained that she had been bitter against music because she had once had a bright future as a singing star but, when she contracted a throat infection, an incompetent doctor had operated and ruined her vocal chords. The play ended happily, with Molly and Tom going off together. Myro had the success he wanted, and his mother felt relieved that she had told about her hatred for music, and could enjoy his success. Marguerite, reconciled to the fact that she had lost Harry, finally realized that he was no good, and that she was much better off.

The play was directed by Father Malane and George Lynch. The technical and advisory staff consisted George Lynch, Ferd. Wolff, Jack Ferren, Jack Condon, Miss Adeline Marracco, Miss Bernadette Lynch and Miss Lucy Campanaro. Specialties during the acts were presented by a group of singers: Mrs. J. L. Henry, Miss Phyllis Cowie, Miss Pauline O'Donnell, Miss P. Baker, Miss Anne Schiarizza, Miss F. Murray, Robert Baldwin, G. Dryan, H. Coulson and A. F. Seidel.

Miss Pauline O'Donnell sang a soprano solo, and Ted Collis sang a baritone solo. The orchestra was: Miss Doris Strickland at the piano, Miss Catherine Corkery and A. F. Seidel, violins, and Mr. John Sheehan, cello.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

As the ration has been lifted from meat, and we are to have no more meatless Tuesdays, I am going to give you some meat recipes that will help you serve the same kinds of meat, yet be dressed up as it were, so they will not appear the same to the family.

Beef Pot Pie

A good dinner which combines the needed variety of foods in one dish is a beef pot pie. Two pounds round steak. Cut the meat in inch pieces, season with salt and pepper and roll in flour. Put the bone in cold water and heat slowly. When boiling put in the meat, already browned, in the frying pan. Add one or two small onions, sliced and fried with the meat. If liked, a stalk of celery or ½ cup of strained tomato gives a nice flavor. Simmer one hour, then add a medium sized carrot and turnip, cleaned and cut in one inch squares; cook two hours or until the meat is tender. A half hour before serving put in six sliced potatoes. Skim any fat off top and 10 minutes before dinner time put in the dumplings and cook without removing the cover.

The dumplings: 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 level teaspoons baking powder, sifted together and mixed into a soft dough with one cup of milk. Drop from the tip of a spoon in with the meat and vegetables; cover closely for 10 minutes. Place on a hot platter and serve at once.

Beefsteak Smothered in Onions

Cut six onions very fine, put them in a saucepan with 2 cups hot water, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon salt and pepper and a little flour. Let stew until onions are quite soft. Have the steak broiled; put it in the saucepan with the onions; let simmer 5 or 10 minutes and serve very hot.

Roast Spare Ribs

Choose a long piece of spare rib. Wipe carefully, sprinkle with a little salt and pepper. Place a small piece of spare rib on the bottom of the baking pan, form a roll around, using the large piece of spare rib. Fill the cavity in the centre with dressing. Bake in rather hot oven for about 1½ hours.

A good way to serve any left overs from a roast of beef is

Shepherd's Pie

Two cups chopped roast beef, gravy, 2 cups of mashed potatoes, seasoning.

Combine ingredients except potatoes. Place in a buttered baking dish and cover with mashed potatoes. Brush with beaten egg. Bake until the potatoes are slightly browned.

Meat Pie

Arrange diced cooked meat and vegetables in a baking dish, cover with gravy and season. Cover with a biscuit dough, cut hole in centre to allow steam to escape. Cook 15 minutes in a hot oven, then reduce the heat to moderate and cook 30 minutes longer.

Chicken Patties

Take 1 pint of cream, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 pint of cooked chicken, chopped coarsely. Let half the cream come to a boil in a stew pan. Mix the remainder of the cream with the cornstarch and add as soon as it boils. When this thickens take off the fire, add the chopped chicken, season to taste with salt and pepper and any other seasoning you like. Line patty pans with rich pie crust and bake. When all is cold place a heaping spoonful of the chicken in each crust and serve. If you would rather serve them hot, place the patties in a steamer over hot water until hot.

Maryland Chicken

Dip stewed chicken in flour, egg and fine crumbs. Place in a dripping pan with pieces of salt pork or chicken fat. Cover and bake 30 minutes. Serve with cream sauce, broiled bacon and corn fritters. If chicken is tender it may be cooked without previous stewing.

For Sunday, March 19

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a rather static or uneventful one with stress laid upon social, affectional, cultural or purely personal interests. Over all there may hang a vague, confused and tricky set of circumstances liable to allure, entrap or intrigue in a menacing and disturbing manner. With vigilance, discretion and reserve in friendships or other relations there may be benefits.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of intriguing and perplexing circumstances, best resolved by alert, straightforward and strategic programs, well thought out and unswervingly applied. Else there may be all sorts of treacherous, fraudulent or eccentric involvements, costly to funds, social and business standing and generally regrettable and undesirable.

A child born on this day, although having some exceptional talents and abilities bringing success yet may be endowed with peculiar ideas or urges.

For Monday, March 20

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a particularly propitious one, highly stimulating to all the ambitions and aspirations. Such impetus seems to arise from strange, extraordinary or unpredictable sources, and rises to great heights. Possibly originality, intuitive processes, peculiar leads or inspiration, enforced by intelligence, discrimination and sagacity, with concrete and practical measures, may bring great success and happiness.

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to exercise their unusual talents, creative ability, originality and ingenuity, arising from profound or inspired sources, intuitions or other unique pressure, to gain their cherished hopes and objectives. All facilities and forces may be under high impulse for progress, expansion, popularity, personal happiness and pleasure of far reaching endurance.

A child born on this day may have unusual, unique and original skills or talents, assuring it high prestige, happiness and advancement in life.

LOVABLE OLD FOLKS WELCOME

Cantankerous Individuals Forfeit Right To Reverence By Earlier Neglect of Others

The constant complaint of old people is that they are neglected; nobody pays them attention, and especially do they consider themselves martyrs when their children do not want them to live with them. It is true that the elderly are often bitterly lonely, but when this happens it is invariably their own fault. It is because they have done nothing to endear themselves to others. For there is no other impulse more deeply implanted in the human heart than reverence for age, and when old people fail to receive the deference that they feel is due them it is because they forfeited their right to it by their conduct.

But to be loved we must be lovable. To be wanted we must make ourselves desirable. And this is a cold, hard fact that the old only too often ignore. They think that age gives them the privilege of dispensing with all the decencies of civilized society and of making themselves as disagreeable as possible to all with whom they come in contact.

Small wonder that such cantankerous old people as these are left to stew alone in their own bitter juices and that no one beats a path to their doors to try to cheer and amuse them. Small wonder that the children of these parents do not want Father and Mother to come and live with them when they are perfectly aware that the old people would disrupt all the peace and happiness of their homes.

They know only too well that neither Father nor Mother would make the slightest effort to be agreeable guests. On the contrary, they would find fault with the food, criticize the way the children were brought up, interfere with everyone's personal habits, and feel that they had just as much right to boss their middle-aged sons and daughters as they did when they were babies in rompers.

Kindness Brings Rewards In Old Age

We have to have our cards of admission to the party and if we still get in after we are old, it is because we have qualified for it. We have been pleasant and agreeable companions. We have bound friends to us by a thousand ties and little attention and kindlinesses, and we haven't let ourselves get cranky and opinionated. So we are still asked out to dinner, and often in our seventies are greater belle than when we were when we were seventeen.

And whether our children want us to come and live with them or not depends upon whether we are going to be an infliction, or a pleasure. If we are the sort of old people who are grumpy and set in their ways and who make fetishes of all their little habits and tastes, or who are whiny and complaining or deadly dull and tiresome we take a cocktail, and who do not know what the world is coming to when the children stay out later than nine o'clock at night, nobody is going to get out a brass band to welcome us in their homes.

But if we are broad-minded and cheerful and wise and kind, our sons and daughters and even our in-laws will be glad to have us, and show us off as Exhibit-A of wonderful old people to their friends.

Y.W.C.A. Club Doings

This week with the National Business Girls' Banquet in the spotlight thoughts have been turned to the question of race and nationality—discrimination or indiscrimination—where do the "Freedoms" fit in and who is our neighbour. Miss Ross of Toronto supplied some nourishing food for thought in her address "Canada—a Land of Opportunity?" and from her wealth of knowledge on important education schemes such as the rural adult education (community schools) in Quebec and the work of the Canadian Youth Commission, being a member of the Recreation Commission.

The Co-Ed Club on Wednesday discussed the World Youth Council and what Canadian youth organizations can do to be a part of it. The idea of a Canadian Youth Relief Fund which would guarantee to look after a certain number of people from liberated countries for a period of three months so that they could rest, get food, and recuperate, is favored by the club. World Youth Week is being observed from March 21st to 28th and a campaign is being centred in Britain to acquaint youth of their opportunities as part of the International Youth Council to UNITE! FIGHT! ATTACK! WIN! with youth around the world.

The '38 Club on Wednesday heard the report of the local Youth Committee and decided to work on the Citizenship Commission. The first program will be a panel discussion on the three major political parties, their aims and their accomplishments, on March 29th. This will be followed by an open forum discussion on the Social Security Bill, at a later meeting. Miss Lena Dewart presided in the absence of the president, Leona McMillan. Miss Helen Furlong was welcomed as a new member.

The Thursday Supper Club held a business meeting to make final arrangements for their party to be held on Saturday, the 18th, in the Recreation Room. Robin Wright was welcomed back to the club having been out of town for a number of months.

The Gym-Swim Club on Thursday held a St. Patrick's Night. Ina Robinson presided and the program was in charge of Isobel Pearce assisted by Pauline Humphries, Mary Taylor, Margaret Gray, Doreen Graham and Doreen Wells. Pauline Humphries presented a reading on St. Patrick and Margaret Gray and Mary Taylor led a musical quiz made up of Irish tunes. There was a lively discussion on the various commissions being presented for discussion by the local Youth Committee. Members will present their ideas at the next meeting when they will decide whether or not to participate in the work of the Committee. Grace Schiarizza is in charge of the program next week.

The Friday Supper Club last week held a Charade Show taxing the mental powers of the spectators and the ingenuity of the players. Supper was in charge of Thelma Andrew and her committee: Betty Brown, Joan Brown, Barbara Stuart. This week the film "Peoples of Canada" will be shown.

The Saturday Juniors held a shamrock making "bee". Let us hope that all this attention paid to the patron saint of Ireland will sway that nation to world co-operation.

Transports And Normals Capture Basketball Titles

Transports and Normals are respectively senior and intermediate champions of the Ladies' Basketball League.

In the senior division Transports finally disposed of the troublesome St. John's battlers last night, winning 15 to 10 to take the final series two games to one.

Normals scored a basket in the final minute of play to defeat Y Cadets 17 to 16 in the fifth game of their best-of-five intermediate round and won the title three games to two.

Some accurate long-range shooting in the third quarter, backed up by a stout zone defence won for the Transports but St. John's, whose fighting displays have featured the playoffs, did not go down until they had staged a grim battle before the biggest crowd of the season in the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium.

Three times in the first half, the Saints shot out in front by a basket and three times the Transports sewed up the count.

It was 2-2 at the end of the first quarter and 6-6 at the half and the St. John's team could quite as easily been in front by two or three baskets for they outplayed the ultimate winners and were in for half a dozen shots but fell down under the basket when scores seemed certain. Eva Clarke, the star of the second game, was playing with an injured hand and she blew two or three golden chances.

It was anybody's game when the teams returned to the floor but Transports suddenly took command before the third quarter was nicely under way. Beryl Dobbin dropped in a long shot from the side to put them in front and Jean Castle caught the loop with another from well down the floor to make it 10 to 6. Another basket by Beryl Dobbin and a successful free throw by Jessie Morrow put Transports in the van 13 to 6, the biggest lead either team had enjoyed in the series.

St. John's rallied then and Peggy Lawless tossed in her third basket of the game, making it 13 to 8 at the end of the third quarter.

The last ten minutes proved a tense period. Marg. Hawthorne tossed in a basket to pull the Saints within three points of the leaders but R. Fleming got that one back for the Transports and they held the fighting second-placers for the balance of the game.

Scoring for the winners was well divided, Beryl Dobbin and Jean Castle being tops with four each. For St. John's Peggy Lawless from her guard position tossed in three baskets to lead both teams.

Transports, 15— Beryl Dobbin 4, Helen Miller, Isobel Crary, Jessie Morrow 3, Ruth Hewitt 2, Dot Bestard, Fran. Bestard, Irene Stewart, Jean Castle 4, R. Fleming 2.

St. John's, 10—Marg. Hawthorne 2, Marg. Dyer, Teresa Heslip, Eileen Hewitt, Eva Clarke 2, Doreen Groombridge, Peggy Lawless 6, Edith Harte-Maxwell, M. Vosberg.

Referee—Joe Cooper; Umpire—Howie Macdonald; Timer—A. Neiman.

A Close Finish

A basket by Helen Baird in the last minute of play won the intermediate championship for the Normal team, the first occasion on which the school has captured a cage title. Like the four other games between the two squads it was a close, exciting tussle and was in doubt until the final whistle.

Normals were in front most of the way but never by a decisive margin. They led 8 to 5 after a low-scoring first half and remained in the van until the closing stages when Y Cadets, who fought every foot of the way, came from behind on a successful free throw by D. Saunders and a basket by Betty Stewart, the scoring star for the losers. That made it 16 to 14 for the Cadets and with the minutes rapidly passing that lead looked big enough to win. Evelyn Fritz cut it in two by cashing in on a free throw but still the Cadets were in front 16 to 15 and time was nearly up. Another free throw by Evelyn Fritz, however, paved the way for the winning basket. She missed but Helen Baird was on the spot to grab the rebound and her toss from under the basket hit the target squarely and Normals had won.

It was a close finish to a series that was hard-fought all the way.

Evelyn Fritz with five points led the winning team while Betty Stewart for the second game in succession was tops for the Cadets, racking up seven points.

The teams:

Normal, 17—Reta Chappelle 4, Evelyn Fritz 5, Verna McNally, F. Sexsmith, M. Vanderwater, Joan Griffin, Mary Duffett, Reta Heffernan, Helen Baird 4, Pauline O'Donnell 2, M. Howes, A. Nelson 2.

Y Cadets, 16—N. Southern, Ann Young, N. Ackerman, Betty Stewart 7, Joan Spicer, Betty Lou Braund 1, L. Edwards, Barbara Cooke, Barbara Weir, N. Stanton 4, D. Saunders 2, Patsy Martyn 2.

Referee—H. Smith; Umpire, Mary McPherson; Timer, A. Neiman.

Beau Jack Beats Al Davis In Ten

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, March 18—(AP)—He doesn't hold a championship, this bounding Beau Jack of Augusta, Ga. but he's the No. 1 gate attraction in today's depleted fistic ranks.

Last night 19,963 fans paid $132,-823 to watch him hand Al Davis, the Brooklyn Bomber, one of the most artistic lacings anyone has ever taken over the 10-round route.

That gate, over which Promoter Mike Jacobs and the Red Cross smiled broadly, boosted the Beau's 12-match Garden gate to $947,477, an average of $78,956. No one has made the Garden turnstiles click like that since Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis donned his khaki uniform.

The ex-bootblack from Georgia, who has twice held the New York version of the lightweight championship, didn't appear awed by the lethal left hook with which Davis disposed of his two latest foes in a total of two minutes and 41 seconds.

Beau Jack slugged it out with the Brooklyn boy who was rated one of the best punchers among the little fellows. The Beau weathered a first-round flurry which had him floundering a bit, and won the rest of the way.

Despite Davis' impressive record the bettors tagged the bootblack as a 5-to-13 favorite, and he came through for 'em—the first favorite to win in five weeks in the Garden.

Davis, weighing 142½, had a 4½ pound advantage over the winner.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

After two of the closest final rounds in the history of the organization the Ladies' Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A. finally settled its senior and junior championships last night when Transports defeated St. John's 15 to 10 in the senior division and Normals nosed out Y Cadets 17 to 16 in the intermediate bracket. Both series went the limit, the best-of-three senior round requiring three games while the intermediate rivals took five games to decide a winner. Transports, on paper and on their record throughout the season much the best team in the loop, finally recovering enough of their scoring power to beat the Saints in the rubber game of the senior series but the battle was closer even than the 15 to 10 score indicates. It has been a surprising series. Transports went through the regular schedule unbeaten and winning by such margins that it didn't look as if any of the other clubs belonged in the same league. But in the playoffs St. John's amazed everybody by outplaying the first-placers in the first two games and giving them a terrific argument in the final encounter before bowing out. In fact Transports were a shade fortunate that the series went three games because they could easily have dropped the opener in which St. John's had the edge throughout but were finally beaten 13 to 12. In the final test however the new champs had the punch to pull the series out of the fire and earn the title. So close was the final round that at the end of the three tough battles the two teams are exactly even in the matter of scoring points with 40 each.

* * * * * *

Y Cadets, losers in the intermediate finals also earned a big share of the glory by going to the final minute of the fifth battle before they were beaten for the title. It was as close as that. Cadets came from behind to take the lead in the series but the battling Cadets evened it all up by winning the fourth fixture and it was all up to last night's game. The future school teachers, apparently beaten by a Cadet uprising late in the game, rallied again and Helen Baird's last moment basket gave them a 17 to 16 victory. No one will begrudge the Normal their triumph. For years the school has been entering teams in the league and they have battled faithfully but without much success in campaign after campaign. Now that a championship has finally come their way everybody will rejoice with them in their success. Incidentally the Ladies' League is to be congratulated upon a good season. Ever since November the teams have been battling and they have rung the curtain down at last in about as spectacular a manner as any scenario writer could dope up. Remains now the annual banquet and basketball, so far as the Y.W.C.A. loop is concerned, will pass off the stage until next autumn.

It's An Ace Card

Promoter Frank Tunney is evidently out to give Peterborough wrestling fans the outstanding card of the season at the Brock Street Arena next Tuesday, for not satisfied with featuring the world's champion Wild Bill Longson in a main bout battle with the fighting Strangler Bob Wagner he has booked another pair for the semi-final worthy of headline billing. As an appetizer for the sensational main bout attraction Tunney is sending Frank Sexton in against Krippler Karl Davis in the semi-final tussle. Sexton, the Ohio powerhouse who in a few weeks has climbed to the highest shelf in popularity among Peterborough enthusiasts along with Whipper Billy Watson and Velocity Vic Holbrook is one of the classiest mat artists who has performed here and his battle with the crushing Davis should be a classic. But it of course will be overshadowed by the fact that the No. 1 man of wrestling, the ruthless exponent of the pile-driver hold, Bill Longson, pride of St. Louis and the greatest drawing-card in the game will be showing his wares on the same card against an opponent who will force the champ to come up with one of his best efforts. They have not handed Longson any pushover in this rough-house artist from Portland. Wagner has fought them all and backed up from nobody and he will make Longson show the reason why he has been champion for the past three seasons. It looms up as the classiest wrestling program of the year and a new attendance record is expected.

Realizing that other channels of sport for 'teen age boys are rapidly being closed the Kawartha Golf and Country Club will carry on a campaign this spring to interest Peterborough youths in golf. Arrangements have been made to accommodate juvenile and junior players at nominal fees for the year and it is hoped that a large number of 16 and 17-year-old youngsters will avail themselves of this opportunity to learn the game under most favorable conditions. The idea that was once prevalent that golf was essentially a game for older men has of course long since been blown to pieces. All the modern champions have been young players who began knocking the ball around as soon as they were old enough to learn what it was all about, picked up the fundamentals and found themselves in the upper flights of the game almost before they were old enough to vote. The Kawartha Club's offer to young Peterborough opens wide the door of opportunity for local boys to become acquainted with golf at an early age and undoubtedly the chance will be accepted this summer by many of the youths who are in the age group to which the invitation has been extended.

Should Be Real Series

A number of Peterborough fans will make the trip to Oshawa tonight when the first game of the O.H.A. junior A finals between Toronto St. Michael's and the Generals will be staged. It looks like one of the most even clashes for some time. On their season's record there is little to choose between the two outfits and it would not be surprising if the series went the limit. Both the Oshawa gang and the Irish seem to be supremely confident of the result but the Generals have the edge in this respect that they can take the round by winning all their home games—and they have been at their best all season on the Oshawa cushion. George Campbell comments thusly on the outlook in the Oshawa Times-Gazette: "Who is going to win the championship? Frankly, it looks like the greatest series in years but then it will have to be super-sensational to top such hectic playoffs as we have had in other years with Marlboros twice, St. Mike's, Guelph and Brantford. It's strictly up to the Oshawa Generals. We know they'll get the support of Oshawa fans and the Generals can win this championship providing they win every game they play at Oshawa Arena. Winning their "home" games will give the Generals that coveted championship. Most important win of all, except for the necessary 4th win, is the first one. That's the case in any series. The Generals had certainly better win the opener here Saturday night. They must know that."

* * * * * *

Peterborough sportsmen who long ago learned to appreciate the qualities shown by the late Neil McDougall of Oshawa will endorse this tribute paid to him by George Campbell in the Oshawa Times-Gazette: "Oshawa sport fans, especially baseball enthusiasts, today mourn the passing of Neil McDougall. Slight in stature but big in heart, he played softball in Oshawa when the game was in its infancy. He also played baseball with Oshawa teams for several years, being a product of the old "Sunday School League" and of the days of the good St. Andrew's teams. A keen student and ardent sports fan, he enjoyed all games, but baseball was his "first love." In later years, he coached with success Oshawa's Junior O.B.A. entries. He was a past-president of the Lakeshore Intermediate League and a former O.B.A.A. representative as well as being well-known throughout all these parts as a capable baseball umpire. Although he had been seriously ill for over a year, he still maintained his interest in sports, watched ball games in the summer and saw the Generals in action this season. Oshawa's sporting circle, particularly baseball both in this city and the district, has lost an enthusiastic, generous worker. His interests were by no means confined to sport, however, and he will be mourned by a wide fraternity of sportsmen, citizens and friends."

Senior Students Defeated 41-33 By Bowmanville

Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School senior cage team bowed out of the Lakeshore interscholastic group picture last night when Coach Bamforth's squad was beaten 41 to 33 by Bowanville High school in a hard fought sudden death game in Trinity College School gym at Port Hope.

Strict refereeing by a pair of Toronto officials played a prominent part in the P.C.V.S. defeat. Bowmanville not only cashed in on nine free throws to run up their score but the Peterborough team had the misfortune to lose two players on four personal fouls and their absence was felt in the second half.

Play was very even in the first half and Bowmanville only had a point lead at the half-way mark. However, they opened out in the second half and finally defeated P.C.V.S. by a margin of four baskets.

Ferguson was the scoring star for the winners with 12 points, including four successful free throws, and Clemence and Sturrock contributed 7 points and McIlveen 6 to the winning total.

Seabrooke with 14 points topped the Peterborough effort and Kidd helped out with six points.

The teams:

Bowmanville High School 41 — McIlveen 6, Ferguson 12, Stutt 3, Clemence 7, Harnden, Sturrock 7, Rundle 4, Hovey, Wilcox, Strike 2.

P.C.V.S. 33—Richardson 3, Seabrooke 14, Thomson 2, Metcalfe, Kidd 6, Collins, Lee 4, Green 1, Peterson, Estlick 3.

The P.C.V.S. junior team was also eliminated last night when they were beaten by Cobourg in a sudden death game at Port Hope.

Frank Boucher Sets All-time High Scoring Record

NEW YORK, March 17 (CP) — Frank Boucher, player-coach this season of New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, has hit the all-time high of 554 major league points, the Ranger statistician said last night.

But his total does not go into the books as a new N.H.L. mark as he played for four seasons in the Pacific Coast League. The all-time N.H.L. record is 540 points scored by Nels Stewart of Montreal Maroons, Boston Bruins and New York Americans.

Returning to play after six seasons as Ranger bench manager, Boucher tallied 14 points in the 15 games in which he took part. Up to the time he had retired, the great centre-ice man had 540 major league points, the same as Stewart's total.

Even at that, Jim Hendy, hockey historian and Ranger statistician, said, Boucher's total is not quite complete. His scoring in the playoffs for the Pacific Coast League, then a major circuit, in the years 1922-23 and 1923-24 are not available as the records are missing. Frank recalls scoring at least one goal in the 1922-23 series to decide which team should meet Ottawa Senators for the Stanley Cup.

Boucher's record was accomplished over a career which commenced in Ottawa with the Senators in the fall of '21. He joined Vancouver Maroons the following season and played there for four campaigns.

When the Rangers were organized in 1926 he was signed as centre for Bill and Bun Cook. He was the star centre for the Rangers for 10 campaigns, performed in one game during the 1937-38 season and retired to coach New York Rovers for a season, coming to the Rangers as coach in the fall of '38.

Boucher's total consists of 219 goals and 298 assists for 517 points in regular league play; 16 goals and 18 assists in league playoff games and three goals in the East-West Stanley Cup finals. He tallied two against Ottawa Senators in the spring of '23 and one against Montreal Canadiens in the '24 series.

Stewart's record was entirely made in the National Hockey League. The greatest goal scorer of them all, Nels netted the rubber 323 times and furnished 191 assists for 514 points in league play and 15 goals and 11 assists for 26 points in the playoffs for a grand total of 540 points.

Ladies' Bowling Scores on Low Side

Scores in the Ladies' Five Pin League at the Y.M.C.A. were unusually low this week as can be seen from the fact that only one bowler got into the 600 class. She was Ruth Pogue who barely made the grade by hitting 602 to lead the parade.

Best single scores were H. Davis 276, R. Brindle 218 and R. Akers 211.

The team scores:

Hurricanes (1) — M. Killingbeck 284, R. Akers 587, M. Hepburn 383, J. Killingbeck 470, N. Hepburn 428.

CITY CARPETBALL

The competition is really getting keen and reflects in the results received this week. No change has been made in the standings by the games as played to date with only one point separating the first place leaders. The Wardens hold top with 31 points, next comes the Saints, Sons of England and the Orangemen all with 30 points. The Fire Hall hold the next with 29 points but have the advantage of more games to play than any of those above in the league standings. With good playing they may take the Hope or Bleasdell trophy.

Results:

SOE No. 3, 9-10 vs. BESL No. 1, 11-7.

All Saints No. 5, 12-9 vs. PFD No. 8, 10-12.

President's Cup

We are now drawing up plans for the President's Cup play-downs and will enter every team in the league unless notified to the contrary.

The Sons of England and Fire Hall teams have already stated their desire to play.

It has been reported that the St. George's Club will be entering a team for this competition and we would be glad to get verification of this report.

All skips should phone 3097 and state their desire.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

A plan for immediate post-war sport developments along international lines is in the making, it was revealed at Washington last night where the U.S. Army is already working on details for "Battlefront Olympics" with the return of peace. According to the general scheme, athletic meets for the services are to be staged in the vicinity of the overseas fronts. With international finals in an Allied capital, probably London. The games are to be dedicated to the athletes of the world who have paid the supreme sacrifice.

The special services division of the U.S. Army has drafted an outline for preliminary competitions and the subject has been given approval by members of Congress. At the conclusion of the First Great War the Canadian Expeditionary Force combined with British and American troops in athletic meets, outstanding games being held in Paris.

After serving in North Africa as a navy commando where he was injured, Tom Warren, 25, of Tulsa, Okla., is the first war casualty to turn out with a major league team. He is trying out as an outfielder with the Brooklyn Dodgers at the Bear Mountain, N.Y., camp.

Northern Team Shuts Out Hamilton Majors

By The Canadian Press

Sudbury Frood Pitman, sturdy smooth-skating men of the north, overwhelmed Hamilton Majors 4-0 last night at Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, before a crowd of less than 3,300 to chalk up their second straight victory in the all-Ontario senior elimination finals and the right to represent this province in the Allan Cup competition. In their previous encounter at Hamilton, the N.O.H.A. champions measured the title-winners 4-2 and followed up that triumph with an impressive display in the second game for which the Majors ruled pre-match favorites among the betting fraternity. The rivals go to Hamilton Monday night for the third set-to of the best-of-five series.

Bill Lahti put the Sudburians in front with the lone goal of the first period and Regis (Pep) Kelly scored the sole tally of the second frame to make it 2-0 at that stage. The Northerners added a brace in the third session with Kelly doing the honors a second time and George Blake registering a single.

In the second O.H.A. intermediate semi-finals, Port Colborne earned a 4-1 decision at Brantford last night to carry a three-goal margin into the return tilt of this series Tuesday night at Port Colborne. The teams battled to a 1-all tie in the first frame but the visitors went into the lead late in the second with a two-goal splurge, adding one more in the last period. Fitzgerald scored two for Port Colborne, Kilpatrick and Bates one each. Hantiuk notched the Brantford counter.

Montreal Royals Lose To Aces

QUEBEC, March 18 — (CP). — Quebec Aces scored a 4-2 victory over Montreal Royals last night, and now lead the Montrealers 2-0 in the best-of-five series for the Quebec Senior Hockey League title. The third game will be played in Montreal on Sunday.

Coach Bill Reay led the Aces to victory by taking part in every goal. He tallied one himself and assisted in the others. Bill Robinson, Armand Gaudreault, and Stan Baldwin were the other Ace sniners, while Smiley Meronek and Tim Maro scored for Montreal.

The line-ups:

Montreal — Goal, McNeil; defence, Laforce, Despelteau; centre, Menouik; wings, Irvine, Lajoie; subs., Larochelle, Desroches, Carthy, Millar, Campeau, Maro, Martin.

Quebec — Goal Bouvrette; defence, Stahan, Baldwin; centre, Reay; wings, Gaudreault, Rossignol; subs., Bergeron, Check, Tremblay, Tozzini, Bruneteau, Dertwell, Robinson.

Gus Bodnar Of Toronto Leafs Awarded Calder Trophy

By FRASER MacDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, March 18 — (CP) — Slim Gus Bodnar of Toronto Maple Leafs, who celebrated his entry into National Hockey League competition by scoring the first goal of the present season, today was named winner of the Calder Trophy as the outstanding rookie of the year.

The 20-year-old centre ice star from Fort William, Ont., won the award with a slender margin over Bill Durnan, brilliant goaltender of Montreal Canadiens, in the annual poll conducted among sports writers in N.H.L. cities by The Canadian Press.

Bodnar received 583 points of a possible 756 in the voting in which 27 sports writers participated while the 29-year-old Durnan, a native of Toronto, was right behind with 511. Durnan already has won the Vezina Trophy as the league's top goaltender of the season.

Far behind, two Toronto rookies were tied for third place in the balloting with 76 points apiece—Defenceman Elwyn Morris and Forward Ted (Teeter) Kennedy. Forward Fernand Majeau of Canadiens was in fifth place with 62 points.

Durnan Close

Points were awarded on a 3-2-1 basis and the vote was weighted to give equal voting power to each N.H.L. city.

The contest between Bodnar and Durnan was the closest for the trophy since 1941 when Johnny Quilty of Montreal Canadiens nosed out Johnny Mowers of Detroit Red Wings.

Bodnar succeeds Gaye Stewart, now in the Royal Canadian Navy and also a native of Fort William, as holder of the trophy which was donated by the late Frank Calder, former president of the National Hockey League, and was first up for competition in 1933.

Born of Ukrainian parents—his real name is Bornarchuk but it was shortened to Bodnar for convenience—the 150-pound pivot on Toronto's highest scoring forward line played hockey as a youngster with Stewart and for the last three seasons was a member of the Fort William Hurricanes.

His scoring ability attracted the attention of George (Squib) Walker, Toronto scout at the head of the lakes who also discovered Stewart, and he came to the Leaf training camp at St. Catharines last Fall.

Scored 20 Goals

He made an auspicious debut in the first N.H.L. game of the season against New York Rangers, scoring after 11 second of play. In the 49 games he has played, he has scored 20 goals and has had 37 assists, for an imposing point total of 57. He has been rejected by the Canada army.

Durnan—who has been a star amateur goaltender and an outstanding softball pitcher since he was 16—is possibly the oldest rookie to figure prominently in the annual poll.

His play has been regarded as one of the big factors in Montreal's capture of the league title this season and his goals-against record—he has been scored on 106 times in 48 games—won him the Vezina trophy.

The lanky netminder began his hockey career in Toronto in 1930 and at 16 he was placed on the Toronto Maple Leafs list. Later he went to Northern Ontario where he played with the Sudbury Wolves and later with the Kirkland Lake Senior Blue Devils who won the Allan Cup in 1940.

Then Durnan's trail took him to Montreal where he played for Royals in the Quebec Senior Hockey League before entering professional ranks last fall.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, March 18 — (CP).— Hockey referees are lonely and almost friendless creatures during the heat of battle, with players, coaches, and fans all howling for their scalps. But at last they have found a champion, at least in Manitoba. President Frank Hannibal of Manitoba A.H.A. lifted his big stick and warned overzealous coaches they would face suspension if they persisted in "baiting" referees.

The trouble started in the Winnipeg Esquires-St. Boniface junior play-off and continued into the St. Boniface-St James series. The refs were given a rough ride, and on two occasions had to thumb a coach from his cosy corner in the players' box.

How about a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Referees?

Personality poll:

Inspired by an opinion-sampling survey in United States baseball circles, Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle suggests a poll to determine the funniest, most colorful, pugnacious, etc., hockey manager or coach.

He awards the pugnacity ribbon to Jack Adams of Detroit, the most colorful trophy to Conn Smythe of Toronto Leafs, with Bruins Art Ross taking second by a hair. The funny man title is harder, he says, because league coaches are all very sober individuals since Red Dutton "was driven upstairs" as N.H.L. managing director.

Incidentally:

Armando (Ponce) de Leon, former star running back with Ottawa Glebe Collegiate footballers, has reached North Africa with his U.S. infantry unit. De Leon, son of former Cuban Consul to Canada Armando de Leon Y Valdes, was in Ottawa early his year on a brief leave.....If authorities grant permission for limited travelling of student teams, inter-varsity athletics may stage a comeback in the West. The Western Inter-Varsity Athletic Union is sounding out the university heads on the idea...... Johnny Mowers, last year's Vezina Trophy winner thinks amateur hockey compares unfavorably with the N.H.L. brand from a goalie's standpoint. Tending the nets for Toronto R.C.A.F. he let as many as 12 goals a game go by him. That prompted him to tell Jack (Cornwall Standard - Freeholder) Park that the amateurs don't play their positions as well. They roam around and leave the netminder in a tough spot....With trophies being handed out all around they're suggesting Bill Cowley again for the Hard Luck Cup. Either that or the Most-battered Player Award.

5 Games Set This Week-end In Pro League

By The Canadian Press

The curtain rises on the last scene in the current National Hockey League season this week-end with five games scheduled. Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers are lined up for a home-and-home doubleheader tonight and tomorrow night while Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks are billed in a similar series. Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs wind up their season at Toronto tonight.

Facts and figures are almost a thing of the past—but not quite. Indulging in ifs and other conditional words for the last time, a fan should be able to draw considerable amusement out of figuring whether Chicago or Toronto will wind up in the third-place spot.

The Leafs with one game to go are leading the Hawks by a single point. At this point, you can bring out your "ifs" and "shoulds."

If Leafs should win tonight, and Chicago take a loss, the question should be settled then and Montreal and Toronto would be lined up for the first series in the Stanley Cup play-off. But if Toronto drops tonight's encounter with Bruins, and Hawks defeat the Wings, the first series will find Montreal linked with Chicago and Toronto taking on Detroit.

Continuing in the conditional vein, if both Toronto and Chicago win tonight, the issue will be left over until tomorrow night when Hawks wind up the season on home ice. The Hawks would need another victory then to climb into third place.

Boxing Finals

OTTAWA, March 18—(CP).—The Sports Council of defence headquarters announced last night that championship events in the Canadian Army boxing tournament will be held in Ottawa May 4, and that the finals will include champions from eastern and western Canada in seven weight revisions and in two classes. Finals for Military District No 4 (Montreal will be held at St. Jerome training centre March 29 and 30. Zone finals between M.D. No. 3 (Kingston, Ont.), M.D. No. 4, M.D. No. 5 (Quebec) and Petawawa Camp, Ont., will be held in Kingston April 20 and 21.

Esther Might Enjoys Work Overseas

MILLBROOK, March 18—(ENS)—A letter from L.A.W. Esther Might, R.C.A.F. (W.D.), formerly of the Bank of Montreal staff, Peterborough written on March 1, and received on March 15, tells of her first leave overseas:

"I have just returned to station after spending nine days' leave in London. Another girl and I were able to stay with some girls who came over with us and who were posted to London. We certainly had a royal welcome the first night, being greeted by the start of the recent heavy raids. I understand now the need for help for War Victims, and can assure you that the work at home for the Red Cross is deeply appreciated.

"I must say though other than the raids, I enjoyed my leave very much for we saw many places of interest. We paid a visit one afternoon to Madame Tassaud's War Works, and it surely is a place of wonders, though they say it was much better before the war. We even had courage enough to see the Chamber of Horrors, and I expected something a lot worse.

I was a little disappointed at Buckingham Palace for they have not got the colorful guard of pre-war days. However it gave us quite a thrill to see the palace and a Bobby was kind enough to let us put one foot inside the gateway on the grounds, but he said "No further." From there we walked through St. James Park' to Westminster Abbey. It is a beautiful place. I have heard so much about it, but I certainly never dreamt I would ever have the privilege of walking through it myself. It gave me a thrill, I think mainly because of the historical significance. From there we went to the Parliament Buildings, and heard Big Ben striking three o'clock. I was able to take a snapshot from Westminster Bridge.

Sees Tower

"Another afternoon we went to the Empire Rendez-vous where the Forces meet to be taken on tours through the city. We went on a tour of the Tower of London, and were guided through by one of the Beef Eaters picturesque in their red and blue caped outfit. They have ravens who are actually on the strength of the Regiment in the Tower; they are very fond of women's stockings, and we were warned to be careful.

"Actually seeing all these places of historical interest makes me want to get out my old history text and read it again. It is all a wonderful education seeing new places and speaking to people from different countries. In our little party of about fifteen were representatives from India, Ceylon, British South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, United States, and Canada.

"It is almost incredible. The girls are enjoying themselves over here very much, although living conditions are quite different. They were amused when at first about the heating system by way of fireplaces. Each room is separately heated by its own fireplace. On our Station the girls live in billets which were the former married quarters, so it makes it a little more homelike. However we have quite a time making our fires especially with the fuel shortage. There are eight girls to a house so we do have fun together.

Getting Mail

"We are getting used to the climate now, although we still feel the dampness, and we had a little snow last Sunday which has all disappeared now. The evenings are much like an evening at home in May, with the sun shining until after 6.30. I am receiving my mail from home quite regularly in 9 or 10 days, by air letters. I received a box from the Red Cross with a lovely sweater and pair of socks, both being very much appreciated. Also I received a box of chocolates from the George street Y.P.U., and two copies of their monthly paper, "Bulldog." I certainly do want to keep in touch with all you people at home.

"I like my work here and have been given a different job to the one I had when I first came. This particular office wanted a clerk with banking experience so now I am doing bookkeeping as well as typing and shorthand. We see so much of real activity it makes us want to do our work to the very best of our ability. There are good meals, plain and wholesome, though the girls miss the sweets and the fresh fruits. But yesterday they were given a ration of four oranges the second they have had since arriving.

"We are allowed one chocolate bar one week and two the next, and were much surprised to find we can buy peanut butter, without points, too. It seems it is something rather new in England, and we Canadians are more or less introducing it to a lot of people. I haven't seen anyone from home yet, but while in London met one lad who used to be stationed when I was at the Recruiting Centre in Hamilton, and another who used to work in the Bank of Montreal in Peterborough."

Miss Hannah Staples was in the chair and the Roll call was answered by 19 members telling a humorous joke. The treasurer reported paying for articles used for First Aid kit at the Public school. Mrs. Thorndyke reported on the progress the quilt committee were making and said more were ready for quilting this coming week. Mrs. Price, work convener, said pagam cloth had come and wool for sweaters and socks. A box is to be packed for Red Cross headquarters and Mrs. Price requested that all completed work be brought in.

Mrs. F. W. Reynolds, convener of Group 3 gave a talk on the beginning of the Women's Institute in 1897 at Stoney Creek and told how it was organized by Mrs. Adelaid Hoodless. Laura Rose Stevens in 1902 had suggested the Institute motto "For Home and Country". Mrs. Roy Jarvis told about St. Patrick.

Mrs. Reynolds told how dyes were procurred and how difficult shades were made by the vessels they were made in. Iron and copper are used the most. A contest, a questionaire on topics of interest, was won by Mrs. Jarvis, who received a stocking darner as a prize Miss Sisson and members of Group 3 served a lunch of sandwich, tarts and tea and a social hour was enjoyed. A vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. Carleton Patton.

Air Observers Say More Big Raids Likely

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, March 18—(CP Cable)—The 3,000-ton assault on Europe Wednesday night by more than 1,000 four-engined bombers, R.A.F. and R.C.A.F.—some of them the most recently designed Lancasters—was an actual display of the Bomber Command's frontline strength and represented the size of attack the Germans now can expect any night of the week, air observers said to-day.

Experts who predicted that 1,000-bomber attacks will be the rule, not the exception, were careful to point out that some targets in Germany are not big enough to be attacked by force of that size without wasteful splash-over of bombs and that therefore it should not be expected Bomber Command will send out 1,000 heavies on every raid.

Wednesday's effort revealed to what a tremendous extent the Bomber Command has expanded, and an idea of British strength can be gained from the fact that the Canadian bomber group alone is able to carry out an attack substantially heavier than any of the Luftwaffe's major blows at British targets during the blitz of 1940-41.

Fast Lancasters.

The bomber fleet was paced by new Lancasters, faster and higher-flying than any of their famous predecessors and included squadron of greatly-improved Halifaxes, also better aircraft than the earlier types of Lancasters which were hailed from the first as the world's best bombers.

The Lancaster's type of engine now is carried also by the world's most sensational fighter. The engine is the Packard-built Rollaway Merlin 38 which according to official figures, takes a single-engined long-range Mustang to Berlin at speeds up to 426 miles an hour.

There has been an increase in the bomb-lifting capacity of British aircraft, made possible by both more and better four-engined aircraft; so Wednesday's load was twice as great as that carried by the 1,000-bomber experimental raids of 1942.

If the Allies succeed in eliminating the German air force as a fighter weapon, Bomber Command and the Mediterranean Air Force could join the American bomber force in this country in pulverising attacks by day or by night.

An indication of just how satisfactory Britain's bomber production now is was given in a report that new Lancosters are being made available for the Pacific War.

The black market operators bribe children to deliver cats, sell the meat to butchers and dispose of the hides through fur dealers, the newspaper said.

Bennett Warns Refugees Are Dangerous

LONDON, March 18—(CP Cable)—Viscount Bennett, former Prime Minister of Canada, to-day elaborated on his warning that there are fifth columnists among refugees in Britain, saying that there are about 60,000 persons of German birth and parentage in this country who "are first and foremost German" and who "if ever they are faced with an issue that in plain terms mean Britain versus Germany, would take the German point of view."

Lord Bennett made his original remarks on the subject in a public address yesterday, warning his listeners to "be careful and don't trust" refugees.

Amplifying this, he told the Evening News he had proof that a number of German refugees have been "working insidiously among prominent men in this country to influence the kind of peace terms we shall offer Germany."

Text of his statement, published on the News' front page:

"There are about 60,000 people of German birth and parentage now in Britain. In manpower that is equal to four divisions. I do not suggest every one is a potential spy as the word is generally used.

"But I do say emphatically that in the final analysis these people are first and foremost German—if ever they are faced with an issue that in plain terms means Britain versus Germany they would take the German point of view."

A provincial police anti-gambling squad led by Inspector Doyle swooped down on Peterboro early Friday afternoon and raided seven places in the downtown area, seizing pin-ball game and punch-boards.

WARKWORTH, March 18 (ENS)—The ninety-ninth birthday of Mrs. Thomas Dennis was observed quietly at her home about a mile from this village on Thursday. She is perhaps Percy Township's oldest resident. In spite of her advanced years she is remarkable and is looking forward to reaching the century mark.

Mrs. Dennis is a daughter of the late James Henry Haughtailing and Harriett Owens. She was born in Prince Edward County, but most of her life has been spent in Alnwick and Percy Townships. She was married in Sarnia in 1874 to Thomas Dennis of Seymour.

Preparations Made For Scout Craft Show

The monthly meeting of the local executive of the Peterborough Boy Scout Association was held this week. Reports received indicate that the annual Scoutcraft show which will be held in the Market Hall April 10-14, will be bigger and better than ever. The executive are looking forward to the coming of spring and summer and are considering what can be done to make the Scout hut, located just north of Nassau, a centre of outdoor scouting. Work on the hut wil be resumed just as soon as the weather permits.

It is expected that the Jamboree this year will be held on July 1 instead of May 24, the usual date.

After the business had been concluded the executive went to the Paragon Hall, where the third of a series of Scout leaders' training classes was in progress under the leadership of Fred Ford, president of the Scouters' Club. Would Collect Tax Arrears From Payroll

Extension of the payroll deduction plan of collecting income tax was proposed by the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers in a resolution this week to the Minister of Finance.

That same evening press reports quoted the Hon. Mr. Ilsley, Minister of Finance, as declining to shift this work to industry because, as he said, its management and staffs are already burdened with this detail.

Reference was made at the U.E. meeting to the unexpected extra taxes to be met by April 30 under the present ruling would have been covered by payroll deductions at the source of income; and we now find that this was not done, thus leaving us to pay unexpected large cash balances by the end of April 1944; and whereas our savings are invested in War Bonds and we will be expected and desire to subscribe to the Sixth Victory Loan which will get under way approximately at the same time; we feel that these combined obligations are more than we can meet before the 30th of April:

Make It Easier

Therefore we strongly urged the Federal Government to take immediate action either to permit instalment payments throughout this year on tax arrears by payroll plan; or permit 1943 arrears in income to be charged against credits of individual compulsory savings.

The same day it was reported in the press news from Ottawa that the Hon. Mr. Ilsley was opposing this idea on the ground that industrial management and staff was already burdened by salary deduction details work.

Underwriters Hear Dominion President

The regular monthly meeting of the Peterborough Life Underwriters Association was held at the Empress Hotel, Thursday noon. Members were privileged in hearing J. J. Gormley, assistant manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Riverdale District, Toronto. Mr. Gormley was elected president of the Life Underwriters of Canada at the annual meeting held in Toronto in January.

His subject was "Life Underwriters Association Activities." He outlined the various benefits the Underwriters received through the organization, one being the Chartered Life Underwriters Course which not only benefited the salesmen and the company but enable the salesman to give better service to his policyholders and clients.

Mr. Gormley announced that the association this year was making available to the airforce personnel general sales texts which could be studied and would play a party in rehabilitation after the war. The first year course would be general salesmanship wich would equip the men of the R.C.A.F. to apply themselves in the sales field when the war has been won. Efforts are being made to extend this course to all armed service personnel.

The speaker extended his congratulations to the Peterborough Association of having won the Bill Laird cup for the highest percentage of increased membership of any association in Canada and urged the members to get behind their local association.

The speaker was introduced by W. C. McCreery, branch manager of the Metropolitan Life and a vote of thanks was extended by Marvin White, branch manager of the Manufacturers Life, Jimmy Nicholson, assistant superintendent of the Prudential Life acted as pianist and Jack Arnott of the London Life led the group singing.

War—4 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press.

March 18, 1940—Hitler and Mussolini conferred at the Brenner pass. British war loan of £300,000,000, offered March 14, oversubscribed. Seven hundred officers and men arrived in New York for the liners Queen Mary and Mauretania.

March 19, 1940—R.A.F. started a heavy bombardment of island of Sylt, causing severe damage, in reprisal for German raid on Scapa Flow.

Weather Device Goes 375 Miles

BANCROFT, March 18 (ENS) — A weather devise the property of the weather bureau of Milbury, Ohio, which travelled 375 miles in one day, was found on the farm of Kenneth Lindsay in Faraday township, seven miles out of Bancroft, on Friday morning.

It was sighted by Mrs. Lindsay on her way to the barn, when she noiced a red object floating in mid-air. Approaching, she saw a small red parachute to which was attached a large deflated balloon.

A further discovery was made by Provincial Officer S. W. Palmateer of Bancroft who was notified of the mystifying arrival by air and came out to the farm to investigate. He found a meteorlogical instrument which had been attached to the chute hanging, almost obscured, among the boughs of an evergreen tree.

According to data carried on the instrument, it was released at the Toledo, Ohio Municipal Airport at 11.30 p.m. Thursday. Identifying details were also included, and Provincal Officer Palmateer took possession of the instrument for return to the authorities concerned.

Peterboro Girl Teaches In China

Classes of 200 illiterate Chinese women, three days a week, are held in Chengchow, Honan, by Miss Greta Clark, Church of England missionary of Peterborough, assisted by two Chinese women helpers.

Writing to Canon L. A. Dixon, general secretary of the Missionary Society of the Church of England, Miss Clark says that not once during last year's famine did the crowds in Chengchow become uncontrollable, "although there never seemed enough relief money or soup kitchen tickets."

"I shall never forget the patience and gentleness of our people when they were on the very verge of starvation," she says.

Of the Baby Centre, run by the local Internation Relief committee, where she was in charge of homeless babies during the worst months of the famine, Miss Clark writes: "It is now so attractive that we might give the Ontario Quints' centre some competition were we a little nearer."

Plague Brings Death

During the grasshopper plague of last summer, this missionary tells of visiting a small village where 40 members of 25 families died of starvation. "Many more would have died had I not been in touch with many there, and if our church at home had not sent me personal relief money."

Still another part of her work, says Miss Clark is the half-day school for girls and young married women at the church centre. Fifty are in the group and they receive one meal a day. Money for the food is given by the Relief Committee.

Despite the famine and intense suffering, Church of England Sunday School continues to flourish in Chengchow, she reports. On occasion the church is full to the doors of children and teen-age boys and girls.

Life Of Shaw Outlined To Supper Club

Friday Night Club attendants were treated to an out of the ordinary talk by a speaker new to the club rostrum. Ted Chalmers introduced R. L. Hale, teacher of English at the Peterborough Collegiate, who spoke on George Bernard Shaw.

Mr. Hale took advantage of St. Patrick's day to break ground with several of his favourite Irish jokes which served to prepare the listener for the forthcoming glimpse of the famous Irish wit, and playwright. No ordinary biography was this, for although its introductory phrases treated with the earlier aspects of Shaw's life, yet it unfolded the evolution of Shaw, the awkward, diffident land-office clerk, to Shaw, the self-assured assertive man of the world, cutting all and sundry with his rapier-like intellect.

Interspersed with true Shawian humour, the talk gave an insight to the man's Socialistic tendencies, his championing of Wagner and Ibsen, and his ultimate invasion into the field of drama literature which he found at the time was able to give greater and unhindered expression to his treatment of social problems.

Mr. Hale concluded his highly enjoyable talk with an anecdote concerning Shaw's own marriage (written by Shaw) and a sample of Shaw's continued and prolific efforts excerpted in this instance from 'Man and Superman!'

With Stan Gilmour at the piano, Don Ford led the sing-song. Members were reminded that next week will be Fathers' Night, with Stan Shields as guest speaker.

SAW HER PICTURE—PO. Anthony Martin of the Royal Canadian Air Force slips an engagement ring on the finger of Florence Jaeger, of Chicago. While serving in Libya he saw her picture on the back of a clipping from the Chicago Herald-American sent to a soldier. He wrote to her, came to see her and now they're wed.

Arthur Geraghty Sub-Lieut. In Fleet Air Arm

Arthur J. Geraghty, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Geraghty, 317 Pearl Avenue, is the first Peterborough boy to have received his commission with the Imperial Fleet Air Arm, according to word received on Thursday by his parents.

Acting Sub-Lieut. Geraghty left Peterborough a few weeks ago en route to England at the request of the British Admiralty for an interview, relative to his application for a commission. He was applying for it as an aeronautical engineer with the Fleet Air Arm. During his interview with the Admiralty Board this week, he was given his commission as acting sub-lieutenant The new officer expects to remain in England for some months for training and then may return to Canada for further training.

He graduated in June, 1943, from Park Air College, East St. Louis, Ill., as an aeronautical engineer. Following this he returned to Canada and applied for the Air Force. There was some delay, so Sub-Lieut. Geraghty went into the employ of the Canadian Pacific Airlines for a short time.

Fluid cream sales during the same month were 7,255 quarts for $3,656.94, and a year ago 5,545 quarts for $2,933.63.

Milk totals for Ontario were 33,645,000 quarts valued at $3,491,200, and in January last year 29,975,000 quarts at $3,121,400.

The High School At Lakefield Sends Fund $46

When students finish their High School course to the satisfaction of their teachers or examiners, they are granted a graduation diploma which testifies of such, and this is usually presented to them in a ceremony which has come to be known under the name of Commencement Exercises.

Since they are given proof in writing that they have finished this particular course, the term "commencement" might almost seem analagous, were it not for the fact that in getting thus far on the road towards their career, they are then really only at the starting point, for they have yet to put into practice the store of knowledge they have thus gained.

Be sure that as it may, this is the finest ending that is possible for these young men and women going out to face life's sterner responsibilities, and nothing could perhaps be more appropriate than that the last act of their school days should be also made the opportunity to do some good for other people in distress, a most satisfying thing for them to recall in the later years of their life.

On more than one occasion, the annual Commencement Exercises at Lakefield High School have been made the opportunity to bring a ray of sunshine into the dark outlook for the bomb victims in Britain, through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, and this was repeated at this year's annual event held by them recently.

By means of a silver collection, the nice sum of $46.00 was realized by them, and forwarded by J. F. Harvey their principal to make the fourth donation to come from the pupils and their parents, and this was accompanied by a letter expressing their pleasure at being thus able to assist, together with their good wishes for the future success of the fund in its good work.

"In As Much" 37 Times

Only a few days ago the lady who gives under the nameof "In As Much" was credited with her 36th gift of $10.00 in this column, and this is now followed by another for the same amount to make its 37th appearance, continuing one of the outstanding personal assists recorded in the fund's history, and might be classed as a sincere application of the Proverb, "He that hath pity upon the poor, lendeth unto the Lord," which finds an answer in the words of the Great Master as told in St. Mathew, chapter 25, verse 40, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

The County of Norfolk, and particularly its capital city, Norwich, has had its full shareof the unmerciful attacks from the air upon civilian life in Britain, latest advices speaking of further damage in recent times, to alleviate which, much support has been given by former residents of this same county and city since the fund commenced to operate.

Another of such assists is listed today under the name of "Norfolk" which may have been observed in this column on previous occasions, and comes from one whose earlier days were spent in and around this particular part of the British Isles.

ALBANY, N.Y., March 17- -(AP).— After it had passed the New York State Assembly, a measure to permit the signing of 17-year-old boxers and wrestlers by professional promoters was rejected yesterday by the Senate by a 10 to 38 vote. Objection was taken on the ground that the move would benefit "greedy, selfish promoters peddling in flesh."

Radicals Battle In B.C. Community

NELSON, B.C., March 18—(CP)—Battles between orthodox Doukhobors and Radican Sons of Freedom were renewed Friday according to vague reports from Brilliant, centre of the Doukhobor communities in the Kootenay district.

It was reported a party of about 20 men went to a house where most of the fanatics were staying and drove them out by using a water-hose.

It was also reported that when John Verigin, 21-year-old spiritual leader of the Orthodox Doukhobors, attempted to enter his automobile he was obsructed by fanatics.

Earlier reports had said some 120 radicals gathered around the Brilliant post office. It was assumed they had dispersed gradually to houses they occupied last night. It is a Doukhobor custom to go into any house and demand lodging for the night.

Mud Bruneteau, Syd Howe and Carl Liscombe, all veterans did the trick....Art Ross may use a ten-man team against the Leafs tonight, employing only two forward lines....Bill Calladine will be teamed up with Bill Cowley and Guidolin. ....The N.H.L. season ends tomorrow after one of the dullest campaigns in history—and yet the attendance has smashed records....Apparently you can fool most of the people most of the time....Connie Mack may be the oldest manager in baseball but he has beaten everybody to the gun by announcing that old Buck Newsom will pitch the opening game for the Athletics against the Washington Senators.

Blood Plasma Found Invaluable For Badly Wounded At Front

In the first two clinics held this week, 159 blood donors reported, with several from Campbellford making their first. One man, Bram Reed, gave his 15th donation, and several gave sixth and seventh donations. The Red Cross here is working to build up its plasma because the need is considered great.

Doctors who accompany the paratroopers in th efury of fighting rely on blood serum to see them through when they hit ground to attend the wounded. Dried blood serum is found to be one of the greatest weapons against death in this work. Badly wounded airmen returning from raids are given a new lease on life with a shot of serum.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

READING BRINGS WISDOM

SOME GREAT percentage of all "success stories" will always show the importance of reading to the acquirement of knowledge and wisdom. Reading is also the key to the play of a great share of all bridge hands. It is just as important to the defense as to the declarer, probably more important. Getting the exact count of three suits gives you the count of the fourth and can often show you how to make a contract or beat it.

North: ♠ A Q 9 8 4 ♥ K J 10 7 5 ♦ 10 4 ♣ 3

West: ♠ 10 6 3 2 ♥ 9 6 4 ♦ K J 9 8 3 ♣ 8

East: ♠ K 7 5 ♥ Q 8 3 ♦ 6 2 ♣ K 7 6 5 4

South: ♠ J ♥ A 2 ♦ A Q 7 5 ♣ A Q J 10 9 2

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	3 ♥	Pass

After the heart 10 covered the heart 9 lead, East played low, seeing that he would only sacrifice his Q immediately and simplify the declarer's planning if he covered. South then finessed the club Q and laid down the A, disclosing the bad division. His sole problem now seemed to be his diamonds, so he planned to get rid of them on the dummy's hearts if possible. To unblock, he cashed the heart A.

Before using the dummy's hearts, he wanted to get trumps out of the way, and led the J. East took this with the K. If he had now made the humdrum return of a diamond, the contract would have been made. The A would have been scored, then two more trumps, then the spade A would have been an entry to run the hearts and throw off the losing diamonds.

But East did some card reading. He knew, of course, South originally had six clubs and four diamonds, for his bidding. Two hearts had been shown, so he only had one spade. That spade was obviously South's only connection with the dummy now. If it was broken, before trumps were out, the hand would be beaten. So East led his spade 5 into the jaws of the A-Q. In the dummy for the last time, South discarded one diamond on the spade A and one on the heart K. His only chance now was a successful diamond finesse, and he had to try it. West's K, of course, set him.

Young People Going Overseas Look To Future

By CHARLES BRUCE,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, March 18—(CP Cable)—The extent and manner with which Canadians are tied up with the common crusade and adventure of the Free World's Youth are well known. But it was brought home with new emphasis when it was possible some time ago to observe and talk with them in messes or on the open decks of transports carrying them to war.

Only under an Atlantic sky, with the vibration of the ship's engines underneath or the creak of her interior woodwork pervasively present, is it possible to get the full flavor of this "going forth to war." It is then you realize what it means to the world and to themselves that the boy from Campbellton, N. B., or the girl from Edmonton have left home to take a hand in an upsurge of the human spirit what is referred to in peacetime terms as international affairs.

It is then you begin to take an interest in the home town's peacetime occupations— to which they want for the most part to come back when it's over—of these citizen soldiers from the farms, the beaches and the factories.

Second Trip.

You talk to Lieut. Glen Gammel who was a student at Sturgeon Falls, Ont., when war broke and enlisted in the ranks. He rose to Sergeant and was sent back to Canada to be commissioned. He was glad to get back to England.

There are subaltern like Ernie Musgrave of Windsor, Ont., onetime radio station announcer who washed out as aircrew because of an unairworthy ear, finally getting over as an infantry lieutenant.

Representative of the R .C. A. F. women's division was Vera Wulff of Sudbury, who was a gauge inspector of war work before joining up.

Also there were Canadian Women Army Corps personnel, nurses and Wrens and smart in navy blue with a single wavy ring were R. C. N. V. R. "subbies" Max Clarkson, Walter Bell and Jack Wheelton of Toronto.

This is all old stuff, for it has been going on for four years. But it is always news too, for the young men and women involved every time a troopship casts off from an east coast Canadian port.

UNDERGROUND TRAINS GUERILLAS IN SECRET—These photos smuggled out of France are from a movie film made at one of the secret bases of the Maquis-French guerillas of the underground who are fighting in the Savoy mountains region. These Maquis have forced the Germans to keep 6,000 troops in the Haute Savoie region, and are laying a solid foundation of offensive for the coming Allied invasion. In the Top picture, at the Maquis base, the day begins with the traditional French military ceremonies of saluting the Tricolor. Lower picture shows former cavalrymen drill on foot at a Maquis base. For security reasons and to make food supplies easier patriots are divided into small groups.

MORE ABOUT—

Canada Plans

States policy of separation of ownership of different types of transportation is being followed. TCA will be separated from the Canadian National railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway will be required to divest itself of ownership of Canadian Pacific Air Lines.

T.C.A., he said, was planned as "a non-competitive, non-profit system" to "avoid the duplication of services that were the outgrowth of competitive building for profit in the field of surface transportation. A second coast-to-coast service would be wasteful and unjustified.

Ownership of airways by two competing railway systems was bringing competition into the airways field, despite the Government's desire to avoid it, he said.

He said the newly-formed Canadian Pacific Airlines challenged the non-competitive position of T.C.A. and reached out for new franchises "at a time when it alone seemed to be able to buy new and modern equipment.

Co-operation Favored.

Mr. King a year ago said Canada favored co-operation and collaboration in international aviation, but would hold itself free to support the policy which appeared best. Yesterday Mr. Howe committed the Canadian Government to a definite plan of co-operation.

That plan proposed that the international authority consist of nations which will have from one to six votes in an assembly. The number of votes depends on the importance of each nation in international air transport. The published plan does not suggest any allocation of votes among nations.

The assembly would set up a board of directors which would be the licensing and regulating authority but which, for regional air routes, would operate through regional councils. The whole would be subject to whatever organisation of nations may be set up for maintaining world peace and security.

A year ago Mr. King said the Government intended to press for a position for Canada in world aviation consistent with its geographical position and progress in aviation.

Mr. Howe's proposals met that by asserting the Government's intention of dealing with applications for Canada-United States connecting lines on a basis of agreement between Governments, by provisions in the international convention draft assuring to each country control of traffic within its own territory, and the right to carry goods and passengers into and out of its own territory on its own airlines.

A year ago Government planners for post-war aviation were confronted with the problem of assuring modern equipment for Canadian airlines when the war ended.

It was then proposed that designers go to work with Government financial assistance on the design of Canadian types of aircraft to be made in Canadian factories.

Design New Type.

Yesterday Mr. Howe said that it was decided design of a new type of four-engined transport aircraft would take too long, but the situation had been met by obtaining the rights to manufacture what was considered the best plane for the purpose in Canada, so that Canadian lines would have an assured source of equipment.

(Mr. Howe is expected to announce what this plane is later, but it is believed to be the Douglas DC 4б. It is also believed it will be made in the Government-owned Victory Aircraft Plant at Malton, Ont.)

In the domestic field the announcement of policy reinforced the position of the Government-owned lines for long-distance and international service. A definite field was marked out for private enterprise.

"The Government desires the rapid development of air transport services in order, among other reasons, to offer post-war employment to R.C.A.F. personnel," said Mr. Howe.

"Canada's Northland was pioneered by small operators who were content to enlarge their operations only as warranted by the development of the area they served.

"The Government believes that feeder line operations and pioneer lines into the Northland can best be developed as small operations. Our returning airmen will not be satisfied, in entering this new field of employment, to serve only as salaried employees.

"In this new medium of transportation there must be a place reserved for small business enterprise."

Bills Underway

bate Monday.

The bill is designed to allow municipalities to set up provincially-administered health schemes within their boundaries, with consent of their electorate. Premier Drew agreed to hold over the bill after J. B. Salsberg (LP-Toronto St. Andrew) termed it a "most important" measure and suggested further discussion.

Earlier Health Minister R. P. Vivian gave a lengthy explanation of the measure. He said the levy on individuals should not exceed $1 a month. There is a provision for financial aid from the province to municipalities needing such aid to set up the plan, and the minister said this money should be raised so as not to increase income taxes.

The legislature gave first readings to three measures providing financial protection on life insurance policies up to $10,000, for mortgagee and for other legitimate obligations incurred by members of the services before going on active service.

One of the measures, introduced by Premier Drew, provides that the Provincial Government will pay insurance premiums on policies up to $10,000 when a serviceman cannot meet his obligations. The policy would be held by the province as collateral and money paid by the provincial treasurer would be returned upon maturity of the policy or when it was surrendered. Three per cent interest would be charged on such advances.

Attorney-general Blackwell introduced measures to outlaw slot machines in the province and to put the licensing authority for "on-the-premises" consumption of alcoholic beverages in the hands of a three-man judicial board with wide powers to grant, refuse or revoke such licences. Only British subjects would be eligible for licences under the measure. The Ontario Liquor Control Board at present administers licensing.

Mr. Blackwell's slot machine bill would provide for seizure of any slot machine. He told the House these machines were placed in small stores by racketeers" who could not be prosecuted under the Criminal Code because they did not operate them.

Health Minister Vivian described his health bill as a "permissive measure" which would not conflict with plans already in operation, although these could become part of the provincial scheme if so desired.

Professional men rendering service would be protected by a collective bargaining arrangement, lack of which the Minister said, probably had caused the failure of some other provincial health plans.

Dr. Vivian said a national health plan was "desirable and inevitable" but he was "not sure if it is immediately possible nor that it can or will be introduced by the present Federal Government."

C.C.F. Leader Jolliffe asked a series of questions regarding placing of advertisements in connection with the Hydro Power Commission and got an immediate reply from Hon. G. H. Challice, Hydro commissioner, that all such ads are placed by authority of the commission.

troops and American engineers took of. They were equipped with machinery to make a landing strip quickly to pave the way for the major attacking force waiting at bases on the Indian side.

Kill 20 Percent

In preparation for the invasion, bombers and fighters from an American air base in India lashed at Japanese supply lines and troop concentrations and in one quick operation destroyed one fifth of the enemy's air strength in Burma.

As soon as they landed in Burma, British assault troops leaped from the gliders and raced to strategic positions around the valley.

American engineers unloaded machinery from the gliders and began making an air strip for the transports which were to bring in the fighting force. Some 24 hours later, the airdrome was completed and the first transport with troops and mules landed.

A huge generator built into one glider furnished electricity for landing lights along the strip. For two hours the transports landed or took off from the field at the rate of one every 47 seconds.

Even while the transports were bringing reinforcements into the first field a second glider assault force landed in the valley a few miles farther south and established a second airport and stronghold.

By-election Set For Monday Leaders Speak

SIMCOE, Ont., March 18—(CP)—The last speeches in the Haldimand-Norfolk provincial by-election campaign will be made tonight and Monday the electors will choose their legislative successor to the late Wallace W. Walsh, Progressive Conservative.

The candidates are James G. Gibson, C.C.F., a Caledonia farmer and prominent Shorthorn breeder; Charles H. Martin, Progressive Conservative, proprietor of a Simcoe music store; and George C. Mutrie, Liberal, South Walsingham farmer and poultryman.

Principal meetings in this largest centre of what is primarily a rural riding will be one addressed by Premier Drew, leader of Ontario's Progressive Conservative government, and another addressed by M. J. Coldwell, head of the C.C.F. in Canada, only national leader to take part in the campaign. Harry Nixon, Ontario Liberal leader, spoke here Tuesday.

Mr. Walsh was elected in the Provincial general election last Aug. 4 in a three-cornered race. He polled 7,868 votes compared with 7,007 for Eric Cross, Liberal candidate and former Ontario Attorney-General, and 2,577 for F. P. Grove, C.C.F. candidate.

Provincial leaders of the three parties contesting Monday's voting made campaign speeches last night.

Premier Drew in a broadcast over Brantford and Hamilton radio stations said his government is pledged "not only to remove the excessive burden of school taxes on real estate, but also to establish equality of opportunity to the children throughout the province." He said "we will carry out our undertaking just as soon as it can possibly be done on a sound basis."

C.C.F. and Liberal speakers in the campaign have criticized the Drew government's revision of rural Hydro rates, claiming that in many cases rates actually had been increased.

"When the service charge to rural consumers throughout Ontario was in fact reduced by more than $500,000."

E. B. Jolliffe, C.C.F. provincial leader, spoke at Dunnville. He said the C.C.F.'s job in the Legislature, where it forms the official opposition, is to stimulate the government to introduce progressive legislation. He criticized legislation already enacted by the Drew government and recent announcements regarding education and Hydro rates.

Like other C.C.F. speakers in the campaign Mr. Jolliffe spoke against monopolies.

"It is no wonder the old parties are so eager to defend the monopolies;" he said. "These parties are financed by big interests."

Mr. Nixon spoke at Cayuga, criticizing the government's education and Hydro policies and its decision to suspend the active service voting regulations in the by-election.

He said that if Premier Drew's election promise that the province would absorb 50 per cent of education taxes previously charged against real estate were carried out, "it would have meant another $20,000,000 in addition to the $16,000,000 already being spent on education. "Drew unquestionably fooled the people with respect to that particular promise," he said.

The party standing in the Legislature is: Progressive Conservative 37, C.C.F. 34, Liberal 15, Independent Liberal 1, Labor-Progressive 2, vacant 1. Total 90.

Capture Hill

The New Zealanders' capture of the Rocky Fortress, known as Castle Hill was one of the most spectacular feats of the opening of the Cassino attack. They fought grimly to take this natural obstacle to their advance from the town's northern fringe.

Shelled fiercely by the Germans, the New Zealanders found the northern face of the hill was unscaleable so they worked around to the easier south side. To get there they had to pass strong German positions in a building known as "The Nunnery," but they edged their way to the top of the hill.

On the 8th army front in Eastern Italy, a patrol from an Ontario Battalion probed a line of the German's toughest defence points Thursday night and returned without casualties after a brisk exchange of machine-gun fire and grenades.

Hunger Strike Continues

Irish Republican Army Leader In Jail

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, March 18—(AP)—Hugh McAteer, 29 year old chieftain of the outlawed Irish Republican army, who was sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment on a treason conviction two years ago, to-day entered the 23rd day of his "hunger strike to death," begun after rejection of his request that he be given the status of a political prisoner.

McAteer has lost about 10 pounds since he began his strike, prison officials said, but had been drinking large quantities of water and has shown no great signs of weakness. The status of political prisoner would entitle him to certain privileges he now is denied—including better living conditions.

McAteer was convicted in November, 1942, escaped from the Belfast jail in January, 1943, and was at liberty for 10 months. His hunger strike is the longest in Ireland since Terence McSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, fasted 74 days to his death during the Irish rebellion in 1920.

Twelve other prisoners in the jail continue to reject all food, and hunger strikes also have spread to Londonderry, where it was disclosed 100 prisoners have refused to eat since Tuesday. The Warden there said the prisoners are "attempting to get prison work conditions changed."

One of the strikers in the Belfast jail was taken to a hospital today in advanced stage of emaciation.

Tass News Agency quoted a Stockholm dispatch as saying the Germans have shut down all of Lwow's factories, and are evacuating their machinery and equipment to Cracow.

At the southern end of the battle line the communique said, the Russians continued to move in on the Black Sea port of Nikolaev, already hemmed in from three sides, by seizing the town of Ingulka, 15 miles northeast of the city, and Novopetrovskoye, 20 miles north.

Russian forces also captured Sidava on the outskirts of Zhmerinka, a rail junction on the Odessa-Lwow line, the bulletin said. The Odessa-Lwow line has already been cut by the Red Army in areas northwest and southeast of Zhmerinka, which is south of Vinnitsa.

The Russians gained control of a 32-mile sector of the Odessa-Zhmerinka line, by seizing the district centre of Peschana, 16 miles beyond it, and the towns of Bratslav, 33 miles southeast of Vinnitsa, and Krishopol a station on the rail line, the communique said.

Economic Group Would Direct World Trade

BY ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 18 — (CP) — Creation of an international economic council to direct world trade has been proposed here by the federation of British industries as a primary post-war measure.

In a report on international trade policy, the F.B.I. said such a council would stimulate a world trading system and prevent the trade of various countries "getting out of equilibrium, as happened in the years between the two world wars."

Functions of the council would be:

To stimulate the need of and the possibilities of supplying the different countries in chief commodities.

To guide world trade to channels where it would most benefit producer and consumer.

To act as co-ordinating body with the aim of helping countries whose standards of living should be raised or whose industrial and commercial activities should be extended.

"The prosperity of every country is the background against which a prosperous world economy alone can be constructed," the report said. "No attempts, therefore, by one country to force its goods on other countries in such a way as to upset their internal policy should be permitted."

The three were on transfer at the time of their escape and left the train Thursday night.

Russians Hurdle Dniester Move Into Bessarabia Outflanked Vinnitsa Taken

Retreat Of Huns In Southern Russia May Be Blocked As Reds Drive Toward Danube Estuary

By E. B. SULLIVAN—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 20—(AP).—Marshal Joseph Stalin announced tonight the Russian capture of Mogilev Podolski, broadening the Red Army's base of operations in Bessarabia, and to the northeast the Germans admitted abandonment of the contested stronghold of Vinnitsa. The Russians along a 31-mile front already have crossed the Dniester, whose high west banks formed the Russian-Rumanian frontier between the two world wars, previous Moscow announcements had said, and the capture of Mogilev Podolski gave them a second main springboard for a smash into the former domain of abdicated King Carol and its rich oil fields.

(The BBC, quoting an Ankara report, said German troops have "occupied Hungary and that all strategic points are in German hands." Hungary lies south of the Carpathian mountains, which were within sight of Russian troops today. "For the past 24 hours the Hungarian radio has been broadcasting only German news," added the broadcast, recorded by CBS).

Marshal Stalin, in an order of the day by Moscow and recorded by the Soviet Monitor, said Mogilev Podolski was taken yesterday by tank and infantry manoeuvre. It is on the east bank of the Dniester and is 35 miles northwest of Yampol, where the Russians made their first entry into Bessarabia.

Vinnitsa, 50 miles northeast of Mogilev Podolski, apparently was abandoned by the Germans to avoid encirclement after weeks of a stubborn fight. The town had been used by Germans as the basis of some of their largest scale counterattacks in an effort to halt the Red avalanche which rolled down with crushing effect on German positions in Southern Russia.

Zhmerinka to the southwest of Vinnitsa already had been taken by the Russians, who also were driving in force to the northwest.

This latest Russian triumph and other Soviet gains produced a stunning effect on Rumania's already low war spirit, according to information reaching London. Rumanian civilians were said to be evacuating Bessarabian villages in the path of the Russians and the BBC was appealing to the Rumanians to desert their German ally.

The German-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau quoted front-line reports to Berlin as saying the Russians also had nearly completed

Pucheu Executed For Misdeeds In Vichy Set-up

By JOSEPH DYNAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALGIERS, March 20.— (AP). —Pierre Pucheu, the former Minister of Interior in the Vichy government crumpled in death at dawn to-day before a firing squad which the condemned man himself commanded to fire.

He was convicted of treason a week ago and Gen. Charles de Gaulle, head of the French Committee of National Liberation, said he was unable to alter the death sentence. Pucheu was allowed to command his own firing squad as a last request.

A representative of the court, two attorneys, a chaplain and the special prosecutor, Gen. Pierre Weiss, witnessed the execution on a barracks parade ground shortly after 4 a.m.

Witnesses said Pucheu thanked the chaplain and his two attorneys and cursed Weiss.

He spurned a bandage for his eyes and stood steadfastly and intently staring at the firing squad as she shouted the fateful orders:

"Ready—aim—fire!"

Girard Testifies.

Another last request of the doomed man was that his body be kept in Algiers until France is liberated, and then be sent to his family. His widow and four children are reported under house arrest in Paris.

Ontario To Get More Draft Beer

TORONTO, March 20.—(CP). —Attorney General Blackwell of Ontario said in an interview to-day that greater supplies of draft beer will be available in the province as soon as beer formerly exported to the United States can be diverted to Ontario consumption and breweries can get back to full production.

The Federal government restriction on supply of beer to the provinces, revoked last week, reduced the supply in Ontario by about 6,000,000 gallons. However brewers were permitted to export what they could to the U.S. and it was learned that these exports amounted to between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 gallons a year.

Mr. Blackwell said the beer which formerly was exported will be available in Ontario but that two principal factors will govern an increased supply for the province. One would be the number of hotels which have equipment for dispensing draft beer and the other the supply of bottles and cartons, both of which are scarce. He said a survey of hotels showed that many have no equipment for handling draft beer.

200 School Teachers Resign In Cape Breton

HALIFAX, March 20 — (CP). —Cape Breton county's 200 rural school teachers resigned en masse during the week-end in protest over being frozen in their jobs at "disgracefully low pay," and Provincial Government authorities said today the matter would be thoroughly studied before any plans for possible intervention are made.

After a conference in Sydney the teachers handed in their resignations in a body to R. A. MacKinnon, secretary of the Municipal School Board, unanimously agreeing that they were being "exploited." A resolution was adopted to terminate their contract at the end of the school year in June, and to refuse to sign a new one until their demands for a $200 increase in salary were granted. Contracts for the following year are renewable each March.

Mr. Christian wasn't there when his auto stopped. He, together with the front seat, was knocked out the left side of the car by the original impact. A slight head cut was his only injury.

Europe Battered For Six Days Without A Stop

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 20—(AP).—American bombers, carrying forward the non-stop Allied aerial offensive against Adolf Hitler's continental fortress already battered by 20,000 tons of bombs in six days, struck targets in southwest Germany today.

The attacking fleet, described officially as of medium size—probably 250 to 500 bombers—dumped bombs on the Reich homeland for the fourth time in the six-day, two-way offensive.

Between 1,200 and 1,700 American bombers and fighters engaged in a series of attacks, extending on through the day and reaching all the way from the French coast to the south-west provinces of the Reich, and as the day progressed the skies over the channel grew thick with planes.

The Berlin radio said several districts in western and South-western Germany were bombed at noon through heavy clouds.

Waves of medium bombers carrying from 2,000 to 3,000 tons attacked targets closer to the channel. One force of about 150 planes hit Creil, north of Paris, while two others totalling almost 200 blasted Pas-de-Calaias objectives.

The R.A.F. kept the stream of two-way attacks going last night.

From Italy night-flying R.A.F. heavy and medium bombers hit the German-held shipbuilding base at Monfalcone, northwest of the Italian Adriatic port of Trieste, while from Britain Mosquitoes blasted objectives in central and western Germany without loss. Mines were laid in enemy waters by planes operating from Britain.

An R.C.A.F. fighter destroyed an enemy bomber over the English Channel last night, while other Canadian fighters participated in intruder patrols over the Low Countries during which several airfields were attacked. None of the Canadian planes is missing, it was learned.

Up to nightfall Sunday the current Allied aerial offensive had covered five consecutive days and during that time bombs were dropped at the rate of two tons a minute throughout each day and night.

R.A.F. Mosquitoes escorted by Spitfires struck at the French invasion coast in the Pas-de-Calais area yesterday. They were followed by American medium bombers and at dusk American heavy bombers with fighter escort

Units Cross Chindwin River At Several Points Seeking To Isolate Allies

Mammoth Battle Looms In China Hills Imphal Base Menaced In 2-Prong Attack From Burma Strongpoints

By PRESTON GROVER—Associated Press War Correspondent

NEW DELHI, March 20—(AP).—The biggest battle fought in Burma since the Allies were driven out two years ago apparently was developing along the China hills frontier of India today where the Japanese have crossed the Chindwin River in force at several points. Stung by the loss of the Hukawng valley and 4,000 casualties in the American-Chinese victorious four-months North Burma campaign, the Japanese obviously were attempting to break through the jungle and reach the supply line which feeds not only Stilwell's forces but also those in China.

The Japanese were advancing in two main directions, northward along the west side of the Chindwin toward the British base of Imphal, and westward from a point farther north between Homalin and Timanthi.

Today's Allied headquarters communique, reporting Allied successes on other Burma fronts, said West African troops counter-attacking in the Kaladan valley had thrown Japanese forces from a previously-occupied position and that new Allied gains had been scored in the Mayu range sector of the Arakan front.

The communique failed to mention progress of the Japanese drive on the Chindwin front midway between the Arakan areas and northern Burma.

The enemy earlier was reported moving steadily toward Imphal, capital of the Indian state of Manipur, which they struck from the air both Thursday and Friday. The drive apparently was aimed at outflanking the Allies to the north.

British troops continued to advance in the Mayu Range, and isolated Japanese pockets of resistance northwest of Buthedaung which were still holding out were isolated.

Japs Retreating

Chinese forces have outflanked a Japanese unit east of Jambu Bum, on the only road leading into the important Mogaung valley in North Burma, and the enemy is retreating, the communique said.

Entry into the finger-shaped valley would give Lt.-Gen. Joseph Stilwell, commander of the American-Chinese force, a springboard for attacks against the North Burma cities of Kamaing and Bogauna, the latter a North Burma railway and Japanese shipping base and possibly give him the opportunity of linking the Ledo road with China.

The Chinese forces cut around the Japanese at the southern exit of Hukawng valley, which American and Chinese forces had cleared of the enemy as they drove toward the pass leading into the Mogaung valley.

Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, Allied East Asia commander, in an order of the day commending Stilwell's troops, said: "Your rapid advance down the Hukawng valley and your successes in a series of encounter with the enemy are gaining you much honor and renown. "You are facing a formidable enemy in difficult country, but you are outfighting and outmanoeuvring him..."

In the air, dive bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters continued to lash at Japanese troop concentrations on a wide area while other planes struck at communications. Heavy bombers struck day and night blows against the Kalewa supply bases Saturday and Sunday.

Imphal stands at the head of one of a limited number of approaches to India from Burma and beyond it lie the rail and river connections which bring supplies to the airports on the India side of the "hump" supply line to China.

Charge Guards Drink With Nazis

BUCKINGHAM, Que., March 20 —(CP)—An investigation has been opened into charges of alleged leniency on the part of members of the Veterans' Guard of Canada in charge of a detail of German prisoners of war working for a Sewing Machine Company lumber camp at nearby Thurso, it was learned today.

Mayor Philippe Matte of Buckingham said to-day a Government investigator visited this town on Saturday after an incident occurred here last Wednesday which aroused the indignation of the townfolk.

The Mayor said the situation probably will be discussed at a meeting of the Town Council tonight.

"Last Wednesday," said Mayor Matte, "two German prisoners were brought to Buckingham by one guard. They were taken to the office of Dr. T. B. McCallum for dental treatment. After their visit there, they strolled down main street, visted a tavern, where they had some beer, and then went to a restaurant where they picked up four girls.

"They hired a car here and drove back to Thurso, where they met the other guard who was to accompany them here. At Thurso they went into a hotel, and proceeded to all get drunk together."

Mayor Matte claimed it was not the first instance of fraternizing between guards and prisoners witnessed in Buckingham.

"These fellows go into the taverns, drink beer, and talk, in the presence of our own people who have their brothers, sons and fathers overseas, and some of whom have died for Canada, and it is not very nice to have to listen to them." he said.

"The people don't like it," he added.

OTTAWA, March 20.—(CP).—Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, 55, of Hamilton, commander of the 1st Canadian Army Corps with the British 8th Army in Italy, has been appointed commander of the 1st Canadian Army, it was announced to-day in the Commons by Defence Minister Ralston.

Col. Ralston said Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart, 52, Kingston, Ont., chief of the Canadian General Staff, has relinquished his appointment as 1st Army Commander—a post he has held temporarily since December when Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, 57, was granted leave of absence because of ill health.

Gen. McNaughton, still resting at his home here, had nothing to say of his future plans. A recent report of the National Research Council listed him as present 'on temporary leave to the army." The General never has said whether he is going to retire from the army and go back to the council. He is still in uniform.

Other appointments announced to-day by Col. Ralston were:

Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. (Tommy) Burns, 46, Westmount, Que., former divisional commander in Italy, to the rank of Lieutenant General in command of a corps—presumably the 1st corps in Italy.

Brig. B. M. Hoffmeister 36, of Vancouver, commander of an infantry battalion in Sicily and Italy, to the acting rank of Major-General. While the announcement did not say so it seems logical that he has been made divisional commande, perhaps succeeding Gen. Burns.

Commander of Canad's other corps — the 2nd—is Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, 40, Kingston Ont., which by reasonable conclusion must be the one in Britain. Hence it is possible to conclude further that the team of Crerar and Simonds will lead Canada's forces in the forthcoming European invasion.

Gen. Crerar's succession to Gen. McNaughton had been predicted when Gen. McNaughton's leave of absence was first granted. He went to Britain a month after the war broke out to prepare for the arrival of the first Canadian contingent. and since that time has been vice-chief of General Staff, chief of

German Troops Reinforced Along Cassino Front Recapture One Hill Point

5th Army Troops Batter Ruins Of Town Capture 100 Prisoners In Wrecked Hotel Where They Had Holed Up

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK—Associated Press Correspondent

NAPLES, March 20—(AP).—The Germans have succeeded in reinforcing their remaining strong points in Cassino and have regained a hill to the west from 5th Army troops in heavy fighting, Allied Headquarters announced today. On the town's southwestern fringe Allied infantry and armor continued to attack enemy forces holed-up in ruins in and around the Continental Hotel.

About 100 German prisoners were reported taken in the battle for the wreckage of the hotel, in whose ruins the Germans had installed two tanks. Allied armor moved late yesterday against the hotel stronghold and Associated Press War Correspondent Lynn Heinzerling said one enemy tank was knocked out.

Fifth Army troops kept a firm hold on the railway station, a mile south of the town, although the Germans shelled it heavily with mortars and artillery.

Sharp local fighting broke out yesterday on the Anzio beachhead and elsewhere on the main 5th Army front, but the announcement said no important changes occurred in the front lines. British 8th Army patrols clashed with the enemy at a number of points.

During the day yesterday, 32 enemy aircraft were destroyed in operations that included American heavy bomber operations against targets in and around the Austrian cities of Klagenfurt and Graz and the Yugoslav cities of Knin and Metkovic. Seventeen Allied planes were lost in all the operations, which totalled 1,800 individual flights.

Medium and heavy bombers attacked the docks at Monfalcone in northeastern Italy north of Trieste last night.

The communique also announced that a Royal Navy warship successfully bombarded the enemy on the Anzio beachhead Saturday.

French light naval forces encountered a small enemy convoy in the central Mediterranean, sinking three vessels and possibly a fourth. Two more enemy craft were sunk by a United States patrol vessel west of Anzio and in the Ligurian Sea.

Sinking of three German E-boats and a lighter also was announced. The Allied naval forces suffered no losses.

Enemy planes appeared in strong force yesterday over the Italian battle areas, more than 100 being counted.

In other operations yesterday, Allied medium bombers attacked docks and rail facilities on Italy's west coast and north of Rome, while fighter-bombers made shipping sweeps in the Adriatic and supported the ground forces.

LONDON, March 20.— (AP).—Twenty-year-old King Peter of Yugoslavia and Princess Alexander of Greece, 23, were married at 4 p.m. to-day in the Yugoslav Legation in a private ceremony before a small number of guests.

The Princess, daughter of the late King Alexander of Greece, had arrived at 2 p.m.

King George VI acted as groomsman and Queen Elizabeth also attended the ceremony

One attendant rolled a red carpet across a sidewalk, while another hoisted the flag of Peter's troubled land. Huge candles used in the Greek Orthodox service were take into the Legation early in the day.

King Peter arrived at the Legation 20 minutes after his bride. He wore the light blue uniform of the Yugoslav air force.

Peter's brothers, Prince Tomislav, in a Yugoslav naval midshipman's uniform and Prince Andrei, who still attends school, came with the young King.

The ceremony was performed by Archpriest Ristanovitz of the Serbian church and Archbishop Germanos of the Greek church.

Princess Aspasia, mother of the brunette bride, wore a blue costume. Queen Mother Marie of Yugoslavia was not present.

By-election Vote Will Be Heavy

SIMCOE, Ont., March 20—(CP)—Road conditions in the provincial riding of Haldimand-Norfolk were described as good today as voters went to the polls to choose a member of the Ontario Legislature to succeed the late Wallace W. Walsh, Progressive Conservative, who died last month.

Ice conditions which had made travel hazardous last week had disappeared and the sun shone brightly for the first time in days.

It was estimated after polls had been open two hours that the vote was coming out at about the same rate as in the last provincial election when Walsh polled 7,968 votes compared with 7,007 for Eric W. Cross, Liberal, and 2,577 for F. P. Grove, C.C.F.

Candidates in today's voting are: James G. Gibson, Caledonia, C.C.F.; Charles H. Martin, Simcoe, Progressive Conservative; and George C. Mutrie, South Walsingham, Liberal.

7 Rescued From Bus 15 Believed Lost

PASSAIC, N.J., March 20—(AP)—A bus plunged from a bridge into the Passaic river during a sleet storm today and seven rescued occupants estimated that nine to 30 other persons were inside the submerged vehicle.

The estimate of nine came from a boy, with adults putting the figure at 15 to 30.

Employees of a Riverside factory making life rafts tossed finished rafts out windows and into the stream to facilitate rescue work, while Nicholas Mulick of Wallington, a fellow worker, dove into the icy water and helped three survivors ashore.

Those saved were assisted from an emergency door.

The bus was en route to Wallington and Woodridge, site of a huge airplane engine plant.

Allied Thrusts Gaining Momentum, With Russians Streaming Into Rumania

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

There would seem to close connection between the rapidity with which Hitler's tribulations are mounting and the report in London's diplomatic quarter that Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin may meet again soon.

The European war is moving mighty fast, and it's gaining momentum. What with the blood-letting being inflicted on the Germans by the tireless Red armies, and the hell that's being poured into Hitlerdom by the Anglo-American air forces, we stand at the moment when great events can happen without warning.

It's reasonable, therefore, that the Big Three should want to check up with one another and (perhaps) on one another. This is the crucial time when each of the trio must know exactly what's in the minds of the others—when none can afford to fall out of step.

We are approaching big new problems which the three, with their expert advisers, may be able to deal with best in a face-to-face meeting. Both military and international political questions are piling up, and of these the political are probably the more troublesome.

Now of course this is no time to start a victory parade. We've got bloody work ahead of us. Still, the Allies must make plans for eventualities well in advance of the events. One thing they've got to know is exactly what happens when Hitler yells "Kamerad." Just how is the Reich going to be dealt with, and what part is each ally to play? Europe's future may depend on that.

The big news as this is written is that the onrushing Red forces are actually in Rumania, having crossed the great Dniester River and smashed through the German defences on a front of more than 30 miles. The Muscovites thus have performed the "impossible" and have given us a stark picture of Red striking-power and Nazi waning strength.

Prussian Field Marshal Von Mannstein's supposedly strong defences on the Bug River have been broken like a rotten string.

Tension in the Balkans, especially in Rumania, has intensified as Red troops push into Bessarabia. The BBC is bombarding the panicky Rumanians with warnings to desert the Axis before it's too late.

Weather Better On Adriatic

Patrols Active Probing Hun Lines

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, March 20.—(CP Cable.) —Officially, Saturday night along the Canadian corps front was termed quiet—but it wasn't so dull for some patrols.

Maritime troops in the central sector destroyed with a Piat gun a Canadian tank which had been disabled in some of the earlier fighting when it penetrated too deeply into the enemy lines. The Germans were believed to be using the tank as a forward listening post.

In the Adriatic coastal area Ontario troops patrolled as far as the Arielli river and returned without encountering any Germans but during the day a brisk fight developed between an Ontario patrol and the enemy. The Canadians suffered some casualties but all the wounded were evacuated by stretcher-bearers.

Gunners had some shooting as they hauled a field gun to forward positions, fired 15 rounds in 90 seconds at a group of houses occupied by the enemy and scored 16 direct hits.

Weather continued fine and warm—more like sunny Italy.

Plane Down In St. Lawrence

Supplies Dropped Before Fog Closes In

MONTREAL, March 20—(CP)—Officials of Canadian Pacific Air Lines said today search was continuing for a Norseman Aircraft which made a successful landing on an ice-floe in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and is believed to be still floating slowly seaward.

The plane, operated by Quebec Airways, was carrying one passenger and a crew of two when it was reported overdue on a routine flight. A short time later the aircraft reported by radio it had landed successfully.

The plane was located last week, and supplies of food, rubber boats and other emergency equipment was dropped, and the men below were seen to pick up the supplies. Before a flying boat capable of landing beside the floe could arrive, however, the weather closed in with fog and snow flurries.

Search for the flow was continued today following improved weather conditions, with C.P.A., R.C.A.F. and U.S. Army planes co-operating. In addition, an ice-breaker was en route to the approximate position of the ice-floe.

Names of the men aboard the aircraft were not announced.

Finns Evacuate All Children From Helsinki

STOCKHOLM, March 20—(AP)—Finland's last chance for peace with Russia appeared to have slipped away Sunday despite a blunt but unpublicized warning from Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf von Mannerheim that it would be militarily impossible to hold Finnish lines if the Red Army launched an offensive.

Finnish Government Ministries are packing their records for movement to the north to a pre-arranged temporary capital, persons returning from Helsinki said today. Helsinki was said to be a city without children, who have been removed to the country.

Reliable informants in Helsinki said the Finnish Government consulted Mannerheim when the peace question first arose, but it appeared that Parliament had not been told of Mannerheim's views before it supported the Government's position that the Soviet terms were impossible and the war should be continued.

Members of Parliament frequently have charged the Government with not keeping them informed. The Finnish people also were not told of the army commander-in-chief's views due to the heavy censorship imposed by Premier Edwin Linkomies.

Finnish informants said that when Russia first announced her armistice terms to the world, a conference was held in Helsinki between the chief censor, the hear of the Information Bureau and Linkomies, whose word is law on censorship, to decide whether to print the terms in the press and allow press comment.

A strict censorship was settled upon, with the press instructed to take a critical view of the armistice terms. Finnish public opinion from the start thus received a prejudiced picture of the terms, it was said.

Responsible Finnish Opposition reports said this was intended to give the impression that the public was backing the Government, but that this was far from the truth. A majority of the people want to get out of the war.

In a visit to Helsinki and a week of talking to dozens of Finns from the highest sources down, I gathered the impression that the last opportunity to make peace now has gone.

Deeply rooted mistrust of the Russians coupled with what the Finns

For Tuesday, March 21

THE SIDEREAL operations for this day point to a definite and concrete opportunity for placing the affairs on a sound and enduring basis, by the exercise of industry, patience and adhering to the duties and obligations in hand, despite some tricky and suspicious circumstances. Good judgment, well-laid plans, attention to details and much discrimination in the way of separating the wheat from the chaff. Obscure situations and treacherous persons may be happily disposed of by safe and sane tactics. Shun dubious contracts and litigation. In intimate affairs, beware devastating attachments or strange lures.

Those whose birthday it is may be called upon to settle very important problems during the year, in which a critical state of affairs demands much shrewd insight into treacherous or peculiar circumstances or wise discernment of strange or suspicious persons. Also hard work, perseverance, rigid respect for duties and obligations. There may be dangerous intrigues and tricky temptations with extravagances and indulgences menacing. Well-organized strategy, sound judgment with safe and sane policy and purpose promise long-lasting success. Intimate or romantic adventures are also beset by curious and ominous experiences. Shun litigation and foolhardy or unconventional conduct. Keep poised and thrifty.

General Staff, divisional commander, corps commander in Britain and later in Italy, and now is army commander.

He directed much of the staff work necessary for the Canadian force which operated in Sicily and now is operating as a corps in Italy. He has been in active command of the corps in Italy since December. His son, Peter, enlisted in the ranks early in the war and graduated as an officer in 1942. His daughter, Peggy, was married overseas to an artillery officer and is active in war work abroad. Mrs. Crerar now resides in Ottawa.

Gen. Burns, is an engineer who received his commission upon graduation from the Royal Military College, early in the First Great War.

He came out of the war with a captaincy and the Military Cross to follow a military career which in peacetime was highlighted by his work in behalf of aerial photography and map-making under the direction of the officer who was later to be Gen. McNaughton.

He studied in Germany, at the Engineering College in England, at the Staff College in Quetta, India, and had just completed a course at the Imperial Defence College when the Second Great War broke out.

As general staff officer at Canadian military headquarters, London, he worked with Gen. Crerar in preparing for the first contingents of the Canadian army. Returning to Canada in May, 1940, he was appointed general staff officer (1st grade), of the Second Canadian Division and later assistant deputy chief of the general staff.

He returned overseas in 1941 as brigadier, general staff, of a Canadian corps, but came back to Canada as officer administering the Canadian Armored Corps.

Upon his return to England with a Canadian division he commanded a brigade until his promotion to the rank of major-general commanding a division. He has recently been serving in Italy. His wife and young daughter, Mary, reside in Ottawa.

British Using Rockets Against Planes

LONDON, March 20 — (AP). — Britain disclosed officially Saturday night that she has been using rocket guns effectively against the German planes since the very outset of the war.

While this was the first official announcement of the rocket guns and included details never hitherto mentioned, an unofficial report on their use against German raiders was allowed to be cabled to North America on February 24. That report included mention that five years of work had gone into the device, and that tests had been made in Jamaica.

Saturday night's announcement said the rockets are in use "in various theatres of operations," and called the propellant "one of the most effective yet known."

United States Makes Fuel.

Disclosure that the rocket fuel was being made in the United States was a clear sign that the American Army also is using rocket guns.

While the Germans have been whopping up talk of rockets in their "nerve war,' the British have remained discreetly silent— so silent that even the mere mention of the word "rocket" was censored from all stories.

"How much the rocket batteries have contributed to the defence of Britain cannot yet be disclosed," the military statement said. "The number of kills, however, is proof that they are a very potent weapon."

The rocket barrage touches off virtually an umbrella of explosives —and in some respects is even a more terrifying sound than the crash of bombs. Even blitz-hardened veterans find it hard to distinguish the rockets from the sound of bombs by their roar.

A sheet of shrapnel comes down from the exploding rocket projectiles like hail pelting a tin roof.

Tests in Jamaica

From the days of Munich, the announcement disclosed Britain was ready to begin turning out rockets in mass production after secret tests in Jamaica.

Workmen were trained in their manufacture, and for three years have been making them without knowing just what this funny-looking weapon was. All they knew was they repeatedly were cautioned to use painstaking care.

The rockets originally were designed to hold off low-flying dive-bombers but since the spring of 1941 they have been used with great success against high-flying among the guests.

King George VI, who is godfather to King Peter, witnessed the marriage declaration.

Foreign Secretary Eden was among the guests who pushed their way through snarled traffic in the narrow street outside the legation.

This union of two much-troubled royal houses was seen in some quarters as a sign that Peter might be prepared to relinquish the throne, since there have been reports the King's advisers warned him against defying the traditions which calls for weddings of Yugoslav rulers to be held on home soil, while the people have a national holiday for merrymaking.

The young monarch is believed to have been warned his wedding in a foreign land while his own country still was held by the Germans would do much to decrease his already-doubtful strength in his homeland.

Princess Alexandra, a cousin of the Duchess of Kent and a great-great granddaughter of Queen Victoria, has been working in the Allied prisoners of war office.

50 Persons Killed

LONDON, March 20 — (CP). — The Vichy radio said on Saturday night that at least 50 persons were killed early on Saturday when the Paris-Bordeaux express train was derailed between Anger and Ingrades-Sur-Vienne "as the result of malicious action."

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . .

The mannish tailored suit is the day-after-day dependable one, the suit that rises gracefully to practically any occasion. It puts on a frivolous front on a serious air with a simple switch of accessories. Choose your mannish tailored suit either out of a store or have it made to your measurement by your tailor. If you wish to be dressed in a more fancy style, wear with your tailored suit a smart hat with veil. The veil will make it look much more dressy and give the hat a soft appearance. Also carry a real smart purse (one of the large ones you carry under your arm), a pair of gauntlet gloves, and your tailored suit will at once take on a very dressy appearance. Among some of the goods that make up these suits the smartest are camelhair, gabardines, tweeds, junior shags, tricotines.

A word about the spring hat to wear with your coat or suit. Flat tops are most beguiling, most flattering, for the first spring hat. Tiny, head-hugging for the sleek young look. This particular style shows off your pretty brow and spotlights your eyes. Among other smart spring styles are seen cloche brims, bumpers, invasion berets, Dutchies and many others.

Choose a smart dark fur felt hat, one of the above mentioned styles, to wear with your light colored topper.

For the new spring dresses, especially for the stout woman, choose a pretty gay print crepe in one of the smaller patterns. Have it made a two-piece style, flared skirt and Russian blouse. This style is not only very new but it gives the stout woman a very slender look.

For the young school girl the spring styles are wonderful. A simple well cut suit for classroom life, something in the darker shades; wear it with a real light blouse, a light hat in Dutchy style or a straw calot with side drooping loops in sunny blue or tan. Smart styles in dresses for the junior deb are made with the full skirts and Russian blouses in quaint nosegay prints, white ground and with either red, blue or brown flowers on it. The coats will be made of nude wool fleece, belted in at the waist in army tradition or a pea-jacket worn with a gray flannel skirt. Another very smart outfit for the younger person is a black wool jersey blouse, worn with a pink-and-grey checked wool skirt. All these styles are so smart and chic for the younger girl.

A very smart spring suit is made of grey and white striped fannel, with plain gored skirt and short, one buttoned jacket. With this is worn a white blouse, made high in the neck with black tie, black belt, white gloves and white beret, and is very smart.

MORE ABOUT— Pucheu Executed

French custom is that executions are public, but a notice of Pucheu's was not published. Due to deliberate or accidental mishap in the commissariat of war information, newspapermen were not notified that the execution had been scheduled.

Pucheu had been a prominent French industrialist. His trial and conviction was the first among the important French purge trials. His fate was expected to set a pattern for all other Vichy officials who are captured by the National Committee in the future.

At his trial, Gen. Henri Giraud, commander-in-chief of the French army, testified that he invited Pucheu to come to North Africa while the General was civil. as well as military, head.

The court two days ago had turned down the condemned man's appeal from the death sentence, which was imposed upon him as an exponent of collaboration with the Germans in his capacity of Interior Minister.

During his trial, Gen. Henri Giraud, Commander-in-Chief of the French armed forces, came to Pucheu's aid, taking the stand as a defence witness and urging that the case be postponed until France is liberated.

Specifically the five-man court convicted Pucheu of treason, malfeasance in office and collaboration with the enemy, but he was declared innocent of conspiracy to overthrow the Third Republic.

In a last impassioned protestation of innocence Pucheu had told the court that to condemn him to death would "plant the first stake in a civil war" in France and declared:

"This is no a court of justice; it is a political coup."

Allies Finish Conquest In Admiralties

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, March 20 — (AP) — American soldiers swept the Japanese out of Lorengau, the enemy's Admiralty islands headquarters, Saturday to climax a speedy offensive for control of the northern gateway to the Bismarck Sea.

Capture of Lorengau and quantities of Japanese arms and equipmen in the key Manus Island stronghold "completes the occupation of all vital areas in the Admiralties," said today's Allied communique.

The Japanese fiercely contested the Americans' advance through a Bunker system which encircled the town. Cavalrymen with tank support destroyed 75 Bunkers and American destroyers firing from Seadler harbour helped the ground troops wipe out the last resistance.

The Japanese have "nothing left worth defending" in the Admiralty Islands, said a headquarters spokesman.

Wild Sea Action Bags Six U-Boats In "World's Greatest Cruise"

By FRANK LOWE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 20 (CP Cable)—When Lieut. William Pennock Chipman of Ottawa rode with H.M.S. Wildgoose into a wild action which saw six U-boats sunk and which the ultra-conservative First Lord of the Admiralty, A. V. Alexander, described as "the world's greatest cruise," he was fighting with experienuce gained during 4½ years of almost continuous sea time.

Announcing the sinkings, accomplished by five British Naval sloops within 20 days, the Admiralty Sunday hailed the action as a modern Battle of Trafalgar.

The 25-year-old Chipman, whose chief comment on the battle was "what a party that was," gained his sea legs aboard the Canadian destroyer Skeena in the fall of 1939 before he was old enough to vote.

Later he was transferred to H.M.C.S. Saguenay, taking a "post-graduate course" as the bold destroyer trailed her coast in front of the German-controlled ports edging the English Channel.

Early in 1940 Chipman was attached to the Royal Navy, sailing in such well-known fighting ships as H.M.S. Winchester, H.M.S. Brighton and H.M.S. Ripley, the last-named an old-four-stacker destroyer obtained from the United States under lendlease and one of the "fightingest" old-timbers hunting U-boats off Canada's east coast.

In March, 1943, Chipman joined the sloop Wildgoose as watch-keeping officer. A year later almost to the day he got the biggest thrill of his life when the ship bucketted through wind-worried seas to play a leading role in the Royal Navy's "Little Trafalgar."

Describing the action, Chipman said the Starling and the Wildgoose finished off the first sub. "There were no survivors—only a great deal of wreckage."

Another U-boat was sunk after a convoy was safely piloted through an area where enemy submersibles were prowling.

"Captain Walker ordered us to lay off until the Starling arrived," Chipman related, "but the Woodpecker turned a blind eye to the signal like Nelson and went right in, getting a kill with a single attack."

He would not talk about his part in the action, contenting himself with repeating: "What a party that was."

WASHINGTON, March 20—(AP)—American planes struck at the Japanese Kurile Islands on Thursday and Friday, dumping bombs on three positions there in a series of six raids.

Cobourg Town Council Appoints Health And Parks Boards

COBOURG, March 20— (ENS)—Cobourg Town Council held a special meeting on Friday night to appoint members to the Board of Health and Parks Board, replacing those members who recently resigned. William Skitch, Jr., T. D. Larkin, Fred Dufton, and Judge J. C. M. German were appointed to the Parks Board and Dr. Oliver Kerr and Ernest Jeffery to the Board of Health.

Mayor Jack Burnet told the Council that Mr. Reid, the engineer who had been called in for the sewer survey at Port Hope, had looked over the Cobourg situation. Mr. Reid's opinion was that as for as the tannery sewer, which has been the source of so much trouble, was concerned, there was nothing could be done except build a new sewer. He advised sewage treatment bases at the factory creek and harbor. The whole system could be surveyed for about $1,000, the Mayor was informed. Mr. Reid also thought that the storm sewer under the town was too small. However, the whole matter was something for post-war work, the Mayor said.

Councillor Reuben Jackson declared that if surfact water were kept out of the tannery sewer there would be no trouble. It was forty years since the storm sewer was built. Conucillor Jackson said that he would be willing to take his branch sewers out of the storm sewer if others along the line would do so. W. S. Edwards of the tannery planned to install a rotary cleaner which would take care of most of the material from the tannery which was getting into the sewer.

Council decided to lay the whole matter over until the estimates had been gone over.

Permission was given to the Kiwanis Club for use of the Opera House on April 1st for the meeting with the farmers on the farm production boosting plan.

Councillor Jackson said he would like to see the assessor at a Council meeting to talk over a number of matters. There were people who were assessed who had moved out of his property years ago. The assessor was doing his job, Councillor Jackon declared, adding that it seemed he was just copying it from one year into the next year's records.

"His wife does most of the work," commented Councillor Clara Delaney.

Council decided to hold a meeting of the whole Council at some future date with the assessor present. It was also decided to have the tax collector on hand so that they could refer to his records while the assessment was discussed.

Bank Men and Women

DESERVE HEARTY THANKS

During past war months the Bank of Montreal has saluted the workers of many industries for their good work in the war effort. It seems proper and only fair that a word of tribute should be spoken now for the workers of the Bank. Banking in these times is a war industry co-operating with all other industries in pushing production, and bank staffs have many extra heavy duties in furnishing that co-operation.

From the Bank of Montreal more than 1200 workers—officers, clerks, attendants, helpers—have gone out to serve their country in the armed services, while numerous others—loaned by the Bank—are doing specialized work in various Government departments.

Many extra burdens have fallen on those men and women who have remained at their posts in the Bank, despite the best efforts of management to fill the ranks. Many new men and women employees have had to be trained and many old employees have patiently helped to train them.

Through the longer hours and harder work, there has been a fine spirit of courage and cheerful, even enthusiastic, application to increased detail.

Customers tell us they doubly appreciate in these trying times the customary pleasant efficiency with which routine banking services are performed.

The management of the Bank wishes publicly to thank the war-workers of our staff.

Provincial Debt Retirement Plan

Widespread interest will be felt in the debt retirement plan which the Provincial Treasurer, Mr. Leslie Frost, has offered as a post-war scheme. Mr. Frost thinks that the Province should rid itself of the great burden of interest which has to be paid every year on the public debt, making the money so expended available for other and more immediately productive work. His program for paying off the debt is simple, and was expressed by himself in these words:

1. A sinking fund should be established to "extinguish the present net debt... over a period of not more than 50 years".

2. Future capital expenditures should be planned so as to repay the province from revenue "over an agreed term of years" if they are revenue-producing expenditures like highways; or financed in such a way the debt will be liquidated within 15 years if they are non-revenue producing.

Recently we discussed in these columns the new philosophy of public debt, which insists that the more money a country owes itself, the more prosperous it will be; presumably the same reasoning is expected to apply to a province. We hope that we made it clear in our comment that the eventual result of vast and increasing public debt is to reduce the value of currency and bring about a form of public bankruptcy; what such a disaster would mean to a province is readily imagined. However, there is no danger of anything of the kind happening, and Mr. Frost has shown a firm grasp of what is wanted to put Ontario in an enviable financial position. We hope that he will see his debt retirement plan accepted, and that subsequent governments will not interfere with its operation.

For S.S. No. 3, North Monaghan

The pupils of S.S. No 3, North Monaghan, are making scrapbooks containing clippings about some of the great men who are working for the cause of the United Nations today. They have information about McNaughton, Stalin, Roosevelt, Alexander, Eisenhower and some others, but they want something about the personality of Winston Churchill. We are writing this brief note, therefore, to do what we can to help them out.

Mr. Churrchill was born on Nov. 30, 1874, and thus he will be 70 years old this year. His childhood was passed during the reign of Queen Victoria, and we have records which tell us that he was a naughty boy, and not very good at his school work; Mr. Churchill was born a Victorian, and he contains in his own character all the best elements of that great age of English history. His young manhood was coincidental with the reign of King Edward VII, and he fully enjoyed the spaciousness and charm of that pleasant period. After he was grown up, Mr. Churchill realized that perhaps he needed the education which he had failed to get at school, so he set to work to educate himself; this he did by reading, and history was his particular study. He also acquired a great love for the English language, and learned to use it with such eloquence and taste that he is now one of the greatest orators who has ever lived, and a great historian as well. During his early manhood he also gained the habit of smoking a great many very strong cigars; we do not necessarily advise you to imitate him in this respect.

Mr. Churchill has seen war at close quarters. He served in the South African War, and in the Great War. Most of his adult life has been spent in public service, and he has had his ups and downs, as all politicians must. Because he is a man of brilliant mind, and has twenty ideas in the time that most people spend in having one, he has been accused of flightiness; his leadership in this war has shown clearly that, whatever else he may be, he is not flighty. We suggest to S.S. No. 3, North Monaghan, that there is a useful lesson in this: if you have lots of brains many people will dislike you, but when they really need help, they will have to call on you; so don't be afraid of using all the brains you have.

Everybody knows that Mr. Churchill is courageous. But now everybody knows that he is a first-rate bricklayer, and that he also paints very well in oils. He sleeps for an hour every day after lunch. He has several rather old-fashioned habits, one of which is taking snuff, and another of which is using his common sense, instead of allowing himself to be bamboozled by people who are full of theories but who do not know much about life. He has great respect for old customs and old things generally, and does not like to change them without good reason; but when he has to change, he can change very quickly. He loves parties and good living, he likes jokes, and his favourite recreation is an evening at the theatre. He is an aristocrat by birth, and he behaves like one: that is to say, he is ready to make friends with anybody who interests him, but he respects his friends and insists that they must respect him, and he cares very little what other people think about what he does.

Mr. Churchill has often been compared with another great British Prime Minister, William Pitt, of whom Macaulay wrote: "That the national spirit rose to the emergency, that the national resources were contributed with unexampled cheerfulness, this was undoubtedly his work. The ardour of his soul had set the whole kingdom on fire.... The Minister, before he had been long in office, had imparted to the commanders whom he employed his own impetuous, adventurous, and defying character. They, like him, were disposed to risk everything, to play double or quits to the last, to think nothing done while anything remained undone, to fail rather than not to attempt". That might equally well have been written about Mr. Churchill.

Lord Bennett's Benefactions

We learn that Lord Bennett of Calgary, formerly a Prime Minister of this country, has made gifts to educational institutions in this country which amount, all told, to more than a million dollars. Dalhousie University at Halifax, of which Lord Bennett is a graduate in law, is to have $750,000, and Mount Allison, N.B., is to have a quarter of a million; although exact sums are not known, the University of Alberta is expected to receive $100,000, and law schools throughout the Dominion will have smaller amounts.

This is generous indeed, and it will keep Lord Bennett's name green in his native land. But we are particularly pleased to call attention to his benefaction because it allows us to repeat a theory which we have held for some time.

Education—the real article, and not a cheap imitation—is very expensive, and it can only be supplied by universities and schools which have a great deal of money. A university which is continually poor, and continually begging, and continually straining to keep up its enrollment of students, cannot hope to give as good education as a university which has plenty of money and would rather turn students away than lower its standards. The universities of Canada have done noble work during the past century, but in the past three decades they have shown a tendency to bow to Mammon. Now the only way for a university to defeat Mammon is to be independent of him, and it can only be independent when it is rich. It can then be independent of government grants, if need be, and need not worry if taxpayers do not like everything which is said by members of its staff. It can keep its standards high, and refuse to admit students who do not measure up to them. And by this latter course it can give great values to the degrees which it grants. The degrees of too many of our universities were taken off the gold standard during the depression, when they had to get students at any sacrifice of dignity or prestige.

We hope that many other wealthy Canadians will follow Lord Bennett's example. The wealthier our universities become, the better they will be. And the better our universities are, the better Canada will be.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Well, now it's a longer way than ever to Tipperary.

Ottawa plans to control doctors. Quite an operation.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

CANADIAN farmers were keenly interested some years ago in the plans put forward by the Government authorities in Russia for the building up of a farming enterprise upon a larger scale than had been attempted by any country. We heard a great deal about Five Year Plans and like proposals for building up large livestock establishments and the cultivation of the spacious wheat fields of the Ukraine. I remember meeting two agricultural engineers at the Minnesota State College, at St. Paul, who were home on furlough after spending two years in the employ of the Russian Government, helping to lay the plans for this great farming enterprise. These men were enthusiastic about the extent of this planned agriculture and the thoroughness with which it was being carried out.

We did learn something of what Russia was doing on a grand scale but we are bound now to admit that we knew but little of the real accomplishments of these hard-working people. The war has brought a revelation that has really staggered the world with their achievements. Living on the borders of Germany they learned and understood the all-conquering lust which drove the Germans on to an effort to pillage the world and reduce it to a position of slavery to the Nazis. I am not going to write of the Russian successful war efforts, but to show something of how completely they planned their defences and re-conquering efforts, call attention to the manner in which they evacuated their farm livestock and its recent return to the home farms laid waste by the brutal efforts of the invaders.

During the past three months hundreds of thousands of cattle, horses and sheep have been brought back from Central Russia where they were taken to keep them out of the hands of the thieving gangs of Germans. The evacuation of this livestock was carefully planned. The London "Observer" made a careful record of these plans and the carrying of them into effect. Roads were mapped out, the livestock, as picked up to join the march to safe quarters, was all recorded in such a way as to make it possible in many cases to return the animals to the farms from which they were taken. Drovers, milkmaids and shepherds (chiefly women) were trained in special schools. Veterinary surgeons and their assistants were released from the Red Army to help in the work, and every hundred miles animal hospitals were erected to take care of these farm beasts when injured or ill. Moveable buildings were used when the weather got so severe that shelter was needed. Motor trucks were used to relieve animals too tired to walk. Shoeing forges were carried to keep the horses fit for their tasks as a very large number of draught horses were taken away and have now been returned where they are urgently needed for drawing timber for new buildings and cultivating and seeding fields.

Food and rest stations were set up and provision for the animals and their caretakers, and now most of the return trek is over, and agricultural specialists are on hand to supervise the reconstruction of the farms. Cows in milk were in the drive and furnished nourishing food for the people engaged in the saving of these flocks and herds. Just let your imagination take wings, if you please, and try to visualize the magnitude of this effort and what it took in effort and self-denial to carry it out. This is what people will do to save the homes they love and this remarkable achievement marks the Russian people as the kind of home-lovers that will make any nation great Truly with them "the homes of their nation are its strongest forts."

ONTARIO farms should have liberal applications of lime this year. I have said this before but it will bear repeating. Wherever land has been heavily croped since the war began there is a tendency toward greater acidity in the soil and lime is the cure. Factories in extracting the sugar from beets are large users of lime and the residue of the lime is excellent for sweetening soil. We have few beet sugar factories in Canada but where they are located farmers should make use of this by-product. Otherwise ground limestone is the best for application to the soil and much more of it should be used. If not already home and stored, chemical fertilizers should be secured at once by farmers.

I CANNOT quite understand the excessively high prices at which farms are selling in England. It is often urged that in times of war people are anxious to invest in something as stable as land. A farm of 154 acres in Lincolnshire, comprising a farm house, two cottages, stables and barns, was sold for £10,000, which would be about $285 per acre

Another farm in the same Shire containing 138½ acres pasture and arable land, farm house, two cottages and extensive outbuildings, sold by auction for £15,000, about $475 per acre. As buildings have dropped into disrepair during the last four years, these prices are quite high. There are, however, always buyers for farms in the Old Land.

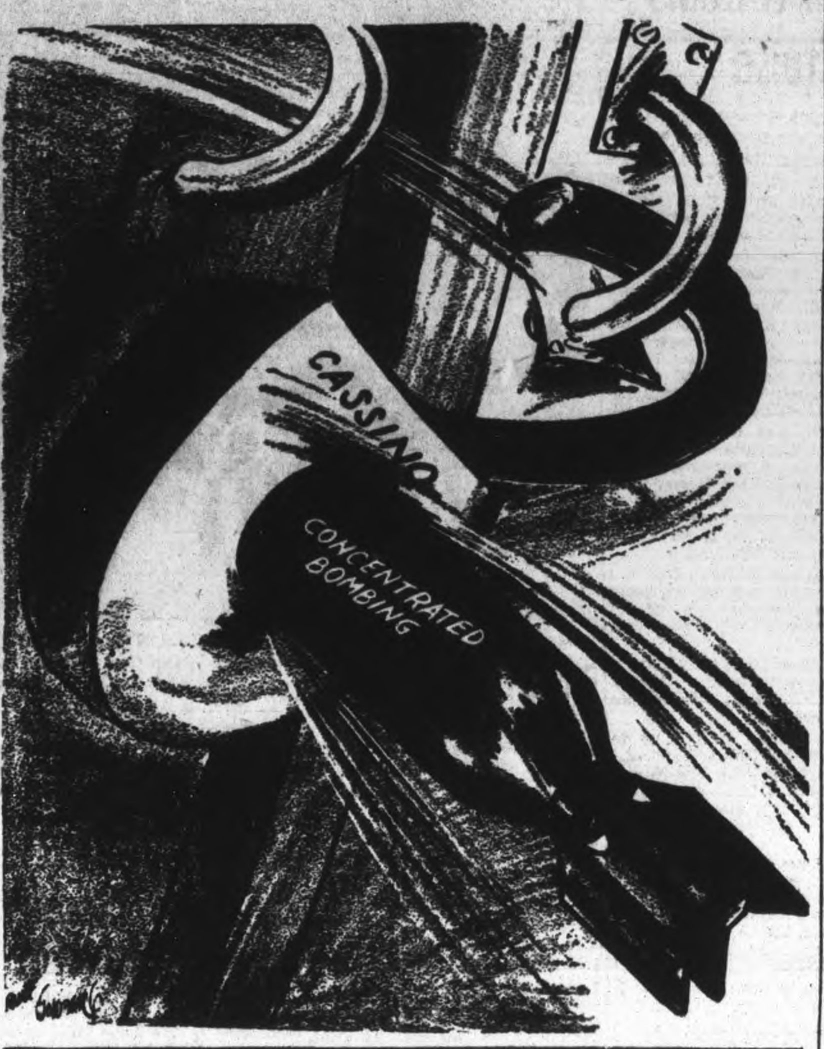
FARMERS should not fail to treat their cattle for warbles in the spring. If you have already banished these troublesome grubs by a series of treatments, all right, but be certain that none of the cattle are harbouring them, or treat for them without fail. It would be easy to get rid of heel flies if all cattle were treated and the farmer who fails to do this is not contributing as he should to the abolition of this pest. Help is short and everybody busy but it will pay well to take time off to do this job and it must be attended to while the cattle are still housed.

Modesty

Professor Gilbert Murray's plea for Proportional Representation in the character of "a member of the inarticulate public" places him securely in the select company of modest eminent men. E. T. Cook remarked dryly that Robert Lowe's "modesty of limitation" when asked to write for the "Times" "is, I imagine, rare." It took the form of "Mr. Lowe will be very happy to undertake to write for the "Times" on any subject on which he possesses sufficient information." There was a proud humility in the petition to Parliament on the copyright question in 1842 of "Thomas Carlyle, a writer of books." The modesty of Disraeli's "I am myself a gentleman of the press, and bear no other escutcheon" may be suspect.

In another field there was Gladstone, in the witness-box, asked whether he were not First Lord of the Treasury: "I am a member of the Commission for executing the Office of Lord Treasurer and I believe my name stands first in the list." And Lord North would not allow even his own family to call him Prime Minister.

THE KEY TO THE DEADLOCK —By Rube Goldberg



Beginnings Of The English Bible

IT IS now three hundred and thirty years since the King James Bible was first published. Shakespeare was then alive in comfortable retirement at Stratford, his famous dramas all having been produced. Suppose, for convenience in dealing with events long past, we take one-half of this stretch of years as a kind of measuring-rod to gauge the lapse of time. One such stride into the past—amounting to a hundred and sixty-five years—would take us back to 1776 and the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Another such stride would take us to 1611, the date of the King James version. Continuing on back, we would come next to 1446, on the threshold of the Renaissance, not long before the birth of Leonardo da Vinci in 1452 and the capture of Constantinople by the Turks in 1453, and about the time when the newly invented printing press was busy with its first important product — the monumental Gutenberg Bible, completed by 1456. Finally, another step would bring us to the year 1281, toward the close of the thirteenth century, when the King James Bible lay as far ahead in the future as it now lies in the past....

But to find the beginnings of the English Bible, we should have to look much further back, another three hundred and thirty years, from 1280 to 950, and even further, into the preceding century, the age of the great King Alfred. So distant is the era when portions of the Latin Scriptures were first being translated into English prose.

In the British Museum there is a manuscript known as the Vespasian Psalter, which contains what is probably the earliest direct translation (that has been preserved) of one of the books of the Bible into English — or rather the kind of English that was then in use.... The Vespasian Psalter, which is assigned to the ninth century, contains the Psalms in Latin together with a literal translation written above the Latin, word for word, in the dialect of Old English (or Anglo-Saxon) that was spoken in the midland counties of England. The translation thus crudely noted down was not intended for the general reader but for the less learned of the clergy, to aid them in understanding the Latin text. It was a gloss rather than a translation—such as is sometimes used by the schoolboy of today between the lines of his Virgil or his Caesar. Set down word for word, the resulting version is strained and unnatural except in those places where the order of the Latin words happens to coincide with the normal order of English.

Another Psalter, assigned to the time of King Alfred and known as the Paris Psalter because the manuscript is preserved in that city, contains what is more truly a translation, though very crude.—From "The Literary Lineage of the King James Bible," by Charles Butterworth.

Last Rites Of An Outhouse

(ROBERT HILLYER IN THE ATLANTA)

IN our backyard still stood the relic of pre-plumbing days, a backhouse, which through some family euphemism, was always referred to as the outhouse. A small grove of arborvitae surrounded it, and to this day I always associate these funereal growths with backhouses. Our edifice had long since fallen into disuse, for the house was amply provided with plumbing — a bathroom on the second floor with a tin tub that went plunk when one stepped into it, and a cellar arrangement for servants. From headquarters came my grandmother's orders that the outhouse must go. "High time!" said my mother. "Out, out brief outhouse; life's but a walking shadow," said Aunt Ella. Aunt Marion raised eyebrows sardonically. "A sensible departure denoting human progress," said she.

But we children were not to be comforted. Something dear and familiar was going out of our lives. It was a fine Summer morning when the movers arrived. The entire juvenile population of Walnut street was in attendance. As the crowbars heaved the turf, a sigh uprose; as with the creak of sprung timbers the outhouse went crazily tilting toward the waiting cart, a wail resounded. The car started and the gable of the doomed outhouse wagged drowsily like Queen Victoria's bonnet on her Jubilee ride. The children fell in, their voices swelling to a solemn chant: "The poor old outhouse, the poor old outhouse, the poor old outhouse goes marching to the grave."

More children with accompanying dogs joined the cortege. The chagrined driver flicked his whip backward to disperse the pilgrimage. Heads popped from windows. And the chant went on. At home in the darkened parlor, grandmother and Aunt Ella sat quietly "dying of mortification" (a curious phrase if you analyze it). Mother said "Fiddle-dee-dee!" and went about her business. Aunt Marion remained immersed in Maeterlinck's new book, Wisdom and Destiny. Meanwhile, with such funerary rites as were never before accorded so humble an instrument of creature comfort, the poor old outhouse went marching to the grave.

Czechs Fight On

There is evidence here that a well organized underground movement has existed in Czechoslovakia for a long time, an organization in constant communication with the Czech Government in London. We have known, of course, that many Czechs continued to resist, but not much evidence has seeped out about a wide-spread organization capable of responding immediately to an appeal such as that now launched. That the appeal was directed especially to the people of Eastern Slovakia is indicative of the type of guerilla activity most likely to develop. These people live in the mountains, where guerilla bands can find protection from the enemy. Thus, in Yugoslavia, Tito's partisans have waged bitter battle against the Nazis under cover of the hills. So in Greece, the hills have protected those heroic Greeks who fought on. Czechoslovakia has been forehanded in that she not only signed a treaty with the Soviet Government, but placed in the field whatever force could be mustered to assist her ally defeat the enemy.—Montreal Star.

Helping Hand

A shabbily dressed man was standing in front of a block of flats, and from her window above an old lady noticed that several people stopped and gave him money. The scene touched her deeply. She wrote on a piece of paper "Take courage," put it in an envelope with a two-dollar bill, and tossed it to the man.

That evening the man came up to her and whispered:

"Heres your $40, lady. Take Courage won at 20 to 1."—Timmins Press.

Frogs For Tourists

In the hands of an enterprising tourist promoter like Gananoque's Billy Wilson, Ottawa's singing frogs might easily be turned to profitable account. In addition to inviting tourists to visit Ottawa to see the Peace Tower or to hear its carillon, to gaze upon the splendor of all the beribboned uniforms about the Chateau Laurier or to marvel at the army of bureaucrats and their hall-marks, the black Hombergs and the inevitable brief-cases, the city's tourist bureau might appropriately bid them travel the road to Ottawa to hear its singing frogs.

Let other areas boast about their ogopogos, their Loch Nes monsters, their quintuplets, their special freaks. Ottawa has freaks of its own in its singing frogs. But it apparently lacks the mastermind to put them to community service.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

A Bible Message

And it came to pass, when the Lord would take up Elijah into heaven by a whirlwind that Elijah went with Elisha from Gilgal.... And Elijah said unto him, Tarry, I pray thee, here; for the Lord hath sent me to Jordan. And he said, As the Lord liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. And they two went on....

And Elijah took his mantle, and wrapped it together, and smote the waters, and they were divided hither and thither, so that they two went over on dry ground. And it came to pass, when they were gone over, that Elijah said unto Elisha, Ask what I shall do for thee, before I be taken away from thee. And Elisha said, I pray thee, let a double portion of thy spirit be upon me.

And he said, Thou hast asked a hard thing; nevertheless, if thou see me when I am taken from thee, it shall be so unto thee; but if not, it shall not be so. And it came to pass, as they still went on, and talked, that, behold, there appeared a chariot of fire, and horses of fire, and parted them both asunder; and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven. And Elisha saw it, and he cried, My father, the chariot of Israel, and the horsemen thereof. And he saw him no more; and he took hold of his own clothes, and rent them in two pieces....

And he took the mantle of Elijah that fell from him, and smote the waters, and said, Where is the Lord God of Elijah? and when he also had smitten the waters, they parted hither and thither: and Elisha went over. And when the sons of the prophets which were to view at Jericho saw him, they said, The spirit of Elijah doth rest on Elisha. (II Kings 2: 1, 6, 8-12, 14, 15.)

War Criminals

The War Crimes Commission in London is now getting to grips with a most important side of its duties—procedure. A good deal has been said about its work on "fact-finding"; there it seeks to establish what crimes have been committed and by whom. But a great many people, especially in neutral, occupied, and Axis countries, will remain sceptical about the intention of the Allies to carry out their declarations so long as they have not announced that the procedure, the legal machinery, has been agreed; some of the sceptics remember how much was said and how little was done at the end of the last war. There is another reason also why it is urgent that the serious purpose of the Allies should be known through the announcement of formal machinery. As the war draws nearer to its certain end there may be those who through fear for their own skins will refrain from the worst cruelties. This is at all events a possibility that should not be ignored. But the long account is still being piled up against the Germans. "France" has just published a terrible record of the methods by which the Jews of Holland have been completely "liquidated." There is now no "Jewish problem" in Holland because "at the present moment there is no Dutch Jew at liberty." It is estimated that 50,000 of them who have been deported to "unknown destinations" in the East are dead.

No R.C.M.P. Strike

A constable in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police has a basic pay of $1,003, which by any standard for good service is low. Pay of officers is not particularly high either. A special war-duty increase as announced seems more than justified. And, by the way, these men in the great service did not go on strike to secure the increase.—St. Catharines Standard.

Church Honors Rev. E. C. Moore

A special anniversary service, commemorating the second anniversary of the appointment of Rev. E. C. Moore as rector of St. George's Anglican church, was held Sunday, March 19, in recognition of his work during the past two years. A special Te Deum was sung at the evening service.

Refreshments were served later in the basement of the church. Mrs. C. Nixop, Mrs. W. Bannon and Mrs. W. Addyman were in charge of the arrangements and the decorations. The large table was centred with a large glass bowl, filled with moss, set on a reflector. In the moss, was set a little spring scene, with birds perched on the limbs of a tree, and tiny violets and phlox placed among the moss. Green tapers gave a timely touch.

Mrs. E. C. Moore welcomed the large crowd, and Mrs. J. Cooper and Mrs. C. Crouter poured tea. The rooms were decorated with pussy-willows and daffodils. The St. George's Evening Guild sponsored the evening.

Puppet Show Attracts 600

Between five and six hundred kiddies saw the marionette show presented Saturday morning in the Juvenile Department of the Public Library. The story, "Babes in the Woods," was taken from the fairy tale, with girls from the library making dolls and their costumes. There was such a large crowd that four performances of the play were given during the morning.

The puppeteers and the corresponding characters in the story are as follows: Hansel, Beverly Gamble; Gretel, Betty Barry; the mother and the old witch, Jean Delahaye; the father, Beverly Lumary; with June Delehaye as property manager. The girls' expression was exceptionally good, and their enunication clear. The children greatly enjoyed the play, and a repeat performance may be necessary.

A Pimple Covered Face Kills Many a Romance
The lives of many young people are made miserable by the breaking out of pimples, and you probably know of cases where a promising romance has been spoiled by those red, white, festering and pus filled sores on the face.
The trouble is not so much physical pain, but the mental suffering caused by the embarrassing disfigurement which very often makes the sufferer ashamed to go out in company.
The quickest way to get rid of pimples is to improve the general health by a thorough cleansing of the blood.

SMILING WAR WIVES HEROIC

They Laugh to Cover Up Hearts Breaking With Loneliness For Husbands in Service.

DEAR MISS DIX — Will you please tell your readers that just because many of us war wives don't go around with long, sour faces, or tears in our voices every time we speak of our husbands, it does not mean that we have stopped caring for them?

We love our husbands and miss them just as much as the women who are posing as martyrs, but we force gaiety into our voices and actions, even when we feel like crying our hearts out because we are lonely. Yet, because of this, we are hurt by people who say to us: "Some of you married girls don't seem to mind your husbands being away. You are always laughing and joking. Don't you ever take the war seriously?" All I can say to them is that it would be a very sorry looking world if all the mothers and wives and sweethearts went about looking for sympathy and crying on each other's shoulders.

WAR WIVES.

Ignore Unfounded Slurs

ANSWER—The babbling of fools is an affliction that none of us can escape, and the pity of it is that is so often full of venom that burns us up. But we shouldn't let it do it. We should pass over the criticisms and slurs of those who lack the eyes to see, the brains to understand, and the hearts to sympathize with what others are enduring, with the contempt that they deserve.

No one whose opinion is worth considering under-rates the courage and fortitude that is making you war wives carry on as bravely on the home front as your husbands are doing on the fighting line. Those wise in human nature know that you laugh that you may not cry, and that if you got your deserts you would have medals pinned above the hearts that are breaking with

The first rumbling of action on the local softball front comes with the announcement that a meeting of the executive of the Peterborough City Softball League has been called for Thursday night of this week for the purpose of attending to a few details of business that require action. Affiliation with the Ontario Amateur Softball Association will have to be arranged and among other business to be looked after will be the question of sending delegates to the annual meeting of the O.A.S.A. which has been called for Good Friday in Guelph. The local league will in all probability arrange to be represented at the provincial conclave as Dave Leether of Peterborough will be a candidate and it is desired to give him the benefit of support from his home city. Just how many or what teams will enter the City League this year is still a matter of speculation but when the weather gets a little warmer there will be something doing in the way of organizing for there is still the nucleus of a number of strong clubs in the city and no great difficulty should be found in rounding up a well-balanced loop.

Bill Calladine has played his last professional game of hockey for some time. Later this week the Peterborough boy who has been playing regularly with the Boston Bruins all season will be inducted in Uncle Sam's Army. His appearance with the Bruins in Toronto on Saturday night was his final fling at the game for the duration. "Willie" as Knotty Lee always called him when Calladine pitched for his Peterborough Ball Club has had the satisfaction of achieving his life ambition of making good as a regular with a N.H.L. club and has had a fine season with the Bruins, only Herbie Cain, Bill Cowley and Art Jackson of the Rossmen doing better from a scoring viewpoint. Bill played all his O.H.A. hockey with Peterborough, making his debut as a member of the St. John's junior O.H.A. team when he was only 15 years old and he had an outstanding record as one of the most prolific scorers who ever wore a Peterborough uniform. He maintained that reputation when he moved on to foreign fields under Pick Hines' banner and starred with the Baltimore Orioles for several seasons before playing professional hockey for the Providence Reds and the Philadelphia Ramblers. His promotion to the N.H.L. came near the end of the 1942-43 season and this year he has been with the Bruins throughout the campaign. His host of local friends will wish him luck in the khaki of the American army.

The Stage Is Set

The stage is all set for the Stanley Cup series. The N.H.L. card Saturday night decided the only question that was left to be settled and that was just what teams the Montreal Canadiens and the Detroit Red Wings would meet in the semi-final brackets. The 10 to 2 victory of the Toronto Leafs over the short-handed Boston Bruins and the 6 to 3 trimming the Chicago Black Hawks absorbed at the hands of the Red Wings gave Toronto third place and put the Hawks in four slot. That means of course that the high-flying Canadiens will clash with the third-place Leafs in a best-of-seven series while the Red Wings and Black Hawks will battle in a similar series. Both swing into action Tuesday night. On form Canadiens and Detroit should breeze through these preliminary rounds and fight it out in the finals. But there have been some remarkable reversals of form in the Stanley Cup series and this could be another of those years. Personally this column thinks Jack Adams' Red Wings have about as good a chance as any outfit to take it all. They have plenty of seasoned material and Detroit teams have shown unexpected strength in more than one playoff in which they did not figure to make much of a showing.

Basketball fans are still talking over some of the features of the final round between the high-powered Transports and the second-place St. John's team which the former finally won last Friday night by taking the third game after the teams had broken even on the first two. The feature that amazes students of the game is that a team which consistently ran up big scores all season and won by lop-sided margins should be held to an average of a shade better than 13 points a game in the three final fixtures. Throughout the regular season 13 points would have been the customary night's work for any one of the Transports' ace scorers but when it came down to the payoff series the high-scoring snipers simply could not get an attack organized. As a matter of fact the scoring honors in the series did not go to any of the Transports aces but to Eva Clarke the hard-working centre player of the St. John's team who racked up a total of 16 points in the three games. Jessie Morrow was tops for the champions with 10 points and third in the scoring list was Peggy Lawless, guard of the Saints who scored in every game and had a total of nine points during the round. Fourth in the list was Beryl Dobbin of Transports with eight points. So close was the checking throughout that Eva Clarke was the only player on either team who managed to hit double figures in any one game.

Tried Boxing First

Not many wrestling fans know that Wild Bill Longson tried his luck as a boxer before he became famous as a mat star. Art Cartier of the London Free Press tells about it thusly: "Take it from World Heavyweight Champion Wild Bill Longson, of Salt Lake City—a wrestling champ's life is loads happier than a boxing champ's, even if the former has to defend his title as often in a week as the latter does in a year....In London for his 174th title defence in little more than a year the other night, Wild Bill offered some contrasts between the mat and mitt game....And Longson should know what he's talking about. For before starting to make money as a wrestler he made a bit of a name for himself in the art of self-defence....He fought a four-round draw with Jack Dempsey in the early thirties, when the Manassa Mauler was at the height of a comeback campaign. He also fought Tiger Jack Fox and a few lesser boxing lights. ....William G. Longson graduated from Utah University a few months after the market crash of '29. Jobs for college grads were getting tougher and tougher to find. His reputation as an ace footballer, though helping pay his way through school, was of little value, for professional football was still years away." According to Cartier the Salt Laker after discovering there was no gold mine in boxing turned to wrestling little more than 10 years ago. When he started going places he had Ray Steele a former world champ as manager but later on decided he would look after his own business and keep that odd 10 per cent.

Ralph McCabe, Belleville's gift to professional baseball, underwent a successful knee operation in the Sudbury hospital recently, says Ken Colling in his Belleville sport column. McCabe went to Havana to pitch in the Cuban winter ball loop last fall, but had the misfortune to twist his knee during a game. The Cuban league officials agreed to pay all expenses for an operation and left it optional as to where Ralph desired to hospitalize. He chose Sudbury where the injured cartilege was removed and he expects to report to the Toronto Maple Leafs' spring training camp at Lancaster, Pa., on March 27th. En route from Cuba to Sudbury McCabe stopped off at Toronto, where he signed a 1944 contract with the Toronto Maple Leafs. President Peter Campbell giving the local hurler a substantial increase in salary over last year. Last year McCabe was farmed out to the Albany "Senators' of the Eastern League, but Prexy Campbell assured the elongated Ralph that both he and Manager Burleigh Grimes were depending on the local moundsman as a starting pitcher for the Maple Leafs in 1944. He'll visit his parents here en route from Sudbury to the Leafs' spring training camp.

Peterboro Takes Volleyball Championship

Peterborough Y.M.C.A. volleyballers are the senior champions of Ontario for 1944. They achieved this honor by knocking Kitchener off the top spot last Saturday night. a spot incidentally which Kitchener has held for the past twelve years.

Last year it was Kitchener who defeated Peterborough in the final, and our team had to be satisfied with being the Ontario intermediate champs. Saturday afternoon and evening, however, was a different story, and they weren't to be denied. To win the senior title, they met and defeated Kitchener twice, their first and last games of the day's schedule. In between they lost one game to St. Thomas R.C.A.F. team, by a score of 16-14. They were leading the Airmen 14-11, when they had one of those lapses, got a little careless and the Fliers caught and passed them. It was the only game Peterborough lost, and from there on, there was no denying them. Peterborough defeated Western University of London. 15-2; Broadview Y 15-0; Toronto Central Y, Noon team, 15-9; Toronto Central Y, Night team, 15-0. The final game of the schedule was against Ktchener and the Petes won that game 15-8. It was the same two teams that met in the finals. and proving that their first win was no fluke, Peterborough again took the twelve times winners, 15-13, to win their first Ontario senior title.

The standing of the teams at the end of the regular schedule was as follows:

	Won	Lost
Peterborough	5	1
Kitchener	5	1
Central Noon	4	2
R.C.A.F.	4	2
Central Night	2	4
Western	1	5
Broadview	0	6

It's pretty hard to pick out any one Peterborough player, as outstanding, because they all played great ball. The spikers usually get all the glory, but they can't spike 'em if they're not set up, and the men responsible for that part of the game were putting them up consistently. Cliff Cadd was hitting the hardest ball and Stan Payne, was also driving them to all corners of the opponent's court. Both these men were particularly cool through all games, Payne acquiring the nick-name "Frosty".

The new Ontario Senior championship team is composed of the following players: Stan Payne, Cliff Cadd, Ab Dryland, Don Crawford, Russ Kitchen, Eric Vincent, Ken Kingston, Nels Stanger, Steve Csumrik, Bill Swistelnikoff and Claud Elliott, manager.

Whitby Put Out

WHITBY, Ont.—The Whitby Bees hockey team bowed out of competition for this season by losing their two-game total-goal Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate "B" series with Owen Sound. On Owen Sound ice they lost 7-1 in the first game and were downed 7-4 on home ice.

A crowd of 50,000 at White City stadium, London, yesterday, saw U.S. Army trample Canadian Army Mustangs 18-0 in the "Coffee Bowl" gridiron fixture, thus turning the tables on the Dominion squad which had triumphed 16-6 over the Americans in the "Tea Bowl" match Feb. 16. Both games were played half under Canadian rules and half under the U.S. College code. The Canadians were reinforced for the second clash by the addition of FO. Bill Stukus, former star of Toronto Argonauts, and FO. Hank Living, who had scintillated for both Sarnia Imperials and Argos, but the Americans were too formidable.

Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League announced Saturday they had "regretfully cancelled" plans to play post-season exhibition games in California because of Stanley Cup playoff commitments. Boston Olympics will take Canadians' place in the games for war benefits.

The Saskatchewan Amateur Hockey Association announced last night that Flin Flon Bombers will represent the Province in Allan Cup play-offs and meet New Westminster Lodestars, champions of British Columbia, in the Western Canada semi-final series opening at Saskatoon next Saturday night.

Manager Mel Ott of the New York Giants goes up for army physical examination at Camden, N.J., March 27, and President Horace Stoneham said any successor would be appointed on a temporary basis only.

The world swimming record for the 100-yard free-style event was smashed when Alan Ford of Yale covered the distance at New Haven, Conn., Saturday night in 49.7 seconds. The old mark was 50.6 seconds.

Attendance and betting marks were set at the opening day Saturday of the Bay Meadows Spring meeting, San Mateo, Calif., when 13,091 fans placed $626,030 on horses running in eight races. The amount compared with $226,818 for the first day's card one year ago.

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

Today is Monday, March 20, and we are still curling. And it looks as if tonight is going to be about as big a night's curling as we have had for sometime.

The first "event of the evening" is the semi-final game for the Harry F. Foot Memorial Trophy, between T. McArthur, winner of Group D in the schedule, and J. Welsh, winner of Group C in the schedule. J. Welsh won this trophy last season.

The next event will be four Lakefield rinks playing against four Peterborough rinks for the "Charlton" Trophy. The Peterborough rinks are to be skipped by L. Ackford, E. Brown, H. Clegg and D. Davis

And then another event is that of two Lindsay rinks playing against two local rinks for the Peterboro-Lindsay Cup. This is the first time for many years that this competition has been played. Dr McKee and J. Hall will pilot the Peterboro rinks and that about takes up the ice we have. All games are scheduled for 7.30 p.m. and are 12 ends.

In the unexpected bonspiel that took place on Saturday afternoon, G. Putnam, J. Richmond and A. Paterson were the winnings skips. At night only a few came out for the week-end mixed. C. Giroux's rink and G. Putnam's rink won the War Savings Stamp.

This is just a reminder to all curlers that our annual meeting is dated for Monday, March 27th at 8 p.m.

St. Mike's Drop First Game To Oshawa 4-3

(By The Canadian Press)

Oshawa General gained first advantage Saturday night in the O.H.A. Junior "A" championship finals by handing Toronto St. Michaels a 4-3 reverse at Oshawa in the opening encounter of the best-in-seven series, the return game to be played on Toronto ice tonight.

The winners opened the scoring when Bob Love counted 5.32 minutes after the face-off but Frank Dunlap gained the equalizer less than seven minutes later, only to have Johnny Chenier put the Generals ahead with a tally with only a minute to go in the first period.

The Students came back early in the second frame to tie once again when Dave Bauer converted a pass from Schnurr but Curry and Ken Smith both registered for Oshawa to make it 4-2 going into the third frame.

After 12.50 minutes of the final chapter, Ted Lindsay beat Goalie Bennett on a lone effort to put the Collegians within one of the Oshawa count but the visitors were held for the balance of the battle.

In the O.H.A. Junior "B" semi-final, Toronto De La Salle Oaklands dropped the verdict in the second game of the series at Galt to Kitchener Green Shirts, the latter winning 3-1, but the school boys took the round 10-7 on the two-match count. The Toronto team will now meet the winner of the Barrie-Kingston duel in the Provincial Junior "B" finals. O'Donoghue, MacInnes and Gallagher starred for De La Salle while Goalie Rabethge, Adams and Wildfong were the pick of the Green Shirts.

Stanley Cup Play-offs Start Tuesday

(By The Canadian Press)

Montreal Canadiens carried their high-pressure hockey right through to the close of the National League season, winning both ends of a week-end doubleheader from the lowly New York Rangers. Canadiens won 11-2 in Montreal Saturday and took the final game of the schedule 6-1 in New York last night. In other week-end games, Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks split a doubleheader with Red Wings winning 6-3 on home ice and Hawks shut-out the Wings 2-0 at Chicago. Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Boston Bruins 10-2 Saturday night at Toronto.

The Stanley Cup play-off opens Tuesday at Montreal and Detroit with Leafs and Canadiens meeting in one semi-final and Red Wings and Black Hawks in the other. Second games in both best-of-seven series will also be at Montreal and Detroit on Thursday.

Herb Cain of Boston Bruins wound up the season as individual scoring champion, adding two assists from the Toronto game, to boost his total points to 82—a new record. Another new record was set by Montreal Canadiens with 38 victories and seven draws for a total of 83 points.

Boston played with 10 men Saturday night, including Benny Grant, spare Toronto goalie, in the nets. Art Jackson and Harvey Jackson scored the Bruins goals while the Leaf line of Gus Bodnar, 1944 Calder rookie trophy winner, Lorne Carr and Bob Davidson led the scoring parade for Toronto.

Bodnar scored twice and assisted in three goals, while Carr earned one tally and assisted in three, and Davidson scored three times. Bud Poile with two and Ted Kennedy and Don Webster added the remaining goals.

Doug Bentley and Carl Liscombe led the scoring at Detroit Saturday each with two goals. Earl Seibert added the other Chicago tally and Brown, Bill Jennings, Syd Howe and Don Grosso netted the other tallies for Wings. At Chicago, Seibert and Clint Smith were the marksmen with Mike Karakas, Black Hawks' goal-tender, earning his third shut-out of the season.

Scoring honors at Montreal went to Gay Getliffe who notched three goals. Toe Blake and Gerry Heffernan registered double counters and Elmer Lach, Maurice Richard, Bob Filion and Murphy Chamberlain shot singles. Ossie Aubuchon and Kilby MacDonald scored for Rangers.

Aubuchon drew the only goal for Rangers at New York last night while Getliffe led Montreal's scoring for the second night in succession with two goals and two assists. Chamberlain, Blake, Heffernan and Lach added a goal each.

TORONTO, March 20.—(CP). — End of every hockey season revives interest in the fate of some missing piece of silverware, and this year is no exception. St. Patrick's Day prompted Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara to muse on the whereabouts of the O'Brien Trophy, which formerly was awarded to the champion of the international section of the National Hockey League when the loop operated with nine and 10 teams.

Baz reported that Red Dutton was on the trail of the O'Brien silver which was believed to be in the old Canadiens Hockey Club office in the Windsor hotel. Now Frank J. Selke reports the trophy has been in the Toronto Maple Leaf Garden since it last was used.

The cup was donated by J. Ambrose O'Brien of the old Sydney Millionaires, but when the league was reduced and fromed into a single unit, the Prince of Wales setpiece—formerly given to the champion in the American section of the league—was recognized as the title trophy.

Selke now reports that the O'Brien Cup has been forwarded to Dutton in Montreal who is planning a new lease of life for it.

Suggestion box:

Bob (Calgary Herald) Mamini suggests a challenge match between an N.H.L. team and an all-star outfit from the Central Alberta Garrison Hockey League. Contending the Western team could give the big-leaguers a run for their money, he lines up Sugar Jim Henry in goal, with Tommy Anderson, Eddie Wares, and Pete Slobodian on defence with Max Bentley. Dave Schriner, Mac Colville, Bob Carse, Doug Cainns, and Alex Kaleta among the front-liners. Quite a team at that.

Incidentally:

A little different form of entertainment is on the book in Windsor for March 22 when a team of former professional stars meets a City League six in an exhibition. Already 13 "old boys" have written and agreed to drag out their ancient bombs for the game, while others have given verbal promises. Among the certainties so far are Mike Melville, Frank Carson, Mickey McGuire. John Ross Roach, Stan Brown. Doug Young, Lorne Duguid, Ebbie Goodfellow. Harvey Teno, Mickey Drouillard Rocky Rockburn. and Stan McCabe. Normie Smith also is nearly a sure bet.....Emil Sporri, one of the West's top-notch jockeys, has been discharged from the Army and will make a return to the track this summer. Emil, half-mile track riding champion in the West, will make his post-Army debut in Vancouver.....Dr. Fred Abbott, club physician and former vice-president of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers Football Club, was made a life member at the annual meeting.

Gil Dodds Sets Two New Records

By BUCKY O'CONNOR
Associated Press Sport Writer

CHICAGO, March 20—(AP)—"I don't get very tired; my legs just won't carry me any faster, explains Gil Dodds, the little divinity student who has lowered the competitive world indoor mile record twice in two weeks and won seven consecutive mile races this season.

In his latest achievement—winning the Bankers' mile in 4:06.4 Saturday at the Chicago relays — Dodds overcame two mental hazards which had plagued him before the race.

One was what he describes as the unpredictable running style of rival Bill Hulse. The other, his own fear of treading too close to the inside edge of the raised oval board track and either falling into the infield or being thrown off stride.

The Boston parson's apprehension concerning Hulse, he explained, stemmed from a meet earlier this season. The New York A.C. star, credited with a 4:06 outdoor mile, jogged along in the lead increasing his speed only when Dodds attempted to pass him.

However, Hulse led for one lap Saturday, trailed by two yards for the next nine, then faded as Dodds put on a scorching finish to win by 20 yards.

Dodds, who preached a sermon yesterday at a Goshen, Ind. church, said track is merely a hobby, subordinate to his first mission — preaching the gospel.

Hershey Bears Defeat Buffalo To Gain Playoff Position In A.L.

By The Canadian Press

The American Hockey League clubs today began preparing for their playoffs which start tomorrow night. The regular schedule was completed during the week-end.

Hershey Bears defeated Buffalo Bisons 3-2 Saturday night and gained a 4-4 draw in a return game last night. Indianpaolis Capitals played a pair of their best games of the season when they defeated Cleveland Barons twice, 3-2 Saturday night and 4-2 last night.

Bears clinched first place in the Eastern Division of the league, a position they have held all season, Saturday night. Eric Prentice and Peggy O'Neil scored a pair of goals in the first period to start Bears on the way to a win. Bison's Dede Klein tallied in the second to prevent Bears from getting a shutout.

Hec Pozzo tallied early in the final for Bears while Fred Hunt squeezed in Bisons' second tally.

Last night Buffalo took the lead. Hunt scored the only first period goal, but Fred Thurier added a second tally for Buffalo at the opening of the second period, and Hunt made the score 3-0 a few minutes later.

However, O'Neill, Prentice, and Bill Hudson came through with one apiece before the end of the second to tie the score. In the third period Eldby Kobussen and George Patterson each scored.

Superb goaltending by 17-year-old Harry Lumley was what helped Indianapolis Capitals obtain their victories over Cleveland Barons, leaders of the Western Divisoin of the league. The Barons slashed 45 shots at Lumley Saturday night but slammed only two past him, hard shots by Norm Locking and Les Cunningham. Dick Kowcinak, Alex Ritson and Bill Thompson scored for Indianapolis.

Last night Ritson and Carl Smith scored in the first period to give Caps a 2-0 lead. Thompson scored in the second and again in the third to clinch the game before Barons had a tally. Pete Horeck came through with the Cleveland tally.

Bill Thompson Dies At Age 75

CHICAGO, March 20—(AP)—William Hale Thompson, who in his 10-gallon hat and with his slogan "Punch King George in the snoot," was one of the most colorful mayors in a city which has a tradition of colorful politics, died yesterday at the age of 75.

He had been under an oxygen tent for 24 hours following a severe heart attack the previous Thursday.

Thompson — "Big Bill"—served three terms as mayor of Chicago, from 1915 to 1923 and from 1927 to 1931. They were turbulent years, productive of headlines throughout the world, charges of graft and corruption at home and counter-charges by Thompson himself of "lies."

In 1927 he contended the public school textbooks were filled with British propaganda and adopted his bellicose slogan regarding nose-punching. In other campaigns he espoused freedom for Ireland and opposed the world court.

At times Thompson campaigned with circus parades, wild west shows, and with his huge stature and infectious smile, he was the star performer of all these shows.

Since 1930 he has lived in virtual retirement.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Today's Allied communique from Naples said a total of 32 enemy aircraft were destroyed yesterday and listed 17 Allied planes as missing, but these figures included operations over the Italian battlefronts.

The German chemical centre of Frankfurt was the man target of Saturday night's R.A.F. 1,000-bomber operation, but other formations swung into France and set fire to an explosives works at Bergerac, 50 miles east of Bordeaux and still others hit into western Germany. The R.A.F. lost 22 planes during the night.

American airmen made Saturday a costly day for the German Air Force, destroying at least 204 enemy planes in the air and on the ground in operations from Britain and Italy, according to official tabulations. Not included in that figure were 79 more planes destroyed or damaged on the ground at fields in southern Germany.

During Saturday's large-scale attacks on aircraft factories in southern Germany, 82 of the enemy were shot down from the air at a cost of 43 bombers and 10 fighters. The day's Mediterranean toll was 122, most of them bagged in the air and on the ground during a heavy bomber attack against five airfields in the Udine area of northeastern Italy.

Rockets themselves are not new, and were used hundreds of years ago by the Chinese for fireworks. But development of the modern rocket as weapon really began in 1934, the British said, when they learned that "the Germans were beginning to take keen interest" in them, and "we determined not to be left behind, and steps were immediately taken to institute research."

The brain behind the British development was Dr. Alwyn Douglas Crow, 48-year-old controller of projectile development in the Ministry of Supply, and an infantryman in the last war. Since 1936 he has worked with a team of chemists, physicists, ballistic experts and engineers, exploring the possibilities of rockets, and conducting experiments in secret deep in the country.

Yesterday's Soviet communique said the 2nd Ukrainian army reached the Dniester on a front of more than 62 miles. Among the 40 or more communities on the west bank listed as captured was the Moldavian district town of Rosoki, near Yampol.

Expect Increase In Draft Beer

TORONTO, March 20 — A substantial increase in the volume of draft beer available in beverage rooms is coming soon, it was learned over the week-end.

The removal of the Dominion Government's restrictions on beer does not solve the problem of glass and carton shortages, it was pointed out. But draft beer escape sthese handicaps, and the increased flow is likely to become a fact in the course of a few days.

Speaking in the Haldimand-Norfolk by-election Saturday, Premier Drew said that if Ontario was to be responsible for distributon of beer it must also be responsible for quantty.

How To Save Other Foods

Compared with the people of other countries, we in Canada have a lot to be thankful for. We have an abundance of food — we will always be well-fed! Isn't it our duty, then, to make the best possible use of our food . . . and take steps to see that nothing is wasted?

Here's how you can help save food:

1. Buy and serve the foods that are in abundance . . . fruits and vegetables in season . . . cereals every day.
2. Serve only what you can eat — eat everything on your plate.
3. Extend or replace meats and other protein foods with cereal products.

Make meat go further by adding Kellogg's All-Wheat when you make hamburgers. You're sure to enjoy the added flavour.

Whole wheat contains muscle-building protein, energy-giving carbohydrates, iron, phosphorus and other needed elements. And Kellogg's All-Wheat is whole wheat in its most delicious form—flaked, toasted, ready-to-eat! Serve All-Wheat tomorrow. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

4 out of 5 Canadian housewives vote Kellogg's Corn Flakes first for flavour! Only 30 seconds to prepare—no messy pots to wash—costs less than 1¢ a serving. Treat your family to them often!

Kellogg's PEP is made from whole wheat with some parts of the flour removed to enrich the bran content . . . then toasted to flavourful, zesty flakes. Vary your family's breakfast with PEP!

Here's a crisper cereal that stays crisp . . . Kellogg's Rice Krispies. No matter how much milk or cream you add you just can't drown their chipper crispness. Appetizing anytime for everyone!

Try Kellogg's Bran Flakes for a treat at breakfast time! In fact, at any time! They're good for you, too! Gently laxative, Kellogg's Bran Flakes help you keep fit for your job and for extra activities!

Easy Does It — Tips on Cleaning

1. Tch! Tch! Now look at the kitchen floor! Johnny can be tracking in more than mud! Germs may ride on dirt—germs of infectious disease. And the kitchen, where food's prepared, is no place for germs!

2. Here's how to get germs and dirt. Put Lysol in your cleaning pail. Add 2½ tablespoons of this powerful germ-killer to each gallon of water—the way many hospitals do.

3. Drainboard, cupboards come clean, too. Soapy in nature, Lysol helps remove stubborn stains. Smells clean, makes you feel safer.

4. Lysol costs little because it's so concentrated—you dilute it for use. Get Lysol today, at any drug counter.

WEEK-END FIRES.

A series of small alarms kept the Fire Department on its toes over Saturday and Sunday. Four chimney fires occurred Saturday afternoon the first at 1:20 p.m. at 9 Park Street south, F. W. Meagher. Others, following in quick succession of each other at 4:40 p.m., 4:45 and 5:05, occurred at 322 Mark Street, W. J. Mahoney, at 711 Elcome Crescent, L. Blewett, and at 201 Rink, H. Taylor. The first alarm Sunday, at 12:34 p.m., turned out to be a false alarm, coming in from 470 Gilmour Street, where it was thought that a chimney fire had started. Firemen were called to 466 Rubidge Street G. Lynch, at 1:44 p.m. when pipes became overheated; and at 2:21 p.m. to 156 London Street D. Goheen. for a chimney fire. A plugged chimney that had firemen out for over an hour at 85 Gladstone avenue, home of William Stevens, was the last Sabbath alarm, coming at 9:48 p.m.

MATTER

"Matter" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, including First Church of Christ Scientist in Peterborough on Sunday. The Golden Text was: "Turn ye not unto idols, nor make to yourselves molten gods: I am the Lord your God." (Leviticus 19:4).

Selections from the Bible included the following from Isaiah 44:6: "Thus saith the Lord the King of Israel, and his redeemer the Lord of hosts; I am the first, and I am the last; and beside me there is no God." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook included the following. "Is Spirit the source or creator of matter? Science reveals nothing in Spirit out of which to create matter." "Matter does not express Spirit. God is infinite omnipresent Spirit. If Spirit is all and is everywhere, what and where is matter?"

Pte. T. Bloom, 19 Killed Overseas

Nineteen year old Pte. Thomas Bloom, who arrived overseas early in December, has been killed in action according to word received over the week-end by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bloom, Western avenue.

A brother, William, who is serving with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, had put in a claim for him, and expected that his young brother would be transferred to that unit shortly.

Pte. Bloom enlisted in April, 1943, having been formerly employed at the C.G.E. Surviving besides his parents and one brother overseas, are two brothers, Lambert at Camp Borden and Lionel at home; and three sisters, Mrs. Benny Kellar, Peterborough, and Geraldine and Shirley at home.

A highlight of the celebration was the gift of a large bouquet of seasonal flowers, tied with a ribbon on which was marked 24th anniversary and addressed to Smith and Freeman, Butchers, etc. This floral tribute coupled with the dig at the pair came from the McCannan shop next door. At closing time, many of the regulars had gathered and Bob Hendry read a poem, made up for the occasion which was both timely and humorous.

Dr. Waite Safe On Trip North; Car Marooned

Anxiety as to the whereabouts of Dr. C. B. Waite who left here Sunday morning on a call to Gooderham and had not reached that village late last night was cleared up this morning when Dr. Waite telephoned his wife that he was safe and well.

Late Saturday night Dr. Waite had received a call from Dr. Jamieson of Minden, woman coroner in that district, for assistance in investigating a sudden death. He left here for Gooderham around 9 o'clock Sunday morning and when he had not arrived home at a late hour last night Mrs. Waite telephoned to Dr. Jamieson and learned that Dr. Waite had not arrived at the northern village.

This morning Provincial Constable L. A. McClure left to investigate the whereabouts of the missing doctor but later Dr. Waite's telephone message from somewhere in the northern part of the county relieved the strain.

It was learned later that Dr. Waite had attempted to reach Gooderham by the Buckhorn Road, unaware of the fact that the northern end of road had not been open to motor traffic. He got to within seven miles of Gooderham but finally his car was stalled in the drifts at 4.30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Dr. Waite walked a mile and a half north but could not locate any help so he retraced his steps and after travelling a mile and a half south of his car noticed car tracks leading up a side road. Another walk of about the same distance brought him to the home of Austin Hines.

Hines and his wife and Dr. Waite drove to the stalled car in a sleigh with a team of horses and had a long battle with the snow before they finally succeeded in extricating the machine at 1 o'clock this morning.

By that time Dr. Waite was exhausted so he spent the remainder of the night at the Hines' home and this morning made his way to a telephone and called his home to say that he was safe.

Meanwhile an extensive search had been underway. Provincial Constable L. A. McClure and Chief Garnet Samis of Lakefield travelled north on the Buckhorn Road. At the same time Provincial Constable Stan Palmateer of Bancroft along with Deputy Fire Rangers Wm. Stringer of Bancroft and Dan Whitmore of Apsley patrolled the Bancroft-Apsley-Burleigh Falls Road and then over the former Oregon Trail to Buckhorn. Constable Duval of Gooderham in the meantime started south with a team of horses and sleigh to render assistance in the search.

Police Honored Archie Menzies

Members of the police department said farewell on Saturday night to Officer Archie Menzies, who has severed his connection with the local force and taken a position as commercial traveller with a milling firm.

Most of the members of the department were on hand to participate in the presentation to the former officer of a leather duffle bag. Chief Constable Samuel Newhall voiced the regret of the force in the loss of the services of Officer Menzies and Inspector James F. Reid made the presentation.

Detective Sergt. W. E. Meagher and other officers also spoke and the recipient in acknowledging the gift stated that he would miss his association with the Peterborough police department.

Wounded To Get Speedier Mail

A move to enable soldiers wounded in the fighting overseas to notify their next-of-kin in Canada as soon as possible has been undertaken by the Post Office Department, with the introduction of "priority casualty postcards" for the use of Army personnel who have been admitted to hospital suffering from other than minor ailments. Authorized by the Canadian Army, these priority casualty postcards will be furnished each patient, either to be completed by him or on his behalf by an orderly or nurse.

When the card has been filled in it is despatched by the most expeditious means available to the nearest Canadian Army Field Post Office for transmission by air mail, if possible, to the Canadian Army Records Office in the United Kingdom. After verification at this office, it will be transferred to the Canadian Postal Corps and given onward transmission by first air mail despatch to the next-of-kin in Canada.

To speed up the despatch of mail from relatives in Canada to soldiers hospitalized overseas the Post Office makes the suggestion that the words "In Hospital" be added to the unit address usually used. Letters bearing this indication, instead of being forwarded to the soldier's unit, are routed to the Records Office in the United Kingdom or with the Central Mediterranean Forces, as the case may be, and are forwarded from there to the serviceman's present location.

This procedure shortcuts the normal practice of delivery to the unit and then tracing through the various steps from one unit to another and eventually to the hospital. Moreover, letters carrying the notation "In Hospital" are given priority treatment at the Base Post Office and preference in the matter of transport according to the postage rate paid, air or surface.

Two Men Injured Third Escapes In Truck Crash

Two employees of Sunshine Dairy were seriously injured and a third escaped with bruises when the light truck in which they were riding rolled over on the Keene Road near the CHEX transmitter Saturday evening.

The injured men who were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital by Ambulance after the accident were Ambrose Lee, 589 Engleburn avenue, the alleged driver of the truck, who sustained a severe laceration of the lower part of the back, requiring ten stitches and a cut on the head, and Harold Babbs, Stewart street, who suffered a broken leg near the hip. The third occupant of the truck, Richard Toner, 589 Engleburn avenue, was bruised, but otherwise uninjured.

According to Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure, who investigated the accident the truck ran along the shoulder of the road for some distance, then skidded on its side and finally rolled over. The top of the machine was crumpled but the damage as a whole was not as extensive as the nature of the accident would indicate.

The three men were on their way to Keene to pick up a load of milk when the crash came. Empty milk cans were tossed out of the truck before it rolled over.

Vision Of Peterboro County Reeve In Robes Arouses Reporter's Humorous Speculation

The Warden of Waterloo county not only wears a gown during its sessions but also a tricorn hat. The official regalia was purchased in 1928 at a cost of $137, but the headgear of dignity had recently become frayed on the edges and has been overhauled by a milliner.

Such completeness of regalia suggests by contrast the gay in raiment between the wardens of Waterloo and Peterborough. Warden Isaac Anderson in silk-faced tricorn and gown is almost as remote from rural imagination at Selwyn, Keene or Warsaw as a resolution to spend $137 to deck out the presiding Warden with proper panoply.

Folks back home would probably smile broadly at the imposing effect of P. J. Mather, Norman Lean, Ernie Seeney, James Gifford or any of the other wardens of recent years. In fact some of the lads around town would be quite willing to part with a half a dollar to attend any session in which Deputy-Reeve Alex. Archibald would don the tricorn, assuming both the bailiments and the mien of befitting dignity. And, if they could ever get one on Rork Ferguson of Norwood the house would be packed.

Auburn School Totals $123 For War Victims

Actions always speak louder than words, and when people keep on in the doing of any kind of work outside of their routine it is a foregone conclusion that they must like to do it.

When this entails some cost to themselves, and the work is of a nature as to benefit others, rather than themselves, their efforts become elevated ot a higher plane, for one of life's greatest missions is to help others who are unfortunate or in distress.

During 1943, the Auburn School which is No. 11 in the Township of Douro held a number of events which were responsible for raising the sum of $82.37 to help the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, and already this year they have raised this to a total of $132.88 with their latest effort reported in this column to-day.

They held their third social evening since the turn of the year on Friday, March 10, under the leadership of Miss Lena Dewart, the teacher, who incidentally has been at the helm since they first commenced this work on behalf of the fund, and this was responsible for the latest donation of $15.

To the parents of the children at this school must also go much credit for the loyal way in which they have supported the efforts put forward to help the fund, in the name of their school.

Euchre Club Five Times.

The Round About Euchre Club of Otonabee started in the autumn months last year to give support to the fund. since which time they have made four other gifts counting the one listed today all of which have been turned over by Mrs. Ernest Fife.

This group goes from house to house for their euchre parties, which is not quite so convenient in the outlying districts as in the city itself so they deserve a full measure of credit for their continuing up to the point of making five donations.

Another gift from the district outside of city limits comes in the nature of a personal one from Arthur Williams of South Monaghan, while from within the city itself a repeat gift is listed "From Nancy," a similar amount having appeared on a number of occasions from this young lady living in the West-end of the city, who incidentally has taken part in other activities on behalf of the fund as well.

Registration Renewed.

March 19 marks the day on which the registration for the fund is dated, and since registration with the War Charities Board at Ottawa is only good for one year, this has to be renewed.

Some time ago the fund management took steps to apply for a renewal and this having been granted the renewal certificate to March 19, 1945, may now be observed on display in the Examiner Office.

Charged With Giving 14-Year-Old Liquor

Hearing a crash of broken glass coming from behind a billboard on Brock street at the rear of the Paragon Hall on Saturday night, Constables John Morrow and Andre Dalton investigated, and as a result Raynard Clair Sanderson, formerly of Port Hope, faced two liquor charges in police court this morning, and a 14-year-old boy will be tried in juvenile court on a charge of consuming.

Sanderson, who was in military uniform when he appeared in court, told the magistrate that he belonged to the Prince of Wales Rangers, Reserve, and had formerly been in the active army. He said that he had his discharge from the latter.

He pleaded guilty to a charge of having been drunk and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs, but on a second count of having illegally supplied liquor to a minor he entered a plea of not guilty and was remanded until tomorrow. Bail was fixed at $200.

Pte. D. Anderson Second Boy Killed March 11

Tragedy struck twice at Peterborough homes on Saturday, when Mr. and Mrs. S. Anderson, 269 Burnham Street, received word that their son, Pte. Donald Anderson, had been killed in action March 11. A telegram also notified Mr. and Mrs. George Bloom, Western Avenue, that their son, Thomas, had been killed the same day, apparently under similar circumstances.

Pte. Anderson went overseas December 2, as a reinforcement and was attached to the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, but was stationed in England. His last letter stated that he was on draft, and a brother, Stewart, overseas, wrote later that he thought he was being sent to North Africa. But there has been no definite word of any change.

The young soldier was 18, and would have celebrated his nineteenth birthday last Thursday, March 16. Before enlisting May 10, 1943, he worked at Braund's centre store.

Surviving besides his parents are four brothers: Stewart of the R.C.A.P.C., overseas; Gerald of Peterborough; Clifford of Oshawa, and Ernest at home; and three sisters: Mrs. N. Cox and Mrs. W. Ward of Peterborough, and Mrs. V. Hornby of Oshawa.

County Be Asked To Pay Deficit On Own Patients

City council will not pay any part of a 1944 deficit incurred by treatment of county patients. That is the statement of two aldermen who told the Examiner that it was simply absurd of the city to continue paying one dollar of any amount which should come from the county.

"I don't know that we've told the Hospital Board yet, but that is the general feeling, and Mayor Hamilton himself expressed it pretty strongly the other night.

There has been a rumor that a few citizens are prepared to pay for an injunction which would have the effect of restricting to city patients any payments toward deficits. The Board has often reminded the council of the private bill which gives the hospital certain rights. Let the Board hew to the line, and if they do so they cannot find one word in their legislation that requires the citizens of Peterborough to pay a nickel for the care of non-resident patients."

Plan Injunction

The Examiner was also told that a little group of citizens has been seriously considering applying for an injunction to prevent the city authorities from assuming any part of the 1943 hospital deficit that could be traced to non-resident patients.

The county council held a recent meeting which, it is understood, was called especially to discuss "the hospital question."

One of the alderman also said: "We don't want to appear to be offensive to residents of the county or other parts of the district when we say that the city people have no obligation to Nicholls Hospital for the care of patients who come from outside the city's borders."

loneliness and anxiety for the husbands who make all of life to you, and that not the least of the contributions you are making to your country is setting an example in heroism.

I wonder what these croakers, who berate you for nailing on your faces the smile that won't come off and for doing your weeping into your pillows at night instead of in public, think would be gained if you went about beating upon your breast and bewailing your sad fate? Would it buck up the public morale for the world to be filled with women who are figures of gloom and who left a trail of depression wherever they went?

Millions of mothers and wives have sons and husbands in the army. Would it cheer them up to be with other women who had no other topic of conversation than the horrors of concentration camps and the dangers of war? I will say no, a thousand times no. The only thing that keeps us sane in a time of stress like like this, when every heart knows its own bitterness, is the fortitude to bear what we must bear in silence and not add our sorrows to anyone else's. And that, you army and navy wives, who are keeping up a pretense of a gaiety you do not feel, are doing. May God bless you for it and confound your critics.

DEAR MISS DIX—Deep in my heart I know that I have one of the best husbands in the world, yet he bores me to tears. He doesn't smoke. Never spend money foolishly. Never goes out without me. Gives me everything I want in reason and helps me in the house, doing things many a man wouldn't do.

But the minute he sits down he picks up a paper and then falls asleep and snores all over the place. He used to be a nice-looking fellow, but he has gotten awfully fat and is getting bald-headed, yet he isn't even thirty. I am always insulting him and belittling him, but he never does anything about it, just shuts himself up in a shell and that makes me feel like a beast.

If it were not for my two children, I would have left him long ago, but I am sick and tired of him. What should I do?

PERPLEXED

Snoring Husband Not Half Bad

ANSWER—A man can have much worse faults than snoring. Many a woman with a drunken husband, or a philanderer, or a lazy good-for-nothing loafer whom she has to support, would be glad enough to change places with a wife whose husband's only fault is that he snores.

When a wife gets fed up with her husband and loses her taste for him, the only remedy that does any good is for her to have a change of scene and air and personalities. Let her leave him and try being on her own awhile. Let her try supporting herself and living in one room and having no good, kind man wait on her hand and foot. And, my word for it, she will fall in love with him all over again and think snoring the sweetest music in the world.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Do you think it wrong for a teen-aged girl to smoke? We girls have done it secretly, but we know that our parents would object if they knew. Many of us high school girls don't know what to do about it. What do you think?

TEEN-AGERS

ANSWER—Of course, it is no sin for a girl to smoke, but doctors are agreed that it is injurious to adolescents. So, inasmuch as you haven't formed the smoking habit and there is a lack of cigarettes for the boys in the service, why don't you give up cigarettes as part of your war sacrifices?

Anyway, if you are going to smoke, don't do it secretly. It is worse to deceive your parents and do things that they disaprove of behind their backs than it is to smoke.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By J. R. Scott

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP)— When the suggestion was advanced last winter that something ought to be done to make emergency trading easier, the club owners just howled "no syndicate baseball" and let it go . . . but it looks as if those emergencies requiring quick action are at hand . . . The Yankees, with Bill Dickey in the Navy and Rollie Hemsley on the farm, had to scurry around for catchers and came up with Joe Glenn, also Navy bound, Mike Garbark and Engineer Bob Collins, whose train to camp was somewhat late . . . The Dodgers, with inadequate replacements for Mickey Owen, who will make frequent trips to his farm, expect to put Scout Clyde Sukeforth into action behind the plate. . . . But the Giants, counting a couple of veterans who haven't signed, six on the Jersey City roster and a couple who turned up for tryouts, can call on an even dozen receivers . . . Looks as if something must be out of balance.

Decoy De McCoy

Rush Brown, a Sioux Falls, S.D., fisherman, claims this stunt really works if you're interested only in catching large fish. . . . Rush obtained a large mounted pickerel, weighed it and attached a stout cord; then he headed for a spot where he knew the big ones hung out. . . . On arrival, Brown lowered the stuffed fish some eight feet under the boat and all the little ones, fearful of being gobbled up, left those parts and didn't return . . . Rush claims he didn't hook a small fish all day but did catch several pickerel about the size of the reverse decoy.

HOW TO MAKE HIM BID

THERE IS only one positive way to make a good partner bid, after the opponents have opened the auction. That is by bidding their suit. This is the emphatic means of letting him know you have enough strength for a game in some other declaration and asking him to select it on the basis of his distribution. You tell him thereby that you have such high card strength you know he hasn't any. Later bids of their suit force him with still more specific information about your power and its location.

North was shooting at big game from the start. He didn't want to be restricted to just a modest number of points when he had that mighty freak. The only possible correct first bid on his big holding was the one he made, 2-Clubs. If he had doubled, he would have taken a chance that South had a fair club holding and might pass for penalties and then set the opponent three or four tricks. He would have chanced a possible pass if he had bid 2-Spades. The only way to show his terrific power was with 2-Clubs.

When East tried to shut North-South out with his 5-Club jump and this came around to North, again the only chance to make sure of a bid from his partner was with the 6-Clubs he bid. If he had tried a bid of six in either major suit, he might have got left in the wrong suit, with one opponent holding damaging length in it.

A really beautiful bid was after the 6-Diamonds doubled came to him. When he then bid 7-Clubs, he made it clear that he was not interested in diamonds; otherwise he would have redoubled. Hence, he was compelling his partner to bid whichever he preferred between hearts and spades. South, a keen analyst, E. Hamilton Campbell, of New York, got the idea absolutely clear. With full confidence in his partner, he bid 7-Hearts and of course made the contract without any trouble.

Seven Points Outlined In Peace Plan

BERNE, March 20.— (AP).—The Journal de Geneve, quoting an unidentified diplomat, said Saturday the Allies had presented seven conditions of armistice for Rumania to Prince Barbu Stirrey, Rumanian politician, including the return of Bessarabia and Northern Bucovina to Russia.

By this same restoration of the 1940 frontiers, the northern branch of the Danube would be returned to the U.S.S.R. and a joint Russian-Rumanian commission would be established to control the river's mouth, replacing the pre-war European control commission.

The other five conditions:

1. Rumania would undertake within a specified period to free all of her territory of German troops and break all diplomatic relations with the Reich.

2. The Axis-manoeuvred cession of 3,000 square miles of Southern Dobruja to Bulgaria by Rumania would not be recognized.

3. The Soviet government would undertake to intervene at the peace conference in favor of returning all of Transylvania to Rumania—restoring the 17,370 square miles of Southern Transylvania ceded to Hungary by Rumania in 1940.

4. Up to the end of the war with the Reich, certain Rumanian villages would be occupied by Russian troops.

5. Russia would not expect war indemnities, but would get restitution of machinery and installations exported by the Rumanians from territory they had occupied. Persons guilty of cruelty to Russians would be extradited to the U.S.S.R. for trial.

Millbrook Red Cross Sends Out 11 Quilts

MILLBROOK, March 20—(ENS)—Articles shipped from the Red Cross rooms last week included 11 quilts, five being received from Fallis Line, two from Carmel, and the other four being completed here.

In the British civilian class, Mrs. H. R. Edmunds shipped 3 jumpers, 6 years size; 3 blouses and 5 coats for 6-year-olds. The Evening group had a goodly number of workers, using up all the material on hand, and shipping 12 dozen hospital pads, under direction of the convener, Jean L. Burnham. New material will be on hand to continue the work on quota for this group by next Tuesday evening. Quilting and sewing are always ready for the afternoon workers.

3-Power Conference

LONDON, March 20 — (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt may meet after the London visit of Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., Undersecretary of State, to iron out political questions, and the possibility of another three-power conference with Premier Joseph Stalin was suggested to-day by reports from non-British diplomats.

"CORRECT PREPARATION OF MAIL IS VITALLY IMPORTANT"
Says Postmaster General

Ottawa,

To all Canadians:

In this global war, Canadians are serving in many parts of the world. Their greatest thrill of happiness comes with their mail from loved ones at home. No other single element plays such a great part in keeping up their morale.

Yet, through carelessness or oversight in the addressing of letters and preparation of parcels, more than 22,000 letters and 2,500 parcels every month require re-direction or repacking in the Base Post Office.

If parcels are not properly packed, damage or loss of contents is almost inevitable, as well as damage to other parcels, and delays in delivery to the addressee.

Please help your Post Office also in speeding the delivery of mail and parcels to your relatives and friends overseas by taking extra care to put the address clearly and correctly on each letter or parcel you send.

With the Post Office, in spite of manpower shortages, handling the greatest volume of mail in its history, your co-operation is vital and essential, and one of the most important things you can do is to make sure that your mail is correctly addressed and all parcels securely packed.

Yours faithfully,
Postmaster General.

DO THESE 3 SIMPLE THINGS
1. Make sure the address is clearly and correctly written.
2. Write a return address in the upper left hand corner of the envelope.
3. Affix the correct postage, and mail as early in the day as you can.

School Inspector Praises Staff

LAKEFIELD, March 20—(ENS)—The High School Board met for the March meeting on Wednesday evening with Chairman J. W. Ridpath and Trustees E. W. Bailey, F. S. Coyle, and A. H. Clark present.

The report of Inspector R. H. Wallace said that accommodation at the High School is in good condition and adequate for the present enrolment and program of studies. Since the previous inspection the following improvements have been made: Window sill deflectors, more bookshelves in each room, double windows for the Science Room, metal hangers for maps in the halls. The teachers share in giving leadership in the literary, dramatic, musical and athletic activities of the pupils. None of the teaching observed was inefficient, and most of it had special merit. Mr. Hamilton, the most recently appointed member of the staff, has made a good beginning and gives promise of becoming a successful teacher, it was reported.

Good Staff.

In conclusion Inspector Wallace wrote that the work of the school is being carried on efficiently. The pupils are responding well to the teaching of a competent staff and are well advanced in the various courses. Good training is being given in habits of thorough effort and accurate thinking. It is a tribute to the leadership and influence of Principal Harvey, who for a considerable period has served this community well in his administration of the school, he declared.

It was moved by Trustees Clark and Coyle that the following correspondence be received:

Norman Davies, agriculture inspector's report; Department of Education, High School regulations re Grove students Department of Education, religious instruction.

Trustees Bailey and Coyle moved that the following members comprise the Finance Committee for the year 1944, first-named to be chairman, A. H. Clark and E. W. Bailey. This motion is to replace a similar one incorporated in minutes of February 7, 1944.

Principal Harvey and Headmaster G. W. Smith of the Grove Preparatory School, were present and with the members of the Board, again discussed the situation with regard to the five Grove students' attendance at science classes at the High School.

It was moved by Trustees Clark and Coyle, that this Board accept the offer of the Grove School of $25.00 for supplies, in connection with the attendance of five Grove pupils attending science classes. That any remuneration to teacher concerned be arranged by the Grove principal. This agreement to be in force for the present term only.

Also moved by Trustees Bailey and Coyle, That the High School Board change the time of the Board meeting from the first Monday in each month to the first Wednesday.

The report of the Finance Committee recommended payment of the following accounts:

T. W. Chaplin, War Savings Stamps, $12.00; T. W. Chaplin, post cards, $3.00; T. C. Yonge, supplies, 64c; E. H. Northey, supplies, $16.94; Green Lantern Shop subscription, $5.00; Lakefield News, printing, $2.00; total, $39.58.

Message On Hope Given At W.M.S.

SPRINGVILLE, March 20 (ENS)—Mrs. S. S. Staples was hostess to the W.M.S. for the March meeting.

Quiet music by Mrs. H. Bothwell preceded the worship service, which was conducted by Mrs. O. J. Dunford. A poem entitled "A Little Bit Of Love" was read and the scripture reading was taken from Romans 8: 1-24. A poem "Hope" and prayer by Mrs. Dunford concluded this part of the program.

Mrs. Dunford offered her home for the April meeting. Mrs. Shaw's group will be in charge of the program and the roll call will be responded to by an Easter thought.

Mrs. F. Clarke donated a quilt, and Miss Schaefer mitts—both to be sent in the bale to a Manitoba Mission. Miss Annie Brown, supply secretary, was instructed to buy underwear for the same program.

Continued Theme

Mrs. Dunn, group leader, took charge of the program and continued with the theme of "Hope". Mrs. Staples read a poem "A Tree has Hope" and Mrs. Dunn's reading was "Star of Hope". A number of members read passages and thoughts distributed by the leader, on the same subject. Mrs. Dunford gave another reading on "Hope" to conclude this section of the program.

Mrs. Dunn gave a paper on the second chapter of the study book which dealt with "The Blessing of Health." This told of the need of doctors and medical care in foreign countries. The parts of missionaries in Africa and India were taken by Mrs. Harold Rowan and Miss Jessie Schaeffer.

Mrs. A. Bidgood, literature secretary, read an article on "Health"; Mrs. Staples one on the work of a medical missionary in India; Mrs. Bothwell told of infant mortality in China; and Mrs. Preston read of a physician's experiences in Angola. Mrs. Kimbal read a paper on Christian citizenship, dealing with health institutions in Canada. A quizz on the study book was conducted by Mrs. Dunn.

Mustard Poultice Is Simple To Make

Where illness has developed, which requires the application of mustard poultices, an excellent method is to spread the mustard mixture on a thin paper table napkin. Put a second one over the mustard and put them between a folded piece of cheesecloth or thin flannel and cotton. After the poultice is removed, the paper containing it can be thrown away, and it is a simple matter to wash out the covering cloth so it can be used again and again.

To make the poultice, mix two or more tablespoonfuls of flour to one of mustard with enough water to form a six by eight in. rectangle and after greasing the skin with vaseline, leave the poultice on the chest, back or whatever part of the body is in pain or congested, for ten to twenty minutes, until the skin turns a deep pink color. Mustard is very effective when used as a poultice and this is the most convenient way to prepare one.

NEW YORK, March 20—(AP)—Mrs. Eugene Meyer, wife of the Washington Post's publisher, says she studied conditions in the war plants all over the United States during last year and learned production was being carried on "with a wastage of manpower and resources sufficient to run all the factories in Britain."

Belmont W.I. Helps Red Cross

HAVELOCK, March 20 (ENS)—A large attendance of visitors and members attended the all-day quilting and business session of the Belmont Women's Institute on Thursday at the township hall. Three large quilts were completed and will be donated to the Red Cross.

The roll call was responded to with an Irish joke. A letter was receved from the District President, Mrs. E. Birdsall, Westwood, soliciting the careful study of the Co-Operative Program and making plans for the District Annual to be held in Peterborough. A letter of thanks was received from a members who has been ill.

Will Attend Tea

An invitation was accepted from the Girls' Class to attend an afternoon tea and demonstration in the hall on Friday, March 24, and in the evening a dance and draw on a quilt will be made. A vote of thanks was extended to Horace King for taking a load of blood donors up to Peterborough, and also to Everett Toms for the same cause. A donation of $15 was made towards the Havelock-Belmont Red Cross drive. Two quilt linings were donated by Mrs. George Smith and Mrs. John Lloyd.

An all-day quilting will be held next Wednesday at the Hall, when it has been planned to do three more quilts. Members were reminded of the Bingo and draw, sponsored by the school pupils on Friday, March 31, proceeds in aid of the war effort.

Private Bill Hits Snag; Turned Back

Education Clause Stalls Annexation Plan

TORONTO, March 21 (CP)—The Ontario Legislature's committee on private bills today referred back to the municipal board a bill respecting the annexation of a portion of the township of North Monaghan by the city of Peterborough, after hitting a snag on that portion of the measure dealing with admission to Peterborough schools of pupils outside the area to be annexed.

The snag on the bill came on an amendment proposed by J. F. Strickland, representing the Board of Education of Peterborough. It would have allowed the board to take over and operate two schools in the proposed area to be annexed for four months from Sept. 1, 1944, at a charge of $11,000 against the North Monaghan School Board.

It also provided that about 100 pupils resident outside the area to be annexed and now attending the schools, be allowed to attend schools in the city of Peterborough for a period to be agreed upon between the two parties.

F. D. Kerr, K.C., representing the township of North Monaghan, wanted a set period for such attendance and said if no period was set the Board of Education and its inspector could close the schools to these pupils arguing crowded conditions.

Mr. Strickland said the Public School Act already contained provisions which would provide attendance of these pupils so long as there was no other school available.

At one point, Municipal Minister G. H. Dunbar challenged Dana H. Porter, (PC-Toronto St. George) to "move abolishment of the municipal board,' after the Toronto member agreed with a criticism of powers of the board voiced by J. L. McDonald (PC-Stormont).

Mr. Porter said he was not confining his criticism to the municipal board alone.

After further discussion of the school attendance clause of the bill, Mr. Dunbar interrupted to say "these parties are not agreed—we can't decide this."

He moved that the bill be referred back to the municipal board and after further discussion, his motion was seconded by G. H. Mitchell, (CCF-York North).

Huns Recapture Cassino Hotel

By LYNN HEINZERLING
Associated Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 5TH ARMY AT CASSINO, March 21—(AP).—German troops fought their way back into the wrecked Continental Hotel today. Enemy defences in the southwestern part of Cassino and in the hills behind stiffened as Lt.-Gen. Richard Heidrich, commander of the German 1st Parachute Troop Division, tried to make good his boast that he would throw the Allies out of Cassino.

New Zealanders went back to their old task of trying to knock the Germans out of the Continental.

German troops apparently moved back into the hotel in the darkness of early morning, and brought in more reinforcements to block the passage through the southwestern corner of the town.

The Germans also seemed to be filtering troops from the Monastery atop Mt. Cassino down into the hill positions which they were defending so stubbornly.

C.N.R. Sets Record In 1943 Passenger Total Quadrupled

OTTAWA, March 21—(CP).—Canadian National Railways set new records in traffic and revenue in 1943, Transport Minister Michaud reported to the Commons today. Passenger traffic last year was four times that of 1939, and freight traffic more than double that of the last peacetime year, it was shown in the annual report of R. C. Vaughan, chairman and president of the railway, tabled by Mr. Michaud.

Gross revenues for 1943 reached a record total of $440,615,955, an increase of $64,961,412 over 1942. After payment of operating expenses, the net operating revenue was $116,140,286, an increase of $29,484,418 over 1942, and also a new high.

From net operating revenues and other income there was provided $30,998,196 for interest on funded debt held by the public, $18,664,848 for interest on loans from the Dominion Government, $8,390,678 for taxes and $19,069,000 for the creation of a pension reserve. After these and other provision the cash surplus of the system for the year was $35,639,412, compared with $25,063,000 in 1942, Mr. Vaughan reported.

Freight Revenue Up.

The operating ratio for the year was the best in the railway's history, being 73.64 per cent. as compared with 76.93 per cent. in 1942 and 81.99 per cent. in the peak peace year of 1928.

Freight revenue of the system in 1943 was $324,899,724, an increase of $36,438,000 or 12.6 per cent. over 1942 without any increase in rates. Passenger revenues were $66,891,000, an increase of 38.5 per cent. Increases were also reported in revenues from mail, express, sleeping car, dining car, hotels and commercial telegraphs. The company also extended its activities as a manufacturer of munitions, ships and naval appliances.

Operating expenses increased $35,376,000 or 12.28 per cent compared wth 1942. Out of every additional $100 of revenue $45 was carried to net revenue. The comparable figure on class one United States railroads was $33.80.

"Where it was found necessary to defer repairs and renewals owing to wartime scarcity of labor and materials," Mr. Vaughan said, "reserves were created through

Munitions Plant Hit By Bombs

LONDON, March 21 (CP)—The R.A.F. kept the smashing six-day-old aerial offensive going last night with an attack by Lancaster bombers on a munitions factory at Angouleme, 60 miles northeast of Bordeaux.

At the same time swift Mosquito bombers again hammered targets in Western Germany, the Air Ministry announced today.

No planes were lost in these forays, which follcwed up attacks in daylight yesterday in which between 1,600 and 2,100 R.A.F. and American planes crossed the Channel. One of Monday's operations was an attack by a "medium sized" force of heavy American bombers on military targets in the area of much-battered Frankfurt.

The raid on Angouleme was the second blow against an explosive works in three nights. Six-ton "factory busters" were dumped on a plant at Bergerac in the same area Saturday night.

A U.S. communique last night said six American bombers and eight escorting fighters failed to return from the 400-mile round-trip to Frankfurt, German industrial city. Few enemy aircraft were encountered but the fighters downed four.

Strong forces of lighter planes, both British and American, plastered the Nazis' Atlantic wall and targets slightly deeper in France while heavy bombers were on the Frankfurt Mission. In all operations of the day, it was estimated that close to 1,500 tons of bombs were dropped.

Invasion Of Balkans By Allies Likely

LONDON, March 21 — (CP) — Reuters News Agency today quoted a correspondent of the Swiss newspaper Basler Nacrichten as saying an imminent Allied attack in the Balkans is "becoming ever more certain."

The correspondent, writing from the Italian-Swiss frontier, reported that "unconfirmed reports are circulating in Italy about large-scale military preparations for Allied troop landings in the Mediterranean zone."

The news service said that according to other information British and American forces are being concentrated in Sardinia and Corsica "where numerous crack units are already stationed."

Grim Battle Continues For Cassino

5 Days Of Fighting Fails To Oust Determined Huns

By EDWARD KENNEDY,
Associated Press War Correspondent

NAPLES March 21 —(AP) —New Zealand troops of the 5th Army have wiped out part of the remaining German fortifications on the western edge of Cassino but the Nazis have been reinforced and a grim struggle continues, Allied Headquarters announced to-day.

Many more German prisoners taken.

"Fierce fighting continued for the fifth day for possession of Cassino and vicinity without a decision," a headquarters officer said. "Within the ruins of the town the enemy succeeded in bringing up reinforcements Sunday night and mopping up has been slow."

Although two tanks which the Germans had placed in the lobby of the Continental Hotel were knocked out and 180 prisoners taken there, the Germans still were holding out in that area.

The Germans also clung firmly to positions on the slopes of Monte Cassino overlooking the town, including the strategic point they regained in a counter-attack Sunday, it was announced, and are laying a heavy artillery fire on Allied troops from these places.

Hemmed in by these and other enemy positions in the vicinity and by the Rapido and Gar rivers, the 5th Army forces have little room in which to manoeuvre. Only frontal attacks are possible since the German position cannot be outflanked.

Repulse Three Attacks.

Three enemy counter-attacks on one ridge on Monte Cassino held by the Allies were repulsed and three other points remained in 5th Army hands despite German attempts to take them.

Desperately needed emergency medical and food supplies again were dropped to Allied troops clinging to positions half way up Monastery Hill. The supplies were carried by dive-bombers that skimmed over the area and dropped 95 parachute bundles.

These troops had reached a small plateau half way to the German-held Benedictine Abbey, but roads to their position have been so mutilated by shellings that even pack trains have been unable to make the ascent.

On the beachhead British troops made two successful raids in force on enemy positions near the western end of the perimeter, inflicting heavy casualties.

Allied artillery fire against the enemy around the bridgehead was reported "very heavy."

On the 8th Army front strong patrol clashes and frequent exchanges of artillery fire occurred.

Medium bombers of the Allied air forces attacked various rail targets and docks in the central Italy area while fighters and fighter-bombers attacked supply dumps, troops and gun positions in the Cassino and beachhead battle areas.

Six enemy aircraft were destroyed during the day, the bulletin said, while three Allied planes failed to return out of more than 1,100 sorties. About 50 enemy aircraft appeared over the battle areas.

Hungarians Fight New Invader Germans Hold All Key Points

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 21—(CP)—Upwards of 100,000 German and Rumanian troops were reported occupying Hungary today against the growing threat of Russian Armies a bare 100 miles from the borders of the expanded Balkan kingdom.

Some scattered fighting sprang from the occupation but there was nothing to suggest any serious difficulties to Hitler. Hungarian leaders including the Regent, Admiral Nicholas Horthy; and Foreign ministers and possibly Premier Nicholas Kallay were believed virtually kidnapped in Germany, whence they had been summoned to receive peremptory demands for all-out military assistance.

Bela Imredi, former Premier and Foreign Minister and a Hungarian Nazi, was reported establishing a government. He was said to have convoked parliament for tomorrow at which time he was expected to assume Horthy's powers.

Hide In Boats.

Stockholm dispatches said there were some indications that the satellite kingdom, gateway to Nazi communications in the Balkans, might become a new area of Partisan activity directed against German transport and military operations. One report was that Marshal Tito's Yugoslav Partisans had recently been in Hungary organizing units.

The newspaper Tidningen of Stockholm said German troops had hidden in boats on the Danube near Budapest and burst forth to occupy strategic points in the capital at a given signal.

Several thousand Socialists and Liberals were arrested in Budapest.

The Swiss radio said occupation of Hungary by the German army can be considered an accomplished fact.

Some Hungarians were reported fighting this new invader at the call of their leaders, but the Nazis retained control at the centre of the country. This was indicated by the fact the Hungarian news agency's regular midday broadcast sounded as though all was serene.

Unconfirmed reports from Stockholm said two Runmanian divisions were among the force the Germans had sent into Hungary and that they were being resisted by the Hungarians.

The Turkish radio said the Germans had occupied "important points and communications centres in Hungary and the whole of southeastern Hungary now is under control of a German officer whose name and scope of authority will be announced shortly."

Hitler's main motive was to bring trustworthy troops into position to stop gaps in the Carpathian mountains. Another purpose might be to try to persuade the Rumanians that danger to their Transylvanian territory from the Hungarians had been reduced by occupation.

Reports that Admiral Nicholas Horthy, the regent, had been seized were not confirmed, but London saw no reason to doubt them. Opinions varied on the Hungarian reaction, but few expected determined and prolonged resistance.

It is likely Russia will take the opportunity to intensify its propaganda calling on the Balkan Slavs to overthrow German-dominated leaders and join the Soviet in a common fight.

A reliable, direct report from the Balkans said Hungarian troops had fought both German and Rumanian forces near the southeastern frontier

Canadian Corps Unlooses Wrath In Editorial Says Sale Of Beer Injures Veterans' Cause

TORONTO, March 21—(CP)—The Dominion Command of the Canadian Corps Association today described as "humiliating" the "emphasis now being placed on beer in Canada." The statement was made through an editorial in Torch, the Association's official organ.

The editorial charged that beer is being consumed by others than war veterans in veteran clubhouses throughout Canada and added that "every veteran clubhouse in the country which depended on its beer profits for its existence is not a club but a saloon."

"The sale of beer has done more to injure the cause of the veteran than any other factor. The minority which reaps the benefit of this traffic is responsible for the lack of interest in organised endeavour by ex-servicemen who are more concerned with the national welfare than the national thirst."

War Orders Top 9 Billions Canada's Output At Peak

By JACK WILLIAMS—Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 21—(CP).—Canada's war production now is at its peak and while expansion will continue in some lines reduction is to be expected in others, Munitions Minister Howe told the Commons today.

Reviewing the work of his department for last year and giving some insight into the probabilities of the future, Mr. Howe disclosed that the total value of contracts awarded by the Munitions Department now has reached $9,460,000,000.

War production for the fiscal year 1943-44 totalled $[illegible], an increase of $535,000,000 from the $2,900,000,000 production of 1942-43. Capital expenditures by the Department now total $850,000,000.

While the war was responsible for destruction of life and property on an unprecedented scale, Canada would receive some compensation through the enlargement of her productive capacity which could later be directed to peacetime use.

"Reconversion of industry must wait until demands of war are satisfied, but active steps are being taken to prepare for rapid conversion when the time comes," Mr. Howe said.

"Whether that time will be near or distant must depend on the progress of the war, but until that time comes there must be neither slackening off in war production nor diversion of productive capacity away from war requirements."

1 Million Workers

Canada's war production, in dollar values, reached its peak in the first quarter of 1944, the minister reported of the more than 1,000,000 workers in direct and indirect war employment, about 800,000 are actually engaged in manufacturing war

Gurkhas Capture Sumprahum

NEW DELHI, March 21 — (CP) —Allied troops have captured the important communications centre of Sumprabum in northeast Burma but a strong Japanese force is continuing its drive toward India from its crossing of the Chindwin River, southeast Asia headquarters announced today.

Gurkha and Kachin native troops from India, operating with Chinese-American forces took Sumprabum and reoccupied Pinsauga to the southeast. Sumprabum is in the Upper Mali Kha River valley about 70 miles from the border of China's Yunnan province.

The Mali Kha River has a narrow valley that twists south to Myitkyina, also the objective of the Chinese-American forces who threw the Japanese out of the Hukawng valley just to the west. Capture of Jambu Bum and the northern end of the Mogaung River Valley, which also debouches at Mytkyina, was announced yesterday.

The southeastern Asia command headquarters communique gave few details on the double-pronged Japanese offensive in the upper Chindwin area and the Chin Hills sector, roughly 150 miles southwest, but said that north of Tiddim, on the Chin Hills front, Allied forces repulsed two Japanese attempts to advance. One effort was an attack in force and the second was an attempt at infiltration of Allied lines.

Soviet Units Move Deeper Into Rumania

11 German Ships Dive Bombed In Black Sea Ports

LONDON, March 21 — (CP). — Russian forces, surging over the Dniester River into Rumania, have routed two Rumanian divisions seeking to bar the great Soviet advance, toppled the east bank German base and rail junction of Mogilev-Podolski and taken Vinnitsa, German Bug River stronghold 60 miles northeast of Mogilev-Podolski.

In addition to these triumphs the Moscow communique last night said Russian troops rushing toward Lwow in pre-war Poland seized 50 villages, including Korsov, only 56 miles northeast of Lwow.

German troops were said to have occupied Hungary against Hungarian resistance; Moscow denied that Russians had offered Rumanian armistice terms and a London informant having access to underground reports said the Germans were shifting construction workers from Finland and western Europe to complete a defence line on the Vistula River in central Poland.

The Russians apparently were fanning out in the Bessarabian part of pre-war Rumania toward the Carpathian Mountains in the west and the Danube estuary to the south.

There were indications also that the Germans were trying to evacuate the Crimean Peninsula, which has been sealed off by the Russians for months, were given in the Soviet communique which reported that Red airmen of the Black Sea Fleet sank 11 German ships, including a transport, in Crimean ports.

In the Novo-Ukrainka sector, to the north of Odessa, the Russians overwhelmed two Rumanian trench lines and quoted prisoners as saying the Germans had shot at least 170 Rumanians for failing to hold. More than 34 localities were taken south of Novo Ukrainka in the drive which is pushing the Germans back on Odessa, the Russians said.

Only a small number of Germans escaped from Vinnitsa, which was taken after one Soviet unit, in a surprise thrust across the Bug River, entered the town from the south, outwitting the Nazis who expected the main blow from the north, the bulletin declared. Huge stores of war material were captured.

Vesuvius Lava Licks At Town

NAPLES, March 21 — (AP) — A great stream of hot lava poured out the crater of Mount Vesuvius at a speed of 40 miles an hour at noon today without signs of subsiding, and the molten river destroyed two towns and licked at a village on the northwest slopes.

After burying most of San Sebastiano and Massa di Somma, the lava stream, 30 feet high and 200 yards wide, moved on toward Cercola, below San Sebastiano. Its pace slowed as it wound down the mountain.

The 5,000 inhabitants of Cercola were hurriedly evacuated as the white-hot rock flowed to within 150 feet of its town hall. United States Army trucks completed evacuation of the 7,000 inhabitants of the other two centres during the night. No casualties were reported.

The company is engaged almost completely in war work.

Hitler Shows No Signs Of Cracking

Henry Ford Predicts War Will Be Over In Two Months

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

A prediction by Henry Ford in a copyrighted interview for the Atlanta Constitution, that the war will be over in two months is a right tasty morsel.

Mr. Ford leaves us a bit up in the air, however, because he withholds the reasoning back of his prophecy.

The consensus among observers is that Hitler is reduced to such straits that his resistance might blow up most any time. We must hasten to add that there's no sign of immediate collapse and that there are plenty of indications, including his stand at Cassino and to-day's report of his occupation of Hungary, of his intention to make a bloody fight of it.

When the Nazi gangster does decide to quit, the end likely will be quick.

Army Is Strong.

We must remember that Hitler's strongest weapon is his army, and the bulk of that is on the Russian front. This once terrifying Wehrmacht has been woefully reduced in strength by slaughter and he no longer has reserves to meet the Muscovite onslaught. The present disaster which has overtaken him in Southern Russia is a sign of his growing weakness.

The once all-powerful Luftwaffe is but a shadow of the mighty arm that threatened to crush Britain in 1940.

The resources which he stole from occupied countries have been used. There are no new resources he can tap.

It's important to note that the cumulative effects of the Allied air onslaught especially the bombing of war industries, just now are making themselves felt in a big way. Each day finds the momentum of disaster increasing.

All this the Nazi dictator has recognized. That's why he has adopted his strategy of playing for time in hope of a lucky break, such as a split among the Allies.

With this background we ask ourselves what happens when the Red armies have stormed their way to the Reich frontier —or when the Allied invasion force is on Germany's western border. It would be one of the seven wonders of the war if any Allied army stood on Hitler's boundary in two months. Still, the way the Muscovites are going, most anything can happen.

Madoc Boy In Daring Patrol

Spends 27 Hours Behind Hun Lines

BY DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY March 21 — (CP Cable) — Valuable information about German defences on the Canadian Corps front has come from four members of an Ontario Battalion who remained about a half-mile behind German lines for 27 hours and joined their unit Sunday night.

The four — Sgt. Ross Lusk, Belleville, Ptes. Bernie Crawford, Madoc, J. N. Billings, Winchester, John Maye, Timmins, watched the Germans all day Sunday and came out of their hiding place at dusk Sunday night. They walked part of the way back to the Canadian lines as a "rearguard" for enemy supply carts.

Maritime troops, meanwhile, penetrated enemy lines last night east of Tollo, about four miles inland from the Adriatic Sea. Attacked strong poinnts from the rear and killed three Germans. They suffered some casualties.

Heavy mortar opposition met daylight sorties but the troops got within grenade range of the enemy before returning. Fair and warm weather continued today.

Britain Gets 38 Carriers

Deadly Escort Craft To Protect Convoys

WASHINGTON, March 21. — (AP).—Navy Secretary Frank Knox announced to-day that 38 escort aircraft carriers built in the United States have been delivered to Great Britain under the lend-lease program.

"This fleet of 38 carriers will be a part of the anti-submarine fleet of the Allied nations," Knox said at a news conference.

The escort carriers, of approximately 10,000 tons displacement each, have been one of the most potent weapons against the German submarines in the Atlantic.

Knox pointed out that with the gift of 38 of the deadly little craft to Britain 50 remain in operation with the United States fleet.

He said the carriers were delivered by the navy to Britain without their complement of planes and that he was not personally acquainted with how and when the planes were obtained.

Like all other lend-lease ships, he said title to the carriers remains with the United States and "if we want to exercise options, "they can be reclaimed after the war.

In announcing the delivery of the carriers, he remarked it was "reminiscent" of 1940 when 50 destroyers were delivered to Great Britain under the lend-lease program in exchange for 99 year leases of British naval bases in Newfoundland and the West Indies.

Conservative Member Wins Ontario By-election In First Test Of Strength

C.C.F. Candidate Places Second In Race
Liberal Support Declines
Drew Strength In House Remains At 38

SIMCOE, Ont., March 21—(CP).—The Progressive Conservative Government of Premier Drew hold Haldimand-Norfolk constituency in yesterday's by-election when Charles Martin, Simcoe merchant, polled a clear majority of 2,511 votes over C.C.F. and Liberal candidates in a three-cornered contest. Today the party standing in the 90-seat Legislature is the same as it was after the provincial general election last August 4, which saw the Progressive Conservatives succeed the Liberal administration of Harry C. Nixon: Progressive Conservative 38, C.C.F. 34, Liberal 15, Labor-Progressive 2, and Independent-Liberal 1.

In the first public test of strength since the election for Premier Drew's government, complete returns from 100 polls gave Mr. Martin 10,835 votes; James G. Gibson, C.C.F., 4,491; and George C. Mutrie, Liberal, 3,833. Some of the 100 polls were divided and ballots actually were cast in 120 places.

Mr. Martin succeeds the late Wallace W. Walsh, elected as Progressive Conservative member for the rich tobacco-growing constituency stretching nearly 60 miles along Lake Erie in last August's general vote.

In the general election Walsh polled 7,868 of the 17,522 votes cast, with 7,077 going to Eric Cross, Liberal candidate and former Ontario Attorney-General, and 2,577 to F. P. Grove, C.C.F.

Mr. Martin yesterday polled 56.5 per cent of the 19,159 votes cast, compared with 44.9 per cent for Mr. Walsh last August. The percentage of C.C.F. votes increased from 14.7 to 23.4 per cent. while the Liberal vote dropped from 40.4 to 20 per cent.

Mr. Martin took a lead in the counting of early returns and was never headed. His election was conceded about 9 p.m. (E.D.T.) — two hours after voting stopped—on returns from 48 polls. At that time he had 5,480 votes to 2,205 for Mr. Gibson and 2,146 for Mr. Mutrie.

Premier Drew termed the by-election result "satisfactory proof of public confidence in the government." E. B. Jolliffe, C.C.F. Provincial leader, said there had been an "obvious increase" in the C.C.F. vote in the riding since last August. Mr. Nixon, Ontario Liberal leader, said it "is probably too soon after the general election in which the Liberal party went down to defeat to expect a result other than that experienced to-day."

Liquor Charge Brings $25 Fine

Pleading guilty to supplying liquor to a minor, Raynard Clair Sanderson, formerly of Port Hope, was fined $25 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning.

The alternative set by the magistrate was 15 days in jail. Sanderson had pleaded guilty Monday to having been drunk and on that count had been fined $10 and costs or ten days in jail. His Worship ruled this morning that the 15 days sentence should run consecutively with the 10 days in the other case.

It was stated that Sanderson had supplied beer to a 14-year-old boy. The bottle was thrown away when the police arrived, Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., told the court.

"I didn't know the boy was under 21 years," Sanderson stated. "I was pretty drunk at the time."

"I think he knew, all right; he knew this boy," said the Crown Attorney, adding that Sanderson had been drunk when he was arrested.

No Right To Uniform

Sanderson also pleaded guilty to another charge of illegally wearing a military uniform and on that count was fined $10 and $1 costs, or ten days in jail to run consecutively with the other jail sentences if the fines are not paid.

It was explained that the accused when arrested had been wearing the uniform of the reserve army and Major V. M. Eastwood stated that he had no right to wear it at that time although he was on the strength of the Prince of Wales Rangers Reserve. Major Eastwood stated that not all the equipment supplied Sanderson had been recovered.

These same direct reports said 300 officers who fled to Germany in January to avoid a court-martial had returned to Hungary. They were reported helping Imredi as heads of a fifth column. The officers were said to include Marshal Feketehalmy, Maj-Gen. Grassy and a Colonel Kohak.

The Danger of Coughs Among the Children

In young children a cold or cough is not a thing to be disregarded, as it is often of a grave matter, and unless attended to immediately may, eventually, cause serious trouble.

On the first sign of a cough or cold the mother will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy to help get rid of the trouble.

Its promptness and effectiveness in loosening the phlegm, and stimulating the bronchial organs is such that the cough may be checked before anything of a serious nature sets in.

War Orders Top

equipment.

While he found it possible to sketch broad outlines of the future program, Mr. Howe warned that the changing strategy of war would create demands for new equipment and make some present equipment obsolete.

In many instances, it was possible to convert war plants to new uses but some were single-purpose plants and lay-offs were necessary. Mr. Howe recaled he had warned of this condition last June. His department was working in close co-operation with National Selective Service to place such workers.

Scanning the war production field, Mr. Howe disclosed these facts:

Aircraft—1943 calendar year production was 4,133 aircraft as against 3,811 in 1942. Emphasis on larger types and more intricate designs resulted in a 50-per-cent increase in dollar value. The aircraft program will continue to expand with more attention to combat craft.

Armored fighting vehicles—Total war production reached 34,000 at March 1, with 15,500 vehicles turned out in 1943 compared with 12,500 the previous year. Production will continue "at a high rate" in 1944.

593,000 Units

Mechanical Transport — With heavier and most costly vehicles being manufactured, the production dropped from 192,000 units in 1942 to 175,000 in 1943. Total production to March 1 was 593,000 units. Fewer units will be produced in 1944 but they will be of heavier type.

Guns, carriages and mountings—Unit production for 1943 was 45,000, compared with 31,000 in 1942, bringing the war total output to 84,000 units. A further cut in production of army guns is anticipated with a slight increase in naval guns.

Machine guns and small arms—Production jumped from 325,000 in 1942 to 580,000 in 1943 for a total of 1,000,000 units. Production will be "slightly greater" in 1944, but this will be weighted by several new stores which can be produced at a higher rate.

Gun ammunition—1943 production was 30,000,000 rounds as against 28,000,000 in 1942 bringing the war total to 62,000,000 rounds. The 1944 production will be at approximately the same rate as in 1943.

Small arms ammunition—Output jumped from 1,200,000,000 rounds in 1942 to 1,500,000,000 rounds in 1943, making a new total of 3,300,000,000 rounds. The program wil lbe reduced in 1944.

Chemical and explosives—Net 1943 production was 1,000,000,000 pounds, compared with 860,000,000 hte previous year. The program will be reduced and one major explosives plant has already been closed.

Build 150 Ships

Cargo vessels — 1943 production was 150 ships totalling 1,478,000 deadweight tons, compared with 81 ships totalling 838,000 deadweight tons in 1942. Total production to March 1 was 249 ships. There will be "a slight reduction" in 1944.

Naval and escort ships—In 1943, yards turned out 100 naval ships against 117 in 1942, with last year's program of a more difficult and costly nature. Total production of escort vessels for the war period is 336. The program will undergo some revisions in 1944 with reduction of some types and production of new types. Actual deliveries of escort vessels will increase this year.

Small craft—Of a total of 4,300 orders placed, 3,600 have been delivered. Deliveries will continue in 1944 at aproximately the same scale as in 1943.

Instruments and communication equipment—value of 1943 production was $180,000,000 against $84,000,000 in 1942. Total war production now is $32,000,000. The program continues to expand.

Defence and other construction projects—total expenditures for the war period, including housing, amount to $675,000,000. The 1943 expenditures were $194,000,000, a reduction from the $219,000,000 of 1942. There will be "a sharp reduction" in defence building in 1944.

Expect Coal Shortage

Dealing with controls administered by his department, Mr. Howe said further coal shortages were to be expected.

"Despite some imprvoement in the over-all production picture, there is no doubt that we shall have a serious coal problem on our hands for the duration of the war," he said.

Coal now being mined will be marketed for next winter's supply.

Through an intensive program, wood fuel requirements for this winter were met but production and transportation subsidies will be continued to June 1 to build up stockpiles. The situation will then be reviewed.

Overseas requirements for lumber are expected to increase greatly in 1944 and United States requirements will continue on a high level. Reduced demand is anticipated in Canada as a result of completion of a major part of the military construction program.

"So far as we can estimate at this time our total production for 1944 will be 4,350,000,000 board feet," Mr. Howe said. "Of this amount we will export 1,980,000,000 board feet, leaving for consumption in Canada 2,370,000,000 board feet. The larger supply which will be available for use in Canada will permit considerable easing of the restrictions on the use of lumber."

Soldier Slogs In Mire For $1.30 A Day While Deferred Worker Gripes At Tax

Here's a little story from a factory employee just as he told it: "Just the last pay day, this fellow says to me, in a mean tone,—'they might as well keep the whole cheque; they hold out $30 this week.' He grumbles some more and I just said "well, you still have $70 left; you ought to be able to struggle along for a week on that dough." And then I was thinking of the letter we got the other day from my own lad: "I says 'why don't you do something about it; quit sqawkin' and get busy. Do you know what I'd do? I'd go right down to the office, tell them you were through, and you don't want any more army deferments. You've had now five or six, and we can't win the war on deferments, even if some people think we can. Get in there where my lad is and see how you like $1.30 a day. You'd like it in the army,—some dark night on a patrol in the muck and mud and mines, and you're supposed to get some prisoners." I was trying to be sarcastic, but what's the use. I'd like to have busted him one on the mug. It's tough enough to have a lad over there without having to put up with these bellyachers about income tax, War Savings stamps, Victory Bonds, gas coupons, any thing they can think of. There ought to be a law for people like that."

Maple Groves Lure Tappers

"We are thinking of starting out this afternoon with the buckets and spigots to the maple groves for the first time this season," Mark Burnham of Otonabee told the Examiner this morning. "There has been no tapping as yet and it's not possible to tell just what the prospects are," Mr. Burnham added.

Tappers in other sections of the province have been gloomy in their predictions of the spring's maple sugar harvest, reporting that where trees have been tapped since late February sap flow has been small.

Mr. Burnham did not think that this marked an unusually late date for the tapping season to begin. "Ordinarily, we start around the 11th or 12th," he said, "but it is not infrequently that the season will open as late as the 24th."

As the initiated know, output of maple sugar depends very largely on the weather, and tappers in other districts have been heard voicing the complaint that unless it improves quickly the run is certain to be a great deal under early expectations. "We must have frost at night," Mr. Burnham said, and if there is going to be any wind it should come from a northern quarter. I have observed that for some reason a southerly breeze in past seasons has been consistently bad for the maple sugar crop."

Bombs Riddle JapaneseConvoy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, IN SOUTH-WEST PACIFIC, March 21—(AP).—American airmen sweeping to the attack at mast height sent to the bottom all five ships of a Japanese convoy on Sunday near the enemy base at Wewak, New Guinea, an Allied communique reported to-day.

The communique said many hundreds of enemy troops and sailors were lost in the action in which two transports of 6,000 and 4,000 tons and three corvettes were sunk at a cost of three American planes.

They were the last ships of the convoy which had first been attacked four days before up the coast near Hollandia, when one 3,000-ton cargo ship was sunk and a 5,000-ton freighter and a destroyer were damaged.

Men of the crews of the 100 or more bombers and fighters which engaged in the kill said the convoy was first seen on Wednesday night. They told Olen Clements, Associated Press war correspondent, that they believed around 1,500 Japanese were killed with bombs or machine gun fire, or drowned.

The convoy apparently was bringing replacements for heavily-bombed Wewak, a Headquarters spokesman said.

The enemy base at Wewak was bombed again, for the ninth straight day, this time with 113 tons of bombs, and shelled by American destroyers which boldly entered the harbor on Saturday night to pound shore installations.

Solomons-based bombers dropped incendiary bombs to start huge fires at Rabaul, the once-strong Japanese base in New Britain.

Reds Must Modify Demands Before Peace Possible Finnish Parliament Declares

Complete Story Of Negotiations
Finally Released
Country Still Anxious To Quit War

By EDWIN SHANKE—Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, March 21—(AP).—The Finnish Government announced today that it had rejected Soviet Russia's conditions for an armistice but declared that it still was trying to establish peace between the two countries. "Although the Finnish Government still aspires seriously for the establishment of peaceful relations, it cannot accept in advance these terms," said a lengthy communique giving the Finns' version of their attempts to get out of the war.

It appeared from this that unless Russia consents to modify her original armistice proposals the Finns are definitely committed to continuing in the war.

Finnish political quarters said the Cabinet and Parliament had based their rejection of the Soviet terms on the answer which Moscow gave Finland on March 10, at which time the Russians were declared to have repeated their original demands in ultimatum form.

The communique gave the Finnish public the first full picture of the Government's view of the peace problem, and was carried in full by the Finnish press.

Outlining the steps, the communique said the Government felt that it was its duty "to examine all the possibilities which might occur for safeguarding Finnish freedom and independence" and that it therefore had endeavored to "find out on what conditions an honorable and safe peace could be obtained."

It described the terms which the Finnish peace envoy, Juho Kosti Paasikivi, obtained through the Soviet Embassy in Stockholm as "hard and entirely unacceptable."

Nevertheless, it said, the government took the matter up with Parliament and received a vote of 105 to 80 authorizing it to pursue the negotiations.

"Therefore the government answered Russia, informing her the government was seriously striving for re-establishment of peaceful relations between Finland and Russia and in that light the Government had given the Russian proposal major deliberation and suggested that the Finnish Government should be given an opportunity to express its own viewpoint on all questions pertaining to these terms."

The Russian answer was received in Helsinki on March 10 and, according to the bulletin, informed Finland that her "proposals were quite unsatisfactory," that the original Soviet demands were "minimum and basic" and that further negotiations to end hostilities would be possible only if Finland accepted them.

'A time limit was set for an affirmative answer," the Finnish communique added.

On March 14, Premier Edwin Linkomies, the bulletin said, presented to a secret session of Par-

George Gimblett was re-elected president of the Canadian Legion Branch No. 52, B.E.S.L., at the monthly meeting held at the Legion Hall, Monday night. Robert Hotrum was chosen as first vice-president and Allan Wade as second vice-president.

Says Sugar Beet Industry Being Throttled

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 21—(CP).—The Commons debate yesterday ranged from international air policy to the treatment of prisoners of war, but the sharpest exchange of the sitting came on the subject of beet sugar production.

New Democracy Leader Blackmore who previously had expressed suspicions of what he called a sugar "trust and combine," returned to the subject on a motion to go into committee of supply.

He said the Government had failed to answer his question as to what relationship there was between the Government and "this great sugar combine, and between the Government and the head of this corporation (St. Lawrence Sugar Refinery), one John W. McConnell?"

Prime Minister Mackenzie King had made a statement in reply, but did not give a "yes" or "no" answer to the direct question of whether th Liberal Party had ever received any campaign funds' contribution from the Sugar Refining Company or Mr. McConnell, said Mr. Blackmore.

"The Prime Minister must have known the answer," said Mr. Blackmore. "He did not give the answer. I am sorry he is not in his seat at the present time."

Munitions Minister Howe: "I can assure my honorable friend that the Prime Minister did not know and I do not know. The members of the Government do not handle campaign funds."

Mr. Blackmore, in whose Alberta riding of Lethbridge much beet sugar is produced, said cane sugar interests "will go almost any limit" to avoid having beet sugar production increased. He said he believed beet sugar production had been deliberately restricted by the Liberal government ever since it came to power.

The Dominion apparently felt itself bound by a world agreement for the restriction of sugar output made in London in 1937.

Mr. Blackmore said he had not suggested the Liberal party would necessarily be doing a reprehensible thing if it received campaign funds.

"I wondered whether he (the Prime Minister) was doing what he did with respect to beet sugar in this country because he wanted to help his friends or because these interests were so powerful that he did not dare do otherwise" he continued.

Mr. Howe: "My honorable friend is suggestng that the Liberal party has entered into an agreement with persons unknown not to extend the sugar industry.

"I would point out to him that there has been more expansion of the sugar industry in the last five years than in any other five years."

Haldimand-Norfolk By-Election

Premier Drew and his Government faced their first test of strength on Monday in the Haldimand-Norfolk by-election and the result has been a vote of confidence in the administration. The by-election has provided an indication as to the trend of public opinion and will have an important effect on the present Ontario administration.

Charles H. Martin, the Progressive Conservative candidate, polled more votes than the other two candidates. At the general election in August the Progressive Conservative candidate had only a small margin over the Liberal and the C.C.F. was a poor third.

A strong bid was made by the C.C.F. to win the riding and Mr. Coldwell, the Dominion leader, entered the campaign, but while their vote was greatly increased it still was far short of coming near the winner.

The Liberals on the other hand have suffered a severe set-back. Their candidate failed to poll anything like the vote given the Hon. Eric Cross in August and their action in contesting the by-election is hard to explain.

The people of Haldimand-Norfolk have approved of the Drew administration and this vote of confidence will make the other two parties think twice before they will be the cause of a general election.

Importance Of Trifles

Apparently trifling matters can cause great dissatisfaction, and it is a wise politician who knows when a small matter is likely to swell into a great one. The British troops in Italy, for instance, have been complaining for some time about the cigarettes which are issued to them. These are called "V" cigarettes, and they are made in India. In describing the contents of the cigarettes the troops call upon the full imagination and vocabulary of the soldier. When Sir James Grigg brought the matter before the British House of Commons he said that the men fully believed that the "V" cigarettes were made of horse dung, and that they elaborated and enlarged upon this belief in the most lurid manner. For a time the men used their free cigarettes for tipping Italians, but the Italians soon refused to accept the loathly objects.

Sir James, therefore, has made provision to supply the men in Italy with cigarettes of British manufacture, unmistakeably made of tobacco. This was wise. A grievance about cigarettes could very easily develop into a discontent with the whole Italian campaign, which is not going too well. Soldiers are ready to risk their lives and endure great discomfort, but they will not be imposed upon. They regarded the "V" cigarettes of Indian tobacco as a decided imposition.

More About Handwriting

The Brantford Expositor hopes that Premier Drew's plans for educational reform will include more stress on learning to write a legible hand. We hope so too. We have even explained in these columns how it might be done, and we have no objection to repeating ourselves on the subject, which we think important.

The reason that so many people write illegibly is that they were taught as children to write a debased and impractical version of the Spencerian hand, and they were taught to write with what is called a freehand movement. Now whatever pedagogical authority there may be for this, it is a fact that the Spencerian hand at best is weak, and tends to become illegible as soon as it is used for quick writing; it is also a fact that not one person in a hundred masters the freehand movement, which is very clumsy when improperly used.

The alternative, we suggest, is to change the style of handwriting taught in our schools. In Great Britain children are taught to write by first teaching them to print a good, plain Roman alphabet; they are then shown the relation between the printed and the written characters, and they are encouraged to write an upright roundhand which derives directly from the former. As a result their writing is smaller, neater and far more legible than that of Canadian children.

It can also be beautiful, and we think that this is important. The Spencerian hand is not even tolerable, aesthetically, unless it is written by a master penman. The hand used in Britain is directly descended from the beautiful "secretary hands" of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, from which our modern Italic type is also copied. It can be written very quickly without distorting the characters, and it looks well on the page; writing is a handicraft, or minor art, and there is great satisfaction to be found in doing it well.

There is a popular superstition that illegible handwriting indicates character. Nonsense; the discipline of writing a fine, legible hand is invaluable, as is the discipline involved in any other handicraft.

Why Daylight Saving

Farmers across Canada and also many city folk have on occasions voiced strong protest over the establishment of daylight saving as a permanent wartime measure. On behalf of the farmers the Canadian Federation of Agriculture recently approached H. J. Symington, Power Controller for Canada, for some information as to what daylight saving really meant in the way of conservation of electric power, offered as the main reason for enacting this measure.

Mr. Symington produced the following information which should answer the question as to why we have daylight saving 12 months a year.

In the Maritimes cancellation of daylight saving would mean an estimated increase of about 10 per cent. in power demand, which authorities state would be undesirable at the present time.

In Quebec the demand for power in the metropolitan areas would be increased by over 60,000 horse power, which could not be taken care of by present generating capacity.

In Ontario the demand would increase 75,000 horse power. This authorities say would be unfortunate under present conditions, as it would require reductions in certain hours of power now being delivered.

The Prairies report sufficient generating capacity to meet the estimated increase in demand.

British Columbia generating stations are already heavily loaded and the estimated increase could not be met.

Daylight saving has resulted in balancing off the evening and the morning peaks, there being a reduction in the evening peak and an increase in the morning which has enabled industry to keep operating during the evening hours.

Have The Dionnes Rivals?

One of the most unusual stories of the year comes from Buenos Aires, and that is the unique Dionne quintuplets are no longer unique. There is much skepticism about the report although pictures of these latest quintuplets have already appeared in the press. The only evidence as yet available is from a story written by Miss Leila Shaw, society editor of the Buenos Aires Herald, an English language paper, that she has seen the babies and interviewed the mother. Neighbours swear that the story is genuine and the father, while refusing to allow other reporters to see the alleged quints, has provided the photographs.

The birth registry office professed to have no record of the births and from the story there will not be medical evidence available as only a midwife was in attendance. This remarkable event has been kept a complete secret for eight months, for these quints are said to have been born on July 11 last.

Proof must necessarily be made available and if it is forthcoming the Dionnes will then have rivals. However this should not affect their careers for no matter how small this world appears to becoming we believe there is still plenty of room left for two sets of quintuplets.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A metropolitan daily refers to the gay spirits of modern Paris as "frivolous scum dancing on a volcano"; there is nothing like a scummy volcano for rousing a correspondent's ire.

Great interest has been caused by the fact that a man who was begging on the street in Cleveland was found to have $30,000 on his person. Our guess is that he was on his way to pay his income tax and was begging a few dimes to make up the full sum.

Several papers are eager to make women take off their hats in the movies. A good idea, but it will not solve our personal difficulty; we always get a seat right behind a man who is seven feet tall and has a head like a prize pumpkin. What can you clever fellows do about him?

Cheap Justice

From the VANCOUVER NEWS-HERALD

THE Parliament of Canada is considering a measure designed to retire judges of the superior courts at the age of 70.

There is a universal public demand for such legislation.

But one thing must be done before this salutary public measure can be put into effect. It must be made possible for judges to retire at 70.

The average judge in a Canadian Supreme Court or Court of Appeal cannot retire at the age of 70 for he simple reason that the Parliament of Canada tries to buy justice on a scale so cheap and niggardly that it is without parallel in the British Empire. The judges of our courts cannot afford to retire.

They are paid on a scale that directly threatens the free, impartial and efficient administration of justice in Canada.

Since 1870, when the Dominion of Canada was founded, the cost of living in this country has increased by at least 500 per cent. The wages of labour have increased 800 to 1,000 per cent. During the same period, the income of a chief justice of the Supreme Courts or Courts of Appeal after taxes has decreased just $1,524 annually, and that of a justice of either court is less by $934 than it was 70 years ago.

THE efficient and impartial administration of justice is the essential guarantee of the personal freedom and safety of every Canadian. To make good that guarantee the judges of the nation must be:

1. Financially independent.
2. Men of outstanding legal ability.

Men in the class of the legal profession from which our superior court judges must be recruited if we are to have an able judiciary, commonly make from $20,000 to $50,000 and more annually, in private practice, and live on a corresponding scale. At the time they become judges they have usually just reached the upper levels of their earning power and are beginning to lay aside savings for the future.

When such a man becomes judge of a superior court he must abandon all his outside sources of income and live on a salary, after tax deductions, of $5,065 a year (assuming he is married but without children). If he is of such eminent talent and probity that he is appointed a chief justice, his salary will be the munificent sum of $5,475.

Unlike other government employees, there is no provision made for his widow and children if he should die before them. If his health and mental endurance permit him to serve continuously for 25 years, it is customary, but not mandatory, to grant him a pension of two-thirds of his salary if he desires to retire.

When a lawyer of proven ability consents to become a judge, he is expected to keep up a dignified and respectable standard of living. From approximately $400 a month, he must put away a minimum of $150 to assure his wife of a decent income if he should die. He must pay $50 or $60 a month in rent or taxes on his home. He has about $200 left to pay the light and gas bills, the coal dealer and the baker, the butcher and the grocer, the haberdasher and the milliner.

THE plain mathematics of the case is that a Canadian judge cannot live as Canadians expect their judges to live on the salaries the Parliament of Canada grants them. Unless a capable lawyer has an independent income, he cannot afford to take a judgeship, no matter what his ability.

A chief justice in Canada receives $10,000 a year with no provision for his survivors, while a judge in a comparable appointment in England gets $30,000 with $16,750 pension after only 15 years; in Scotland, $18,000; in the Irish Free State, $15,000; in Northern Ireland, $20,000; in Australia, $13,000 to $15,000; in New Zealand, $11,500; in South Africa, $13,750 to $16,250; and in a typical state of the United States, $22,500.

In immediate effect we have judges at 75, 80 and 85 years of age continuing to function on the bench. We have judges handing down decisions in vital cases when they are broken in body and their minds are no longer capable of dealing with ordinary matters of law. We have judges too deaf to hear the evidence given before them, and too blind to see the witnesses.

WE have vacant judgeships refused by practically every lawyer capable of filling them, and we have judges who have accepted office under the pressure of great persuasion and entirely from a sense of public duty, who must preserve an impartial mind and render clear and exact decisions in vitally important cases when they are harassed by problems of personal finance and burdened with debt.

We have seen—not only occasionally and not only once in this city and province alone—the widows and orphaned children of honoured judges existing on the bitter bread of public and private charity, and that is the worst shame of all.

This is the disgraceful state to which the Parliament of Canada has reduced the judiciary of the nation, and the perilous situation in which the people of Canada find their chief bulwark of freedom and order.

Lacking In Patriotism

The Indianapolis Star emphatically approves the rebuke which Dr. Daniel A. Poling administered to the 28 clergymen and writers who recently protested the "obliteration bombing of Berlin. "The Pacifists and tender-hearted who bemoan rough treatment for the Germans are lacking in patriotism and horse sense. Germany and Japan are running amuck in the civilized world and if obliteration is the only cure we shall have to resort to that."—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Not Precipitant

Speaking of the action taken by Great Britain against Eire, Prime Minister Churchill says: "No one, I think can reproach us for precipitancy. No nation in the world would have been so patient." Had Hitler's air force not been defeated in the Battle of Britain, just where does Mr. de Valera imagine that Eire and her neutrality would be today?—Hamilton Spectator.

MORE "DIVISIONS" HITLER HOPES TO WIN WITH!

Irvin Cobb's Epitaph

NEW YORK, March 11.—A sealed letter written last December by Irvin S. Cobb, humorist and author who passed on in New York City yesterday, has been opened in accordance with his instructions after he entrusted it to friends in his native town of Paducah, Ky.

"One advantage of dying," says this letter in parenthesis at one point, "is that it affords a fellow opportunity to say a lot of things that have been curdling in his system all these years. Frankly, Im enjoying myself." And in the letter Mr. Cobb took good advantage of this opportunity, giving his mellow humor full play in ranging over a number of subjects.

The letter reads in part as follows:

"To Whom It May Concern:

"In death I desire that no one shall look upon my face and once more I charge my family, as already and repeatedly I have done, that they shall put on none of the bogus habiliments of so-called mourning. Folds of black crepe never ministered to the memory of the departed; they only made the wearers unhappy and self-conscious.

"I ask that my body be wrapped in a plain sheet or cloth and placed in an inexpensive container and immediately cremated—without any special formality or ceremony. If anybody tries to insert me into one of those dismal numbers run up by the undertaker's dressmaking department, I'll come back and ha-nt 'em. Nor do I crave to make my mortal exit in a tail-coat with white tie and artificial pearl studs.

"I'll be done with after-dinner speaking forever, so why dispatch me hence in the regalia of the craft?"

After saying that the epitaph which Robert Louis Stevenson wrote for himself would be acceptable to him, too, Mr. Cobb added "Or, if a simpler single line bearing the same imprint seems desirable, I offer this one as suitable: 'I have come back home.'

"And," the letter continues, "thank you, no flowers. Does anybody feel moved to send flowers, I'd prefer that they give the money they'd spend there to some local nondenominational charity. Cover the spot with leaves.... Above all I want no long faces and no show of grief... In deference to the faith of our dear mother... perhaps the current pastor of the First Presbyterian Church would consent to read the Twenty-third Psalm, which was her favorite passage in the Scriptures, as it is mine...."

Finally, the letter concludes, "Well, I reckon that will be about all, except that I extend in passing, my affectionate and grateful regards to the gracious and generous folks who make up so overwhelmingly the dwellers in my home community and my native section. You've been mighty good to me and I appreciate it. Much obliged, you all, and goodbye and bless you and prosper you."

Hitler's U-Boat Fails

(FROM NEW YORK TIMES)

WITH hundreds of thousands of American soldiers and billions of dollars' worth of supplies streaming to Europe over a bridge of ships that connects the European battlefronts with the "arsenal of democracy," it is both welcome and important news to hear how safe that bridge has become and how thoroughly the one grave menace to it, the German submarine, has been defeated.

According to the First Lord of the Admiralty, A. V. Alexander, Allied convoy losses are now less than one ship in every thousand, and so far as is known only one major troop transport of the many thousands sent abroad has been sunk throughout the entire war.

Considering the needs of the battlefronts, every loss is grievous, but the rate of loss has become so small that its reduction to the present level represents a great victory and one of the decisive factors in the whole war.

For in Hitler's calculations the submarine, more than any other weapon, was to be the weapon of victory. It was to isolate Western Europe, Great Britain and Russia from outside help, so that he could conquer them one by one by means of his armed legions, his tanks and planes. And if his submarines had lived up to his calculations, who can say he would not have succeeded? In fact, in those dark days when Britain stood alone and when the Germans boasted of submarine tolls exceeding a million tons a month, borne in the main by British shipping, German hopes of starving out the island fortress were flying high, and may have contributed to Hitler's decision to turn against Russia first. They were still flying high when German submarines operated directly off the American east coast and Japanese submarines started to shell the west coast. How desperately Hitler tried to cut the Allied life-line is indicated by the fact that he sent his best and costliest battleships and cruisers on lone raiding expeditions even at the risk of their annihilation.

But, as in every other case, Hitler miscalculated. The bridge of ships remained intact, and convoy losses which still amounted to one in every 181 ships in 1941 dropped to one in every 233 the following year and to one in 344 for the whole of 1943. The submarine "wolf packs" were the last challenge, but after their defeat the rate could be kept below one in every thousand throughout the whole second half of last year.

As a result America was able to send more than 2,000,000 troops and their supplies across the Atlantic, and in addition to supply our Allies with more than $20,000,000,000 worth of war materials of all kinds, of which a good part went to Russia. Even on that dangerous route 88 per cent. of the supplies went through.

Both Mr. Alexander and Secretary Knox warn that Germany has a great number of submarines in reserve and will undoubtedly make another try, which might come when our forces are fighting on the Continent and are most dependent on a continuous flow of supplies and reserves. But with the British fleet stronger now than ever before "in relation to the enemy naval strength," and with the American Navy now the largest in world history, the German submarine has lost the importance as a decisive weapon that it once possessed.

In contrast, American submarines, aided by planes and surface vessels, are doing to Japan exactly what Hitler started out to do to Britain and America. They have sunk close to half of the total merchant tonnage Japan controlled at the outbreak of the war, and the growing dearth of shipping is already beginning to paralyze the Japanese Empire and jeopardize its far-flung battlefronts. The First Lord of the Admiralty joins Prime Minister Churchill, Foreign Minister Eden and other British spokesmen in the pledge that after the European war Britain will join America in full force to crush Japan. This pledge is all the more welcome because, judging from British press publications, the same elements that are trying to organize an underground appeasement sentiment toward Japan in this country are even more boldly active in Great Britain.

Hitler Needs Finland

More than Nazi prestige is at stake in Finland's present position in the war. What really hangs in the balance is Germany's war output of steel, placed at 36 million tons a year. She depends on Finland for 70 per cent of her nickel, produced at the Petsamo mines; 60 per cent of her cobalt, 25 per cent of her molybdenum and 10 per cent of her copper. Add to those possible deficiencies the loss of 60 per cent of her manganese which she had been extracting from the mines near Nipokol, in Russia, and the effect of her steel industry can be measured.

Finland leans just as heavily on Germany and has done so since she cast in her lot with Hitler. She is estimated to receive from the Nazis one million tons of coal and coke a year, 85,000 tons of steel, 95,000 tons of oil, most of her armaments, 50,000 tons of sugar and 8,000 tons of fats. Other supplies include 200,000 tons of grains which provide the basic food needs of the nation on a ration allowance lower than that prevailing even in Belgium. Finland is believed to have enough foodstuffs on hand to outlast this winter, but the situation is likely to become acute as the summer approaches.

In the preliminary discussions for peace, Moscow is said to have assured Finland that Russia and the other United Nations would make good any economic losses she would incur in breaking with Germany. Sweden is also reported to be willing to let Finland have substantial quantities of food, but is obligated not to do so because of the pledge she gave to Great Britain and the United States when she was granted safe passage through the Allied blockade.

Hitler probably needs Finland's essential metals more than he does her military aid. Germany's steel industry is the life blood of his war machine. For that reason the Fuehrer can be counted upon to do everything that lies in his power to prevent Finland from making a separate peace. As the Russian advance proceeds westward, however, the day draws nearer when Finland will have no alternative but to surrender or be crushed by the weight of Russian arms. —Hamilton Spectator.

A Bible Message

Hear ye the word of the Lord, O house of Jacob, and all the families of the house of Israel: Thus saith the Lord, What iniquity have your fathers found in me, that they are gone far from me, and have walked after vanity, and are become vain? Neither said they, Where is the Lord that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, that led us through the wilderness, through a land of deserts and pits, through a land of drought, and of the shadow of death, through a land that no man passed through, and where no man dwelt?....

Hath a nation changed their gods? which are yet no gods? but my people have changed their glory for that which doth not profit....

For my people have committed two evils; they have forsaken me the fountain of living waters, and hewed them out cisterns, broken cisterns, that can hold no water....Thine own wickedness shall correct thee, and thy backslidings shall reprove thee: know therefore and see that it is an evil thing and bitter, that thou hast forsaken the Lord thy God, and that my fear is not in thee, saith the Lord God of hosts....

As the thief is ashamed when he is found, so is the house of Israel ashamed; they, their kings, their princes, and their priests, and their prophets, saying to a stock, Thou art my father; and to a stone, Thou hast brought me forth: for they have turned their back unto me, and not their face: but in the time of their trouble they will say, Arise, and save us. But where are thy gods that thou hast made thee? let them arise, if they can save thee in the time of thy trouble: for according to the number of thy cities are thy gods, O Judah. (Jer. 2: 4-6, 11, 13, 19, 26-28.)

Letters To The Editor

REFUTE PRESIDENT'S ACTION

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—We were rather amazed to read in the "Voice of the People" column in the Examiner on Wednesday, March 15, a letter from Charles Kingan, president of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association which indicated this association was opposed to any change in the present Crown Game Preserve, thus intimating that the association was also opposed to the present agitation for the establishment of a Provincial Park in Peterborough County.

This is not true. The only way the association could register opposition to this plan would be to call a general meeting to ascertain the views of the members, or to call an executive meeting and get a majority vote supporting such a statement.

This has not been done. In short, so far as we can learn, not a member of the executive knew a thing about this letter until it appeared in the Examiner.

We are taking the liberty of suggesting that the opinions expressed in this letter are the opinions of Charles Kingan, and do not set forth the views of the members, nor those of the executive.

We, the undersigned, all members of the executive of this association, feel the president acted without authority, and believe he should call a general meeting at an early date, so that he may obtain either confirmation or rejection of the statement which has been published.

At Cost-Plus Tax

Battle Training Stresses Cooperation

BY SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CAMP DEBERT, N.S., March 21 — (CP) — Battleworthy is the slogan of this newest of Canadian Army battle training schools, and battleworthy every man must be before he "graduates" and moves across the ocean to await his turn for posting to the front lines.

When a soldier completes his four action-packed weeks of war-readying in this the Dominion's only brigade battle training school, he has sampled every angle and experience of army life except the real "for keep" zing of enemy bullets and glint of cold steel.

Everything here is as realistic as the battle-wise minds of the instructing officers can make it. From the Brigadier down, most of the officers have seen service overseas in one or two wars, and all have served on the Pacific Coast where Canadian troops were trained to the peak of condition.

From the time each new class enters until it leaves, every man is taught self-reliance and shown how to handle himself under battle conditions. He learns the other fellow's job, too, and gains a healthy respect for other units.

Demonstrations are given by all different group of the brigade and everyone must turn out to watch them. Over and over again the soldier is impressed with the vital need for co-operation between his own part of the team and the oth-other members.

The infantrymen see the artillery in action and field ambulance demonstrations give another taste of realism.

The soldiers see the medical corps men work under fire, and learn what they must do to help themselves on the battlefield.

So with the brigade field workshop, which repairs gun tractors and vehicles under fire on the demonstration field of battle, and so with all the other units.

Expect Debate To Last 3 Full Weeks

TORONTO, March 21—(CP)—The closely-divided Ontario Legislature swings into a fulldress debate on the budget Tuesday which may occupy the Legislators for two full weeks, perhaps three.

Flt.-Lt. L. E. Wismer, former editor of a financial publication (The Monetary Times) and chief financial critic for the C.C.F. opposition, will open the debate on the budget presented to the House last Thursday by Treasurer L. E. Frost.

The budget showed a reduction of more than $12,000,000 in Ontario's net debt, a surplus of more than $8,000,000, no new taxes except doubling that on pari-mutuel racing tickets, and a grant of $3,500,000 toward education while a Royal Commission studies the land tax structure.

One C.C.F. spokesmen said more would probably be heard of the government's pledge to take over 50 per cent of the cost of education despite the $3,500,000 education grant and other steps along this line as reported in the budget.

Before the debate is through, the House will have heard Premier Drew, Opposition Leader Jolliffe, A. Belanger (L.-Prescott), Chief Liberal critic, A. St. Clair Gordon (L.-Kent West), a former provincial treasurer, Mitchell Hepburn (I.L.-Elgin) former Liberal premier, and other speakers.

Just how many others will be heard is a matter of conjecture. There was no word from the C.C.F. or Liberal camps on the number of speakers but there were indications that C.C.F. criticisms will delve into Ontario's financial affairs to some length.

Premier Drew, when questioned regarding the forthcoming debate, said: "It is not desired to extend the debate beyond a discussion of the essential issues raised, which I think are few. We will not have many speakers and most of the speeches will, I believe, be made on the estimates of the different departments."

The Premier said he would be the second speaker on the government list, probably following Mr. Wismer and Mr. Belanger, veteran French-Canadian member of the House. A. St. Clair Gordon, who has been in ill-health is not yet sufficiently improved to allow him to take the major role for the Liberals, but he feels he can speak later.

Mr. Jolliffe said he would probably wind up the debate for the C.C.F.

300 Jewish Refugees To Come To Canada

LISBON, March 21 (CP)—Nearly 300 Jewish refugees from various parts of Europe are gathering here for their departure to Canada where they will be given a temporary haven for the duration of the war.

They mostly are stateless—former Hungarians, Austrians, Germans, Czecho-Slovakians and others—who reached Spain and Portugal since 1934 but were unable to proceed farther.

The group is scheduled to sail March 23 aboard the Serpapinto for a United States port whence they will go to Canada by train.

Odulon Cormier, a Canadian government representative handling arrangements here in co-operation with the American joint distribution committee, will remain in Lisbon to complete selection of a smaller group expected to go to Canada later.

The highlight of the evening was the investiture ceremony at which Hugh Rose; Peter Rose and Kenneth Pammett added their names to the world list of the scouting brotherhood, as they became full members of the pack and placed their feet firmly on the jungle trail. First stars were presented to Douglas Britnell and Billy Davis. Hewitt Hamilton was promoted to the rank of seconder to the Red Six. The pack have been detailed to demonstrate the house-orderly badge at the coming Scout Craft show and work was allotted to members of the Pack as follows: Alistair Fettes, poaching eggs; Bobby Payne, making tea; Billie Davis, preparing and cooking potatoes; Gerald Stock, washing dishes; and cooking utensils; Norman Thomas, cleaning knives, forks and spoons; Douglas Britnell and Hewitt Hamilton, cleaning windows; Jack King and Jack Bertrand, cleaning boots; Lynn Thain and Hugh Rose, making beds; this is giving the Cubs a chance to practice up on their various duties and the parents are asked to see that the boys carry out this work.

All Saints' Pack

The senior sixer led the grand howl at the opening ceremonies, this being followed by a sing-sing. The investiture of Bob Leach, Ronald Best, Arthur Batley, Gary Stewart and Bob White was held thus adding five new names to the world wide brotherhood of scouting. We wish these new cubs good hunting with the pack.

Owing to the number of new chums recently added to the pack it will be necessary to hold investitures every other week. At the red flower, Floyd Roberts and Byron Young received their artists badge, Walter Downes was presented with the house orderly badge. Test work was carried out in the six corners, with 15 minutes being allotted to this work. Walter Downes led in the closing grand howl.

Park Hill Community

The weekly mascot is a very constructive little paper giving the various boys a boost each week and also calling the attention of the absentees for their failing.

We note this week that Ralph Goodfellow has been promoted to the rank of quartermaster with Keith Gordon and James Hirter as his assistants. It is well to give every fellow a job to help keep his interest in the movement.

The recent father and son banquet proved a financial success as well as one of interest. Some of the boys have failed to turn in their application forms. What about it, fellows?

Next we note that two new members have been added to the troop in Emerson McDougall and Jack Simmons. Emerson was in scouting before and we would like to learn where.

William Zaharruk has left the troop and is now with the sea cadets. We wish him luck in his new venture.

8th Peterborough Wolf Cubs

The regular weekly meeting of the 8th Peterborough Wolf Cub pack took place in St. Andrew's Sunday School on Monday.

The jungle dance was led by Sixers Greer Elcombe and Bill Frisken and Second Fred Russell. The cubs are looking forward to the coming Scout Craft show and plans are being laid for a father and son banquet for the 8th Scouts and Cubs, the tentative date being April 14.

Cub Howard Harrison and Cub Gary Patterson passed the test on leap frog and hopping.

The following is the result of the inter-six competition: Tawny Six, 1535; Red Six, 1495 and Green Six 1335 bones.

The following cubs of the Red Six were treated to a sundae for being members of the winning six: Sixer Bob Hutchinson, Grant Reader, Lang Thompson, Grant Harrison, Howard Harrison, and Richard Foley.

Sacred Heart

We are glad to welcome Gerald Woods to our reporter staff and know that we will be hearing from the troop regularly from now on. At the last meeting deck tennis and floor hockey were the two games played.

At the close of the meeting a court of honor was held and plans drawn up for a hike on Saturday.

The meeting opened with grand howl, led by Le Verne Jones. There were three new chums taken into the pack, Karl Clancy, Murray Byrne, Bobby Burns.

Tests passed:

Cleanliness—Terry O'Leary, Lionel Johnson.

Book balancing—Tommy McLean, David Theobald, Jim Clarke, Gerald McMurray, Carl Meagher.

Union Jack—Michael Mastrianne.

Time—Jim Clarke, Ronald Collins.

Ball throwing — Carl Meagher, Gerald McMurray.

Practise work for the Scout Craft show was carried out by Akela Collet, assisted by Mr. O'Rourke. The boys spent some time on their wood work.

The meeting closed with grand howl, led by Lionel Johnson, the Lord's Prayer, and the singing of the King.

On Tuesday evening the Women's Auxiliary group committee and leaders held a meeting at the home of Mr. E. O'Rourke.

The president of the Women's Auxiliary presided in the chair. The chairmen of the various committees reported on their latest doings. Several topics were discussed.

The highlight of the evening was the speech delivered by the guest speaker, Mrs. Kearns. Our heartiest thanks are extended to her.

A tasty lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. O'Rourke, bringing the meeting to a close.

Scout Craft Show

We are glad to note that so many of the pack are getting well prepared for the Scout Craft show and feel that with such enthusiam the show cannot be other than a success. Plans have been drawn up for the floor show which I feel will add to the life of the displays. Owing to previous engagements show postponed from April 10, to April 24 to 28.

Reporter Given Service Medal

LONDON, March 20—(CP Cable)—Louis V. Hunter of The Canadian Press London Bureau to-day received from the War Office the 1939-1943 Star, thus becoming the first Canadian war correspondent permitted to wear the British campaign medal of the Second Great War.

It is expected that other Canadian war correspondents will qualify for either the 1939-1943 Star or the Africa Star on the basis of their service with troops in the field.

Hunter, whose home is in Quebec City, spent six months in the Mediterranean theatre, covering activities of Canadian troops and airmen in Africa, Sicily and Italy.

CANADIANS IN ITALY TAKE TO SKIS—A ski trail in Italy. Vehicles tried unsuccessfully to get through to an isolated British outpost. Their tracks made excellent run for these Canadian volunteer ski-troopers and saved them considerable trouble trail-breaking. The party under Capt. G. W. Hamm of Regina, Sask., brought in food and medical supplies, to the snowbound unit. A Peterborough boy, G. W. Huggins, took part in this adventure.

IF YOU waste THEY want!

It may seem tough, when you're making good wages, to go on wearing old clothes. But it would be a good deal tougher if our boys overseas didn't get the supplies they need. The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP)—Unless the army examiners find something wrong with Mel Ott (which is more than New Yorkers can do) Bruce (Fatso) Sloan likely will set a record of some sort for a fast climb to major league baseball.... Sloan had been playing sandlot ball for eight years when Little Rock picked him up last season and he'll probably become the Giants' regular right fielder without a halt at Jersey City, which drafted him from the Travelers.

Man of few words:

When George Strickler, the National Football League tub thumper, finally located the old Green Bay Packer, Johnny (Blood) McNally, somewhere in China and sent him some statistics, he received this letter in reply:

"Dear Scribbler: China is a better hole at end of line. Received letter, dope and Paulette Goddard same day. Got football broadcasts on super pro receiver. We called it Don Hutson. Thank you for dope. Thank Hutson for Lambeau. Thank God for Uncle Sam. Thank your stars this is not collect. (Signed) John J. McNally."

A new chemical developed by a powder company is supposed to make soil waterproof and thus render baseball fields immune to the wet-grounds hazard. It will be tried on the Phillies' Wilmington, Del., training grounds—which seems appropriate when you think of the tears that have been shed over the Phillies.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the National League, revealed something of their player strength yesterday when a squad of 18 ball-tossers turned out at Cairo, Ill., for the opening of spring training, although the club had contributed such men as Al Brazle, Harry Walker, Lou Klein and Ernie White to the armed forces since last October.

The only obvious concession to the wartime manpower situation was the appearance of Pepper Martin, 40-year-old "wild horse of the Osage," who said he had not been happy last season as manager of the Rochester Red Wings. Martin was about to quit baseball to accept a broadcasting job when he was brought to the Cardinals.

Tom Burlington of the Cleveland Barons captured the season's individual scoring championship with 82 points on 33 goals and 49 assists, it was announced last night by President Maurice A. Podoloff of the American Hockey League. Runner-up in the league's final compilation was Fred Hunt of Buffalo, who came with a rush in the closing stages to finish with 80 points. Les Cunningham of Cleveland finished third with 76 and Trudel of Cleveland, fourth with 76 points.

First-baseman Phil Weintraub of the New York Giants received notice yesterday to appear for army examination at Chicago March 25. Weintraub, 36, hit .334 with the Toledo Mud Hens in the American Association last season.

Carding his second 60 of the tournament yesterday, Dutch Harrison of the U.S. army air force took a four-stroke lead in the $10,000 Open Golf competition at Charlotte, N.C., with Harold (Jug) McSpaden holding second place.

After re-electing George D. Widener as president, Belmont Park Jockey Club yesterday at New York decided to raise purses for feature events, that for the Suburban Handicap being increased from $30,000 to $50,000 while the Belmont Handicap also became a $50,000 race. Count Fleet captured the Suburban last season.

Three Players Exceed Scoring Record

MONTREAL, March 21—(CP).—The National Hockey League released the final official scoring statistics of the season today, showing Boston's Herbie Cain with a new league record of 82 points in a season, nine above the former record.

Doug Bentley of Chicago, with 77 points, and Toronto's Lorne Carr with 74, also smashed the former record hung up in 1929-30 by Cooney Weiland of Boston and equalled last year by Bentley. Carl Liscombe of Detroit tied the old mark, with 73 points.

Clint Smith of Chicago hung up a new record for assists, his 49 for the season being four better than the old mark of Bill Cowley set in 1940-41. Elmer Lach of Canadiens was right behind Smith in the assists, with 48, while Cain also broke the old mark by drawing credit for 46.

Bentley chalked up 38 goals, two better than Cain, Carr and Liscombe, but well below the phenomenal 44 goals in 22 games rapped in by Joe Malone of Canadiens in 1917-18.

Lach and Smith finished in a tie for fifth place in the combined standings, with 72 points each, one ahead of Boston's Bill Cowley.

Canadiens' Mike McMahon finished as league's bad man with 78 minutes in minors and majors, to say nothing of two 10-minute misconducts.

Canadiens led all clubs in total penalties, with 467 minutes, Detroit was next with 324, Toronto third with 283.

Paul Bibeault of Toronto led the league in shut-outs with five. Bill Durnan, of Canadiens, had the best goals-per-game average with a mark of 2.18 against 3.00 for Bibeault.

SPORTS—Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

This is a decidedly lean sport season but in spite of that fact Peterborough, thanks to the Y.M.C.A. volleyball squad managed by Claud Elliott, has not to go without a provincial championship. The Y team in a round robin competition staged in Toronto Saturday battled their way through to the senior Ontario title and that was no easy task in view of the quality of the opposition that had to be overcome. The Peterborough squad in winning the provincial championship twice defeated the Kitchener team which has held the senior honors for the past twelve years so that the feat accomplished by the local team can be appreciated in its real light. The Petes had won intermediate honors before but this was the first time the senior title had ever been brought here and the triumph was ample reward for the many Saturday afternoons the Y players have devoted to the game. Included in the ranks of the new champions are athletes who are well-known here for their prowess in other sports, Russ Kitchen, noted as a ball pitcher, Cliff Cadd a familiar figure in hockey, lacrosse and baseball, Stan Payne whose golfing ability has made him a familiar figure on local links, Nels Stanger, basketball and softball player, and Steve Csumrik who has played a lot of football and basketball, in addition to his volleyball activities. Other members of the squad were Ab Dryland, Don Crawford, Eric Vincent, Ken Kingston and Bill Swiss.

The arrival of the official guide of The National Baseball Congress of America, in other words the organ of the sand-lotters serves to call attention to the fact that this organization which has a Canadian branch now is expanding in leaps and bounds and its activities may serve to halt the inroads made by softball in recent years. For the first time this season there will be an international playoff with the winner of the United States national tournament to be staged at Wichita, Kan., meeting the winner of the Canadian tourney to be played in Toronto in a seven game final series. Incidentally this coming Saturday, March 25 is nation-wide registration day and sponsored by the Congress registration will be accepted at each of 3,750 sporting goods stores and departments throughout the United States and Canada. Each person will be required to fill in his name, age, street address, telephone number, previous years of experience and playing position and these lists will be afterwards available to team sponsors in each section. The 1944 guide, a most complete volume gives all the details in connection with the nation-wide baseball program as well as a wealth of other information in regard to the doings of the sand-lotters and plenty of pictures of the outstanding semi-pro organizations of last season.

Bad Men Galore

Promoter Frank Tunney moves into town tonight with as impressive an array of the bad men of the wrestling world as has been seen here this season. Leading the troupe is the outstanding figure of the mat game, none other than World Champion Wild Bill Longson of Salt Lake City, Utah, and St. Louis, Miss., usually rated among the wrestling villains because of the ferocity of his methods but tonight likely to perform in the hero's role because his opponent is Peterborough's pet peeve of the moment, Strangler Bob Wagner. So far as Wagner is concerned local enthusiasts are neutral; they don't care who tosses him around. In addition to Longson and Wagner, other exponents of the rugged and rough-house style of wrestling who show their stuff at the Brock Street Arena are Krippler Karl Davis, Texas, Jan Gotch, the Pulverizing Pole and Tom Zaharias the bad man from Pueblo, Col. Of the six battlers on the card the only performer who comes in the hero class because of his cleancut appearance and his reliance on speed, cleverness and science is Frank Sexton of Columbus, Ohio., who meets Davis in the semi-final and will have the undivided support of the entire crowd in his clash with the hard-boiled Texan.

* * * * * *

That is a card that should keep the crowd on the edge of the seats all night. Wild Bill Longson, than whom the mat game has produced nobody tougher and whose former appearance here put Toar Morgan on the shelf for several weeks will be battling a hard-bitten hombre in the main bout. Bob Wagner may not be popular but nobody has ever acused him of backing up from anybody and in his first clash with the world champion he'll probably use everything he has in his repertoire. Longson will retort in kind and that should mean an exciting tussle. The world champ should win but he'll know he has been in a bout. As for the semi-final Karl the Krippler has performed here on a number of occasions and the fans know that he can be depended upon to try all kinds of skulduggery. They are hopeful of course that Frank Sexton succeed in foiling the Texan bad man and it would make everything perfect if Davis was to be tossed with a typical Sexton giant swing, with a few extra whirls to mark the occasion. As for the opener it cannot fail to be a knockout with these two prize villains Jan Gotch and Tom Zaharias belting away at each other. Whether either of those battlers will be installed as a favorite remains to be seen but we have an idea that if the two were to knock each other out simultaneously with a head-on flying tackle collision the crowd would vote the result the most satisfactory of the season.

All Against Us, Says Soup

Everybody is likely to be against the Generals in the current final series with St. Mikes points out George Campbell of the Oshawa-Times-Gazette and as this paragraph was written before the Motor City scribe blew his top and tangled with our other old friend Bunny Morganson of the Telegram it is important as revealing his view of the round in a moment of calm:

Perhaps we should take time here to give our ideas concerning the big series. Oshawa Generals have a slight edge, in that they have four games on their home ice, should the series go the limit. However, it means they have to win at home each time to be sure of taking the honors. We note St. Mike's have a pre-game "just-in-case" alibi hinted already. McCormack is on the shelf for tonight, having suffered a nasty gash in his foot in the last three minutes the other night. Marios is also expected to sit this game out tonight, due to a knee injury. Personally, we think Marios hasn't shown up nearly so well, since his off-and-on layoff in recent weeks and we feel that St. Mike's management likely considers Boehmer their best bet. However, Oshawa hockey fans know that everybody, including perhaps even the O. H. A. would like to see the championship go someplace else for a change. We figure that the refereeing is going to be mighty strict as far as Oshawa is concerned. The Generals are not going to get any "breaks." The players realize this and they are out to make every move count. You can do it Generals! Let's go!

* * * * * *

And those Generals of Bre'er Campbell really did go last night when they outscored the St. Mike's team 5-1 in Toronto in the second game of the round and clamped a hammerlock on the series. The third game will be played tomorrow night in Oshawa and unless the Tor. Irish come up with one of their better games and grab off a win they had better get ready to go back to their studies for the best-of-seven series will be practically ended. Oshawa played sound hockey, took advantage of their opportunities and outscored St. Michael's in all three periods before a crowd of 12,465. Meanwhile the Hamilton Majors who had been almost blasted out of the senior finals by the Sudbury-Frood team finally found their putting touch last night and sank six goals behind big Maurice Gerth while the N. O. H. A. winners were blanked. The Majors are now back in the running and the battle for the senior title is by no means over.

Jinx Still Dogs Chicago Cubs Lose Pitchers

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP).—That 1943 jinx of Chicago Cubs still seems to be with them. A year ago they looked great on paper, but they got off to a very poor start and were lucky to wind up fifth in the National Baseball League with 74 wins against 79 defeats.

Yesterday Manager Jimmy Wilson at the team's French Lick, Ind., training camp learned that Pitcher Claude Passeau will not play this year and that Pitcher Paul Derringer had stepped on a rock while running around the field and turned his right ankle, suffering a torn ligament which will keep him out for several weeks. Passeau sent word he decided to remain on his farm for the duration.

Since Passeau won 15 games and Derringer 10 last year the Cubs suffered the loss of one-third of their pitching strength, something a team can ill-afford in this wartime campaign.

Other news from the training camp circuit, beset by snow and rain:

New York Giants (Lakewood, N. J.)—Joe Medwick, veteran outfielder, reported late last night. He is classified 2-B.

Cleveland Indians (Lafayette, Ind.)—Southpaw Al Smith, who beat Sox five times last year, was picked as opening day pitcher against Chicago White Sox by Manager Lou Boudreau.

Cincinnati Reds (Bloomington, Ind.)—Outfielder Marshall received orders to report next Monday for his pre-induction physical exam at Sidney, Ia.

Detroit Tigers (Evansville, Ind.)—Dizzy Trout and Hal Newhouser will start two scheduled exhibition games against White Sox this week-end.

Philadelphia Athletics (Frederick, Md.)—Pitcher Luke Hamlin, with Toronto last year, still unsigned, sent word he would report Wednesday.

It will be T. McArthur vs. C. Lawrence tonight in the final game for the Harry J. Foote Memorial Trophy. In last night's semi-final game against J. Welsh, McArthur's rink took the lead on the very first end and was never in serious danger throughout the twelve ends. On several ends Welsh looked to be building up a nice end but McArthur would sneak one in some place where it was hard to get at and would finish with one shot. Towards the latter part of the game the ice was beginning to get just a little sticky and that fooled the boys a little. However, tonight's another night and we'll all be down watching the final game.

BUCK-SAW DAYS AGAIN

"I bought a load of cordwood today," announced Mr. Picobac. "The country's short of coal."

"Who's going to cut and split it?" asked Mrs. Picobac.

"That will be a small part of my contribution to Canada's war effort," replied Mr. Picobac calmly. "And if there's one time more than another when a man enjoys a mild ... cool ... sweet smoke of Picobac, it's after a bout with a buck-saw. I'll have a lot of extra satisfaction this winter."

Oshawa Beats St. Michael's In 2nd Straight

By The Canadian Press

Hamilton Majors, senior champions of the O. H. A., showed a market reversal of form last night at Hamilton in blanking Sudbury Frood Miners 6-0 in the third game of their best-of-five all-Ontario play-off series on which hinges qualification to proceed into Allan Cup play.

The Northern Ontario contenders had won the first two battles and a third victory would have brought provincial honors but the Majors outplayed and out-bumped their rivals to prolong the series. Hamilton practically won the encounter in the first period with the initial score, notched by Robertson, but added three more in the second and two in the third frame.

Hamilton's scorers were Dillon Brady, with two, Doug Runions, Clarence Shillington, Davey and Robertson. The teams play the fourth game at Toronto Wednesday night, with Sudbury holding a 2-1 advantage.

In the O.H.A. Junior "A" playoffs, Oshawa Generals were impressive at Toronto in taking their second straight game from St. Michael's 5-1, thus assuming a commanding lead in the best-of-seven series. Generals won the first match 4-3 at Oshawa last Saturday and appeared even more formidable in the second tussel last night which was played before 12,465 fans.

Oshawa sailed through for their five goals in a row before St. Michaels registered their lone counter with less than 10 minutes to go before the wind-up of the match. The Students stormed the visitors' net during the closing stages but Goalie Bennett held St. Mikes to the one goal which went to Gus Mortson.

Jack Taggart scored two for Generals and Johnny Chenier, Dewes and Shewchuk counted one apiece. Oshawa scored once in the first stanza, added two more in the second and two again in third, with St. Mikes winding up the scoring. The team meet again Wednesday night at Oshawa.

Entry Too Late

OTTAWA —(CP)—The Canadian Amateur Basketball Association last night advised the R.C.A.F. Rockcliffe team their entry for the senior Canadian playoffs had been received too late. The sailors will represent Ottawa in the inter-sectional games, playing their first match in Montreal Saturday.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

TORONTO, March 21 — (CP).— More than a few people were surprised when Gus Bodnar of Leafs edged out Bill Durnan for the Calder Rookie Award. The Canadiens goalie had been regarded as almost a sure thing on his spectacular season's work. But apparently the gentleman least surprised was Durnan himself, this year's Vezina Trophy winner.

In fact he was so sure he would not get the trophy that he bet on himself to lose, reports Elmer Ferguson of the Montreal Herald. Most of his team-mates were unwilling to take advantage of what they probably considered his temporary derangement, but a few bet with him. So Durnan cleaned up about $20 even if the award eluded him.

Football Forum:

It's a little unseasonable for football, but some sport writers have been reviving the Lionel Conacher vs. Joe Krol controversy. H. A. Cole of the Guelph Daily Mercury ventures the opinion it's all a waste of time, since the two were playing entirely different games.

Conacher played the old Canadian rugby game with Toronto Argos about 15 years ago, while Krol happened along after the game had been streamlined and Americanized almost beyond recognition. You might just as well compare a hockey player with a lacrosse player, Cole snorts.

Incidentally:

"Sugar Jim" Henry, former Ranger goalie, now with a Red Deer, Alta., Army team, has applied for a transfer to the Navy....Sweeney Schriner is due to don the Navy blue next month also, and probably will be stationed at H.M.C.S. Tecumseh in Calgary for a few months....

Amateur boxing is said due for a revival this summer in London, Ont. Small shows are being put on, and later promoters hope to import glovemen from the outside points....WO. H. W. A. Parsley, brother of sport columnist Al Parsley, of the Montreal Herald, has been reported killed in action with the R.C.A.F. overseas......Watt Ramsey and Don Turvey have entered the doubles competition in an Edmonton bowling tournament. Ramsey is 71 years old and Turvey 14.....Vancouver Radials, acclaimetd as Canadian soccer champions in 1941, still can claim the title, as the trophy hasn't been played for since. They would be hard put to round up a team now, since the players are in the Army and R.C.A.F. almost 100 per cent.

Wagner Hopes To Upset Champion Bill

World's Heavyweight Wrestling Champion is the official title worn by Wild Bill Longson, who originally hails from the Mormon town of Salt Lake City but who has recently made St. Louis, Missouri, his most famous stamping ground.

Champion Longson comes to Peterborough on Tuesday night for what should be a gruelling mat battle with Strangler Bob Wagner. The titleholder is taking them all on these days with the continued exception of Whipper Billy Watson, of whom Longson definitely wants no part. Although on his last appearance here the champion was none too popular in his ruthless flattening of Toar Morgan, the fact that his opponent on Tuesday will be the well-hated Wagner is likely to make Wild Bill the favorite.

Particularly if Wagner is seconded by the Strangler's heartily disliked supporter Tom Zaharias. In his exuberance over getting this match with the champion, Bob Wagner has waived his former insistence on having the Greek second him, but as far as Longson is concerned Strangler Bob can do as he likes. "When I've got a man in the ring against me I don't care whether he has one, two or a dozen helpers in his corner" chuckled St. Louis Bill, "as far as I'm concerned Wagner can have all his relatives and the whole Zaharias family as well with him, but it won't make any difference to the result."

Longson is just about the toughest and cagiest matman going today and while he is not always the most sporting in his actions, nevertheless he has seen to it through thick and thin that one William Longson always comes out on top. On the other hand, Wagner contends that champions only last so long (which is certainly undeniable) and that one of these days someone will come along and upset Wild William. "And" says burly Bob "I aim to have that little thing happen right in that nice little city of Peterborough Tuesday night." This will be Wagner's first shot at the champion and he means to make the most of it.

A rampaging rip-snorting mat fracas is also due in the semi-final match when Frank Sexton tackles that other Peterborough favorite (?) Karl Krippler Davis. Davis, just recently released from a suspension fom running out of a match here some weeks ago, is determined to get back into main bout prominence by a win over Sexton. So far peerless Frankie hasn't shown any indication that even such a bruiser as Davis can handle him. But while either man lasts the going will be hard and harrowing.

Peterborough fans' extra special pin-up-boy Tom Zaharias will be back and this time he gets another matinee idle Jan Gotch to worry over. That bout will surely start proceedings on Tuesday night with an even louder bang than usual at the Brock Street sport emporium.

Hawks, Detroit Clash Tuesday

DETROIT, March 21 (CP)—Two of the highest scoring forward lines in the National Hockey League this season are matched here tonight as the second-place Detroit Red Wings square off against the fourth-place Chicago Black Hawks in the first game of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup play-off series.

Chicago's No. 1 line of Doug Bentley, Bill Mosienko and Clint Smith outscored the veteran Red Wing trio of Carl Liscombe, Modere (Mud) Bruneteau and Syd Howe by a decisive margin of 219 to 185 points during the regular campaign but Detroit's top line hammered in a total of 103 goals, 10 more than the Chicago combine.

Liscombe, Bruneteau and Howe thus became the hottest goal-producing line ever to represent a N.H.L. club and the Red Wings the first team in league history to boast three 30-goal men. Liscombe's 36 goals, 37 assists and 73 points were all individual records for the Wings. Bruneteau had 35 goals and Howe 32.

Chicago has not won a N.H.L. game on Detroit ice in 19 contests since March 16, 1940.

Leafs Confident As Finals Near

MONTREAL, March 1.—(CP). — Toronto Maple Leafs arrived yesterday in time for a light workout before they take on Montreal Canadiens to-night in the first game of their Stanley Cup semi-final series.

The Leafs, who squeezed into third spot Saturday night ahead of Chicago Black Hawks, were a confident bunch of players as they arrived, determined to upset the betting boys who are quoting Canadiens as 1-2 favorites to win the semi-final series and 5-7 choices for the Stanley Cup.

It will be the first time since 1925 that two Canadian teams have met in a cup elimination series.

The Leafs won twice against Canadiens this season, tied one and lost seven. Both wins were on home ice.

Barrie, Kingston Jrs. Battle To 3-All Tie

BARRIE, March 21. — Barrie Colts and the Kingston Victorias played to a 3-3 tie here last night in the second game of home-and-home series in the semi-final of the Junior B O.H.A. series. The first game at Kingston was a 4-4 tie. Place where the third game will be played has not been decided.

Kingston Vics—Goal, Stone; defence, Watts and McCarney; centre, Myke; wings, Ohlke and Moore; subs, MacGregor, Fowler, Walliss, Plumb, Metcalfe, Snider.

Barrie Colts— Goal, D'Ambrosio; defence, Don Clarke and Max Richardson; centre, Bowen; wings, Needham and Mason; subs, Murray Richardson; Nixon, Leighton Clarke, Cook, Bark and Robinson.

Referee—Jim Primeau, Toronto.

Meet In Finals

VANCOUVER —(CP)—Vancouver Combines won the right to meet the Victoria champions in the provincial senior "A" men's basketball finals by deefating Varsity 45-38 here last night. Combines won the series three games to one. Army and air-force are tied with two wins apiece in the Victoria finals.

Norway Plans To Rebuild Merchant Fleet

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, March 21 — (CP). — Norway, a neutral for 125 years before her invasion by Germany April 9, 1940, is making plans for peace based on international collaboration, economic as well as political.

Four years of war have impressed Norwegian leaders with the lesson that future peace and economic well-being, particularly for a small nation, depend on international brotherhood.

Getting ready for the peace that will take it back home, Norway's Coalition Government established in London since June of the invasion years, plans first of all to rebuild the little nation's fishing industry, source of its greatest peacetime export, and its merchant navy which before the war was the world's fourth largest.

While this is being done, the government intends to re-build even itself by a democratic election to be held as soon as possible after the post-war emergency period.

During that initial stage supplies of food, clothing, and medicine will have to be delivered to a Nazi-starved population, but Norwegian leaders here believe the fishing industry can be restored in time to play a part in emergency feeding of the rest of Europe.

Norwegian leaders are little concerned with domestic issues or territorial questions. Norway's boundaries are naturally defined by the mountains and sea. What Quislings have occupied administrative posts under the Germans will be replaced quickly.

Norway's foreign policy, say her representatives here, is intended to be one of support for all forms of international co-operation. Norway is not inclined to associate herself exclusively with proposals for a so-called Scandinavian bloc, regarding herself as an "Atlantic nation" rather than a "Continental nation" as she looks upon her Scandinavian neighbors.

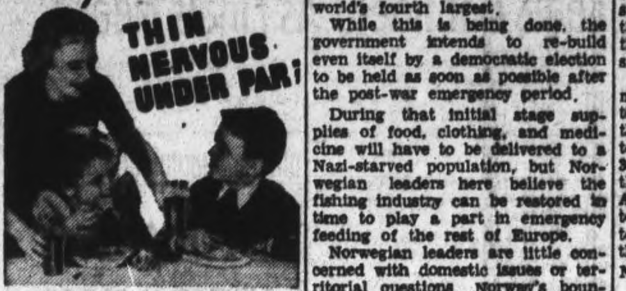
Wants A Wife

SARNIA, March 21—(CP). —Implying reticence rare among wearers of army khaki, a message received from a soldier by the Sarnia Rehabilitation Council appealed to that body for assistance in finding a wife. Beyond a suggestion by one member that the appeal be referred to the handicap committee, no action was taken.

Changes In Holland

LONDON, March 21—(CP-Aneta) —The German program to change occupied Holland into a completely agricultural country is evidence by information received here that only 290 chemical factories remain out of 800 before the war and only 420 textile factories out of 880. Building material industries have been reduced from 374 to 102, the information said.

Are your Children



Try New, Improved OVALTINE

Children who are thin, nervous and under par, science has discovered, are often found to be eating foods which do not give them enough of the essential food elements everyone needs for health.

As a "protecting" food-drink, New, Improved Ovaltine adds to a child's meals the essential food elements most likely to be deficient.

Three servings of New, Improved Ovaltine furnish a child with a significant portion of his daily requirement of Vitamins A, B1 and D, Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron—all from Ovaltine alone. Also quick food-energy elements and high quality proteins for building sturdy bodies.

So—if your child is thin, nervous, under par, or eats poorly, start giving him New, Improved Ovaltine regularly. Get Ovaltine today at drug or food store.

Missionary Sees Japs Bayonet Canadian Troops

TORONTO, March 21—How captured Canadian soldiers were maltreated by the Japanese during the battle for Hong Kong, and how he and 34 other priests were bound and herded into a one-car garage for three days without food or water, were related yesterday before the Canadian Club by Father Charles Murphy, Sydney, N.S., missionary to China, recently returned from two years in Stanley Internment Camp.

"Before I was released from the camp I was warned that should these atrocity stories—'mendacious lies', our captors called them—get out, those left behind should suffer," he said. "Thinking of relatives of the soldiers, I did not tell the stories when I first returned. Now the barriers have been let down by the Government, and I think you should know the conditions."

The Japanese Army lost an estimated 17,000 to 18,000 men during the struggle, which was probably the reason they were so ruthless toward captured Canadians. "Only 300 out of 2,000 Canadian boys lost their lives in actual combat. The Allies, unlike their enemies, strive to conserve manpower, holding fast to Christian principles in respecting the value of human life.

Not Butchers

"The Canadian unit fought bravely and well, but they were not trained to butchery and jungle fighting, for Christianity teaches a different code of ethics. Would they not allow the enemy a truce to bury their dead after three weeks of battle?"

Capturing the house in which Father Murphy and 34 other priests were living, the Japanese machine-gunned a 19-year-old Ontario soldier who came to the house not knowing it had been captured. He had at least 16 bullet wounds "As he lay there, we spoke of home and Christmas, for this was Christmas Day."

Bound and led away in groups of four and six, the priests were forced to leave the boy alone. "The rest of the afternoon, as we hear later, he was left alone lying in his agony. When the Japanese were boiling water for tea, they poured some of it on him; then later took him out and shot him. He died knowingly and heroically. His life had been free, happy and loyal, and his spirit and unselfish love will live in the memory of all who hear his story."

Bayoneted To Death

Father Murphy said that a Japanese guard, on hearing that he was Canadian, became "more frigid" toward him, "because Canada, fighting and soldiering were synonymous." Later he saw the Japanese take four officers, rip the pips off their shoulders and play with them by "jabbing bayonets in their stomachs" until they died.

Warning that the United Nations must not allow themselves to forget justice when the treaties are signed he concluded: "There is no doubt that Hong Kong will survive her Japanese aggressors. Going through dark night now, she will arise a purged, humbler and stronger city. I hope that one day she will truly be the Jewel of the Orient, resplendent in the principles of democratic fairness."

RED CROSS WORKERS COOK FOR CWAC MESS — Visitors to the Canadian Women's Army Corps' Downtown Mess in Toronto usually rub their eyes and look again. The reason: In the spotless kitchen members of the Canadian Red Cross are voluntarily cooking for hungry members of the Women's Army who flock to the mess from busy offices at noon time. The arrangement is working out to the mutual advantage of both organizations. The Red Cross workers, members of a food administration unit, are gaining first-hand experience in the handling of food on a large scale in preparation for overseas service, while the CWAC's, of course, are glad of the assistance. Top—Ready to ladle out a hot and satisfying meal are, from Left to Right, Mrs. P. F. Clarke, Toronto Red Cross member; L.-Cpl. H. Grant Soldiers More Farm Leave

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP) — W. C. Macdonald, Parliamentary Assistant to Defense Minister Ralston, announced Monday in the Commons that the period for which compassionate farm leave may be granted to soldiers has been increased from six weeks to two months.

He added that with the exception of general service personnel "who by age and pulhems profile" are suitable for overseas service, farm leave may be granted not only to those on strength of the home war establishment of any unit.

Other personnel on the strength of district depots, except those awaiting despatch to training centres or schools, will be eligible for leave, as well as personnel of the veterans guard and personnel on strength of operational units which was heretofore restricted to only 5 per cent of strength.

Leave is granted to soldiers to return to their farms or the farms of immediate families, and also to special details of soldiers "for farm duty in circumstances of emergency." Leave is subject to the "exigencies of the service, and can be granted by general and district officers commanding only if, in their opinion, essential army activities will not be substantially interfered with."

Mr. Macdonald said the soldier must pay his own transportation, and he presumed that if a soldier could show just cause an extension would be granted to his leave.

Sound Sleep Helps For Day's Work Ahead

No matter what your job, you'll do it better on seven hours of sound slumber than you will on ten hours of fretful sleep. For those who sleep fitfully because of fatigue or worry, the medical profession often recommends a mustard bath followed by a hot drink before retiring.

Usually, a mustard bath is made by making a paste of two or three tablespoonsfuls of mustard in cold water. This is added to the bath water. One remains in the bath for five or ten minutes, relaxing completely. Immediate retirement after brisk rubbing with a towel nearly always means sound, untroubled sleep, this authority says.

The fact this is Leap Year probably was a factor in Spring's arrival yesterday, they said.

Bell, Cobourg are district soldiers with the 8th Army who take part in this educational combat.

MARCH 21

Crows in the pines at Jackson Park were greeting the first day of Spring this morning with a great to-do of crowing. It was March 21 signifying that the sun had reached the equator again in its slow beat up from the topic of Capricorn. And it was a magnificent sun in a peaceful blue sky, — where there were no wings of death. Probably the crows thought they were singing a melodious greeting to the new season with its sparkling promise of the appreciation of nature from the mouldy cerements of the leaves of last year. Crows are comic fellows, imagining themselves larks.

Pte. Jos. Huard Suffers Wound

Pte. Joseph Huard of the Hastings, Prince Edward Regiment, was wounded in Italy on March 11, according to information received today. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Huard, and his wife and family live on Elm street.

Word of the third casualty to have occurred on the same day sets March 11 apart as a day full of tragedy for Peterborough homes for only Monday word was received of the deaths in action of Ptes. Thomas Bloom and Pte. Donald Anderson on the same date.

The wounded soldier, who worked at the American Hotel before his enlistment early in 1940, went overseas about two years ago and had just left England for the Mediterranean area in February. Norwood Group Gives Aid To War Victims

Every good deed in a humanitarian cause for the benefit of others rather than self, has in addition to the good it may do on its own account, and additonal power of further benefits for the same cause, for its very act carries with it an inspiration to others that may also be of much substantial benefit, which then might pyramid beyond any poisble power of computation.

From the district of Norwood much good help has come for the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, contributions having appeared on occasions too numerous to enumerate some of which have been of quite recent date.

Another such assist is recorded to-day through a donation of $10 from the Norwood Womens Institute through Mrs. Lionel Edwards, their treasurer, this being made possible through the work of Mrs. George Graham, who made and donated a pair of pillow slips for that purpose.

In conjunction with Mrs. E. Thompson, this lady sold $13.65 worth of tickets for the draw in a very short period of time, and specially desired that the contribution named should come to this fund. The draw was made at a Euchre party held under the auspices of the Women's Institute and resulted in the prize going to Sgt. Joseph Burtt who is home from active service overseas.

D. B. Cutcliffe Represents Fund.

This would seem an opportune time to remind people resident in this district that D. B. Cutcliffe, manager of the Royal Bank of Canada in Norwood will gladly accept ndividual or group domnations to the Fund, issue officals for same and forward the money without cost to the headquarters in the Examiner office.

As representative for the fund in this district, he has rendered a service which has been of quite some help, for which the fund management would express its sincere thanks.

The penny boxes at the Canadian Bank of Commerce for second time since the turn of the year come to bat with another nice donation of $5.15, which undoubtedly will cause satisfaction to all who contributed to make this possible.

Another item of fifty cents would probably cause a flutter of curiosity and while the manner in which it is listed partially explains how it came, it should be stated that a rather diminuitive party was feeling the scarcity of the pre-war type of braces with the good elastic content which now is but a memory, and having a friend of fairly hefty proportions who had a pair that were too small for him, he obliged by passing them over and not wishing to accept payment which is the first place had not been offered, the former gets a cheap pair of braces, and the fund benefits to the extent that is named.

The fund now has the sum of $1,804.45 on hand towards the next donation of £500 leaving a balance of $434.0 required to complete that amount.

Epic Chapter Economic Democracy Told By Bishop MacDonald Reviewing Maritime Co-Operatives

Most Reverend John R. MacDonald, as guest speaker at the annual business dinner meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at the Empress Hotel last night, related the inspiring story of progressing accomplishment in their own behalf by the people of the Maritime provinces since they turned a dark and despairing corner in the early stage of the depression nearly fifteen years ago.

Bishop MacDonald's method was plain and factual narrative of an enterprise in human endeavor among the sturdy and splendid Canadian people in the Atlantic provinces who evoked from their resources of faith and hope a resolution which has carried them farther than they ever dreamed of, and has begotten a confidence to push on to higher goals.

Adult education and co-operative effort have gone hand in hand to a success in the Maritimes, the fame of which preceded Bishop MacDonald's coming to Peterborough, but his simple recital of how those Canadians have been struggling up from a desperate economic plight and adversity seemed to assume a subtly challenging quality that palpably gripped like a sergeant's "pep talk."

Not once did His Excellency mention himself as having had a hand in this work of lifting of hearts and bettering of homes, which went on around him, and only once did he speak of the University of St. Francis Xavier in Antigonish, his alma mater, as the source of the effectual plan which fell back on the old tactic of utilizing the strength of men's unity.

Bishop MacDonald merely recalled the woeful need of so many of the people of the Maritimes in the first years of the depression, what was done and what they did, and finally presented figures of the fruits up to 1942.

George A. Macdonald, president of the Chamber of Commerce, was chairman of the after dinner program which opened with charming songs by Miss Phyllis Cowie, "I Pass By Your Window" and "A Little Bit of Heaven" with Miss Margaret McCabe at the piano, and also two pleasing vocal numbers by Henry Batten, "Little Town in the Old County Down" and "The Same Old Dear Old Place" with accompaniment by Jack Marshall.

Mr. Macdonald extended a hearty welcome to Bishop MacDonald and also to an added guest, Squadron Leader, the Rev. Dr. Summers, who is head of air training corps of the University of St. Francis Xavier. The chairman also expressed the Chamber's appreciation of the presence of Mayor Hamilton and most of the members of the City Council who had postponed their meeting until Tuesday night.

Mayor Hamilton congratulated the Chamber on its successful year and its activities, especially those supporting the council. His Worship also mentioned his satisfaction with the financial report, showing a balance of $744.

Compliments Chamber

Introduced by J. J. Dorris, secretary of the Chamber, Bishop MacDonald complimented the members on the lively civic spirit their large attendance reflected. "Since coming to Peterborough I have noticed the citizens' pride in their community, and their united desire to keep it moving forward," he remarked.

In the Maritime provinces, there had been during the last fourteen or fifteen years an economic movement, Bishop MacDonald began, and in the memory of its need and aims he recalled a saying whose author escaped him to the effect that a difficult thing was something that could be done immediately; and the impossible was something that takes a little longer time.

Around 1929 and 1930 the farmers and fishermen and the industrial workers down by the sea set out to do something in their own behalf. "They have gone some distance along the way, but there remains a great deal still to be done. However they have convinced themselves already that they are heading in the right direction. They are not waiting for a superman to pick up the world and set it right. They are simply trying in a democratic way to rebuild their own part of the world."

Bishop MacDonald said there were about one million people in the three maritime provinces, 95,000 in Prince Edward Island, 577,000 in Nova Scotia and 457,000 in New Brunswick.

Graveyard of Industry

"The people of the Maritimes suffered more from economic disabilities than those of any other part of Canada. There was a time when a variety of industries dotted the Maritimes.

With the centralization of industries in the larger cities, a process that has been advancing for fifty years, the Maritimes became a graveyard of industry. Coal and steel remained there, but even both these industries suffered also from adverse economic and geographical conditions."

At the same time no other part of Canada suffered so heavily from depopulation. The exodus of youth emigrating to the eastern United States reached such a volume that some years ago Boston was called the capital of the Maritimes.

"Because of these conditions up to twenty years ago and less than that, the people of the Maritimes were in an economic slump, and as a result of that plight they were also in a psychologic slump, which is worse. Then a few men put their heads together to see whether anything could be done about the situation. They studied and analyzed the many problems, and formulated a plan centering about the University of Antigonish. They felt they could not do any harm, at any rate, and the worst probability was that they might lose some money.

"The plan they devised succeeded so well it was not long until the Carnegie Foundation in New York heard about it, and made a grant of $10,000 a year for three years to help the movement along. Subsequently their assistance was reduced. Then the Federal Department of Fisheries helped in financing education among the fishermen. In 1932 the Department contributed $6,000. In 1938 this amount was increased to $30,000, and it has remained there annually ever since then."

This movement, His Excellency said, was conceived to regenerate the people of the Maritimes, and its development has cost considerable money. As the people organized some economic interests of their own they helped in the finances, but St. Francis Xavier University at Antigonish had borne an annual deficit totalling more than $150,000, the aggregate for the period of fifteen years.

Arousing the People

The first step in the plan of regenerating those Canadian of the Maritimes, Bishop MacDonald continued, was to arouse the people. "We called it putting on a big barrage. It was to convince them that something had to be done, and that it could be done by themselves."

Public speakers were sent out. Meetings were held. Small groups were organized in each community into study clubs, to study their own economic conditions right in their own communities. Their attention and effort was directed toward some specific enterprise, the motto of these clubs was to help people to help themselves.

Study clubs were not new in Canada, nor were co-operative enterprises, but the feature of the Maritime plan in that stage was a combination of the two. Community study was the preliminary, and economic enterprise the objective.

With that outline of purpose, Bishop MacDonald presented a series of charts tracing the progress of the plan of kindling the hopes of the people and their faith in themselves together with the numerals of achievement.

1,100 Study Clubs

For example, the first study club was organzied in Nova Scotia in 1930. By 1932 there were 177, and in 1938 their number had grown to 1,100

Following on the heels of the telegram announcing the death of Pte. Six days later he was killed in action.

PlaygroundNeed Told To Lions

Members fo the Lions Club and their guests heard an outstanding address Monday evening from Miss Rachel Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society. Miss Young was introduced by Rev. E. C. Moore who paid tribute to the fine work she is doing over and above the requirements of her office.

Miss Young complimented the club in trying to do something to prevent juvenile delinquency which appears to be on the increase in Canada. Speaking as one who had first hand knowledge, Miss Young showed how the following contributed to juvenile delinquency: crowded homes, broken homes, marital strife in the home, inadequate home authority, father in army and mother working, work permits to young children. While condemning the conditions which permit juveniles to become delinquents Miss Young revealed a warm sympathy for those unfortunates who find themselves in these circumstances.

Striking an optimistic note Miss Young offered several suggestions for service club activities. "A well organized play ground would solve many problems of child behaviour". Miss Young stated. But, she pointed out, the worker would have to come to the child rather than expect the child to come any distance to the amusement centre. These children have never learned to play and neither they nor their parents know enough about play be interested. Two further suggestions for service clubs to adopt as enterprises might be school attendance and juvenile courts.

A timely caution was offered in giving relief where it might not be necessary thus causing the recipient to become dependent—Leadership is needed more than money in dealing with these problems. Sam Staples thanked the speaker.

Messrs. Hodgins, Thayer, Horning, and Cpl. McIlveen were guests of the Lions.

SERVED IN ICELAND — WO.1 Keith Wood, son of Mrs. M. Wood, 368 Water Street, has been serving in Iceland since April, 1942, and only recently transferred back to England. He enlisted in August, 1941, and trained at Toronto, Belleville, Guelph, Paulson, Man., and Debert. WO. Wood went overseas in December, 1942, and after six months' operational duty in Iceland, spent a leave in England. He found that the Icelanders do not look with a friendly eye on the occupying forces and there is little fraternising. This photo was taken by a woman photographer who could not speak English. The airman was born here and attended Prince of Wales School and the Collegiate, and at the time of joining up, he was a machinist at the C.G.E.

Provincial Park Would Aid Tourist Trade

"Undoubtedly the vast majority of our citizens do not trap, shoot or kill wild life, birds or animals, but love to see them in their natural haunts" declared Fred C. Marshall, former game overseer and lover of wild life in addressing the Peterborough Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon at the Empress Hotel, Monday, on the subject "Why a Provincial Park for Peterborough."

"While large sums of public money are spent to provide the hunter, trapper and fisherman with plenty to kill" he continued "very little has been done to make it possible for that large body of the public who do not kill animals, to see them. Bear in mind that the wild life of this country is public property owned as well by those who do not kill it as those who do, and that people will spend their money in a holiday where they can see these animals and birds as readily as do those whose holiday is a poor one unless they can kill something."

The provincial park was something, Mr. Marshall stated, that he had been interested in for years, and he submitted that such a park in this district would have a decidedly beneficial effect upon the tourist industry.

"I suggest to you" he said "that the economy of this county and city is based on three things, agriculture, industry and the tourist trade. Agriculture is well developed and perhaps as flourishing as in any part of this province. Industrially this city is a healthy state. But our tourist trade, despite the fact that we have been bountifully blessed by Nature is far from being as valuable as I believe it could and should be, and is steadily diminishing while increasing by leaps and bounds elsewhere."

Would Be Profitable

The speaker argued that the establishment of a provincial park in this county would fit admirably into the post-war program. He was satisfied that such a project would largely ensure the return of large sums of money already spent on complementary projects.

Referring to the cost of a number of highways in the district Mr. Marshall stated that the development of a provincial park in the area proposed would bring back the money spent on roads as well as on park development back to the province.

"Are we in Peterborough going to be content" he asked" to see the tourist trade use those roads to pass our doors on the road to Haliburton, Muskoka, Renfrew and other areas and do nothing to hold a share of it in Peterborough county."

"It is a well-known fact that a great many tourists, both summer and winter, prefer to spend their holiday within easy reach of a good shopping centre. Many of them enjoy a game of golf. They are good spenders as you business men know. Can any one doubt that the trade of this city would be greatly increased by the development of this park."

"I suggest to you" said the speaker "that we are but trustees for another generation, especially for that generation who are so gallantly risking their lives for us today on the sea, in the air and on the farflung battle lines. What verdict will history give us even fifteen years from now if we fail to do all in our power to hand them over a better heritage than we received."

"I suggest that this is too important, too big a question to be decided upon the basis of who wants to hunt here and who used to trap there." I appeal to those who have been opposing this idea to think again. Take another look and decide whether the comparatively small sacrifice you would be called upon to make would not be overshadowed by the benefits that are bound to accrue to this county, this city, and the citizens as a whole."

In concluding his address Mr. Marshall urged that a public meeting should be called for the discussion of the park project.

The speaker was introduced to the club by Rotarian Fred L. Roy, while Rotarian Charles S. Cummer moved the vote of thanks.

Soldier Suffers Bad Burns In Truck Fire

An army truck belonging to No. 32 Basic Training Centre, which was being used for garbage disposal, was destroyed by fire at the North Monaghan dump Monday morning and its occupant, whose name has not been released pending notification of next-of-kin, was severely burnt in the accident.

The truck had been driven to the dump to dispose of a load of refuse after 11 o'clock Monday and was backed up into position to release its load. Apparently it got onto a part of the ground where rubbish, unseen, was still smoldering underneath, and as a consequence the army vehicle caught fire.

Notified by an alarm at 11:19 a.m., the fire department was instructed by Mayor Hamilton to go to the scene, but firemen were unable to save the truck. Chief Gimblett this morning said that the vehicle had been a total loss, with the exception of one tire that was rescued.

STARTED MONDAY

Officials of the Dominion Meteorological Bureau, Toronto, said today Spring arrived officially at 1:49 p.m. yesterday. They added that the first day of Spring may fall on March 20, 21 or 22, depending on when the sun reaches the appropriate point of its journey north. The fact this is Leap Year probably was a factor in Spring's arrival yesterday, they said.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE

A thirteen-year-old boy who pleaded guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in juvenile court this morning to a charge of having stolen $34 from the Confederation School, North Monaghan, was allowed to go on suspended sentence for 18 months. Restitution of the money stolen from the school was made by the parents.

BLOOD DONORS.

There were 89 donors at the Blood Donors Clinic Monday morning, of whom 31 represented the C. G.E. and Genelco. Other plants from which employees came included Canada Packers, Peterborough Fuel and Transfer, Quaker Oats, Raybestos. Trent Canal, Canadian Sealright and Peterborough Lock. Donors were also in from Lakefield and Bridgenorth.

CASE ADJOURNED

Because of the absence of City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, K.C., who is in Toronto today in connection with the Peterborough bill before the Private Bills Committee of the Ontario Legislature, two charges against Hugh J. Davis of having sold hardwood at prices higher than the ceiling price had to be adjourned for a week in police court. Mr. Huycke was to have prosecuted the cases and T. J. Carley, K.C., who is defending Davis informed the court that the city solicitor had communicated with him in regard to an adjournment.

ARMY "NEWSBOYS"

Canadian artillery on the Italian front are frequently interrupting their earth-shaking shell-fire against the enemy positions by sending over the German lines newspapers containing news of the war as distinguished from Nazi propaganda. Packed in shells they are fired each week and the process is, called "delivering the newspapers to the Huns." Ernest Fulford, Port Hope, H. E. Worrell, Lindsay, and E. C. Bell, Cobourg, are district soldiers with the 8th Army who take part in this educational combat.

MARCH 21

Crows in the pines at Jackson Park were greeting the first day of Spring this morning with a great to-do of crowing. It was March 21 signifying that the sun had reached the equator again in its slow beat up from the topic of Capricorn. And it was a magnificent sun in a peaceful blue sky, — where there were no wings of death. Probably the crows thought they were singing a melodious greeting to the new season with its sparkling promise of the appreciation of nature from the mouldy cerements of the leaves of last year. Crows are comic fellows, imagining themselves larks.

Pte. Jos. Huard Suffers Wound

Pte. Joseph Huard of the Hastings, Prince Edward Regiment, was wounded in Italy on March 11, according to information received today. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Huard, and his wife and family live on Elm street.

Word of the third casualty to have occurred on the same day sets March 11 apart as a day full of tragedy for Peterborough homes for only Monday word was received of the deaths in action of Ptes. Thomas Bloom and Pte. Donald Anderson on the same date.

The wounded soldier, who worked at the American Hotel before his enlistment early in 1940, went overseas about two years ago and had just left England for the Mediterranean area in February. He has three brothers, all of whom are serving with the Canadian Army. Pte. William J. Huard is attached to the Pacific Command; Pte. Cyril Huard, a member of the Royal Canadian Hamilton Light Infantry has been overseas for three years; and Sgt. Clare Huard is overseas with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders.

Norwood Group Gives Aid To War Victims

Every good deed in a humanitarian cause for the benefit of others rather than self, has in addition to the good it may do on its own account, and additonal power of further benefits for the same cause, for its very act carries with it an inspiration to others that may also be of much substantial benefit, which then might pyramid beyond any poisble power of computation.

From the district of Norwood much good help has come for the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, contributions having appeared on occasions too numerous to enumerate some of which have been of quite recent date.

Another such assist is recorded to-day through a donation of $10 from the Norwood Womens Institute through Mrs. Lionel Edwards, their treasurer, this being made possible through the work of Mrs. George Graham, who made and donated a pair of pillow slips for that purpose.

In conjunction with Mrs. E. Thompson, this lady sold $13.65 worth of tickets for the draw in a very short period of time, and specially desired that the contribution named should come to this fund. The draw was made at a Euchre party held under the auspices of the Women's Institute and resulted in the prize going to Sgt. Joseph Burtt who is home from active service overseas.

D. B. Cutcliffe Represents Fund.

This would seem an opportune time to remind people resident in this district that D. B. Cutcliffe, manager of the Royal Bank of Canada in Norwood will gladly accept ndividual or group domnations to the Fund, issue officals for same and forward the money without cost to the headquarters in the Examiner office.

As representative for the fund in this district, he has rendered a service which has been of quite some help, for which the fund management would express its sincere thanks.

The penny boxes at the Canadian Bank of Commerce for second time since the turn of the year come to bat with another nice donation of $5.15, which undoubtedly will cause satisfaction to all who contributed to make this possible.

Another item of fifty cents would probably cause a flutter of curiosity and while the manner in which it is listed partially explains how it came, it should be stated that a rather diminuitive party was feeling the scarcity of the pre-war type of braces with the good elastic content which now is but a memory, and having a friend of fairly hefty proportions who had a pair that were too small for him, he obliged by passing them over and not wishing to accept payment which is the first place had not been offered, the former gets a cheap pair of braces, and the fund benefits to the extent that is named.

The fund now has the sum of $1,804.45 on hand towards the next donation of £500 leaving a balance of $434.0 required to complete that amount.

Epic Chapter Economic Democracy Told By Bishop MacDonald Reviewing Maritime Co-Operatives

Most Reverend John R. MacDonald, as guest speaker at the annual business dinner meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at the Empress Hotel last night, related the inspiring story of progressing accomplishment in their own behalf by the people of the Maritime provinces since they turned a dark and despairing corner in the early stage of the depression nearly fifteen years ago.

Bishop MacDonald's method was plain and factual narrative of an enterprise in human endeavor among the sturdy and splendid Canadian people in the Atlantic provinces who evoked from their resources of faith and hope a resolution which has carried them farther than they ever dreamed of, and has begotten a confidence to push on to higher goals.

Adult education and co-operative effort have gone hand in hand to a success in the Maritimes, the fame of which preceded Bishop MacDonald's coming to Peterborough, but his simple recital of how those Canadians have been struggling up from a desperate economic plight and adversity seemed to assume a subtly challenging quality that palpably gripped like a sergeant's "pep talk."

Not once did His Excellency mention himself as having had a hand in this work of lifting of hearts and bettering of homes, which went on around him, and only once did he speak of the University of St. Francis Xavier in Antigonish, his alma mater, as the source of the effectual plan which fell back on the old tactic of utilizing the strength of men's unity.

Bishop MacDonald merely recalled the woeful need of so many of the people of the Maritimes in the first years of the depression, what was done and what they did, and finally presented figures of the fruits up to 1942.

George A. Macdonald, president of the Chamber of Commerce, was chairman of the after dinner program which opened with charming songs by Miss Phyllis Cowie, "I Pass By Your Window" and "A Little Bit of Heaven" with Miss Margaret McCabe at the piano, and also two pleasing vocal numbers by Henry Batten, "Little Town in the Old County Down" and "The Same Old Dear Old Place" with accompaniment by Jack Marshall.

Mr. Macdonald extended a hearty welcome to Bishop MacDonald and also to an added guest, Squadron Leader, the Rev. Dr. Summers, who is head of air training corps of the University of St. Francis Xavier. The chairman also expressed the Chamber's appreciation of the presence of Mayor Hamilton and most of the members of the City Council who had postponed their meeting until Tuesday night.

Mayor Hamilton congratulated the Chamber on its successful year and its activities, especially those supporting the council. His Worship also mentioned his satisfaction with the financial report, showing a balance of $744.

Compliments Chamber

Introduced by J. J. Dorris, secretary of the Chamber, Bishop MacDonald complimented the members on the lively civic spirit their large attendance reflected. "Since coming to Peterborough I have noticed the citizens' pride in their community, and their united desire to keep it moving forward," he remarked.

In the Maritime provinces, there had been during the last fourteen or fifteen years an economic movement, Bishop MacDonald began, and in the memory of its need and aims he recalled a saying whose author escaped him to the effect that a difficult thing was something that could be done immediately; and the impossible was something that takes a little longer time.

Around 1929 and 1930 the farmers and fishermen and the industrial workers down by the sea set out to do something in their own behalf. "They have gone some distance along the way, but there remains a great deal still to be done. However they have convinced themselves already that they are heading in the right direction. They are not waiting for a superman to pick up the world and set it right. They are simply trying in a democratic way to rebuild their own part of the world."

Bishop MacDonald said there were about one million people in the three maritime provinces, 95,000 in Prince Edward Island, 577,000 in Nova Scotia and 457,000 in New Brunswick.

Graveyard of Industry

"The people of the Maritimes suffered more from economic disabilities than those of any other part of Canada. There was a time when a variety of industries dotted the Maritimes.

With the centralization of industries in the larger cities, a process that has been advancing for fifty years, the Maritimes became a graveyard of industry. Coal and steel remained there, but even both these industries suffered also from adverse economic and geographical conditions."

At the same time no other part of Canada suffered so heavily from depopulation. The exodus of youth emigrating to the eastern United States reached such a volume that some years ago Boston was called the capital of the Maritimes.

"Because of these conditions up to twenty years ago and less than that, the people of the Maritimes were in an economic slump, and as a result of that plight they were also in a psychologic slump, which is worse. Then a few men put their heads together to see whether anything could be done about the situation. They studied and analyzed the many problems, and formulated a plan centering about the University of Antigonish. They felt they could not do any harm, at any rate, and the worst probability was that they might lose some money.

"The plan they devised succeeded so well it was not long until the Carnegie Foundation in New York heard about it, and made a grant of $10,000 a year for three years to help the movement along. Subsequently their assistance was reduced. Then the Federal Department of Fisheries helped in financing education among the fishermen. In 1932 the Department contributed $6,000. In 1938 this amount was increased to $30,000, and it has remained there annually ever since then."

This movement, His Excellency said, was conceived to regenerate the people of the Maritimes, and its development has cost considerable money. As the people organized some economic interests of their own they helped in the finances, but St. Francis Xavier University at Antigonish had borne an annual deficit totalling more than $150,000, the aggregate for the period of fifteen years.

Arousing the People

The first step in the plan of regenerating those Canadian of the Maritimes, Bishop MacDonald continued, was to arouse the people. "We called it putting on a big barrage. It was to convince them that something had to be done, and that it could be done by themselves."

Public speakers were sent out. Meetings were held. Small groups were organized in each community into study clubs, to study their own economic conditions right in their own communities. Their attention and effort was directed toward some specific enterprise, the motto of these clubs was to help people to help themselves.

Study clubs were not new in Canada, nor were co-operative enterprises, but the feature of the Maritime plan in that stage was a combination of the two. Community study was the preliminary, and economic enterprise the objective.

With that outline of purpose, Bishop MacDonald presented a series of charts tracing the progress of the plan of kindling the hopes of the people and their faith in themselves together with the numerals of achievement.

1,100 Study Clubs

For example, the first study club was organzied in Nova Scotia in 1930. By 1932 there were 177, and in 1938 their number had grown to 1,100

Playground Need Told To Lions

Members fo the Lions Club and their guests heard an outstanding address Monday evening from Miss Rachel Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society. Miss Young was introduced by Rev. E. C. Moore who paid tribute to the fine work she is doing over and above the requirements of her office.

Miss Young complimented the club in trying to do something to prevent juvenile delinquency which appears to be on the increase in Canada. Speaking as one who had first hand knowledge, Miss Young showed how the following contributed to juvenile delinquency: crowded homes, broken homes, marital strife in the home, inadequate home authority, father in army and mother working, work permits to young children. While condemning the conditions which permit juveniles to become delinquents Miss Young revealed a warm sympathy for those unfortunates who find themselves in these circumstances.

Striking an optimistic note Miss Young offered several suggestions for service club activities. "A well organized play ground would solve many problems of child behaviour". Miss Young stated. But, she pointed out, the worker would have to come to the child rather than expect the child to come any distance to the amusement centre. These children have never learned to play and neither they nor their parents know enough about play be interested. Two further suggestions for service clubs to adopt as enterprises might be school attendance and juvenile courts.

A timely caution was offered in giving relief where it might not be necessary thus causing the recipient to become dependent—Leadership is needed more than money in dealing with these problems. Sam Staples thanked the speaker.

Messrs. Hodgins, Thayer, Horning, and Cpl. McIlveen were guests of the Lions.

SERVED IN ICELAND — WO.1 Keith Wood, son of Mrs. M. Wood, 368 Water Street, has been serving in Iceland since April, 1943, and only recently transferred back to England. He enlisted in August, 1941, and trained at Toronto, Belleville, Guelph, Paulson, Man., and Debert. WO. Wood went overseas in December, 1942, and after six months' operational duty in Iceland, spent a leave in England. He found that the Icelanders do not look with a friendly eye on the occupying forces and there is little fraternizing. This photo was taken by a woman photographer who could not speak English. The airman was born here and attended Prince of Wales School and the Collegiate, and at the time of joining up, he was a machinist at the C.G.E.

Provincial Park Would Aid Tourist Trade

"Undoubtedly the vast majority of our citizens do not trap, shoot or kill wild life, birds or animals, but love to see them in their natural haunts" declared Fred C. Marshall, former game overseer and lover of wild life in addressing the Peterborough Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon at the Empress Hotel, Monday, on the subject "Why a Provincial Park for Peterborough."

"While large sums of public money are spent to provide the hunter, trapper and fisherman with plenty to kill" he continued "very little has been done to make it possible for that large body of the public who do not kill animals, to see them. Bear in mind that the wild life of this country is public property owned as well by those who do not kill it as those who do, and that people will spend their money in a holiday where they can see these animals and birds as readily as do those whose holiday is a poor one unless they can kill something."

The provincial park was something, Mr. Marshall stated, that he had been interested in for years, and he submitted that such a park in this district would have a decidedly beneficial effect upon the tourist industry.

"I suggest to you" he said "that the economy of this county and city is based on three things, agriculture, industry and the tourist trade. Agriculture is well developed and perhaps as flourishing as in any part of this province. Industrially this city is a healthy state. But our tourist trade, despite the fact that we have been bountifully blessed by Nature is far from being as valuable as I believe it could and should be, and is steadily diminishing while increasing by leaps and bounds elsewhere."

Would Be Profitable

The speaker argued that the establishment of a provincial park in this county would fit admirably into the post-war program. He was satisfied that such a project would largely ensure the return of large sums of money already spent on complementary projects.

Referring to the cost of a number of highways in the district Mr. Marshall stated that the development of a provincial park in the area proposed would bring back the money spent on roads as well as on park development back to the province.

"Are we in Peterborough going to be content" he asked" to see the tourist trade use those roads to pass our doors on the road to Haliburton, Muskoka, Renfrew and other areas and do nothing to hold a share of it in Peterborough county."

"It is a well-known fact that a great many tourists, both summer and winter, prefer to spend their holiday within easy reach of a good shopping centre. Many of them enjoy a game of golf. They are good spenders as you business men know. Can any one doubt that the trade of this city would be greatly increased by the development of this park."

"I suggest to you" said the speaker "that we are but trustees for another generation, especially for that generation who are so gallantly risking their lives for us today on the sea, in the air and on the far-flung battle lines. What verdict will history give us even fifteen years from now if we fail to do all in our power to hand them over a better heritage than we received."

"I suggest that this is too important, too big a question to be decided upon the basis of who wants to hunt here and who used to trap there." I appeal to those who have been opposing this idea to think again. Take another look and decide whether the comparatively small sacrifice you would be called upon to make would not be overshadowed by the benefits that are bound to accrue to this county, this city, and the citizens as a whole."

In concluding his address Mr. Marshall urged that a public meeting should be called for the discussion of the park project.

The speaker was introduced to the club by Rotarian Fred L. Roy, while Rotarian Charles S. Cummer moved the vote of thanks.

Bolero Outfit Leads Spring Parade

The bolero outfit again tops the fashion ladder this spring, and features a boxier jacket, slimmer skirt, and fancy blouse. There are many reasons for the bolero's popularity, not the least being the variety of outfits it affords. In addition, it saves a great deal of material which would be used in a longer jacket. However, the flattering effect of the bolero is one of the best reasons for its popularity, since it gives the wearer the illusion of added height, and makes her waist look smaller.

Spring styles for 1944 are about equally divided between the three-piece outfit—bolero, skirt and blouse—and the jacket-topped dress. Jackets and skirts are generally neatly tailored, with roll-back or notched collars and braid binding, for smartness on the former, and trouser pleating, wrap-around closings or side buttons to ease the somewhat snug look of the latter.

Blouses are in sharp contrast to the tailored appearance of the jacket and skirt. Since the purchaser bought the outfit for economy, it is only natural that she "let herself go" when picking out her blouses. Tiny bows and frills make any girl feel sweet and feminine, and jewel-like buttons give an added glitter, to dress up an ensemble. Embroidered organdy or dainty lace blouses are shown for after-dark wear, with dark jackets preferred for a smart effect.

Color is still the keynote of the season, so boleros appear in every imaginable shade, with the rest of the ensemble, however, remaining in more conservative colors. Girls know what happens to a young man's fancy in the spring, and there's nothing like a smart bit of color, topping a smart outfit, to catch his eye.
